The Last Graduation

Council Approves Extra $3.1M For Library Wing

The City Council has appropriated an additional $3.1 million from various city funding sources for a planned addition to the Thomas Crane Public Library.

The council approved the funding 7-1 Monday night, with Councillor Paul Harold the lone dissenter. Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott is recovering from surgery and did not attend the meeting.

The council's support will allow the $15 million project as soon as this week, according to Library Director Ann McLaughlin. Construction already has been delayed for two months because of the need for additional funding.

Officials said the city could not award a construction contract until the additional funding was made available. It is hoped the 50,000-square-foot addition will open in 2000.

The contractor, W.T. Rich Co. of Newton, will do site testing and other preparation before beginning more involved work in the late summer, McLaughlin said.

The additional funding was needed because of a healthy economy that drove up the cost of building materials.

Mayor James Sheets and

City Auditor Robert Foy found the additional funding for the project in the following places: proceeds from the Stop & Shop Garage, $1 million; JFK Health Center bond, $745,083.86; Marshall School bond, $550,000; state Lottery money, $365,228; Quincy Community Access Television, $375,000; and the North Quincy Drainage Project, $38,072.01.

The Quincy Community Access funding came from MediaOne, the city's cable television provider, while the rest is surplus money.

The city already had an

New Signage Ordinance Gets Final Council OK

A new citywide signage ordinance recently passed by the City Council has received its final approval.

Councillors, without discussion, again unanimously voted to back the law during the council's meeting Monday night.

Mayor James Sheets said Tuesday he plans to sign the ordinance to make it official as soon as it reaches his desk next week.

The law initially was passed on May 18, but the council later rescinded that position so it could vote again on the ordinance with last-minute amendments included.

Although the matter was on the City Council's agenda two weeks ago, it was put on hold at the request of City Solicitor Stephen McGrath because of what he termed "some legal concerns."

Prior to the ordinance's final approval Monday night, McGrath said he reviewed the law with Assistant City Solicitor Kevin Madden, Quincy Director of Inspection Services Walter White, and Bernice Mader, administrative assistant to Mayor James Sheets who spent over two years chair-

Mader: 'A Lot Of Good Things Are Happening'

Hospital's Fiscal Picture Seen Not So Bleak

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The financial situation at Quincy Hospital is not as desperate as it might appear to the public, according to a member of a task force designed to find a medical partner for the institution.

Bernice Mader, administrative assistant to Mayor James Sheets and a member of the Mayor's Task Force on Partnership at Quincy Hospital, said despite an approximately $5 million in losses at the hospital over the past two years—including $1 million in May alone—the hospital has far from hit bottom.

"I'm not minimizing that," she said of the losses. "But things have been a lot worse at the hospital in the past."

Mader recalled when then-Quincy Hospital Chief Financial Officer Richard Jefferate visited Sheets in 1990, shortly after the mayor first took office, and asked if the hospital could borrow more than $1 million from the city because it only had 10 days worth of operating funds. At the time, the hospital's McCauley Building—named after former Mayor and current City Councillor Francis McCauley—was about 18 months from completion.

Today, she noted, the hospital has a $18 million reserve fund it can tap if necessary. And, Mader added, if the hospital was able to begin a financial turnaround when it had nothing to fall back on, it can do so today.

In addition, Mader said, the hospital has a lot of medical assets today it did not have in the early '90s, including the state's first psychiatric-geriatric unit, a surgical affiliation with Boston's Brigham and Women's Hospital, a cardiac certification unit, a podiatric affiliation with Boston's Beth Israel Hospital, and more.

"There are lot of good things happening at the hospital," she said. "And business is excellent right now. While there have been losses, business has been excellent."

Mader also noted that the Joint Commission on the Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAHO) gave the hospital a grade of 96 out of a possible 100 following a recent inspection.

Quincy Hospital's financial woes, she said, are largely the result of changes in the healthcare industry that are beyond its control.

Some of the changes she listed include:

• Medicare. In 1990, Mader said, Medicare paid

Hearing Continued On Imports Firm Complaints

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The License Board Tuesday, continued until July 21, a hearing regarding complaints about M & G Imports, 397 Hancock St.

They were to meet with the Building Department Wednesday morning.

The company organizes and recruits salesmen to disburse with products including calculators and computers to businesses. It holds a business permit, but no license with the license board thus making it difficult for the board to take action.

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers read a letter from the North Quincy Business & Professional Association citing loud noise and music by a large congregation of salesmen, overtime parking on Billings Road and Hancock St.. Also cited was littering and loitering in the rear of the building.

Joseph Doran, president of the NOBPA said he had met with the owner, Ernest-Jean Jacques about two months ago making him aware of the problems.

Ayers said he had sent certified letters, and a letter from the police department and had not received an answer from Jacques.

He cited M & G with "obnoxious behavior" and "unresponsive business people."

Councillor at Large Paul Harold asked the board to look into the fact that there are persons picking up and dropping off products on the street in early morning and late evening hours.

Seeking support from the license board Ayers said "help me clean up this problem." and was disappointed when he asked Walter White, director of inspection services if it were true that he received no response from Jacques. White said he did not have "enough information at this time." to make a determination.

Jacques said he had a "good relationship" with the owner of the building, Mrs. Michael Chiu, and told the board he thought the complaints were a personal attack on him personally.

Mrs. Chiu accused Ayers of harassing her with daily phone calls about how M & G was operating its business.

However, Juan Lee, a tenant in the building said that Chiu actually asked Ayers and Lee and other abutters to especially help her solve the problem. Lee said he has been evicted because of trying to help.

Police Chief Thomas Franc called the eviction of Lee an "outrageous retaliation" and said it was "unacceptable".

Chiu said the eviction of Lee had nothing to do with the matter, but had to do with a sign Lee was supposed to install.

Ayers told the board that after the license board last meeting three weeks ago, M & G was told to meet with the building department. However, the request was ignored, Ayers said. He said since the owner has not responded to certified letters or telephone calls he was "losing faith" over what he could do.

Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Center business and Professional Association said the company has been soliciting in Quincy after they had told the board that they sell their products out of Quincy.

The company organizes and recruits salesmen to sell commodities such as calculators and computers to companies.

The hearing will be continued July 21.

Colonial Camp, Re-enactment Set For July 25-26

The License Board Tuesday, granted a weekend permit to Mike Cheney, chairman of the First Night Committee for a Colonial Camp, and reenactment of the Revolutionary War.

The alcohol free family oriented event will be held July 25 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and July 26 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

In addition to a reenactment of the fighting, the event will feature cooking and baking as done in the olden days, and hayrides for the children.

There will be stews and samples for the customers to taste.

Sponsoring the event will be Dunkin Donuts, Encore Catering and Harbor Express which will transport persons from Boston to and from the field.

Stress Can Affect Your Health!

Many sources estimate that 80% of all diseases are stress related in origin. Stress can create tension in the neck and back regions with resulting misaligned vertebrae. This misalignment can cause a pinched or irritated spinal nerve that may result in headaches, back & neck pain, and other numerous ailments.

Dr. Clark is skilled at locating and gently adjusting the misaligned vertebrae to a more normal position and motion which removes pressure from the affected nerves. This helps to restore the energy flow to all parts of the body.

McCauley: 'I Think We Should Revisit It'

Councillors To Take Second Look At Policing Commission

The need for the city's new community policing commission will be revisited by the City Council in the fall.

The council voted 5-2 Monday night to support a resolution introduced by Councillor Francis McCauley calling for the action.

McCauley was supported by Councillors Timothy Cahill and Paul Harold, Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin and Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers. Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymond, who originally proposed forming the commission, and Council President Peter Kolson voted in opposition.

Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott missed Monday night's meeting because he is recovering from hip surgery and Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico was not present for the vote.

Raymond urged his council colleagues to support the commission, saying the group should begin meeting as soon as possible. McCauley, however, refused to be swayed.

"I think we should revisit it," said McCauley. Police Chief Thomas Frane told councillors that he has always been supportive of the formation of the commission. He said the one reservation he initially had was that the police chief would not oversee the commission under the original proposal, which has since been amended.

Serving under Frane as the commission's director would be Crime Prevention Officer Robert Hanna, who was recently named to replace Kathy Bandera, the civilian director. Officials said they wanted a director who works within the Quincy Police Department.

The department is expanding its community policing program from Germantown, where it originated, into other parts of the city. The new commission, as proposed by Raymond, would head up that effort.

Food Fest, Auction Fundraiser For Father Bill's Place

The License Board Tuesday granted a permit to Mike Cheney, chairman of First Night Committee to hold a Food Fest and Auction Aug. 26 from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Summer House on Marina Bay.

The event, a fund raiser for the expansion of Father

Bill's Place will feature food from 25 area restaurants, live entertainment and wine tasting.

Cheney said the restaurants will all be in competition for the best food served in hopes persons will return to their restaurants at a later date.

The event was previously held at President's Place for the past three years, but because of the added interest, the location was changed to Marina Bay.

Tickets may be purchased by calling 376-2255.

NFPA Office Building Plan Approved By City Council

A plan by the National Fire Protection Association to construct a 5-story, 163,000-square-foot office building in West Quincy unanimously was approved Monday night by the City Council.

The new building will be located near the NFPA's current facility on Battery-march Park Drive.

Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico said he feels confident all residential concerns about drainage, traffic and other issues will be addressed by the project. He added that a 2.4-acre "buffer zone" of non-developable land has been added to the plan to protect the neighborhood from further development in the area.

Atty. David Mahoney, representing the NFPA, confirmed the organization has agreed to the buffer zone (Cont'd on page 8)

Wreath-Laying To Honor John Quincy Adams

A wreath from the White House will be placed on the tomb of President John Quincy Adams in a ceremony at United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center, on Saturday, July 11, at noon.

The wreath-laying ceremony marks the 231st birthdate anniversary of Adams, the sixth President of the United States who was born on July 11, 1767.

Cdr. Paul M. Molloy, USNR (TAR), of the Naval Reserve Center in Quincy will present the wreath on behalf of President Clinton.

This year a focus of the ceremony will be John Quincy Adams's historic defense of the "Amistad" Africans before the Supreme Court of the United States. As the Africans were Mendi people from what is now the country Sierra Leone, the ceremony is being planned as a collaboration of the Sierra Leone Cultural Organization, the Adams National Historic Site, the Quincy Choral Society, United First Parish Church, and the U.S. Navy.

His Excellency John Leigh, ambassador of Sierra Leone, will be the keynote speaker, and Alfred Marder, president of the Amistad Committee of New Haven, will also speak. Mayor James Sheets, Adams Temple and School Fund Administrator and City Councillor Paul Harold, and Rev. Sheldon Bennett, minister of the church, will also give remarks.

The Quincy Choral Society will participate in the ceremony with internationally acclaimed mezzo-soprano Pamela Dillard, who will sing two solos including "Going Home" by John Williams from the soundtrack of Steven Spielberg's movie "Amistad."

A reception will be held in the parish hall following the ceremony and a tour of the church and crypt will be offered. The public is invited and admission is free. For more information, call 773-0062 or 773-1290.

July 4th Day Of Irony

July 4th, you might say, is a day of irony in American history.

America was born on July 4th and the two men who played major roles in that historic event also died on July 4th -- 50 years later.

Saturday marks the 222th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence and the 172nd anniversary of the deaths of its two main architects -- Thomas Jefferson and our own John Adams.

Adams, like Jefferson, was a super patriot.

And he certainly was a better patriot than he was a prognosticator. He predicted July 2nd -- not July 4th -- would be celebrated down through the year's as America's birthdate.

Adams made that somewhat erroneous prediction in a letter to Abigail Adams July 2, 1776. In the letter sent from Philadelphia to Abigail here in Quincy, he declared:

"The second day of July 1776 will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America."

The man who would become second President thought this because the Declaration of Independence was adopted by 12 states on July 2. But, it wasn't signed by anyone until July 4.

And, only two of the 55 signers actually affixed their signatures on July 4th. They were Quincy's John Hancock, who as President of the Second Continental Congress, was the first to sign, and Charles Thomson.

Most of the others signed the precious document on Aug. 2. But six signed after that. And, Thomas McKean of Delaware didn't get around to it until five years later.

Jefferson and Hancock usually get top billing in the history books when it comes to the Declaration of Independence. Jefferson as its author and Hancock as its first signer. Hancock's signature--bold and with a fancy flourish so "King George III can see it without his spectacles" probably is the most famous autograph in history.

But Adams played a key, if not as glamorous a role in putting the Declaration together.

Jefferson himself acknowledged that when he praised Adams "... the most efficient agent in procuring a public Declaration of Independence."

Ironically, both Jefferson and Adams died on July 4, 1826 -- the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

Adams collapsed here in Quincy in a wing chair in his second floor study in the Adams Mansion on Adams St. -- the home of four generations of the illustrious Adams family and the summer White House for two presidents.

Adams and Jefferson had had a falling out but reconciled in later years through the efforts of Abigail as a peacemaker.

Among Adams' last words as he lay dying were, "Jefferson survives."

He thought Jefferson had outlived him. But actually, Jefferson had died earlier that same day in Monticello, his home in Virginia.

He was 83.

News didn't travel very fast in those days before radio and television. There were no such things as instant news bulletins.

Adams was just three months and 15 days from his 91st birthday. He survived Abigail, his wife of 54 years, by eight years.

ABIGAIL

He had lived to see his son, John Quincy Adams become the sixth President in 1825. But Abigail, the only woman ever to be the wife of one U.S. President and the mother of a second, never knew the second honor.

Four days before he died, John Adams was asked to give a holiday toast to his fellow Quincy residents.

The old man replied:

"I will give you independence forever." Asked if he would add to that, he declared: "Not a syllable."

"Independence forever" -- those are words to cherish and remember.

By the way, if you've never been to the Adams Mansion, you're missing a visitor's treat.

The Mansion is under the National Parks Services. The late Wilhelmina Harris as superintendent, gave the Old House her personal loving care. Present Supt. Marianne Peak has carried on that tradition.

They have kept the house in a "lived in appearance."

Strolling the beautiful rooms, you get the feeling that John and Abigail are just out for a little walk and will be right back.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1920 POSTCARD view of Quincy City Hall with a good look down Depot Street on the right. The J.A. Keating Co. sold new and second hand furniture in the large building that was on Irving Place on the other side of the tracks. This building was also used for boxing matches and other similar events. Note the sign "Coliseum" on the peak of the roof. The electric trolleys looped down here, turned right at the railroad station, on to Saville Street and back to Hancock. The plot of grass along the right side of City Hall became home to the Granite Ball presented to the City by the Granite Manufacturers Association to mark the city's tercentenary. The ball was later removed to the Fore River rotary. Depot Street is now the walk-of-names.

Young Children Lack Appropriate Role Models

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As a resident of Quincy, I am writing about a truly important subject: mentoring.

I have recently had the opportunity to become involved in One on One/The Mass Mentoring Partnership, a leading advocate for mentoring programs throughout Massachusetts. Many young children around the state lack appropriate role models who can help them develop goals, self-respect and how to make important decisions like staying in school and avoiding drugs, alcohol and violence.

Since its inception, One on One/The Mass Mentoring Partnership has increased the number of Greater Boston youth being mentored in formal programs by 2,000 and trained more than 1,500 new mentors. In addition, One on One has helped form nearly 150 new corporate and non-profit partnerships to recruit new members. It has also helped strengthen mentor programs intended specifically for at-risk youth.

Just imagine the long-term impact on the quality of life for all of us, children and adults alike, if all the children in Massachusetts who needed help got the mentoring they deserve.

More and more people volunteer as mentors or contribute money or other help to mentoring organizations. Yet, despite our success, more than 1,000 area children who have requested mentors still languish on waiting lists. And the need statewide is even greater.

The One to One Challenge Ride for Mentoring will include a variety of free performances and activities such as music, a famous magician, face painting, arts and crafts, and games for children of all ages. Anyone who is concerned about the welfare of our children should participate. If you're interested and want to learn more, please call (617) 695-1200.

Praises Quincy Youth Baseball

Dear Mayor James Sheets:

I would like to compliment the Quincy Youth Baseball Organization. I am so impressed that I am afraid my words will not truly describe my feelings.

My 8-year-old son, John R. Alexander III, is playing his first year for the Quincy Junior Farm League. He is a member of the Cheney Club team. His wonderful coach is Mr. John Iredale and assistant coach is Mr. Jim Dunn.

I am proud to be a spectator at each of the games that he plays. The coaches and the volunteer parents are sacrificing their personal time to teach these boys very valuable life lessons, sportsmanship and teamwork being the number one priority. What a positive influence these folks are having over my son and his teammates.

Even though it is important to cheer for our own children, the gentlemen leaders also cheer for well-done plays made by the opposing team. They make sure that all of the young boys hear that they're doing a terrific job. They are setting an example by recognizing each and every child, while boosting morale and self-confidence.

I would also like to recognize the young umpires that officiate the games. Despite their age, these young men are most professional and are also sacrificing personal time to mentor young children.

I hope that all the boys stick with the game until adulthood. You never know, we may be nurturing some future baseball stars or coaches.

I would like to invite you to come and see one of our games. It will bring back memories and put a huge smile on your face, I guarantee.

I would like to thank everyone involved and hope they know that they are recognized by this grateful mom. Thank you. Thank you.

Memorial Service For Lieutenant Della Chiesa

By PAUL HAROLD

A memorial service was held this week at Bethany Church for Lt. Walter Della Chiesa who was killed off Okinawa when his plane crashed into the sea.

Della Chiesa was the son of City Councillor and Mrs. Amelio Della Chiesa of Hughes St. and the nephew of former City Councillor Aldo Della Chiesa. He was a graduate of West Point.

Rev. George Gilchrist conducted the service.

DRAFT BOARD EXTENDS HOURS

William Edwards, chairman of Selective Service Board 27, serving Quincy and seven surrounding towns, announced that the office would be open full-time from Monday to Friday.

While the Quincy board had not classified anyone 1-A for the last 10 months, President Truman had put Selective Service on alert. News reports said that it was expected that there would be a draft call within 10 days.

GEN. MARSHALL LANDS AT SQUANTUM

Gen. George Marshall, former Secretary of State for whom the Marshall Plan of aid to Europe was named, and current president of the Red Cross, landed at the Squantum Naval Air Station for meetings in Boston and Cambridge. He was here to co-ordinate national plans to supply blood needed in cases of civilian and military emergencies.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Ann Marie's Summer Dish

At times, as we are all sitting around after a cook-out or a birthday celebration, we almost always talk about something we've cooked, or tasted somewhere.

That's what happened last week-end when our daughter Ann Marie told us about an easy summer entree. It takes as long as waiting for the pasta to cook.

- Easy Summer Pasta
 1 can stewed tomatoes
 1 bag fresh spinach (uncooked)
 1 can red kidney beans

- 3 or 4 ounces of Feta cheese
 3 tablespoons olive oil
 2 garlic cloves (chopped)
 1 medium onion (chopped)
 1/2 to 3/4 pound favorite pasta

First start boiling the pasta.
 In a large frying pan saute the onion and garlic in the hot olive oil. Add the raw spinach and the kidney beans and heat until spinach is tender.

Drain the pasta and add to the pan blending all together. Just before serving, sprinkle the Feta cheese over the top. Serve hot.

City Threatens To Halt Marina Bay Project

Construction of a Marina Bay nursing home and retirement complex could be stopped by the City Council if allegations of permit violations are true, councillors warned the developer of the project this week.

The City Council met with Stephen Puliafico, executive vice president of the Newton Group, on Monday night to ask him about charges that his firm is not paying prevailing wages and meeting other Planned Unit Development permit conditions. That permit was issued by the council last August.

Puliafico was told the Newton Group must provide payroll records and other information from the $22 million Marina Bay Senior Living Campus by Aug. 1. Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, whose ward includes the project, said the penalties could be stiff if councillors do not like what they see.

"If we don't get any satisfaction, I'm going to try and stop this project," he said.

Council President Peter Kolson agreed, saying that if the proper conditions are not met by the developer, "we have some serious talking to do."

Ayers and local union leaders—many of whom crowded the City Council Chambers to attend the meeting—said they believe the Newton Group's contractor, Beaver Builders of Newton, is hiring mostly out-of-state, non-union workers and paying them less than the prevailing wage required by state law.

Puliafico defended his firm and Beaver Builders, saying 75 percent of the contracts awarded for the project have gone to local union labor. Former Councillor Michael Cheney and South Shore Building and Construction Trades Council President Thomas McKay refuted that claim, however, noting they have seen license plates at the site from other states and from Canada.

Councillors will investigate the matter further when Puliafico appears before them later this year. If necessary, the PUD permit would allow the council to have the city's building department order the work on the Marina Bay project halted until conditions are satisfied.

Bosworth, Agents To Be Honored At Jack Conway Co. Breakfast

The South Shore offices of Jack Conway & Co. will hold their mid-year awards meeting Thursday, July 9 at 8:30 a.m. at Lombardo's in Randolph.

Special guest will be Quincy Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth, who will receive the 1998 "Conway Country" Press Award. Bosworth will be recognized for his high journalistic and publishing achievements over a span of four decades.

The Conway mid-year awards ceremonies are conducted by Conway President Dick Cahill and recognizes the top sellers, listers and achievers in the company over the first six months of the calendar year.

The Press Award will be presented to Bosworth for his successful journalism career in Massachusetts. Prior to founding The Quincy Sun in 1968, he was a reporter for The Patriot Ledger and The Boston Traveler.

While at the Ledger, Bosworth headed up the coverage of the Domenic Bonomi murder trial for which the newspaper was nominated for a Pulitzer Prize.

Bosworth also traveled aboard Adlai Stevenson's campaign train and covered the major stories of the era including the Brinks robbery trial, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's visit to Quincy, Harry Truman's whistlestop campaign, and John F. Kennedy's presidential election.

Bosworth's article at the Traveler about a boy struggling with Muscular Dystrophy inspired the first Jerry Lewis telethon, which has now become a Labor Day tradition.

Hospital's Fiscal Picture Seen Not So Bleak

92 cents for every dollar billed by the hospital. Today, that number has been cut in half.

"The hospital has a 'free care' policy—meaning it does not turn anyone away—that not all hospitals offer. Because of today's healthcare industry realities, that can cost between $2 million and $2.5 million a year, according to Mader.

"Capitation—The practice of health maintenance organizations (HMOs) of strong-arming hospitals into dealing with them, which Mader said is made possible by the fact that different patients are covered by different HMOs and want to visit hospitals that deal with their particular organizations.

Still, Quincy Hospital is not the only medical institution in Massachusetts affected by those and other healthcare industry changes, she added.

"There's no institution in this Commonwealth not having this problem," said Mader.

The only way for Quincy Hospital to survive today, she said, is to form a partnership or affiliation of some kind with another hospital or network of hospitals. That is what the task force on which she serves—which also includes current Quincy Hospital Director Jeffrey Doran, McCauley, other city officials, doctors, and representatives from Quincy Hospital unions and the business community—has been formed to achieve.

Mader said it is hoped a partnership can be achieved, at least on paper, within six to 12 months.

"Partnering, in some fashion, is what we have to look at," she said. "There are several ways to do it, and we're looking at the options."

$11.5 million from a $7.2 million bond issue, a $3.5 million state construction grant, and other revenue sources.

Councillors said they are happy Sheets did not request another bond issue for the project.

"I'm satisfied this is a sound completion to the project," said Councillor Timothy Cahill, chairman of the council's Finance Committee.

Harold, however, suggested that the library's overall pricetag should be cut by $1.2 million, the cost of a cable television studio added to the library addition's design in January. He said it is unfair to keep driving the library cost up while the city has countless other projects it must fund.

Harold's proposal was voted down by the council after architect Richard Bertman told councillors cutting the $1.2 million would force the project to be rebid and in all likelihood actually would result in a higher cost for the city.

NFPA Building Plan Approved By Council

and said the NFPA will make every effort to hire union labor for the construction.

The project will add 600 parking spaces to the 400 utilized by the existing NFPA building as well as $150,000 in improvements such as upgraded traffic signalization, including a new signal at the entrance to Batterymarch Park; area roadway upgrades, including parts of Willard and Ames streets and Wesson Avenue; and a man-made pond.

Quincy Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon said the city has worked with the Massachusetts Highway Department on the traffic improvements, adding that Quincy plans to eventually take over Willard Street.

D'Amico noted that there is a possibility the site could eventually be rezoned and that he and the NFPA will meet with neighbors in the future to discuss the zoning issue.

The NFPA project also has received the unanimous support of the Quincy Planning Board.

Children's Summer Food Service Program Underway

The Quincy Public Schools are participating in the Summer Food Service Program for Children, a federally-funded program administered by the Massachusetts Department of Education.

The program is designed to provide free nutritious meals during the summer months when the school lunch program is not operating.

The summer program will operate weekdays through Aug. 21 at the Ward 2 Community Center, 16 Nevada Rd.; Lincoln-Hancock School, 300 Granite St.; Snug Harbor School, 333 Palmer St. and Quincy Housing Authority, 9 Bicknell St.

Beginning July 6, it also will operate during the same hours through Aug. 21 at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 11 Hayward St.

The lunches, which are prepared at North Quincy High School the morning they are served, are available to all children ages 1 to 18. They will consist of milk, a cold entree or sandwich, a variety of fruit, juices or vegetables and an occasional treat.

For more information, call Joanne Morrissey at 984-8768.

ing a special committee that worked to revamp the city's previous signage ordinance. The group had to make sure the law was in proper legal form, McGrath said.

Mader said the city's law department had some minor concerns over the language in the new ordinance and wanted to make sure all of its provisions are completely enforceable under both state and local zoning laws.

The ordinance received only support at a joint public hearing held in May by the City Council and the Quincy Planning Board, which also gave the law a positive recommendation.

Mader said she was thrilled when she heard the ordinance was approved for the last time Monday night.

"Eureka, finally!" she said Tuesday.

Mader said the law gives store owners more freedom and flexibility—such as allowing them to put a second sign on their storefronts—but also places more stringent regulations on the merchants and requires better upkeep of their signs.

Mader thanked all those who served on the special signage committee she chaired, which represented a cross-section of the city and held about 70 meetings over the course of more than two years, she said.

"This was a real community effort," Mader said.

Realtors Assn. Supports Regulation Of Home Inspectors

The Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR) has expressed general support for a just relaxed legislative report that recommends governmental regulation of the state's home inspection industry.

The report, issued by the Senate Post Audit and Oversight Committee, urges the state Legislature to adopt new licensing and continuing education requirements for home inspectors, while also establishing minimum insurance and referral standards through legislation.

"Housing is such a huge investment today that consumers have the right to expect their home inspection is being performed by a knowledgeable, well-trained individual," said MAR President Mary Crowley. "To increase consumer protection and professionalism, you need rules. We've actively supported increased licensing requirements and ongoing education for all real estate agents, and we think similarly reasonable standards for home inspectors are also appropriate."

During a public hearing on the issue in May, concern had also been raised about the home inspector referral process, but the committee has concluded that a prohibition on referrals between real estate agents and home inspectors is unnecessary. Instead, the report calls for the development and distribution of an informational brochure on the home inspection process, as well as a recommendation that real estate agents and brokers who make referrals be required to provide homebuyers with the names of several home inspectors in any related information they disseminate.

The latter recommendation is already advocated by MAR, which has produced a sample home inspector listing sheet for its 15,000 members. The form allows for up to 10 area home inspectors to be identified, and includes a disclaimer indicating to buyers that the list is for informational purposes only.

"We agree that real estate brokers have a role in informing homebuyers about their options for having a home inspected. However, we also share the committee's concern that agents should not be held accountable for verifying the qualifications of the state's 400-plus home inspectors," said MAR Executive Vice President Robert Nash. "The decision to allow brokers to continue to provide referrals on a form that promotes consumer choice is commendable."

At present, Massachusetts requires licensing or 32 professions. It will now be up to the state Legislature's Joint Committee on Government Regulation to decide whether home inspectors will join the list of regulated industries.

If you suspect you have a gas leak, do not light a match to try to spot it. Instead, lather the suspected area with soapy water so that the escaping gas will cause bubbles and pinpoint the danger area.

Quincy Blues Festival A Family Treat

DUKE ROBILLARD of Rhode Island was the headliner of this year's Quincy Blues Festival. About 3,500 people were on hand for the event.

SUSAN TEDESCHI, a native of Norwell and a popular local singer-guitarist, performs at the sixth annual Quincy Blues Festival.

TONI LYNN WASHINGTON was among the performers that entertained the crowd during the Quincy Blues Festival at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

AN ESTIMATED 3,500 people attended the sixth annual Quincy Blues Festival at Veterans Memorial Stadium in Wollaston on Sunday. The crowd was the largest in the history of the festival, the presenting sponsor of which this year was State Street.

Steven McMann Named All-American Scholar

The United States Achievement Academy (USAA) announces that Steven McMann of Quincy has been named an All-American Collegiate Scholar.

The USAA has established the All-American

Collegiate Award Program to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines.

McMann, who attends Babson College, was nominated for the award by Phil Gibson, the college's sports information director. He will appear in the All-American Collegiate Year, which is published nationally.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John McMann of Quincy.

John Heim Joins Army

John E. Heim has joined the Army under the Delayed Entry Program at the U.S. Army Recruiting Station in Quincy.

The program gives young men and women the opportunity to delay entering active duty up to one year.

Heim, a 1997 graduate of North Quincy High School, has reported to Fort McClellan, Anniston, Ala., for basic training.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Heim of 24 Botolph Rd.

45th Anniversary For July 4th Celebration

Two West Quincy Families Share A Holiday--And A Tradition

Two West Quincy families will celebrate a very special 45th anniversary on Saturday.

Richard and Marjorie Morrissey and Edward and Mary Schlager of Woodcliff Road have been spending July 4th together since 1953. The two couples shared a quiet take-out dinner together on Independence Day that year after their young children went to bed.

Since then, the annual get-together has grown to include not only their children but also their grandchildren, various other relatives including aunts and uncles, and friends. The parents of the original participants, now all deceased, also used to attend.

Gail Marshalka, the Schlagers' daughter, said Woodcliff Road is a tiny, out-of-the-way street where the neighbors probably were destined to become close friends.

"It's a dead-end neighborhood no one knows is there," she said with a chuckle.

Today, she added, the event averages about 50 people per year now ranging in age from 6 to early 70s. It begins with a softball game at nearby St. Moritz Field—which started about 15 years ago—followed by a barbecue and pool party.

"It's a really nice time," said Marshalka.

Among the more memorable Independence Days celebrated by the families included the 25th anniversary in 1978, held inside a nearby shed because of torrential rains; and the 40th in 1993, when T-shirts bearing the logo "Morrissey-Schlager, Forty Years of Family Fourth" were handed out and attendance peaked at about 70 people.

But although those are two that stick out in her mind, Marshalka said the celebration is enjoyable every year.

"If you ask most people what their favorite holiday is, they say Christmas," she said. "For us, I really think it's the Fourth of July."

Think we can't do better fighting crime and drugs? You don't know Jack.

JACK CORRIGAN. TOUGH. INNOVATIVE. EXPERIENCED.

As a top Assistant District Attorney for nearly eight years, Jack Corrigan helped Bill Delahunt make the Norfolk County DA's Office one of America's most innovative and respected crime-fighting organizations.

Now Jack's running for District Attorney himself, and he's the only candidate with a plan to fight crime and make our neighborhoods safe from drugs and violence.

Keeping kids off heroin.

Jack Corrigan will redirect investigative resources, including wire taps, to aggressively prosecute the growing threat from heroin dealers. He'll push for tougher penalties for heroin traffickers, and he'll work to change the laws to permit mandatory, frequent drug testing of addicts on parole or probation, at their expense. Testing dirty will mean increasingly tough jail sentences.

And Jack will work for early identification and treatment of kids experimenting with heroin, before they are lost to addiction and crime.

Computerized crime fighting.

Career criminals know all about computers, but our DA's office is still in the stone age. Jack Corrigan will help police solve more crimes with a computerized Automated Fingerprint Identification System (AFIS) to quickly match crime scene prints with known felons. He'll also create a Criminal Offender Database to give police instant computer access to police reports, warrants, photos, prints, and other key data on suspects.

24 hour-a-day back-up.

Jack Corrigan will have trained prosecutors on call 24 hours-a-day to assist police with interrogations, search warrants and investigative assistance—and that will mean more convictions!

Community Prosecution.

Community prosecution programs—with prosecutors meeting regularly with residents and leaders to understand local problems—have lowered crime rates in other counties, and helped people reclaim their neighborhoods. Jack will make it work here!

Preventing juvenile violence.

Jack knows violent teenagers need tough treatment. But he also understands non-violent juvenile offenders can be straightened out...if we give them the support they need. To deal with the increasing lack of adult supervision, Jack will work to keep school gyms, computer labs, and libraries open longer. He'll also support adult mentoring programs to help disadvantaged kids from homes with drug and other kinds of abuse.

Shelter for battered women.

Jack Corrigan has pledged that as DA he'll create a new shelter for battered women and children from the first drug dealer's home he seizes. He'll also dedicate a portion of the office's drug forfeiture account to badly under-funded battered women's shelters.

To break the link between substance abuse and domestic abuse, he'll force convicted batterers to take random drug tests. Failing to test clean will mean jail for batterers on parole or probation.

The ideas and experience we need.

Jack Corrigan has the new ideas we need, and the experience to make them work!

Call now to find out how you can join Jack's fight against crime: 617/472-1140.

From Quincy To Washington And Geneva

Broad Meadows Students 'Stand Tall' At UN In Fight Against Child Labor

If you had the chance, what would you say to governmental policy makers, union leaders and business CEO's about child labor?

From May 26 through June 4, 1998, a team of middle school students from Quincy did just that as they traveled first to Washington, DC and on to Geneva to meet with those who write child labor laws.

Thirteen-year-old students Stacey Smith and Greia Amarra, along with 14-year-old Megan Donoghue, culminated a year's worth of on-line organizing and lobbying against child labor by bringing their On-line March Against Child Labor campaign directly to national and world leaders. All three girls attend Broad Meadows Middle School.

On May 27, the girls addressed U.S. Secretary of Labor Alexis Herman about steps they believe are necessary for ending child labor. Other high level meetings took place in Washington, D.C., including a private meeting in the Vice President's Office between the girls and National Security Advisor Leon Feurth and a meeting with Eric Schwartz, White House Advisor on Human Rights.

At an outdoor send-off rally in front of the Capitol Building, Kerry Kennedy Cuomo handed a U.S. banner to the girls, to take to Geneva, charging the girls to represent Americans well in Europe as they continued their campaign at meetings at the U.N. in Geneva.

In Geneva, the Quincy students presented their work to Kailash Sathiyari of India, and to Andrew Samet of the U.S. Labor Department. Samet is the head of the U.S. delegation to the ILO. The International Labor Organization is a special section of the U.N. dealing with labor issues.

The trip culminated with 100 international young people marching down the center aisle at the U.N. before 1500 delegates from almost every nation in the world applauding this global protest against child labor.

Stacey Smith proudly carried the U.S. banner over her head as she and Greia and Megan marched up onto the stage at the U.N. surrounded by boys and girls from Sri Lanka, Brazil, Costa Rica, Pakistan, India, Germany, the Philippines, Switzerland, France, Spain, the U.K., and many other nations. Many of those marchers are former child laborers.

Marching into the U.N. culminated a year's work by the Quincy students to bring the voices of American youth to the world's policy makers.

At each meeting, the girls' message was the same: child labor is not just an overseas problem; it is everyone's business. The girls listed the five steps they believe will end child labor:

- All children must go to school until at least age 12.
- Governments must pass and enforce tougher laws protecting children.
- Corporations must monitor their factories and fields to guarantee that no child is working there and not going to school.
- Poverty - micro-credit loans must be made available to poor mothers, empowering them to buy back children sold into bondage and helping these mothers to start their own small businesses. Breaking the cycle of poverty will break the cycle of child labor.

Consumers like you and me must ask "Who made it?" or "Who picked this?" before buying something.

Stacey, Megan and Greia were chosen by classmates to represent the 30 Broad Meadows students child labor campaign. The students hoped their ten day trip would result in "the beginning of an end to forced, abusive child labor."

This ail began last Fall. In October 1997, the girls read about an international campaign which was forming to pressure world leaders who were scheduled to meet in Geneva in June 1998 to write tougher international laws banning child labor.

The girls read carefully about this planned international "Global March Against Child Labor" which was being organized by Kailash Sathiyari of India.

Kailash is a recipient of the Robert F. Kennedy Human Rights Award in recognition of his work in India to expose child labor in his country. Kailash was planning this actual march across five continents to raise awareness of child labor. The march would begin in January 1998 and culminate in Geneva just as representatives of governments, businesses and workers would be convening a two week Conference on Child Labor at the U.N.

The Broad Meadows students had been recognized for their work to raise awareness of child labor and raise funds to build "A School for Iqbal Masih," a slain activist in Pakistan.

The Broad Meadows students wanted to help support the Kailash's planned Global March, but felt they were too young to march across a continents So, after lengthy discussions after school, the students invented "The Kids On-line March Against Child Labor."

The On-line March was created for those too young to march, unable to march, or simply not on the march route. Those interested were invited by the Quincy students to post email messages for the ILO about child labor on the students' On-line March web site: <http://www.globalmarch-us.org> or to send email messages about child labor to BroadMeadows@AOL.com

At a mile a message, the students hoped to receive 3,000 messages and that would symbolize a virtual march across America against child labor. It took a year's worth of hard work, but that goal was realized.

The students handed Labor Secretary Alexis Herman printouts of 3,062 email messages received from students, youth groups, parents, celebrities, and others in all 50 states and 20 nations.

The Quincy students had worked completely after school once a week for a year to organize young people on-line.

The goal of their "On-line March" originally was to support the actual "Global March Against Child Labor."

But as the Quincy students' "On-line March" grew and grew, crossing borders and generations, Anjali Kochar of the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Center for Human Rights, offered to sponsor a trip to Geneva for students Megan, Stacey and Greia.

The girls' virtual march had been transformed into an actual march to the U.N. in Geneva.

Standing tall, with tears in their eyes, Stacey, Greia and Megan stood on the U.N. stage, standing up for the more than 200 million children suffering silently under forced, abusive child labor.

In their arms were the 3,062 messages of support from those back home and those from far away.

Those from far away were hopes that these "Global and On-line Marches" would help move the delegates seated 10 feet away to actions which would make the ILO Geneva Conference the beginning of the end of child labor.

(Broad Meadows Principal Anne Marie Zukauskas and teacher-advisor Ron Adams, who wrote this article, chaperoned the trip. The trip's costs were provided by the RFK Memorial Center for Human Rights in Washington, DC.)

QUINCY SUN PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT

OPENING OF THE HARVARD-BOSTON AERO MEET
AT ATLANTIC, MASS. SEPT. 3, 1910.

THIS PHOTO SHOWS the first day of the Harvard-Boston Aero meet at the Atlantic-Squantum area Sept. 3, 1910. Two years later—July 1, 1912—the third meet was held here and one of the participants was Harriet Quimby, the first woman in the nation to earn her pilot's license. The "dragon-fly like" plane shown here at the top right was the kind she was flying that day. As the plane was descending from an altitude of 5,000 feet, it started to plunge, throwing her and a passenger, William Willard, manager of the meet from the plane, killing them both. The plane landed undamaged.

First American Woman Pilot Killed Here In Bizarre Accident Remembering The Life, Death Of Harriet Quimby

By SHARRON BEALS

Like a meteor, Harriet Quimby flashed through America's and Quincy's skies, and her fleeting moment was breathtaking.

Harriet Quimby, "America's First Lady of the Air," was a young woman 80 years ahead of her time.

We remember, more than 80 years after her death, with respect and recollections of her pioneering role in our country's, and our city's, aviation history.

Harriet, one of the most popular figures in early aviation, was born in 1875. She saw her first airplane when she was 35 years old (1910). A year later (1910) she had earned her pilot's license. The first woman in America to do so! The second female aviator in the world!

In April 1912, Ms. Quimby was the first woman to pilot a plane across the English Channel. In retrospect, Harriet's 22-mile channel flight demonstrated extraordinary courage, skill and self-confidence. She made that channel crossing in a Bleriot horsepower monoplane (a craft she had never flown) which was hardly more than a winged skeleton with a motor.

When she came to Quincy on July 1, 1912, Quimby was at the peak of her career (as a journalist and as a pilot). She came to Squantum (then "Atlantic") to compete in the third annual Harvard Boston Air Meet.

She had written extensively on social issues ("White Slavery," "Vice in N.Y. City") and had just completed articles (Good Housekeeping and Leslie's Illustrated Weekly) on the topic "Aviation: A Feminine Sport," encouraging women's interest in flying.

On July 1, 1912, at 5:30 p.m. she prepared for a 27-mile demonstration flight out to the Boston Light. As her Bleriot turned around the Light, in descent from an altitude of 5,000 feet, the plane turned over sharply and nosed down into Dorchester Bay.

As a horrified crowd watched, Quimby's passenger (William Willard, manager of the Aeromeet) and then Harriet fell from the plane and tumbled into the harbor waters. The plane descended, nosed over on impact, undamaged. Both Harriet Quimby and William Willard were killed.

The exact problem and causative factors for the accident have never been agreed upon. Most of the airplanes in the first decade of aviation were dangerously unstable. One theory relates to the propeller driven by a chain (probably requisitioned from the Wright Brothers Bicycle Shop) that often broke, snapping guy wires and shredding wing fabric.

Another observation was that the wing warping device would sometimes flex the already-strained airframe too far, with disastrous results. If passengers' weights shifted, as first thought in Quimby's accident, the plane sometimes became uncontrollable.

It was not unusual in those days for aviators not to use seat belts or para-chutes. The low-powered planes did not generate much centrifugal force in turns. Most pilots refused to wear safety belts, fearing that in a crash the weight of a plane's heavy, often rear-mounted engine would crush them. No one in the early days gave much thought to falling out of the aircraft.

Throughout her years as a reporter, 1903 to 1912 (Leslie's Illustrated Weekly, Good Housekeeping, etc.), she wrote on a variety of subjects: white slavery, vice in New York City, drama reviews and, or course, aviation.

Today, Harriet Quimby would be described as a "90s woman": intelligent, adventuresome, and accomplished. Her pioneering role as America's first woman pilot ended abruptly and tragically, in Quincy, on July 1, 1912.

We remember Harriet Quimby as a courageous, intelligent, trail-blazing "Lady of the Air." We pay tribute to her and honor her pioneering spirit and the memory of the tragic loss of her life—here at our site.

Morrisette Hands Ball To Celata To Halt Skid

By LIAM FITZGERALD

In the midst of a three-game losing skid, the Morrisette American Legion baseball team welcomed the return of ace pitcher Rob Celata, who rejoined the squad this week.

Celata, who traveled to Arizona to participate in an AAU baseball tryout, was slated to pitch Tuesday against Braintree, but rained postponed the game.

"We have our ace back, and that will make a big difference," said Morrisette manager Ray Cattaneo. "It'll give us a No. 1 pitcher, a stopper who can give the others some rest. We're glad to have Rob back."

Morrisette (2-5) was slated to visit Randolph yesterday (Wednesday) for a 6 p.m. tilt.

Tuesday's rainout was rescheduled for today (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at Braintree.

Milton visits Morrisette Friday for an 8 p.m. game, then Morrisette travels to West Roxbury Monday at 8 p.m. and takes on Quincy Tuesday at 8 p.m. Morrisette hosts Milton Wednesday at 8 p.m. and Quincy Friday at 8 p.m. Morrisette's home games are at Adams Field.

In recent action, Weymouth collected 15 hits and defeated visiting Morrisette, 9-6, Monday evening. Losing pitcher John Sullivan lasted five innings, allowing seven runs on 12 hits, striking out one and walking three. Chris Bregoli pitched one inning, gave up two runs on three hits and fanned one.

Morrisette's offense connected for four runs in the first three innings, knocking out starter Alan Canale.

Legion Baseball

However, Weymouth's relievers shut the door the rest of the way. Morrisette's leading hitters were Matt McLoughlin (1 for 3, three RBI), Sullivan (2 for 4, two RBI) and Bill Walker (1 for 2, RBI).

Following a rainout Saturday, Morrisette hosted West Roxbury and Weymouth Sunday and lost both. In a 14-2 setback to West Roxbury, John Bernazzani fired a two-hitter and helped his own cause with a 2 for 5 effort and two RBI.

Ray Cattaneo, pitching on a sore ankle, started for Morrisette and went five innings, yielding nine earned runs on 14 hits while fanning six and walking two. Jerry Burke pitched the final two innings, giving up one earned run on two hits, with two strikeouts and three walks.

Earlier, Weymouth spoiled an outstanding pitching performance by Morrisette's Keith Doherty, winning 4-3 in nine innings. Doherty went the distance and allowed three earned runs on seven hits. He also fanned eight and walked just two.

With the game tied 3-3 in the ninth, Weymouth's Drew Locke (4 for 4, two RBI) led off with a double, moved to third on a wild pitch and scored the winning run on an infield error.

Morrisette scored twice in the third to take an early lead, before Weymouth's Loup put his team ahead, 3-2, with a sixth-inning, two-run double.

Morrisette tied it up in the seventh, forcing extra innings, when Erik Fagan (1 for 1, three walks, two runs) walked, stole second and scored on a single by Matt McLoughlin. Also collecting a hit apiece were Walker, Steve Clarke, Jim Cunio, Cattaneo and Bregoli.

Last Friday, behind the complete-game effort of Ryan Ploof (two earned runs, five hits, seven strikeouts, no walks) host Morrisette defeated Cohasset, 13-4. With the win, Ploof improved his record to 1-1.

Leading Morrisette's hit parade was Walker, who went 3 for 4 with two triples and four RBI. Other big hitters were McLoughlin (2 for 3, RBI), Cunio (2 for 5, RBI), Bregoli (2 for 3, RBI), Fagan (1 for 2, two RBI), Sullivan (double) and Shawn Manning (double). Morrisette broke the game up in the fifth, sending 13 batters to the plate and scoring seven runs. Cohasset scored all of its runs in the third, collecting two hits and capitalizing on three infield errors.

Earlier in the week, Sullivan pitched Morrisette to a 9-6 victory over host West Roxbury last Tuesday. Sullivan tossed a five-hitter, yielding three earned runs, four walks and striking out four.

Sullivan helped his own cause with a hit and two RBI. Morrisette, which collected 13 hits, was led offensively by McLoughlin (2 for 3, two RBI), Cunio (2 for 4, two RBI), Doherty (2 for 3) and Clarke (2 for 4). In the sixth, the visitors sent 12 hitters to the plate and scored seven runs.

Morrisette Friday at 8 p.m. Quincy's home games are at Adams Field.

In the sweep of Cohasset, Quincy won both by a 5-4 score. Quincy pulled out a victory in the first game on Frank Alibrandi's single in the eighth. Wiltshire singled, moved to second on a groundout and crossed the plate on Alibrandi's hit.

After visiting Cohasset jumped out to a 3-0 lead off starter Joe Tower (five innings, one earned run, seven hits, three strikeouts, no walks) in the top of the first, Quincy clawed its way back with a run in the first and two in the third. Peck, Quincy's most consistent hitter, led off the first with a double and scored on Pat

George Burke Honored By QHS Girls' Tennis Team

Quincy Atty. George Burke, former basketball standout at Quincy High School, was recently honored by the QHS girls' tennis team in appreciation for his donation of the new strength facility at the school.

Burke donates thousands of dollars annually to students in Quincy in the form of scholarships and for program development. He is also a member of the Basketball Hall of Fame at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, where he has been a major financial supporter of student-athlete programs for many years.

The ceremony was held before a Quincy High match against Falmouth. Burke handed out the game balls during the team introductions and was presented with a Cross pen and pencil set by Quincy High tennis coach Peter Swanson. During the presentation, Swanson explained that the Cross pen inscribed with the word commitment is the team's highest and most coveted award.

Before the presentation, Burke told school administrators about the thousands of tennis games he had enjoyed playing at the high school's facility. He also mentioned the fine condition of the new courts. The Quincy High girls' tennis team also planted flowers, installed benches, fly blue and white flags on game days and work hard to keep their home court tidy.

"It was a wonderful day for Quincy High School tennis," said Swanson. "We were able to honor a man who puts kids first in the city of Quincy. We also upset powerhouse Falmouth by beating the top first doubles team in a very strong league."

Quincy High's Laura McEvoy and Holly Archer were winners in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3.

Sarah Satkevich Top Athlete At Fontbonne Academy

Sarah Satkevich of Quincy was recently named the recipient of this year's outstanding career achievement in athletics at Fontbonne Academy.

During her four years at Fontbonne, Satkevich made numerous important contributions to both the soccer and basketball programs.

She captained the soccer team during the past two seasons and was the basketball captain this past season. In soccer, she was a conference All-Star all four years, an Eastern Mass. Div. I All-Star two years, named to the All-State team and was a Patriot Ledger All-Scholastic.

She led Fontbonne's soccer team in scoring with a total of 72 points (41 goals, 31 assists) and was also nominated for conference Player of the Year honors. In her junior year, she received Fontbonne's coaches award for soccer and this year she represented her school at the Women in Sports Award ceremony.

In basketball this year, she was the recipient of the team MVP award at the Christmas Tournament and was also a Catholic Conference All-Star.

Satkevich received the Fontbonne Booster's Scholarship and the Lyceum Achievement Award for Leadership from Assumption College.

Baseball Camp July 6-10

The Quincy Recreation Department's Baseball Camp will be held July 6-10 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at McCoy and Mitchell Fields.

The camp is open to those eligible for Little League (participants must be 10, 11 or 12 as of July 31, 1998).

Larry Taglieri, assistant coach at Quincy High School and head coach of Quincy Legion, will direct the camp, which is designed for those interested in perfecting their baseball skills.

Individual attention will be emphasized in all phases of the game. Instruction, position play and game experience will be offered and instruction will range from the basic fundamentals to advanced skills.

Those interested in registering can do so at the Recreation Office, One Merrymount Parkway (formerly 100 Southern Artery), between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Registration is taken on a first come, first serve basis. For more information, call 376-1394.

Basic Formula Works Wonders For Quincy

Taking the simple baseball equation of strong starting pitching, consistent hitting and good defense to heart, the Quincy American Legion team has reeled off four wins in its last five games.

Regarding the squad's pitching success, Quincy head coach Larry Taglieri credits pitching coach Wayne Chambers with preparing the hurlers and stressing the need to throw strikes.

"Wayne's done a great job with the kids," said Taglieri. "They're going out there and getting it done. Our defense has also been playing very well, especially Adam Delorcy behind the plate. He's been sensational at handling the pitchers and calling good games. The hitting has also picked up. (Greg) Peck has stayed hot, and (Steve) Wiltshire has been swinging the bat well."

Quincy (4-3), which swept a double-header from Cohasset on Monday, was slated to host Milton yesterday (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. Today (Thursday) at 5:45 p.m., Quincy is scheduled to visit Weymouth.

Starting Sunday at 8 p.m. against visiting Braintree, Quincy plays five consecutive days. Monday at 7:30 p.m., Quincy travels to Braintree, then hosts Morrisette Tuesday at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Quincy heads to West Roxbury for an 8 p.m. contest. Cohasset visits Quincy Thursday at 8:30 p.m., and Quincy takes on

Barry Welch Receives Senior Games Award

Barry Welch, a board member of the Quincy Council on Aging, was presented the John Newman Award at the recent seventh annual Massachusetts Senior Games opening banquet.

Named after the Games' first chairman, the award commends the efforts of an individual who exhibits leadership skills and dedication in assuring the success of the Games.

Quincy Council on Aging Director Brian Buckley, a member of the Massachusetts Senior Games Advisory Board, presented Welch with the award. Buckley noted that the Massachusetts Senior Games consulted with Welch eight years ago, before the Games began, because of Welch's role in the Quincy Senior Olympics.

"Barry Welch is certainly deserving of this award as he has been involved with the Games from their infancy and has seen them grow into one of the best in the country," said Buckley.

Welch is also director of the Quincy Recreation Department and a member of the Massachusetts Senior Games Advisory Board since its inception.

Family Tire & Auto, Impressions Plus Win

In recent Quincy Youth Baseball St. John's Little League action, Family Tire & Auto defeated Gilco/Burke Insurance, 6-1, in the first round of the playoffs.

Family Tire & Auto was sparked by the overall play of John White, who fanned seven in three innings of work and helped out offensively with a double and two singles, and Dean Sandomato, who struck out six in three innings and belted two triples.

Other offensive contributors were Sean Warwick, Marc Hutchins, Jonathan Coska, Craig Bennett and Joey Connolly. Defensively, the top players were Alpesh Patel, Carl Morris, Andrew Masse and Justin Gimmel.

In other recent action, Impressions Plus blanked Bolea-Buonfiglio, 4-0, to earn a first-place deadlock and earn the league's best regular season record.

Winning pitcher Liam Powers and teammate Eddie DeWitt combined to throw the shutout. Both hurlers were supported by an excellent defense. Tim Randall and Powers both gunned down runners at the plate. Tom Chernicki smacked a two-run double to pace the offense. Joe Priscella stole home in the first, scoring what turned out to be the winning run.

Granite City Electric Edges The Police, 9-8

Behind the complete-game, eight-strikeout performance of pitcher Matt Holt, Granite City Electric edged Quincy Babe Ruth League Baseball game.

The lead went back and forth a number of times until Tom Hughes drove in Holt with the tying run in the top of the seventh. Brian Scott, the next batter, drove in Steve Bartkowski with the eventual game-winning run. GCE held on for the win on a game-ending double play featuring an outstanding play by third baseman Dave Germaine.

Pacing GCE offensively were Germaine (2 hits, run), Bartkowski (2 hits, 2 runs, 2 RBI), Hughes (2 hits, run, RBI), Sean Crowley (hit, run, RBI), Wayne Moynihan (hit, run) and Francis Orlando, James Chiochio and Mike Boyle (one hit each).

The Police were led by Ryan Hutchins (3 hits, run, RBI), Bob Rice (2 hits, run, RBI), Chris Lockhead (hit, run, RBI) and Brian Rooney (hit).

Mansfield CPA Rallies For A Playoff Victory

Trailing 18-2 in a Mary Pratt League girls softball playoff game, Mansfield CPA rallied for 17 runs over the final two innings to pull out a thrilling 19-18 victory over Everlasting Engraving.

First-place Mansfield CPA's leading hitters were Danielle Rogers (5 for 6), Kylie Mansfield (4 for 6), Kelli Nogler (4 for 6, double), Cassie Herd (2 for 3) and Cassi Nogler (double). Kyle Mansfield, who struck out three and walked nine, was the winning pitcher. Defensive standouts were catcher Lisa Dellacroce, who made a diving catch behind the plate, and Meghan Holt, who played strong defense at first base.

For fourth-place Everlasting, offensive leaders were Maria Coughlin (4 for 5, home run) and Jane Fitzgerald (2 for 4). Catcher Liz Kelly played well and Lisa Campbell pitched three strong innings.

In other recent action, Mansfield CPA, Everlasting and Wisnisko all won.

In Mansfield CPA's 20-10 triumph over Everlasting, the winners were led by Pam Jacobs (4 for 4), Maury Rogers (3 for 4, double), Julia McGunagle (3 for 4, triple) and Danielle Rogers (3 for 4, home run). Defensively, Meghan Holt played a strong game at first base, including a leaping catch of a line drive, and right fielder Kylie Mansfield made a nice running catch.

YOUTH SOFTBALL

For Everlasting, Courtney Allen had two singles and Meredith Power made some big plays at second base. Franchesca DiBona snared a line drive at first base to end the second inning, stranding a Mansfield CPA runner at third base.

In other action, Everlasting Engraving scored 17 early runs en route to a 24-14 win over Wiz Kids Toys. Pitchers Liz Cambell and Maria Coughlin combined for the victory.

Everlasting's offense was sparked by Erin Lenane, Courtney Allen, Lisa Kelly, Franchesca DiBona, Coughlin, Meredith Power and Valerie Riccardi, all of whom had multiple-hit games. Belting triples were Cambell, DiBona and Coughlin. Everlasting's strong outfield of Jane Fitzgerald, Lenane and Meghan Rafferty played well, as the entire team turned in their top effort of the season.

For WKT, Meghan McCarthy, Kathleen Quinn and Alyssa Hawksley had multiple-hit efforts, including doubles by Quinn and Hawksley.

Elsewhere, Wisnisko held off a late Everlasting Engraving rally and pulled out a 14-12 victory. Collecting a few hits apiece for the winners were Michelle Pilalas, Stacey Andrew, Julie Burke, Jen Grogan, Christina Roosa, Marissa Lentini and Ashkey Fowkes. Pilalas and Burke each had a double.

Leading Everlasting offensively were Courtney Allen (4 hits), Meredith Power (4 hits), Jessica Smialek (2 hits), Franchesca DiBona (2 hits) and Maria Coughlin (2 doubles). Smialek played strong defense at third base and Allen was active behind the plate, throwing out a runner trying to steal second and tagging two runners out at home plate.

Buick Wins, Improves To 16-0; Beacon Defeats Jaehnig Club

JUNIOR LEAGUE

South Shore Buick, the defending Quincy Youth Baseball Junior League champion, improved its record to 16-0 with a 15-3 victory over Quincy Police.

Winning pitcher John Folino tossed six strong innings and upped his pitching mark to a perfect 10-0 on the season. Folino and Greg Tragelis each belted a home run while every Buick player contributed with a base hit.

Coach Peter Williams expressed his pleasure with Buick's all-around effort after not playing for 10 days due to inclement weather conditions.

Dating back to last season, Buick has posted a 39-2 record, including the win over the Police. Buick has its sights set on repeating as league champion, led by the leadership of 12-year-olds Steve William, Matt McNeil, Brian Weeks, Greg Tragelis and Ryan McHugh, with contributions from 10-year-old players John Ridge, Matt McHugh, Sean Lynch and Tommy Stone.

In other recent action, Beacon scored early and often en route to a 9-1 triumph over Jaehnig. Beacon put together a three-run first inning and followed it up with a five-run second to build a quick 8-0 lead.

Winning pitcher Dean Sandomato fanned five and helped his own cause with a triple. Mike Cafano and Ryan Feldhoff both had multiple-hit games, including a double apiece. Matt Grazioso also contributed a multiple-hit effort and also pitched well. Defensively, standouts were Joey Cafano and Matt Rhode.

Turning in strong defensive efforts for Jaehnig were Matt Tobin and Chris Marinelli.

McGann's sacrifice fly. In the third, following singles by Tony Staffier and Lou Bell, Peck smacked a two-run triple to tie the game.

Quincy temporarily took the lead in the fifth when Peck singled, stole second and came around to score when Bryan Linskey executed a squeeze bunt. Cohasset knotted it up in the sixth, forcing extra innings and setting the stage for Alibrandi's heroics. Linskey (1-0) picked up the win in relief with three innings of one-hit ball.

The nightcap saw Quincy jump out to a five-run lead and hold off a late Cohasset rally. Peck got it started by reaching on an error, stealing second and scoring on Delorey's single for a 1-0, first-inning lead. The home squad added two runs in the third, when Cohasset's pitcher fielded Matt Graham's sacrifice bunt and threw the ball away, allowing Kris Ricupero and Staffier to score. In the fourth, after singles by Ricupero and Graham, Peck connected for a two-out, two-run single for a 5-0 lead.

Quincy's Dan Toland (1-1) went the distance, scattering seven hits and allowing four runs while fanning two and walking four.

Sunday, host Quincy lost to Randolph, 13-5. Peck was Quincy's top hitter, going 2 for 3 with a single, a double, a walk and scored a run. Linskey drove in Peck in the first with a sacrifice fly. Dennis Palardy got the start and was relieved in the fifth by Mike Clark.

In a 4-3 victory over host Canton last Thursday, Palardy picked up the win with 2 2/3 strong innings of relief, including four strikeouts. Linskey fanned six and walked one, giving up one earned run in 4 1/3 innings.

In the first, Peck led off with a single and eventually scored on a fielder's choice by Delorey. Quincy fell behind, 3-1, but rallied for three in the sixth for the win. Wiltshire drew a one-out walk and crossed the plate on a double by Linskey. Delorey drove in Linskey with a double, then scored the game-winner when Staffier hit into a fielder's choice.

Last Tuesday, Quincy erupted for a nine-run third en route to an 11-6 triumph over visiting Weymouth. Leading the way for Quincy were Peck (2 for 4, run), Wiltshire (2 for 4, two runs, RBI), Delorey (2 for 3, run), Linskey (two RBI), Bell (2 for 2, walk, run) and Staffier (1 for 3, two runs). Winning pitcher Mike Clark (1-0) scattered eight hits over six innings, struck out two and walked one.

P.A.L. Captures First Place; Locker Room, S & E Take Two

TRIPLE A

In recent Quincy Youth Baseball Triple A action, Quincy P.A.L. wrapped up first place in the National League with four victories, while Spillane & Epstein and Locker Room collected two wins apiece.

P.A.L. finished its season at 13-3 following a 25-10 triumph over Spillane & Epstein. P.A.L.'s Jason Purves (who picked up his first Triple A win) and Domenic Poli combined to record 16 strikeouts on the mound.

Steve Yovino sparked P.A.L.'s 12-run second inning outburst with a line single. Mike Lally added 4 hits and Pete Villanueva (5 hits) finished the season with a .759 batting average and 12 home runs. John McGuigan earned the game ball for lining a double off the center field fence and playing solid defensively behind the plate. John Grillo had an RBI single and scored two runs.

In previous action, winning pitcher Mike Lally (5-0) tossed a complete game as P.A.L. defeated Yellow Cab, 19-1. Lally, who received the game ball, allowed only the one run, struck out 13 and also collected two hits. Jason Purves went 4 for 4, including 2 doubles, while All-Star catcher John McGuigan chipped in with 3 hits. Nicole Murray, Pete Villanueva, Domenic Poli and Anthony Narvaez all picked up 2 hits apiece.

In P.A.L.'s 11-0 triumph over Flavin & Flavin, Pete Villanueva tossed a complete-game four-hitter, striking out 17 and walking just one. He helped his cause with 2 hits and received the game ball. Dan Poggi contributed offensively, going 3 for 3 with 2 doubles and 3 RBI. Steve Yovino chipped in with 2 hits and Alex Hardy played well behind the plate.

For F&F, Harvey Chan hit a line drive for his team's first hit, played well at first base and finished up with a solid effort on the mound. Steve Dunn had 2 of F&F's hits and also pitched well. Stephen Cassidy played a strong game at shortstop, behind the plate, and added a hit. Jonathan Griffith took away an extra-base hit with a great catch in left and Danny Davis also played well defensively.

In other action, Domenic Poli fanned seven as P.A.L. knocked off Quincy D.A.R.E., 12-1. Poli did not allow a run and gave up just two hits. He also contributed with a hit and scored a run. In relief, Jason Purves fanned five and chipped in a hit and an RBI. David Cordiero collected an RBI single to keep the five-run, first-inning rally alive. Nicole Murray added a bases-clearing triple and heads up play at second.

In a 20-17 win over Yellow Cab, Spillane & Epstein was paced by the efforts of winning pitcher Kyle Daniels, who received offensive support from Chris Mercurio (home run). Also playing well were Alexander Mendez, Gerry Veritosky, Brian Masters and Jonathan Narvaez.

Leading S&E to an 11-9 triumph over CNA Insurance were Ivan Wong, the winning pitcher, and Brian Masters, who also pitched well. Other S&E contributors were Jimmy Mullaney, Jarrod Abbott, Taylor Breen, Tommy Cabral and Frankie Sorrento.

CNA's top players were Harman Losi, Kellan Losi, Mike Merlis and Dennis Conway.

In other action, Locker Room edged Yellow Cab, 3-2, as winning pitcher John Morris struck out six and made two outstanding defensive plays. Other defensive standouts for the winners were shortstop Andrew Pangraze, who had four assists and an unassisted double play, and Danny Jacobs, who made two fine catches in right field.

Locker Room got on the board in the second when Ian Jorgenson doubled and scored on a hit by Steve Beliveau. In the third, Alex Jorgenson tripled and Ross Pasquantonio followed with and RBI single. Ian Jorgenson then drove in the eventual game-winning run, scoring Ross with a double.

Yellow Cab pitcher John Kozak hurled a strong game, striking out eight. Mike Rooney and Jake Tavakoli (2 hits apiece) paced YC's offense.

A seven-run fifth propelled Locker Room to a 12-7 victory over Local 2222. Winning pitcher Andrew Pangraze fanned 10 and helped his own cause with 2 hits. Locker Room's offense, which collected 19 hits, was sparked by Frank Feeley (3 hits) and John Morris, Joe Renken and Collin Mooney (2 hits apiece). Robert Ladner chipped in a two-run single.

Defensively, LR catcher Ian Jorgenson threw out two baserunners and Renken made the game's top defensive play, snagging a hard line drive in left field. Pacing Local offensively were Anthony Dunner, Paul Farina, Danny Gallagher and Alex Tringale (2 hits each). Battery mates Timmy Sommers and Joe Norris had strong games.

James Aikens Named To AAU Baseball

James Aikens of Quincy was recently named as an early selection to the 1998 South Shore Baseball Club Seadogs 10 and Under Division AAU Travel Team Baseball Program.

The announcement was made by the South Shore Baseball Club in Holbrook. As a member of the Seadogs developmental tournament team, Aikens will compete against other AAU (Amateur Athletic Union) organizations in Massachusetts as well as various tournaments throughout the summer.

"James comes to our

program with a lot of enthusiasm," said Jim Russo, 10 and Under team manager. "He comes ready to play every day and is a great kid."

Aikens is a third grader at the Point Webster School and plays for Beezee Auto in the Quincy League.

The South Shore Baseball Club will field seven teams this year from the 10 and Under to the 16 and Under divisions. Each member of the program is responsible for fundraising over $2,000 to participate.

To sponsor Aikens, send a donation to James Aikens, 53 Silver St., Quincy, MA 02169 or call the South Shore Baseball Club at 1-800-GO-4-HITS.

Newly Renamed Jim Kane Sugar Bowl 5 Miler July 23

The L Street Running Club, which includes a number of Quincy runners, recently announced the re-naming of its annual road race, The Sugar Bowl 5 Miler, to The Jim Kane Sugar Bowl 5 Miler.

The race's name was changed to honor club member Jim Kane of Milton who passed away April 20 from a brain tumor. He was the first member of the club to have died in the club's 11-year existence.

Prior to the start of the race, a dedication ceremony will take place at the start/finish area. This year, the club expects a record number of runners due to the popularity of the original Sugar Bowl 5 Miler and for respect to Kane.

Many new sponsors, along with the event's previous sponsor, have signed on to assist with the cost of the race.

The race will be held Thursday, July 23 at 6:30 p.m. at the Bayside Expo Center in Dorchester, where the race will start and finish. It's a flat course along the beaches of South Boston and back.

As in the past, all profits from the race will be donated to local charities, including the Col. Daniel Marr Boys & Girls Club, South Boston Collaborative, The Curley Recreation Center, and the L Street Running Club's Christmas Baskets for the Needy program.

For more information on the race or race applications, call the Race Info line at (781) 331-5251.

Christopher Barra Competes In International Judo Challenge

Christopher Barra of 99 Bigelow St., a junior at North Quincy High School, competed for the Massachusetts State Judo Team in the 26th annual Am-Can International Judo Challenge at the University of Buffalo in Amherst, N.Y., over the Memorial Day weekend.

The international event is one of the premier judo tournaments in the eastern part of the United States, with competitors hailing mainly from the U.S. and Canada, but also from a number of foreign countries. Nearly 700 competitors took part in the two-day tournament.

Barra competed in the boys 16 and under middleweight division, losing a first round match on a counter throw by Franz Guestler. (Guestler, a native of Germany who now lives in Minnesota, lost to Barra last year.) Barra was forced to come out of the loser's bracket to earn a shot at the bronze medal round. He fought back with a series of foot sweeps, hip throws and mat work.

Barra advanced to the medal round when he beat Maxsin Katsuelson of the Russian AAA Olympic Judo Club in Pennsylvania with a Tai-otoshi (side body drop).

Barra dominated the fight for bronze with Adam Kacala of New Jersey, but could not score until he found the opening to apply his favorite choke, koshijime (hip strangle) to force submission before unconsciousness set in. Kacala finished fourth.

Barra studies at the L Street Judo Club under the guidance of Bill Stevens and Tom Comerford, and at Rich Angelos Karate and Judo School in Everett with Rick Meara.

Lipton Cup Regatta July 11-12

The 12th annual Lipton Cup Regatta will be held Saturday and Sunday, July 11 and 12 at Squantum Yacht Club in Quincy.

*A Thought
For The Week*

'I KNOW NOT WHAT COURSE OTHERS MAY TAKE, BUT AS FOR ME . . .
GIVE ME LIBERTY OR GIVE ME DEATH!' . . . Patrick Henry

In 1776 an old man awaited eagerly the word that the Declaration of Independence had been signed. He had been given the duty of ringing a bell to let the citizenry know the news. A small boy sped the message to the old man and the sound of the bell was heard throughout Philadelphia. The last note pealed from the bell in 1835 when a crack appeared. But our Liberty Bell remains a symbol of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Since that time, other cracks have appeared in the society of America. Many have been mended. But on July Fourth each year, Americans should unite to pledge new allegiance and patriotism to the United States of America . . .

Your Horoscope
by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Don't be shy. This is your week to shine and show off your optimism regarding work, relationships and life. Your creative juices flow over the weekend.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) While many minor interruptions cloud up your schedule, you are at your best and accomplish a lot. If the phone at work or on the home front is constantly ringing, it will bring good news.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Taking a trip for business is favored. In addition, you reap many rewards in meetings with people in authority. This weekend, if shopping, bargains come your way.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) While you think a child's complaint is only a small matter, think again. Use compassion and understanding. The weekend is spent focusing your energies on the family.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your insights into a troubled friend can make a big difference. Intuition is the key. Lay down the law and speak your mind with family members over the weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You're shrewd in business and financial dealings, due to your keen ability to attain a great deal. Don't seek out second opinions. Believe in yourself!

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Plan a special social event for the near future. The results are likely to be satisfying. Loved ones are in sync this weekend and understand one another.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) While you could feel uncomfortable about finances, search out a trusted family member or friend who can help. However, don't agree to accepting a loan, which would cause bad feelings in the long run.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You have the urge to do something fun, but instead should concentrate on a professional matter. Follow through on your instincts. Your hard work pays off by week's end.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Don't get yourself down if romance is a bit rocky. Leisure activities with friends cheer you up. Vent your feelings to those whom you trust this weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) If you are traveling, you meet an intriguing admirer. At home, harmony and happiness will come through children who have good news to report.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) While you could be a bit down about your finances, be prepared for good monetary news coming your way. A family member has good advice. A change of surroundings is in the works.

ABC TELEVISION'S "20/20" recently sent correspondent Lynn Sherr to interview Loel Dene Cox of Texas (center), Paul McGinnis of West Virginia and other survivors of the USS Indianapolis aboard the USS Salem in Quincy Point. The Indianapolis, built in New Jersey in 1930-31, was commissioned as a Naval vessel in 1932 and sunk off the Philippine Islands during World War II in 1945. The Salem was chosen as the site of the interview because it is the last of the "big-gun" armored cruisers like the Indianapolis. (Presidential Camera photo)

Three Residents On President's, Dean's Lists At Bentley College

Three Quincy residents have been named to either the President's List or the Dean's List at Bentley College in Waltham.

Wei Zhong, a junior majoring in accounting, was named to the President's List.

Diana Chan, a sophomore majoring in computer information systems and Stephen Heroux, a junior marketing major were both named to the Dean's List.

Presidents Plaza Rezoning Supported At Hearing

A proposed rezoning of Presidents Plaza, the parcel on Quincy Avenue that includes the Bradlee's department store from Business "B" zoning to Planned Unit Development (PUD) received strong support Monday night at a City Council public hearing.

Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymond and former Councillor Michael Cheney spoke in favor of the plan, while about 40 residents signed in support. Opposing the plan was Atty. Paul Killeen, legal counsel for the property owner.

Raymond said he proposed the change because the owner, Presidents Plaza Limited Partnership, recently lost a major tenant at the site, Walgreen's Pharmacy. He said he wants to be proactive and rezone the parcel before the owner takes any future action—such as selling the property or developing it—in order to give residents additional protection.

Raymond added that the PUD zoning would give residents a stronger voice in what happens there in the future by making the City Council the special permit granting authority for the site, which also includes the Strawberry's music store and other tenants.

Cheney agreed. "PUD works, and when everyone lives up to their agreements, it works very well," he said.

Killeen, however, said there is no good reason to rezone the parcel, no study has been conducted on the matter, and the site is isolated from others in the neighborhood zoned PUD.

"All [Raymond's] proposal] does is hurt Presidents Plaza," he said. "All it does it make it harder for us to rent."

Raymond, however, has said he feels the change is appropriate since all of the other major developments in the area—including Roche Bros. Supermarket, Wal-Mart and others—have the PUD zoning.

City Solicitor Stephen McGrath also said on Monday night it is his legal opinion the PUD zoning is permissible in a parcel the size of the Presidents Plaza site and that the action is not "spot-zoning," as has been suggested by the property owner and its legal counsel.

The City Council will vote on the rezoning at a future date.

PESTICIDE EXPOSURE

According to the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA), the epidemiologic studies between 1970 and 1996 failed to show a significant relationship between occupational and residential exposure to pesticides by either parents or children and increased incidence of childhood cancers. The study also concluded that there was greater risk for childhood leukemias and other cancers associated with home pesticide use than either professional extermination or use of common garden pesticides. This research would suggest that one would be better served by not relying on the many pesticides available for home and yard use. These products, used in combination for multiple pest problems, only pose additional risk. Use common sense around children and pets.

Protecting our children is a priority for us all, so it is good to remember this sage advice and take the necessary precautions to make sure dangerous substances are well out of the reach of children. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. Researchers did note increased risk for developing certain cancers associated with frequent occupational exposure to agricultural pesticides.

Historic Quincy

ABIGAIL ADAMS and son JOHN QUINCY ADAMS

A Special Supplement

The Quincy Sun

Thursday, July 2, 1998

City of Quincy, Massachusetts

Office of the Mayor

Welcome to Historic Quincy

The City of Quincy is rich in history and alive with change. From the Fore River Shipyard to the granite quarries of West Quincy, something exciting is happening.

Listen as the sound of hammer and machine can once again be heard at the Fore River Shipyard. Under way is construction of the most modern shipyard in the western world. Shortly, the keel will be laid for the first of six tankers. Listen to the happy laughter as once again, working men and women move to and from the job of building some of the world's finest ships.

Listen to the roar of bulldozers as they move seven million cubic yards to fill, shaping and creating a world class twenty-seven hole golf course where Quincy's proud granite workers once carved granite from earth.

The creative and entrepreneurial spirit of John Hancock, John Adams, John Quincy Adams, Howard Johnson and so many others, lives on in the modern spirit of Quincy.

Listen to the present, but visit the past. Stand on Penn's Hill where Abigail Adams and her son, John Quincy Adams, watched the smoke rise from the Battle of Bunker Hill.

Visit the Adams National Historical sites, including the birthplaces of two Presidents and their summer homes. Enter the beautiful United First Parish Church where the two Presidents and their wives are entombed.

Truly, John Adams was correct when he said of Quincy, "It is a most remarkable spot."

I welcome you to Quincy. Enjoy its spirit, beauty and history.

Sincerely,

JAMES A. SHEETS
MAYOR

What Abigail Wanted

John Adams Birthplace Has Original Look

The birthplace of John Adams, second president of the United States, looks like it did when he and his parents, Deacon John and Susanna lived there.

It took on that "as it was" look after a painstaking six-year reconstruction project in the 1980s.

Visitors to the John Adams Birthplace, which peers over the shoulder of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace on Franklin St., South Quincy, can now see more completely how the house looked.

The house is well-furnished and looks like it did when John and Abigail lived in it.

The final renovation touches were to the room where Deacon John Adams made shoes.

The rooms are furnished from the period of Deacon John and his wife and probably reflected her taste. They are furnished not elaborately, but sufficiently to have a lived-in look.

The birthplace was probably built in the late 17th or early 18th Century for less than $1,000 in the pounds of the day and the clapboards were hand-hewn from trees that grew in its fields.

The pine clapboards of the John Adams Birthplace are unpainted and the U.S. National Park Service, which restored the house, insists that based on research the house will remain that way, despite the fact that John Adams was known to have preferred it white.

For more than 80 years they were the little red farmhouses at the foot of Penn's Hill. But research turned up the fact that Abigail Adams, the wife of the second president, wanted them "stone" and white in color.

Since what Abigail wanted, Abigail usually got, in the summer of 1980, the John Quincy Adams Birthplace was repainted to Abigail's taste, the "stone" color determined to be a sort of off-white mixed especially for the occasion from a late 18th Century formula.

The John Adams Birthplace was painted white so that both houses would look as they did in 1807, the year the last Adams lived in them, but later research indicated it was unpainted.

The birthplaces, parts of which date back to the 17th Century, were taken over by the National Park Service on May 1, 1979 after years of semi-neglect due to lack of restoration and maintenance funds.

The John Quincy Adams Birthplace reopened in 1982 for the first time in three years after undergoing a $175,000 rehabilitation faithful to the lives of the prominent family that lived there.

If you close your eyes and give your imagination full rein you can see them now as they were more than 200 years ago.

There is Abigail Adams in the new pink gingham dress. There is the curly-haired infant, Thomas Boylston Adams, bouncing on his father's knee. And there is John

JOHN ADAMS BIRTHPLACE

Adams, home from the Continental Congress in Philadelphia for the first time in a year, sitting at the table and drinking a cup of tea.

The setting, right down to the pewter plates and candlesticks, is reproduced faithfully in the corner room of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace.

The furnishings of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace are precise reproductions of those that were in the house when the second president lived there. The originals are at the Old House, the Adams National Historic Site, from which they cannot be removed under the ownership agreement with the Adams family.

The most interesting room in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace is John Adams' old law office, in which the elder Adams, James Bowdoin and Samuel Adams drafted the Massachusetts State Constitution, the model on which the U.S. Constitution was based.

The law office is furnished pretty much as John Adams had it.

There is the hutch table on which he wrote the State Constitution; the bookcase filled with books that probably were there in John Adams' day, judging by an inventory of his law library; his old writing desk and two chairs that were copies from those in his second law office in Boston.

Pastels of Abigail and John, originally done in Salem, were photographically reproduced by photographer George Dow and now hang in Abigail's sitting room. The originals are in the possession of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

Abigail's old kitchen cabinet was discovered serving as a bookcase in the Old House.

The cabinet was reproduced and installed in the kitchen of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace along with copies of the blue china that John purchased when he was emissary to Holland.

The Adams Birthplaces at 133 and 141 Franklin St. are open daily, including Sundays and holidays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. from April 19 to Nov. 10 with guided tours. Last full tour is at 3:15 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults and children over 16, which also includes admission to the Adams Mansion within seven days. Park passes available. Tours should be arranged at the Visitor Center, 1250 Hancock St.

The Adams Cottages

Our Only Father - Son Presidents Born Here

It was the North Precinct of Braintree then, a sprawling tract of woods and farmlands on the gently rolling hills some 10 miles south of the Boston Stone along the winding Coast Road to Plymouth.

Something less than 1,500 people lived in the North, Middle and South Precincts of Braintree in the year 1735 and two of them were Deacon John Adams, 44, farmer and cordwainer, and his wife, Susanna, 26.

Their home was a weathered gray farmhouse with a high peaked roof and attached lean-to kitchen set on seven acres of farmland at roughly Milepost 11 of the Coast Road, just where it turned up the wooded slopes of Penn's Hill toward the Monaquot River ford.

He was a pillar of his rural community. Mr. Adams was a deacon in the First Parish Church, a lieutenant in the Braintree militia and a town constable with a forceful personality and tact that enabled him to collect taxes from his neighbors.

He was a hard-working farmer whose cider was acknowledged best in town, he worked in leather during the winter months, and he had an eye on an adjoining piece of farmland, 9 1/2 acres owned by the Billings brothers, complete with a farmhouse similar to his own.

Susanna Adams was a Boylston of Brookline, socially a cut above her husband, and perhaps there were moments in the simple house at the foot of Penn's Hill when she thought of the home of her uncle, the noted Dr. Zabiel Boylston of Brookline, whose furniture came all the way from London.

Their first child, a son who was named John for his father, was born in the southeast bedroom of the farmhouse on Oct. 19, 1735. (Old Style). He would become the second president of the United States.

Deacon John purchased the house next door for 500 pounds in 1744 and it was ready 20 years later when young John moved in with his brand new bride, the former Abigail Smith, the preacher's sparkling daughter from the next town of Weymouth.

Their second child, a son who was named John Quincy Adams after his great-grandfather, Col. John Quincy, was born there on July 11, 1767. He would become the sixth president of the United States.

The junction of Franklin St., Independence Ave., and President Ave. in South Quincy is the only place in the country where the birthplaces of two presidents stand side by side in the same city.

The precise age of the two cottages at the foot of Penn's Hill is not known.

When the John Adams Birthplace was retorted by the Daughters of Revolution in 1897, a brick bearing the date 1861 was discovered under the southeast corner, and the house was known to have been occupied by one Joseph Penniman in that year.

And a man named Samuel Belcher was living in the John Quincy Adams as early as 1663, when it was little more than a one-room shack with fireplace. It was built to its present size in 1716, as evidenced by a date brick found in the new fireplace.

According to Henry Adams, grandson of President John Quincy Adams, no member of the family lived in the cottages after 1818, although ownership remained in the Adams family until 1940.

Both houses were restored by the Adams Realty Trust, the John Quincy Adams Birthplace in 1896 at a cost of $1,650 and the John Adams Birthplace a year later at an expense of $515.49.

They were presented to the city of Quincy in 1940 and supervised by the Quincy Historical Society until they were turned over to the U.S. National Park Service in 1979.

The Adams Birthplaces at 133 and 141 Franklin St. are open daily, including Sundays and holidays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. from April 19 to Nov. 10 with guided tours. Last full tour is at 3:15 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults and children over 16, which also includes admission to the Adams Mansion within seven days. Park passes available. Tours should be arranged at the Visitor Center, 1250 Hancock St.

The Presidential Trail

The Adams Birthplaces are an important stop on the newly designated Quincy Presidential Trail, a 10.5 mile route that takes the visitor through the 17th and 18th Century locales associated with the lives of the Adams family.

Historic sites along the trail include the Adams Mansion, Quincy Homestead, Adams Academy, First Parish Church, Adams Crypt, City Hall, Hancock Cemetery, the Adams Birthplaces, Abigail Adams Cairn, First Commercial Railroad, First Ironworks, Col. Josiah Quincy House and Moswetuset Hummock, most of which are described in this supplement.

The Quincy Presidential Trail is a National Recreation Trail, the seventh in the state of Massachusetts and the 625th in the nation.

HISTORIC QUINCY

The City of Quincy is the most dynamic and exciting community on the South Shore. It has just about everything a city can offer with its brilliant, magnificent shoreline, its National Historical sites, its two colleges and its neighborhoods. It is rich in heritage, natural and human resources and it is particularly enriched by its unique blend of old and new throughout the City.

First settled in 1625 at Mount Wollaston, separated in 1640 from Boston as a Town called Braintree, Quincy was established as a Town of its own in 1792 and incorporated as a City in 1888.

It continues to be one of the finest cities in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. It produced two Presidents of the United States. The mortal remains of Quincy's two most famous sons, Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams, lie at the First Parish Church, Unitarian, in Quincy Square. This year marks the 150th anniversary of the death of John Quincy Adams.

The citizens of Quincy possess a solid sense of pride in their history and look forward to the 21st century with confidence.

THE ADAMS MANSION

'The Old House'

Summer White House And Home Of 2 Presidents

Josiah Quincy, the one who built railroads around New England and founded the cooperative bank movement in Massachusetts, was in his boyhood a frequent visitor to the mansion where John Adams, the second president of the United States, lived in retirement.

Later, he wrote with wry amusement about Sunday dinner with the aging patriarch of the Adams clan and his wife, Abigail, a dinner that inevitably began with a thick pudding made from boiled corn meal.

"...it being thought desirable to take the edge off one's hunger before reaching the joint," wrote Quincy.

"Indeed, it was considered wise to stimulate the young to fill themselves with pudding, by the assurance that the boy who managed to eat the most of it should be helped most abundantly to the meat, which was to follow.

"It need not be said that neither the winner nor his competitors found much room for meat at the close of their contest; and so the domestic economy of the arrangement was very apparent."

Quincy, as a young Harvard law student, stopped by several times a week in summer to talk and read to the former President. He found the visits delightful. Indeed, the Adams of the cold and austere public mien was never more relaxed than he was at his country home in Quincy.

The original house, a small part of the present building, was built probably in 1731 by Major Leonard Vassall, a wealthy West Indian sugar planter who lived in Cambridge and apparently used it for a summer place.

His daughter, Mrs. Anna Borland, who was a Loyalist during the Revolution, abandoned the house to leave with the British forces when they evacuated Boston in 1776. For a while it was used as a haven for rebel refugees fleeing the war zones.

Mrs. Borland returned to reclaim the house after the Revolution and John Adams, then in Europe as the first American ambassador to London, purchased it for 600 pounds through the good offices of the Cotton Tufts of Weymouth, his wife Abigail's cousin.

The Adamses were about to return to the United States after seven years abroad and Abigail was concerned that John's books and papers and the furnishings they had acquired in Europe would not fit into their old farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill where they lived before.

The deal was closed on Sept. 26, 1787, and the deed is still on file in the Suffolk County Registry of Deeds in which the Adams purchase is specified as a house, barn and other buildings on seven acres of land with some 76 acres more scattered around the North Precinct of Braintree.

There are indications that Abigail was first disappointed with her purchase. It was a lot smaller than she remembered it.

"In height and breadth it feels like a wren's house," she wrote to her daughter, Abigail, the wife of Col. William S. Smith, "Let Col. Smith come without heels to his shoes or he will not be able to walk upright."

Abigail and John Adams moved into the house, which they named "Peacefield," after his retirement from the presidency in 1801 and lived there until they died.

It was from the "Old House," as the family called it, that John Adams carried on his long and increasingly warm correspondence with his old rival, Thomas Jefferson of Virginia, who had succeeded him in the presidency. In retirement, they became firm friends as they outlasted their contemporaries.

"Thomas Jefferson lives," whispered John Adams as he lay dying in the Old House. He was wrong. Jefferson, in far away Monticello, Va., had preceded him in death by a few hours on the same day. It was July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

The Old House which served as summer White House for two presidents, was home to four generations of the Adams family, the last, Brooks Adams, dying in February, 1927. It was taken over by the U.S. National Park Service in 1946 to become the Adams Mansion National Historic Site.

The site at 135 Adams St. is open from April 19 to Nov. 10 daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The last full tour is at 4:05 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults and children over 16, and includes admission to the Adams Birthplaces within seven days. Tours should be arranged at the Visitor Center, 1250 Hancock St.

THE FIRST PARISH CHURCH

TOMBS OF PRESIDENTS John and John Quincy Adams and their wives in First Parish Church.

United First Parish Church, 'Church Of The Presidents' Where 2 Presidents, Their Wives Are Entombed

In 1949, when the present First Parish Church building, the Old Stone Temple, was 121 years old, it was ruled officially that the church is older than the city itself and the town before it.

It was then that the late historian William Churchill Edwards was called upon to resolve a minor dispute that involved the rounding of the corners of the church lot in downtown Quincy.

"Almost the first subject to which the minds of the early settlers of our country were turned after they landed here was the formation of a church," said Edwards.

The first church in these parts was established as a branch of the Church of Boston in 1636. It became a church in its own right in 1639. The Mount Wollaston section of Boston was incorporated as the town of Braintree on May 23, 1640. Ergo, the church came first!

Quincy's first house of worship, the branch of the Church of Boston, was called the "Chapel of Ease," and if it was neglected by early historians it was because its first pastor, the Rev. John Wheelwright, his sister-in-law, Anne Hutchinson, and others were banished from the Massachusetts Bay Colony for heresy.

The new church, the one that lasted, was gathered by covenant on Sept. 26, 1639, and it was holding services in its third meeting house in 1732 when its pastor was the Rev. John Hancock, father of the bold first signer of the Declaration of Independence. Son John also was a member.

The affairs of the church and the town of Quincy were one and the same until 1824 when church and state were separated in Massachusetts and the Congregational Society was established to handle parochial matters.

The old Hancock meeting house was still standing, although a little run down, on the south lawn of the present church lot in 1822 when former President John Adams deeded the interest from certain of his lands and granite from his pastures to build a stone temple.

It was completed in Greek revival style at a cost of $30,488.56—which was some $3,000 less than architect Alexander Parrish's estimate and dedicated Nov. 12, 1828, with John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States holding Pew No. 1.

Even before the church was dedicated, the mortal remains of his benefactors, John and Abigail Adams, were transferred to tombs in the crypt of the church and, in 1852, the bodies of John Quincy Adams and his wife, Louisa, joined them.

It is the only church in the United States in which two Presidents are buried. The only other church in which a President is buried is the Episcopal Cathedral in Washington, D.C., where President Woodrow Wilson is entombed.

An active Unitarian Universalist Church, it is open to the public for tours daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Tuesday, Nov. 10. Admission is $2; those under 16 are admitted free. For further information, call 773-0062 or the church office at 773-1290.

Why We Pronounce It 'Quin-zee'

Why do we pronounce Quincy "Quin-zee" when just about everyone else in the country refers to it as "Quin-see?"

There are 19 other Quincys in the U.S., but they pronounce it "Quin-see."

Can they be right and we be wrong?

Not according to Quincy's late city historian, William C. Edwards who never budged an inch whenever the argument ever came up. And it still comes up.

The reason we pronounce it "Quin-zee" is very simple.

"That's the way the Quincy family pronounced it," he used to explain.

"The original Quincy family which settled here at Mount Wollaston pronounced it 'Quin-zee,' including Col. John Quincy after whom Quincy, Mass.—the first Quincy—was named in 1792."

Colonel Quincy was the great grandfather of sixth President John Quincy Adams.

Apparently, all 19 other Quincys in the U.S. were named after John Quincy Adams.

And, apparently the early settlers of those communities thought John Quincy pronounced it John "Quin-zee."

Anyway, that is how Edwards explained it.

Seems like a sound argument.

Quincy Was Almost Hancock

If some of the early settlers had their way, you would be living in the city of Hancock today instead of the city of Quincy.

Quincy, like George Washington, was born on Feb. 22.

On Feb. 22, 1792, the General Court of Massachusetts passed an act incorporating the North Precinct of Old Braintree as the separate town of Quincy.

But, just before that, quite a few of the residents wanted the new town named after native-son John Hancock instead of Boston-born Colonel John Quincy.

Colonel Quincy, who had represented Old Braintree in the General Court, was the great-grandfather of President John Quincy Adams.

Many people today think Quincy was named after the sixth President but the honor actually goes to his great-grandfather.

John Hancock, who was born in the North Precinct, was governor of Massachusetts when the General Court passed the act incorporating the new town as Quincy. He signed the act the following day.

But at the first town meeting of the new town in May, a petition was presented to change the name from Quincy to Hancock in honor of the patriot and first signer of the Declaration of Independence. The move was finally defeated after a stormy verbal battle.

Opponents argued that Hancock was still alive and that the honor should go to a distinguished-but-deceased-person.

Colonel Quincy met those requirements. He was both distinguished and deceased.

He had represented Old Braintree in the General Court from 1717 to 1741, 12 of those years as Speaker of the House. He died in 1767 at age 77, two days after John Quincy Adams was born.

Quincy became a city June 11, 1888. But a lot of people will go right on thinking Quincy was named after John Quincy Adams.

Wife, Mother Of Two Presidents

Abigail Adams' Unique Distinction

Abigail Adams has a unique place in history as the only woman to be the wife of one president and the mother of another.

And, she nearly became the grandmother of a vice president.

Her husband, John, was the second president from 1797 to 1801 and her son, John Quincy, the sixth from 1825 to 1829.

A grandson, Charles Francis Adams, ran unsuccessfully for vice president on the Free Soil ticket in 1848.

Sadly, Abigail did not live to see her son become president. She died in her 74th year Oct. 28, 1818 seven years before.

Although she is traditionally remembered as the wife of one president and the mother of another—an honor shared by no other woman—she was more than that.

She was a remarkable woman on her own and one ahead of her times.

Born in neighboring Weymouth Nov. 11, 1744, the daughter of Rev. William Smith, a Congregational minister and Elizabeth Quincy Adams, she had no formal schooling.

But through tutoring by her father and mother and reading, she became a well-known writer of letters that have served to help chronicle American history.

She was an early advocate of women's rights as attested in one of her famous letters to her husband who was often away. She wrote:

"In the new code of law which I suppose it will be necessary for you to make, I desire that you remember the ladies and be more generous and favorable to them than your ancestors.

And, she strongly added:

"Do not push such unlimited powers into the hands of the husbands. Remember, all men would be tyrants if they could."

She was a brave woman, too. She was often left alone for long periods of time to care for the children and run the farm at the foot of Penn's Hill while her husband was away in the service of the fledgling country.

Early in their marriage, he was in France trying to develop strong ties with that country and she sailed to meet him in Paris. They had not seen one another in five years.

John and Abigail Adams were the first president and first lady to occupy the White House. When Adams took office as the second president succeeding George Washington, March 4, 1797, Philadelphia was the nation's capital. John and Abigail moved into the White House in November, 1800. It was called the President's Palace at that time.

No fancy airs about her. She won a special spot in White House folklore by hanging her laundry in the East Room. She was being practical. Many of the rooms had not been finished when they moved in and the East Room was one of the warmer and better ones for drying wet clothing.

Adams and Thomas Jefferson were close friends and worked together to produce the precious Declaration of Independence. But they had a falling out and became political enemies.

Jefferson ran against Adams in his bid for re-election to a second term and defeated him. Adams was so bitter he refused to stay in Washington for Jefferson's inaugural in 1801 and came home to Quincy.

Abigail became a peacemaker through letters to Jefferson and thanks to her efforts the two former presidents reconciled in their later years.

Both succumbed July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, Jefferson a few hours before Adams.

Unlike Abigail, Adams lived to see his son, John Quincy Adams, elected sixth president in 1824.

John and Abigail were married 54 years and it was a happy union despite frequent and long separations in the early years.

Abigail was the woman behind two men—a husband and son who encouraged and helped them in their distinguished service to their country on their way to the Presidency.

She, her husband, her son and daughter-in-law, Louisa Catherine are entombed in the crypt at United First Parish Church.

A bronze statue of Abigail and John Quincy was erected last year just a few feet away.

It was created by noted sculptor Lloyd Lillie and commissioned by the Quincy Partnership, a group of active community business leaders.

The statue depicts Abigail at about age 32 and John Quincy at age 10 with her hand on his shoulder in a motherly touch.

The very spot from which she now looks out onto Quincy Sq. is where she walked when the area was an open field.

Spring Cleaning in Quincy, circa 1920

In 1918 the Pentecostal Collegiate Institute of North Scituate, Rhode Island became EASTERN NAZARENE COLLEGE and moved to the beautiful Wollaston campus of the former Quincy Mansion School for Girls. Each spring classes were dismissed for "Campus Day" when students and faculty worked together to spring clean the parklike campus that had become home to ENC. Today the campus is graced by over 75 varieties of trees and plants, some original to the Josiah Quincy estate and some rarely found elsewhere in the U.S.

Eastern Nazarene College is a four-year, liberal arts, Christian college, offering more than 50 traditional undergraduate programs, a degree completion program for adults (LEAD), and 13 graduate programs.

At Quincy Homestead

John Hancock's Declaration Of Love

An aura of romance surrounds the stately old house that is set back in the trees from the corner of Hancock St. and Butler Rd., on the banks of Furnace Brook.

There is the wallpaper with its blue cupids and pink flowers that was imported from France for the wedding of Dorothy Quincy, the vivacious daughter of the house, to Quincy-born John Hancock, a patriot on the run with a price on his head.

There are the words "You I Love and You alone," addressed by Hancock to his beloved Dorothy and scratched on a window pane with his diamond ring just before he fled to Lexington on the eve of the Revolution.

And there are the secret chambers and passageways, used, it was said, to hide fugitive patriots during the Revolution and, at an earlier date, even certain Englishmen fleeing a charge of regicide in the death of King Charles I.

Parts of the house were built in 1685 by Col. Edmund Quincy, the second of the name, on land that was granted to an earlier Edmund in 1638. The major part was built in 1706 by Edmund the third. (There were six Edmunds in all, four in a direct line; two nephews.)

The house was the social center of old Braintree during the regime of the fourth Edmund, largely because he sired five beautiful daughters around whom swirled a whole future generation of judges, generals and merchant kings.

The undisputed belle of the household was Dorothy, the coquettish youngest of the eight Quincy children, whose troth was soon plighted to John Hancock, the wealthy young businessman from Boston who was already becoming known as a leader of the rebels.

Tradition has it that they were to have been married in the north parlor of the Quincy homestead with its French cupid wallpaper when Revolution intervened and John had to flee with the British on his heels.

Eventually, they were wed Aug. 28, 1775, at the home of Thaddeus Burr, uncle of Aaron Burr (later Vice President of the United States) in Fairfield, Conn.

After the Revolution and the death of Edmund the fourth in 1788 the old house passed from the Quincy family. The Hancocks wanted nothing to do with it. Their only son, John George Washington Hancock, was killed in a skating accident at age 9 while on a visit in 1787.

The house was acquired in 1904 by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames, who restored it with vintage furniture, utensils and clothing, and gave it to the state with the proviso that the Dames continue to run it.

Thomas Crane Public Library A Romanesque Architectural Beauty

He came to Quincy as a boy of 7, grew to young manhood on a farm in Quincy Point, learned the granite-cutters' trade, and left at the age of 26 to win fame and fortune in stone in New York City.

That was the last Quincy saw of Thomas Crane for half a century until one February day in 1880, five years after his death, when his son, Albert, appeared with $20,000 with which to build a memorial — preferably a library — to his father.

"My father always retained a strong feeling for the town of Quincy," was his only explanation.

Albert Crane himself chose the man to design the building, Henry Hobson Richardson, grandson of the English scientist Dr. Joseph Priestly and the foremost architect of the day.

His reputation was so formidable that he was able to tell Crane, "I cannot guarantee that the building, when completed, shall conform to (your) ideas of beauty and taste," and still get the job.

Richardson's Romanesque building, which now houses the reference section of the library, was dedicated on May 30, 1882, with the principal oration delivered by Charles Francis Adams, Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees.

It was Adams who gave the library its name. Albert Crane wanted it to be "The Quincy Free Public Library." Adams insisted on "The Thomas Crane Public Library."

"Who's giving the building?" asked Albert Crane.

"You are, but you wouldn't have if it hadn't been for me," said Adams, who was used to having his way around Quincy, and that was that.

President John Adams' modest collection of books was housed in the library until 1893, when it was discovered that in 11 years only two persons, one of them Charles Francis Adams, Jr., had asked to see them. They were then transferred to the Boston Public Library.

At the start, Richardson's magnificent building was all but hidden behind a grain store, a hotel, an office building and four homes that lined Washington St.

Albert Crane, however, was a persistent man and, by the time he died in 1917, he had purchased and torn down all the buildings, leaving a broad expanse of open space to enhance the library.

But before the lawn could be seeded, World War I intervened and, in a burst of patriotism — "Food will win the war," they said — the area was planted with potaatoes, tended by an expert brought in from Maine. The experiment failed.

"There wasn't a potato in the lot that was anywhere near as large as a golf ball," said Mayor Joseph L. Whiton. The harvest was donated to the poor farm.

Albert Crane also put up $64,000 to build the Spear St. wing of the library in 1907-08 and the Crane family gave yet another $164,000 for the free standing addition, built in 1936, that now houses the stacks and the children's section.

The Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., is open to the public, free of charge, Monday to Thursday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Friday and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is closed on Saturdays during July and August.

The YMCA is a great place to go for any kid.
For some kids, it's the only great place to go.

The truth is, because of family problems or low incomes, a lot of kids can't afford the opportunities to go places and be with adults who can give them the caring attention that they need.

That's why the YMCA is so important. We give kids the positive experiences they need to grow up prepared for happy and productive lives. But we always run out of money before we run out of kids.

Support the place that supports kids and families. The YMCA

Adams Academy On Site Of John Hancock's Birthplace

By modern standards, the boarding house at the corner of Hancock and Depot Sts. had all the aspects of a genteel prison.

Residents were forbidden to leave between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. They could not enter or leave at any time except by the hall door. They were banned from pool halls and bars. Smoking materials also were forbidden to them.

In exchange for good behavior, plus tuition ranging from $75 to $150 a year, they were given the best prep school education of the day, for they were students at Adams Academy, which flourished from 1872 to 1907 in Quincy.

The academy was a gift of John Adams, the second President of the United States, who always had his checkbook ready to fill the spiritual and educational needs of the citizens of his beloved Quincy.

The trust fund, nourished by "rents, profits and emoluments" from certain Adams-owned properties, was set up in the Adams will of 1822, but it was not until 1869 that the fund was deemed large enough to start construction.

The location was specified by Adams himself as the corner of Adams and Hancock Sts., site of the birthplace of his childhood friend, John Hancock, the first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

The doors opened to the first students, 24 of them, on Sept. 4, 1872. Five years later, the academy reached a peak enrollment of 154 with an international student body—25 from Quincy, four from Washington, D.C., 125 from 14 states, two from England and one from Chile.

It had one of the earliest prep school football teams, too, recording a tie with the Resolutes of Boston on Oct. 21, 1876, a scant seven years after Princeton and Rutgers played the first college game. It whipped Andover three times from 1877-79.

The admissions catalogue specified that applicants be "well prepared in the usual studies of good grammar school" and warned that "no pupils are desired to give them a collegiate education."

The best known headmaster was Dr. William Everett, once acclaimed as one of the seven smartest men in the world. He ran the academy with a firm hand from 1878 to 1893 and again from 1897 to

1907. From 1893 to 1897, he was a U.S. congressman from Lynn.

Dr. Everett, an amiable if sometimes waspish eccentric, was widely known as the man who hated Abraham Lincoln. He had reason. His father was Edward Everett, whose masterful oration at Gettysburg was over-shadowed by Lincoln's notes scribbled on the back of an envelope.

It was Dr. Everett, who signaled the passing of Adams Academy—and many other 19th Century classical prep schools—at graduation exercises in 1907 when he said that "unless someone comes forward and planks down $50,000, the academy will be closed."

Nobody did and on June 22, 1907, the Adams Academy officially closed its doors.

The building today is occupied by the Quincy Historical Society, which maintains a museum and research library in the old classrooms as well as an expanded gift shop. The museum and gift shop are open all year, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. For Saturday hours, call 773-1144. It is closed Sunday and holidays. There is a $1 fee for non-members; children age 12 and under are admitted free.

Abigail Adams Cairn

The Smoke Could Be Seen Over Bunker Hill

Abigail Adams was awakened at dawn in the farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill by the sound of far-off guns. All through the sweltering morning of June 17, 1775, as she hustled about with the chores, the dull boom of cannon intruded on her consciousness.

Riders on the Coast Road to Plymouth, stopping at the farmhouse for a drink of water, told her of a great battle underway on Breed's Hill in Charlestown.

One of them brought word that Dr. Joseph Warren had been killed in the fighting and little Abby, age 10, burst into tears, and John Quincy, nearly 8, felt bewildered and sad, for Dr. Warren was the Adams family doctor in Boston.

In the afternoon, Abigail could stand it no longer. Taking Abby and John Quincy by the hand, she walked up the Coast Road to the top of Penn's Hill and climbed up on the rocks for a better view.

The panorama of the Bay, a shimmering blue in the sunshine, spread out before them, the tiny houses on the three hills of Boston and, beyond, the black smoke rising in billows.

"Good God," exclaimed Abigail, "they are burning Charlestown!"

The scene etched itself forever in John Quincy's memory.

The early days of the Revolution were times of turmoil in Old Braintree and its North Precinct, which was later called Quincy.

Abigail's husband, John, was away most of the time at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, leaving 31-year-old Abigail to manage the farm and look to the needs of four small children: Abigail, John Quincy, Charles, 5, and Thomas Boylston, 3.

There were days of alarm as the British, penned up in Boston by the brand new Continental Army, foraged up and down the coast for supplies. Refugees from occupied Boston and the inner towns of Dorchester and Roxbury sometimes slept in the kitchen and in the fields.

As the wife of a member of Congress, Abigail was a center of attention. The house on the Coast Road was a favorite stopping place for travelers to Plymouth. Politicians up from Philadelphia made it a point to stop by for a visit with John Adams' wife.

Abigail was invited to visit Gen. George Washington's headquarters at Winter Hill. The aristocratic Washington was suspect among New Englanders. He was a Virginian; he was an Anglican; and, it was said, he held slaves. But John Adams liked him and Abigail was soon charmed.

One day, young John Quincy came home to find his Uncle Elihu melting down Abigail's pewter spoons in the kitchen to make bullet molds. He looked at his mother and she looked back at him and something indefinable passed between them.

"Do you wonder," wrote the sixth President of the United States some 68 years later, "that a boy of 7 who witnessed this scene should be a patriot."

In 1896, where the old Coast Road (now Franklin St.) meets Viden Rd. atop Penn's Hill, a stone cairn was built to mark the spot where Abigail and young John Quincy watched the Battle of Bunker Hill. It is open to the public and free of charge.

Josiah Quincy House

Lookout For Spying On British Ships

Abigail Adams stood with her great-uncle, Col. Josiah Quincy, in a window of his mansion overlooking Wollaston Beach and watched the tall masts of 170 ships stand slowly out to sea. It was March 17, 1776. The British were evacuating Boston.

But even in triumph there was tragedy.

Aboard the departing ships were more than 1,000 Loyalists, Americans who had chosen King above country, and one of them was Abigail's cousin, Samuel Quincy, the Colonel's only remaining son, an avowed Tory.

"I take a long farewell," his sister, Hannah, wrote to him for one last time. "Let it not be published that a brother of such brothers fled from his country. Can you expect to walk uprightly now? Can you take fire in your bosom and not be burned?"

Two of Col. Josiah Quincy's sons had died young. Now he had no more.

But there was no time for regrets. The work of revolution had begun. The second floor of the house at what is now 20 Muirhead St., Wollaston, was a lookout from which the 66-year-old Colonel spied on British ship movements for his friend, Gen. George Washington.

A few months before, Col. Quincy watched the Royal Governor, Gen. Thomas Gage depart and he scratched on a pane of window glass the reminder: "Oct. 10, 1775, General Gage sailed for England with a fair wind."

This time he remained in the window for three days as the British tall ships moved restlessly about the Harbor as if reluctant to leave. Finally, on March 20, the last of them passed through the roadstead and out to sea.

The mansion in Wollaston reached full social flower under the aegis of the Colonel's grandson, the third Josiah, the "Great Mayor" of Boston, president of Harvard and Congressman, who called it "Tranquillia" and used it as his summer home.

It was there that the Marquis de Lafayette visited one Sunday afternoon after dinner with his friend, ex-President John Adams at the Adams Mansion. He carried flowers from the Adams garden for Mrs. Eliza Susan Quincy and her five attractive daughters.

The house was built in 1770 by the old Colonel himself, the first in a line of six Josiahs. It was said that, while most families passed their line from sire to son, the Quincys went from 'Siah to 'Siah.

But, while there were six Josephs and innumerable Edmunds, the city was named for yet another member of the prolific family — Col. John Quincy, the great-grandfather of John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States.

JOSIAH QUINCY HOUSE

The Josiah Quincy House is open to the public from June 1 to Oct. 15, Saturday and Sunday 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tours are conducted on the hour and the last tour begins at 4 p.m. Visits may be made at other times by appointment. Admission is $2, children $1, and seniors $1.50, children 5 and younger free. All Quincy residents and SPNEA members are admitted free.

How Many Miles From Boston?

Stone mile markers across Hancock Street from each other indicate that the traveler is both 7 1/4 and 10 miles from Boston. And both are correct.

The 10-mile marker was placed on the Old Coast Road, one of the oldest highways in the United States still in existence, which went from Boston to Plymouth in 1639 by way of inland Milton.

The 7 1/4-mile marker was raised after the first bridge over the Neponset River was built in 1803, creating the Neponset Turnpike, which is today Hancock St. in North Quincy and Wollaston.

First Iron Works

Steel Industry Born Here In 1644

It failed after nine years of effort and since failure was anathema in a growing America, perhaps that is why the site and even the memory of the first commercial iron blast furnace in the United States was lost for so long.

It flourished, if that is the word, from 1644 to 1653 on the banks of the Mount Wollaston River in a section of Old Braintree called, "the Woods." It left its name on the river, now Furnace Brook in West Quincy.

Iron was an important commodity in Colonial Massachusetts, particularly for nails and pots and pans. Unfortunately, iron utensils had to be imported from England, a costly process for the penny-wise colonists.

With this in mind, John Winthrop Jr., son of the governor of the Massachusetts Bay colony [Did someone cry "Nepotism?"], went to London and formed the "Company of Undertakers for the Iron-works in New England." He, of course, was the local agent.

The Company gave Winthrop a thousand pounds of capital and a work crew of indentured servants, many of whom ran away when they heard they were going to the wilds of America. Jail was better than that!

When, after a search from Maine to Plymouth, he decided to locate in Quincy, Winthrop was also granted 3,000 acres of land, with subsidiary land rights elsewhere in the colony, and a 21-year monopoly.

The operation was deemed of such importance that the iron workers were given exemption from militia duty, this at a time when war was imminent with the Narragansett Indians and with Ninigret, the sachem of the Niantics.

The first iron was turned out in 1644, but young Winthrop was fired the next year to be succeeded by Richard Leader. It is interesting to note that one of America's earliest magnates toiled for a salary of 100 pounds a year.

The ore from which iron was blasted on the banks of Furnace Brook came from the swamps and bogs. It was not a high quality product. Water power from a dam thrown across the Brook was inadequate. Quincy iron ore proved to be more expensive than the imported kind.

The Company of Undertakers appealed for fresh money in 1646 and apparently there were enough investors ready to send good money after bad because the furnace was still in operation in 1650 when the Scotch Prisoners arrived.

The Scots were rugged Highlanders, soldiers in the army of the future King Charles II who were captured in the Battle of Dunbar. They suffered the fate common to most 17th Century prisoners of war.

Cromwell shipped 272 of them to New England, cheap labor in an effort to make Quincy iron works a paying proposition. It didn't work. The Company of Undertakers went bankrupt in 1653 and "the Woods" went back to the bear and the deer.

Meanwhile, with the same Richard Leader as agent, construction began on a second iron works on the North Shore in Saugus in 1646. When it was completed in 1650 it was recognized as the first integrated iron industry in America.

The remains of the John Winthrop Jr. Blast Furnace are located in Hall Cemetery on Crescent St., West Quincy.

John Quincy Adams:

The Old Flame Still Burned

The old man's bitterness glowed from every word as he penned them in his diary on June 17, 1843, the day the Bunker Hill Monument was dedicated.

"What a name in the annals of mankind is Bunker Hill! What a day was the 17th of June, 1775! And what a burlesque upon them both is an oration upon them by Daniel Webster!"

The old man despised Webster as a turncoat to his own heritage, one whose compromises had sold out to slavery.

"The ideal associations thundering cannon, which I heard, and the smoke of burning Charlestown, which I saw, on that awful day .. How could I have witnessed all this at once, without an unbecoming burst of indignation.

"Daniel Webster is a heartless traitor to the cause of freedom; John Tyler [the President] is a slave-monger. What have these to do with the Quincy granite pyramid on the brow of Bunker Hill?

"I stayed home .."

The old flame still burned in John Quincy Adams at 75.

Quincy Historical Facts

City Hall Seat Of Government For 154 Years

Daniel and Hannah French deeded the land to the town of Quincy for $1,000 with the stipulation that it "shall not be used for any other purpose than as a place for a Town House and for the said Inhabitants."

And, with a few minor transgressions of that vow, the solid structure of Quincy granite on Quincy Square has been just that for the past 154 years, the nerve center of government for the town and then the city.

It was the great hall on the second floor that the popular John Quincy Adams II, grandson of a President of the United States, held forth as town moderator for many years and, with his brother, Charles Francis Adams Jr., gave informal direction to town affairs.

One of the earliest ordinances passed by the first City Council on March 8, 1889 was the adoption of the City Seal emblazoned with the four most significant dates in Quincy's history:

1625, for the first settlement on Mount Wollaston; 1640, for its separation from Boston as the town of Braintree; 1792, for its separation from Braintree as the town of Quincy; and 1888, for its incorporation as a city.

CITY HALL

Designed by the architect Solomon Willard—who received $280 for drawing up the plans and superintending construction for five months—the City Hall was completed and occupied for the first time on Nov. 1, 1844.

It cost exactly $19,115.93 to build, including 88 cents to John Briesler for lead to seal the chimney.

In 1979, when a 3 and one half story reflective glass addition was built behind the old City Hall, the cost was $1.9 million.

John Adams 'Father'

U.S., State Constitution Both Born Here

Quincy, birthplace of John Adams, John Quincy Adams and John Hancock, also has claim to the birth of the U.S. Constitution.

The seed for this precious document was planted here.

The U.S. Constitution was modeled after the Massachusetts Constitution which was written by John Adams, Samuel Adams and James Bowdoin in the law office of the John Quincy Adams birthplace in Quincy.

There is every reason to believe that John Adams did not want to go the Massachusetts Constitution Convention in Cambridge in 1779.

He had arrived home only seven days before on the French frigate La Sensible after nearly 18 months in Paris helping to negotiate a commercial and military alliance with France. He was in such a rush to get home that he apparently landed the day before La Sensible reached Boston by rowing ashore from Nantasket Roads.

He missed his wife, Abigail, terribly, and she him.

"One was angry, another was full of Grief, and the third with Melancholy, so that I burnt them all," he wrote to her from Passy on Dec. 18, 1778, listing his complaints with her most recent letters. "If you write me in this style I shall leave of writing Intirely, it kills me.

"Am I not wretched Enough, in this Banishment, without this? What Course shall I take to convince you that my Heart is warm? I beg you would never more write to me in such a strain for it really makes me unhappy."

"How lonely are my days?" she wrote on a Sunday evening, Dec. 27, "How solitary are my Nights? How insupportable the idea that 3000 leagues, and the vast ocean now divide us—but devide only our persons for the Heart of my Friend is in the Bosom of his partner."

Somewhere on the vast ocean the two letters passed each other.

Paris and the dissolute court of Louis XVI held small appeal to the Puritan in John Adams, even when his closest everyday companions were Dr. Benjamin Franklin, still with an eye for the ladies at age 73, and the swashbuckling Capt. John Paul Jones, half patriot, half pirate, who had just taken command of the leaky old East Indiaman he had renamed Bon Homme Richard.

The American colonies, newly reborn as the United States of America, were going through the most dismal period of the War for Independence. Inflation was rampant: butcher's meat, a dollar to eight shillings a pound; flour, fifty dollars a hundredweight. The news from the fighting front was of death, privation and horror.

Like many Braintree wives whose husbands were away at war, Abigail Adams was forced into the unaccustomed role of head of the household, a function she filled with determination.

"I cannot avoid sometimes repining that the gifts of fortune were not bestowed upon us, that I might have enjoyed the happiness of spending my days with my partner," she wrote, "but as it is, I think it my duty to attend with frugality and economy to our own private affairs; and if I cannot add to our little substance, yet see to it that it is not diminished."

She abstained from drinking black market tea, allowing herself one tiny complaint: "I should like a little green (tea), but they say there is none to be had here. I only wish it for a medicine, as a relief to a nervous pain in my head to which I am sometimes subject."

John Adams attended the opening session of the Constitutional Convention in Cambridge on Wednesday, June 1, 1779. On Saturday, he was named to a committee of 30 to prepare the declaration of rights and the constitution. On Monday, the committee delegated the task to a subcommittee of three, John and Samuel Adams; and James Bowdoin.

Thus it was that John Adams wound up in the law office of his home at the foot of Penn's Hill, paired with his firebrand cousin, Sam, and his ailing friend, James Bowdoin, to write a Constitution of the United States.

The patient, hard-working John Adams, of course, did most of the work.

"I was by the Convention put upon the Committee—by the Committee upon the subcommittee—and by the subcommittee appointed a sub subcommittee—so that I had the honor to be principal Engineer," he wrote to his friend, Edmund Jennings. Payroll records indicate that he was paid 90 pounds for his work.

The so-called "Adams draft" of the Massachusetts Constitution was accepted by the Convention with a few alterations but by that time John Adams was long gone back to Europe, this time to help negotiate a treaty of peace with Britain and serve as America's first minister to London. He did not see the farm at the foot of Penn's Hill again for another eight years.

But he was immensely heartened by these words from the pen of his ever-loving Abigail, written on Oct. 15, 1780:

"Our Massachusetts Constitution is read with admission in New York and pronounced by the Royal Governor as the best republican form he ever saw." Quincy Adams Birthplace, Franklin St., Quincy.

QUINCY RECYCLING PROGRAM PAYS OFF

Quincy's recycling and leaf composting programs are great for several reasons.

First of all, recycling and composting preserve precious natural resources.

Second, several recyclable items and leaves are now BANNED by state law from Massachusetts landfills and incinerators.

Third, every ton we recycle and compost saves the city $47.50! That's how much the city pays Browning-Ferris Industries (B.F.I.) for trash disposal.

Fourth, the money we have been composting are being used to cover the city's old landfill. THIS YEAR ALONE we will save $125,000 because we won't have to buy as much loam.

Fifth, the city's contract with B.F.I. requires B.F.I. to share with us the revenue they receive from the sale of recycled items. In just the last three months alone, Quincy has earned $28,000! This is because the value of recycled paper is currently very high.

To take advantage of all these benefits, Quincy residents are STRONGLY encouraged to participate in the city's recycling program. Please do what you can for the environment and to save Quincy a great amount of money. For more information about the Quincy recycling program, please call 770-BINS.

THE GRANITE RAILWAY

The Granite Railway First Commerical Railroad In U.S.

It was the darndest looking contraption that many among the distinguished gathering had ever seen.

Each of the three wagons had four wheels, six and one half feet in diameter, surmounted by a smaller gear wheel which was used to raise and lower the cargo platform that was slung low between the wheels.

It rode on foot-high wooden rails, topped by iron plate, which rested on stone sleepers or cross ties, placed eight feet apart and firmly supported on crushed granite to a depth beyond the frost line.

On Saturday, Oct. 7, 1826, the wagons were laden with 16 tons of the finest Quincy granite and the opening day guests were properly amazed when a single horse moved the whole thing with ease more than three miles to a special wharf on the Neponset River.

The granite blocks, a particularly hard and weather-resistant stone capable of taking a brilliant polish, were en route to Charlestown, where they were building a monument to the Battle of Bunker Hill.

The Granite Railway, the first such commercial venture in the United States, was built specifically to transport stone for the Bunker Hill Monument.

That it became successful, and a model for others around the country, is a tribute to three vastly dissimilar men, the engineer Gridley Bryant, the architect Solomon Willard and the financier, Colonel Thomas Handasyd Perkins.

Bryant was 27 at the time but already an engineer of note. He invented the eight wheeled railroad car and, when a fellow named Ross Winans of Baltimore sued to establish a patent on it, Bryant was able to prove his claim to the satisfaction of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Willard, then 43, was a great bear of a man, gentle, obliging, industrious. Frivolity, it was said, was alien to him and he was never known to run. He could be crotchety, too. He was a carpenter turned wood-carver, turned stone-carver and, finally architect.

Perkins was the autocratic, 52-year-old merchant king of Boston who was said to have been offered the post of Secretary of the Navy by President Washington and turned it down with the observation that he owned more ships than the Navy.

It was Perkins who lobbied the Railway's charter through a puzzled and obstinate State Legislature, which had never been called upon to incorporate a commercial railroad before. It was Perkins who financed it, too, largely with his own money.

Even in its early days, the Granite Railway was a tourist attraction of some magnitude.

Daniel Webster, who used to stop off for a pick-me-up in Quincy en route from Boston and Washington to his home in Marshfield, viewed it and decided that it would never succeed because of the frost that would form on the rails in the winter.

The President of the United States, a local boy named John Quincy Adams, visited in August, 1827, got caught in a thunderstorm and took shelter in a shed where Willard's stone-cutters were hacking away at monument granite.

A group of visitors were riding up the Railway's incline in an empty car on July 25, 1832, when the chain broke and catapulted them over a 40-foot cliff. One was killed in what may have been the first railroad fatality in the United States.

The Granite Railway Co. survived until 1870, some 27 years after the Bunker Hill Monument was finished, when most of its track was taken over by the Old Colony Railroad, which in turn became a division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford.

Today much of the roadbed, over which freight moved commercially on rails for the first time in America, is buried under the macadam of the Southeast Expressway.

The old Railway incline has been restored and is located at the dead end of Mullin Ave. in West Quincy. It is open to the public year around, 24 hours a day. There is no admission charge.

Hancock Cemetery

Patriots, Early Settlers, Intrigue Buried Here

Henry, the first Adams in Quincy, is buried there. So is the Rev. John Hancock, father of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence. And Colonel John Quincy, for whom the city is named.

But of all the 800 graves in the Hancock Cemetery, the Old Burying Ground of Colonial Quincy, most intriguing is one marked by a tombstone bearing this cryptic epitaph:

"Erected to the memory of John R. Grieve: Died Nov. 12, 1850, age 22 years, and Hannah Banks, his wife, died Nov. 12, 1850, age 15 years. Both of Zanesville, Ohio. Deluded by the writings of A.J. Davis."

The mystery of John and Hannah has never been fully solved.

They came to Quincy in 1850, not as man and wife, but as male cousins, John Green and George Sands. They obtained work in a shoe factory but rarely left their lodgings on Elm St., spending long hours reading books on spiritualism.

Co-Workers thought that George Sands looked frail, almost effeminate. It was widely suspected that "he" was a girl. A scheme was devised to test the theory.

One day at lunch one of the shoe workers tossed George an apple. A man would catch it by closing his legs; a woman by spreading her skirt. Guess what "George" did!

Humiliated, John and Hannah never went back to the factory. Nor did they ever return to the house on Elm St. Their frozen bodies were found next spring by rabbit hunters on Penn's Hill, locked in a loving embrace.

Several months later, the father of John Grieve arrived from Ohio to bury the young couple. It was he who directed the words to be chiselled on the headstone. He explained no further.

A.J. Davis was never identified for sure. But Andrew Jackson Davis, a spiritualist, hypnotist and faith healer, was then practicing in Boston.

Among the belongings found in the Elm St. lodgings were these words, written by 15-year-old Hannah Banks:

"To the oppressed and downtrodden, to the suffering and afflicted, I would cry out...Death is only an event, only a circumstance in the eternal life experience of the human soul. Death is simply a birth into a new and perfect state of existence."

Not far from the grave of John and Hannah is a tomb bearing words that cry out of an earlier injustice:

"Three precious friends under this tombstone lie

"Patterns to aged, youth and infancy.

"A great mother, her learned son, with child.

"The first and least went free. He was exiled.

"In love to Christ, this country, and dear friends.

"He left his own, cross'd seas and for amends

"Was here extoll'd, and envy'd all in a breath,

"His noble consort leaves, is drawn to death,

"Stranger changes may befall us ere we die,

"Blest they who will arrive eternity.

"God grant some names, O thou New England's friend.

"Don't sooner fade than thine, if times don't mend."

The tomb with its hidden message contains the family of the Rev. Leonard Hoar, third president of Harvard College, a man too liberal for his times.

He was forced by the General Court of the Massachusetts bay Colony to resign at the instigation of religious opponents and jealous colleagues for permitting Harvard to "languish and decay." Eight months later, in November 1675, he was dead at 45.

In 1975, the same General Court, now of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, righted the 300-year-old wrong done to the Rev. Mr. Hoar by "proclaiming and confirming his innocence of any misdeeds while president of Harvard College."

The cemetery, on Hancock St., Quincy Sq., next to City Hall, is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

A Third Generation Continues Our Traditions.

Quincy has changed a great deal since Sweeney Funeral Home was established in 1917. But, it's nice to know some things will never change. Like the observance of traditional values and customs.

At Sweeney Funeral Homes, older residents are quick to notice the subtle reminders of yesteryear, such as the grey gloves our funeral director still wears. Like the characteristic top hat and tails that our founder, Dennis Sweeney, wore over 30 years ago, they reflect our Tradition. One that has been built on a dignified and instinctive concern for the city's bereaved families for three generations.

Today, our founder's grand-nephew, Dennis S. Sweeney has continued the family's philosophy of maintaining a beautiful, home-like atmosphere.

And like his namesake, who started pre-arrangements in the 1940s, Dennis believes in helping residents to plan for the future. Pre-planning means that this financial decision is not left for a family to decide while they are attempting to cope with a major personal loss. It's a difficult time, a time when family members are least able to make the wisest choice.

Sweeney Funeral Homes has been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years. Call Dennis Sweeney at (617) 773-2728 for a free consultation. There's no time like the present.

'First Ladies Of The Skies' Amelia Earhart, Harriet Quimby Had Quincy Ties

Abigail Adams is not Quincy's only "First Lady." The city also has ties to two "first ladies" of the skies: Amelia Earhart and Harriet Quimby.

Earhart, the country's most famous aviatrix, who disappeared in the Pacific on an around-the-world flight in 1937. Her disappearance is still an intriguing mystery more than a half-century later.

Quimby, although not as well known, actually was the first woman to earn a pilot's license. She flew here and died here in a tragic Airmet crash.

A resident of Medford at the time, Earhart was one of five stockholders in the Dennison Airport established on a nine-acre marshland tract at Quincy Shore Drive and East Squantum St., North Quincy.

The Beechwood Community Life Center is now located on part of the site across from historic Moswetuset Hummock where the Moswetuset Indians settled and from which the name Massachusetts is derived.

Earhart flew on the first official flight from Dennison Sept. 30, 1927. She took flying lessons here and flew regularly here throughout 1927 and 1928.

She demonstrated the Kinner aircraft and was a strong advocate of women in aviation.

She later bought a Fokker monoplane from Commander Richard E. Byrd—who would become the famed North Pole explorer—and flew it across the Atlantic, the first woman to accomplish that feat.

Byrd was stationed at the Squantum Naval Air Base which adjoined the Dennison Airport and today is the Marina Bay area.

Quincy's first Aeromeet held in 1910 marked the beginning of New England's aviation history. The 1910 meet coincided with the country's first air show held in California. Other Quincy meets followed in 1911 and 1912.

Harriet Quimby, the first woman to fly the English channel in 1911—the week-end the Titanic sank—came to Squantum to compete in the third Aeromeet in 1912. And met a tragic death.

HARRIET QUIMBY

AMELIA EARTHART

On July 1, she took off from the Harvard Aviation Field on East Squantum Street for a 27-mile demonstration flight out to the Boston Light. As her Bleriot turned around the Light and headed back, the plane nosed down and plummeted into Dorchester Bay. As a horrified crowd watched, Quimby's passenger, William Willard, manager of the Aeromeet, and then Quimby, fell from the plane into the harbor waters. The plane nosed over on impact. And was undamaged. Both Quimby and Willard were killed.

Fifteen years later in 1927 the Dennison Airport, Quincy's first and only commercial airport was founded with two 1,800-foot strips. It had a brief life span of 14 years on marshland leased from the U.S. government by Harold T. Dennison, a Quincy architect.

The airport's stucco hangar and office building became a landmark until it closed in 1941. It is now the site of the Aviation History Info Center at the Beechwood on the Bay.

In an era when most women were not employed or career-oriented, Earhart and Quimby were quite unique.

Both were educated, employed, and self-sufficient with multiple community, career and public roles. Neither were suffragettes or active feminists, but both were gifted, courageous and tireless women—promoting and demonstrating equal rights for women. Both were published journalists and photographers. Both met timely and tragic deaths.

The historical significance of our site has prompted study, information gathering, research and collections of early aviation photos and artifacts. Quincy's Aviation History Info Center evolved from three years of community meetings and wonderful help from aviation history buffs, journalists, aviation historians, and interested community folk. Our understandings, learning, activities and events focus upon the history of our site where aviation in New England began.

Aviation History meetings are open to all. On Aug. 19 at 7 p.m., the center will hold a Pilot's Night—historic/present and 'wannabe' pilots—and on Sept. 23 at 9:30 a.m., an Aviation History Trail Walk.

BEAUTIFUL VIEW of Boston's skyline is from Squaw Rock area of Squantum. At right is the Myles Standish Cairn erected in 1895 to commemorate his visit here Sept. 30, 1621—the first recorded visit of white men to this locality. He was guided across the baby by Tisquantum or Squanto who became the early settlers' friend and benefactor. Squantum was named after him.

Moswetuset Hummock

'Birthplace Of Massachusetts'

The Indians saw it was a hill (wetuset) shaped like an arrow head (mos) so they called it "Moswetuset" and when English tongues got through mangling the word it came out "Massachusetts," which became the name of the bay and then the state.

The little wooded hillock near the junction of East Squantum St. and Quincy Shore Drive was once the seat of the sachem Chickatabot, who comes down through the pages of Quincy as a rather pathetic figure.

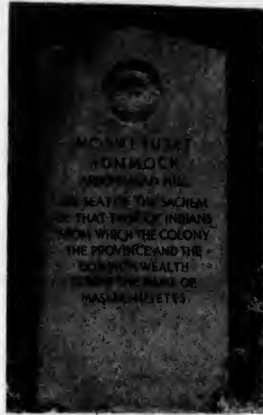

He was the chief of the Moswetuset Indians, a once great tribe that occupied the coast north of Plymouth.

A few years before, under the great sachem Nanepashemet, the Moswetuset had been able to field some 3,000 warriors for a war with the Nanepashemet was killed.

Then came the plaque.

In two years the mighty Moswetuset were all but wiped out. No more than 60 of them were left to till their fields on the banks of the Neponset River. Sachem Chickatabot fled his home on the hill in Wollaston and took refuge on Moswetuset Hummock.

That was the situation in 1621 when Capt. Myles Standish landed from a shallow with an exploring party of Plymouth Pilgrims that included the Indian guide Squanto (or Tsquantum), whose name was given to the peninsula that stuck out in the bay.

The tragic Chickatabot died not long after the Pilgrims' visit and we was succeeded as sachem by his son, Josiah

Wampatuck, a boy who knew a good deal when he saw one:

Wampatuck sold what was left of his virtually deserted tribal lands to a group of whites for 12 pounds, 10 shillings. The lands included most of what is today the city of Quincy and the towns of Braintree, Randolph and Holbrook.

Moswetuset Hummock, identified by a marker stone and maintained in its natural state, is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

Neighbors Had A Nickname Duchess Of Windsor Once Lived Here

The Duchess of Windsor is a name in Quincy's more modern history.

She lived here in Wollaston while married to a young Navy lieutenant stationed at a Naval air school in Squantum in 1917.

The Massachusetts Naval Militia had a training field in what is now the Marina Bay area which was taken over by the First Naval District as an air training school.

Assigned the head of the air school at the site which later became the Squantum Naval Reserve Air Base was Lt. Earle W. Spencer.

He was married to the former Wallis Warfield who later would become the Duchess of Windsor when King Edward VIII abdicated his throne in 1936 "for the woman I love"—a woman twice divorced.

Some thought the king should be allowed to marry her and keep his title as long as she did not become queen. But stronger opposition prevailed and he stepped down.

They were married on June 3, 1937.

While here, she and Spencer lived in a second-floor apartment on Davis St. in Wollaston.

DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

Legend has it that her Wollaston neighbors thought she was somewhat snobbish.

They nicknamed her "The Duchess" never dreaming that one day she would really be one.

The Nimitz Connection

Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz, of World War II fame, is another name with a connection to Quincy's modern history.

Nimitz, who directed the U.S. Naval operations in the Pacific after Japan's sneak attack at Pearl Harbor, was married to a Quincy girl.

Catherine Vance Freeman and Nimitz were wed April 9, 1913 at her family's home at 40 Grand View Ave., Wollaston. Her father, Richard, was a former city council president.

Rev. Carl G. Horst, who was minister of the then Wollaston Unitarian Church on Winthrop Ave., performed the ceremony.

Nimitz was 28 and Catherine 21 on the day of their wedding which he recalled years later as "the happiest day of my life."

It was the first marriage for both. They apparently met while Nimitz was in Quincy waiting for the submarine to which he was assigned to be outfitted at the Fore River Shipyard.

Nimitz's name was one of the most famous of World War II as a commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet.

Under his leadership, the Navy staged a spectacular comeback after the disaster at Pearl Harbor, winning such strategic battles as Midway, the Solomons, the Gilbert and Marshall Islands, the Marianas, Philippines, Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

Nimitz was aboard the USS Missouri with General Douglas MacArthur as a signer for the United States in the Japanese surrender ceremonies Sept. 1, 1945.

Nimitz died just before his 81st birthday in February, 1966 in San Francisco after suffering a stroke.

Catherine, a daughter and a grandson were at his bedside.

The Admiral Nimitz Museum was established in Fredericksburg, Tex. where he was born.

According to the museum, there were four children: three daughters and a son. The latter followed in his father's footsteps and became an admiral.

The museum says Mrs. Nimitz died "several years after" her husband's death but the children are still living, although it doesn't say where.

Nimitz and Quincy had another connection.

Many of the great fighting ships that played a major role under Nimitz in the final victory over Japan were built here at the Fore River shipyard in his wife, Catherine's, hometown.

A total of 227 Navy ships of all sizes were built here during the war, among them battleships, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers, destroyer escorts and LSTs.

And, among them were such famous names as Massachusetts, Lexington, Wasp, Quincy, Boston, Canberra, etc.

And not to forget that tough old battlewagon, the Nevada, commissioned here in 1916 and still going strong at the outbreak of World War II.

She was at Pearl Harbor, that day of infamy, Dec. 7, 1941 when the Japanese planes sneaked in. Though bombed and damaged, she was the only battle able to get underway that fateful day during the attack.

She lived to fight at Normandy and went back to the Pacific for the bloody battles of Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

She was a symbol of Quincy shipbuilding know-how.

Her career came to an end as a "guinea pig" for the Bikini atom bomb tests in 1946.

But not without a final display of her Quincy-built ruggedness.

She survived two atomic bomb blasts during the tests, the 16-inch guns of the battleship Iowa and repeated attacks by Navy dive bombers.

Finally, torpedoes from the planes did her in and she went grudgingly to her rest. Gone, but like Nimitz, not forgotten.

USS Salem: A Wonderful Family Experience

The USS SALEM is one of Quincy's newest tourist attractions.

Built at Quincy's renowned Fore River Shipyard, she became the Flagship of the United States Navy's Sixth Fleet during the Cold War years in the 1950s.

The SALEM is over 700 feet long and carries the heaviest automatic main battery guns in any warship of any navy's cruiser class. As the most powerful gunned warship in the fleet, she was a bulwark of democracy in the Mediterranean and the Caribbean Seas.

She carried a crew of over 1,600 men and traveled at a top speed of 35 knots. Today, visitors can tour the Main Deck, Number 3 Turret, a 5-inch mount, Admiral's and Captain's Bridges, and other sources of interest. Scheduled guided tours by today's uniformed crew will take guests through the Second Deck where they can see how the SALEM's crew lived and worked.

Of special note are the crew's gallery and bake shop, the barber shop, where one could get a haircut when the barber was on duty and the machine shops where the actual work is done to restore the ship. Real sailors will want to see the CIC (Combat Information Center), the nerve center of the ship where she was controlled and fought from; Engine Room 3, where her powerful battleship class propulsion system drove her through the sea; and her berthing compartments, where Sailor and Marine lived their lives. A well-stocked Museum Shop is on board in the ship's store where Salem hats, tee shirts, souvenirs and gifts can be purchased.

Senior citizens, school groups, and Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts as well as other organizations are welcome and can reserve tour times in advance if desired. The ship is available for overnight encampments and special activities.

The main deck and other large spaces aboard the ship can be rented for parties, corporate meetings, dinner functions and other uses. An Operations Specialist can arrange for catering and other amenities to make the SALEM a great place to have a function. Tours are available daily, but large groups (20 or more) should make advance arrangements.

There will be period Motion Picture Films and the ever-present "training films" showing on board.

Spring, summer and fall are the sun times aboard the ship, and with her awnings rigged, you will be transported to some of the SALEM's many ports of call. The museum's archivist will be open for research and viewing its extensive collection of armaments, uniforms, and memo-

Crime-Fighting Commission To Begin Work

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The city's new community policing commission formed to work in conjunction with the Quincy Police Department on crime-related issues throughout the city will hold its first meeting next week.

Mayor James Sheets, who appointed the commission members, has scheduled the meeting to take place in his office Thursday, July 16 at 2:30 p.m.

Sheets said at press time he looks forward to getting together with the members of the commission, which was originally proposed by Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymond in February 1997.

"It'll be organizational," the mayor said of next week's first meeting. "Plus, we'll talk about direction."

The mayor said among the matters discussed will be the commission's bylaws, statistical information regarding crime in the city, and more.

Police Chief Thomas Frane, who will oversee the commission, said he too is eager for the commission to begin its work.

"I think it's the way we need to go," Frane said Tuesday.

Other commission members include: Crime Prevention Officer Robert Hanna, who will serve under Frane as the group's director; Lt. William Falco and Officer Paul Quinn, presidents of the Superior Officer's Association and Patrolman's Association respectively; School Supt. Eugene Creedon; Fire Chief Thomas Gorman; Park Department

Executive Director Thomas Koch; Quincy Housing Authority Executive Director Jack Mather; Fr. Robert Monagle, parochial vicar at St. Joseph's Catholic Church; Quincy Commission on the Family Executive Director Linda Stice; Recreation Department Director Barry Welch, and Norfolk County Special Sheriff Josephine Shea.

Representatives from Quincy District Court and city residents also will serve on the commission but have yet to be appointed, Sheets noted.

The mayor said the commission will work with the police department in an attempt to take a proactive, rather than a reactive, approach to crime by finding ways to prevent it before it takes place. The group will hold meetings on a regular basis, especially initially when it could meet as often as biweekly, he said.

One of the group's first orders of business, he added, will be to determine which neighborhoods will be the first beneficiaries of the city's expanded community policing program. Quincy Point and Brewer's Corner in West Quincy are "probably" going to be the first areas to receive it in addition to Germantown, the neighborhood where it originated, Sheets said.

The community policing scheduling cannot be implemented until it can be worked out with Quincy's two police unions, the mayor added.

Community policing is a concept that harkens back to the days of law enforcement when the "cop on the beat"

City Receives Two Awards At U.S. Mayors' Conference

Mayor James Sheets and City Council President Peter Kolson accepted two awards on behalf of the city while attending the recent U.S. Conference of Mayors in Reno, Nev.

Quincy received the Blue Ribbon Practices in Housing and Development-John J. Gunther Award for 1998. It was the second year in a row the honor has been bestowed upon the city.

The award was given to the city in recognition of IDIS and reporting. Quincy converted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development's (HUD's) Integrated Disbursement and Information System (IDIS) in July 1997. It used the consolidated reporting capabilities for IDIS to satisfy its annual reporting requirements for program year 1996, while making the data information collected citizen-friendly.

To accomplish that objective, the city asked communities to develop a report similar to the corporate annual report, describing the results of their operation by incorporating colorful visual graphics, maps and photographs. The action has assisted the process of where and how HUD dollars are being spent in the city.

Last year, the city received the first John J. Gunther Award for its housing and homeless programs.

Quincy also received one of the 1998 City Livability Awards. In the category of cities with a population of less than 100,000, the city was one of only five to receive the honor.

The city received the Livability Award for its work on the Quarry Hills recreation complex which will be built in West Quincy with the assistance of 7.8 million tons of Big Dig dirt.

MAYOR JAMES SHEETS (left) accepts a 1998 City Livability Award from Joseph Holstein, chief operating officer of Waste Management Inc., at the recent U.S. Conference of Mayors in Reno, Nev. Quincy, one of only five cities in its category presented with the award, received the honor for its work on the Quarry Hills recreation complex in West Quincy.

HN Legion Post Wins State Americanism Award

The Houghs Neck American Legion Post won an award for Americanism at the recent American Legion State Convention in Springfield.

A plaque was presented to Commander Mary Timcoe and Post Historian William Powers at the convention to mark the occasion.

The Houghs Neck Post

also recently conducted its annual Flag Essay Contest for fifth grade students in area schools. Winners were Patrick Malone, Atherton Hough School; Mary Catherine Bloomer, Merrymount School; and Shirley Lo, Snug Harbor School. Snug Harbor also received the "traveling trophy."

Checks for $25 were presented each winner from the Houghs Neck Post, the Post Auxiliary, and the Sons of the Legion Squadron.

In addition, at the recent Broad Meadows Middle School Awards Night, Commander Timcoe presented citations and medals from the American Legion to Greia Ambarra and Andrew Simenson, outstanding students.

Senate Approves $1.9 M For Adams Historic Site

Sen. Edward Kennedy has announced that the Senate Appropriations Committee has approved $1,974,000 for the Adams National Historic Site, as part of the Interior Appropriations Act for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

"This is an important development for Quincy and its growing tourist industry," said Kennedy. "The park commemorating John Adams and John Quincy Adams is one of the crown jewels in the National Park Service, and these funds will ensure that it continues to shine brightly.

"Competition is intense for federal funds in this year's budget. The Committee's action is a tribute to the magnificent resources here in Quincy and their importance to the nation. With Congressman Delahunt's success in obtaining these funds in the House Committee, the final figure is unlikely to change. I look forward to working closely with Bill, and with local leaders and Park Service staff, to see that this park fulfills its outstanding potential."

The Senate Interior Appropriations Committee bill includes a $250,000

increase in the park's annual operating budget to better maintain museum collections. It also provides $1,724,000 to rehabilitate the carriage house and move maintenance operation out of the building, so that it can be used for interpretive programs and will no longer be jeopardized by overcrowding and the risk of fire.

The Adams Site preserves the birthplace of both Adams Presidents and the mansion known as the "Summer White House," where four generations of the Adams family once lived.

Closings Still In Effect At Two Beaches

Temporary swimmers' advisories were still in effect for two sections of Wollaston Beach and at Baker Beach in Germantown which remained closed at press time, according to the Metropolitan District Commission and the Quincy Health Department.

According to the MDC's Beaches Water Quality Hotline, the advisories were in effect for Wollaston Beach at both Sachem Street and Milton Street on Tuesday afternoon. A Health Department spokeswoman said Baker Beach also was still closed at press time with results of new tests conducted by the city due Wednesday.

The MDC samples water at four sections of Wollaston Beach, which it operates. They are: Sachem Street, Milton Street, Rice Road and Channing Street.

Heavy rains caused sewage overflows that result in closures at Quincy, Weymouth and Braintree to be closed last week because of fecal coliform contamination.

Initial coliform counts last week ranged from 325 and higher at Wollaston Beach, to 540 at Baker Beach, to 2,120 at Smith Beach along the Fore River in Braintree. Counts over 200 colonies per 100 milliliters are considered unsafe for swimmers.

Other tests showed that the water was safe at nine other Quincy beaches—Avalon, Mound, Rhoda (Rock Island), Edgewater Drive, Parkhurst, Post Island Road (Heron), Chickatabot Road, Nickerson and Orchard—where coliform counts ranged from less than 5 to 45.

For updates on the conditions of the Quincy beaches, call the Health Department at 376-1270 or the MDC Hotline at 727-5264, ext. 517.

As A Pilot Program Condo Trash Pickup To Start By November

Mayor James Sheets said a pilot program to provide pickup of trash and recyclables to a limited number of individual condominium owners in Quincy should begin by November.

The $60,000 program will be implemented to determine if the city will subsequently extend the pickup service to all of the 3,100 condominiums throughout the city.

The pilot program was approved 6-2 by the City Council last week. The concept of providing the service originally was proposed by Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymond, who says Quincy's condo owners are taxpayers and deserve the same treatment as other property owners in the city.

Raymond was backed by five of his council colleagues for last week's vote. Councillors Timothy Cahill and Francis McCauley opposed the plan while Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott missed the meeting because he was recovering from hip surgery.

Sheets said he wants to test the program in selected neighborhoods before it is implemented throughout the city. He noted that there are a lot of factors to be considered, including dealing with the individual condominium associations and figuring out how the recyclable materials will be factored into the equation and how the actual pickup will take place.

"We don't know what the problems are involved in picking up condo trash," Sheets said Tuesday. "There's a lot of questions."

The city has a contract with Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) for weekly pickup at Quincy's nearly 24,000 single-family homes and other residences.

The $60,000 for the pilot condo program—increased by the council from the originally-proposed figure of $50,000—represents $10,000 for each of the city's six wards, although it is still unclear whether the pilot effort can take place throughout the entire city.

"We'll try and spread it evenly across the six wards," said the mayor.

Sheets said Department of Public Works Commissioner David Colton and his staff will choose pilot sites in August or September and take bids for the service.

The mayor added that the pilot program will be paid from the surplus the city expects after the state Department of Revenue certifies 1997-98 spending and revenue. Fiscal Year 1998 ended June 30.

The city has excluded condominiums from its pickup service since the late 1970s, when condominium conversions and construction began to increase.

Officials have said the practice was seen as a trade-off for allowing developers to build denser numbers of condominiums on smaller parcels of land: They could put in more units in return for a lower impact on taxpayers in Quincy.

Raymond and other councillors, however, have since said the practice is unfair.

The city pays $3.6 million a year for trash pickup. The city's condominium associations pay for private service.

Last year, a study by the DPW estimated that separate condo service cost $350,000. The mayor, however, now thinks $500,000 is a more realistic number as well as an affordable one, although he does not want the service to cost much more than that.

Sheets said he would not want to spend $1 million or more on the program because that might necessitate a property tax increase.

"If the pilot program exceeds $1 million—and I don't think that's going to happen—I think everyone, including the City Council, will have to take another look at it," he said.

Fire Captain, Lieutenant To Be Sworn-In Friday

Two members of the Quincy Fire Department will be promoted during a swearing-in ceremony Friday.

The ceremony will be held at 3 p.m. in the City Council Chambers at City Hall, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Timothy E. Pettinelli, 46, of Pembroke, will be promoted to the rank of captain and Robert S. Servaes, 36, of Hull, to the rank of lieutenant. Both men will be sworn-in by City Clerk Joseph Shea.

Pettinelli joined the department in July 1978 and was promoted to lieutenant in November 1989. He will receive the starting captain's salary of $56,227 a year.

Servaes, who joined the department in July 1987, will receive the starting annual lieutenant's salary of $45,712.

Mayor James Sheets and Fire Chief Thomas Gorman are expected to be among those in attendance at Friday's ceremony.

Memorial Plaque At Quincy Hospital

You can remember a loved one or honor a friend by putting their name on the Quincy Hospital Auxiliary plaque in the Hunting Hall of Founders at the hospital.

Name plates cost $85 each and become a permanent part of the auxiliary plaque.

The Hunting Hall of Founders recognizes the contributions of the many individuals, businesses and organizations who have provided financial support to Quincy Hospital over the years. It is named for Dr. Nathaniel S. Hunting, a member of the medical staff of Quincy Hospital since 1890, who became the first Chief of Staff when the City of Quincy assumed responsibility for the hospital in 1919.

Proceeds from name plate contributions help support the Quincy Hospital Auxiliary, which raises funds for equipment and services benefiting patient care at Quincy Hospital.

To place an order for a name plate in memory of or to honor a family member or friend, call Natalie Fosatti in the hospital gift shop at 376-5509.

Remembering Pat Toland

Friends are planning a special remembrance of Pat Toland, who over a near two decade public service career, was also a pretty special person.

Pat fought a courageous and uncomplaining battle with cancer which she ultimately lost Sept. 7, 1994, at a young 62.

She was assistant city clerk at the time, a post she looked forward to and enjoyed but one she was to hold too briefly—less than two years.

PAT TOLAND

She had served with distinction six years on the school committee and 12 in the city council.

For two of those 12 years, she was elected council president by her colleagues, the first and only woman so honored in the city's history.

Friends who supported her in her political campaigns and admired her as a person, are planning a sort of reunion and remembrance next March 16 at the Quincy Neighborhood Club. That would have been her 67th birthday.

GLORIA NOBLE

Gloria Noble, one of those close friends, says: "It's going to be like a get-together. Nothing really big—but meaningful."

Among the other friends planning the event are Alicia Coletti, Ann Kane, Alicia Gardner, Joyce Baker and Barbara Morris.

And, another friend, Congressman William Delahunt, will be the honorary chairman.

In addition to remembering Pat, the occasion hopefully will provide the means to give recognition to deserving youngsters.

One thought being explored is to perhaps recognize students in the elementary schools with achievement awards in Pat's name.

"Pat would like something like that," Gloria says. The Neighborhood Club, those who knew Pat will unanimously agree, is the appropriate site for the get-together.

That's where they and Pat often met to plan the school committee and city council election campaigns, and, later, to celebrate victory.

And that's where they make a good martini.

Pat was a fun person to be with and to shoot the breeze with while relaxing over a martini, especially with someone who, like her, appreciated one made just right.

In politics, and in life, she was a lady. Never hurt anyone. Was never unkind. She was easy to like. She was a pretty special person.

SPEAKING OF Gloria Noble, did you know that she is a true Yankee Doodle Dandy? Born on the 4th of July. Her parents named her Gloria as in "a glorious Fourth."

And she has never stopped waving Old Glory.

She is now commander of the Southeastern Massachusetts Chapter of the Ex-Prisoners of War. She wasn't a POW herself. But her husband, Bob, who does photography work for The Sun, was a World War II POW and is the former Massachusetts State Commander of the Ex-Prisoners of War.

There is no Ex-POW's women's auxiliary. But wives of Ex-POW's are eligible to hold office in that veteran's organization.

NICE TO SEE Bob Quinn back on the local banking scene.

A popular and respected figure over a 45-year career, he has joined South Shore Savings as a vice president and Business Development Officer.

Most of his previous years were at South Shore National and then South Shore Bank where he was out around the town and involved in the community as their "ambassador of goodwill."

South Shore Savings, based in Weymouth, is moving into Quincy with a branch being built on the site of the old Eddie's Diner at Quincy Ave. and Southern Artery.

And you can bet who President/CEO Arthur Connelly has in mind for the ambassador of goodwill department.

And you can also say he knows a good man when he sees one.

A RECENT ARTICLE about the new Marshall School, brought a nice note from Elizabeth Dunlavy, one of those wonderful teachers at the old Pollard School. She writes:

"I was with such pleasure that I read your article about the Marshall School.

"I am one of those 'old Pollard' teachers who spent 38 years there, retiring in 1972.

"The feeling for our school and for the people of Quincy Point made teaching there an inspiration. We had a core of long-time teachers there who were truly dedicated to the school, the children and the people of Quincy Point.

"I recently moved to Rhode Island to be near my family but after a life-time in Quincy, my heart still lives in Quincy."

Those of us who were fortunate to have gone to the Pollard will heartily concur with Miss Dunlavy's fond feelings and memories of that school.

And let's hope that the students of the new Marshall School will remember their days there with the same fondness.

Scenes From Yesterday

The Office, Fore River Ship Yards, Quincy Point, Mass.

THIS IS A 1914 POSTCARD view of the original office building at the Fore River Shipyard in Quincy Point. The yard had been purchased the year before by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. The Pittsburgh company's vision was to become the largest U.S. industrial empire capable of turning out any and all iron and steel products used on land and sea.

They owned Fore River for 50 years until selling out to General Dynamics in 1964. At the time of this picture, the yard had just delivered the battleship Rivadavia to the Argentine Navy. It was the first contract won by the yard in world competition.

Distinguishing Between Hope, Hype In The War To Cure Cancer

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

It may be tempting to be overzealous about the emotionally charged issue of finding a cure for cancer. While some media outlets have reported responsibly about new medical developments, many have been guilty of too much hype in recent coverage. This has led to misinformation and false hope for thousands of local patients.

Since our practice has received so many calls about cancer treatments, it is important to put the recent news in context:

Tamoxifen and Raloxifene are two drugs that may one day help prevent breast cancer in high-risk women. However, studies have so far produced just short-term findings; further trials may uncover potentially dangerous side effects.

Herceptin, a new class of genetic drugs unlike chemotherapy, has been effective in temporarily shrinking tumors in some women with advanced breast cancer. But this treatment is now only available in limited supplies through a "lottery."

Angiostatin and Endostatin are two new protein drugs that might control tumors by preventing the growth of blood vessels that feed them. While results so far have been encouraging in trials, on mice, early tests on humans have been disappointing.

We are making great strides in the war against cancer. But rather than dwell on a "cure" that may be years away, we should focus on what is in our control today:

Practice prevention. Don't smoke, don't drink to excess, and maintain a healthy diet.

Go for screenings. While screenings for breast, prostate, cervical, rectal, skin, and testicular cancers save lives, too many people don't take advantage of early detection. Volunteer for trials. Medical breakthroughs are only possible if patients participate in clinical trials, which offer experimental treatments for cancer and blood diseases.

We urge patients to go for regular check-ups and consult with their primary care physician or oncologist if they have concerns.

Ayers Deserves Praise For Defending Working Families

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers deserves hearty praise and commendation for drawing a line in the sand on behalf of Quincy's working families.

It isn't very often that a politician is willing to stand up and fight for the little guy, but Councillor Ayers makes me proud to live in the City of Presidents. A city where we still have politicians who will put it all on the line to represent the men and women who get up early every morning and work hard all day.

Shame, shame on the Newton Group for lying to the City Council and cheating local workers. The nerve they have charging frail senior citizens over $3,500 for care and shelter and still trying to make an extra buck by bringing in construction workers from out of state and refusing to hire local workers. That may be the way they do things in Newton, but here in Quincy we respect our elders and we support the hard-working men and women who have built our community.

Thank you, Councillor Ayers. Keep on fighting the good fight!

Disappointed Over Recent Marina Bay Developments

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As a lifelong resident of the City of Quincy, I am writing to express my disappointment and concern over some of the recent developments at Marina Bay.

As was recently reported, the Newton Group, developer of the Marina Bay Senior Living Campus, has reneged on its promise to hire local workers and meet community standards. Instead, they are shipping in workers from New Hampshire, Maine, and even Canada. They are paying these workers substandard wages and denying local tradesmen the opportunity to work in their own community.

How the Newton Group can justify their actions is beyond me. They are spending over $22 million on the Marina Bay facility. They will be charging over $3,500 per month for a room. They are building at least four other facilities across the Commonwealth.

Money can't be an issue. These guys are the fattest of the fat cats. And yet they come to a City Council hearing with nothing but excuses.

Instead of giving excuses as to why they have broken their promises to the community, the Newton Group should take immediate action to fulfill its obligations.

Weidman Calls For Urban Renewal

By PAUL HAROLD

Building Inspector Alrick Weidman called on the city government to take another look at urban renewal planning, noting that with limited land left, "we have to either tear down or build up into the air."

Urban renewal was discussed a few years ago, but was blocked when the city council refused to approve funds for the first study.

Weidman also suggested a shift from the trend of re-zoning business and industrial land to Residence A and B. Noting the rise in education costs, he said that "Residence A and B do not pay their way."

ADAMS MEMORIAL RE-DEDICATED

The bronze and granite Adams' memorial that stood in Merrymount Park for 35 years, was re-dedicated at its new location on the front lawn of the John Adams birthplace on Franklin St. (formerly the site of the Craig House).

In his speech, Mayor Amelia Della Chiesa noted that "the Adamses have come home" to South Quincy.

The bas-relief, depicting John and John Quincy Adams, was authorized by Congress in 1925, at a cost of $9,000. It was cast at the American Arts Foundry in New York and rested on Quincy granite from the Churchill Quarry.

City Historian William Edwards and City Councillor David McIntosh were co-chairmen of the event.

BETHLEHEM STEEL SAYS

FUTURE 'CLOUDED, UNCERTAIN'

The Bethlehem Steel Company, in an employee publication, forecast a "clouded and uncertain" long-range future for shipbuilding.

While, in the short-term, 1961 was the company's best shipbuilding year since 1956, the future looked bleak.

The news story pointed out that foreign ship repair yards with lower costs continued to siphon off millions of dollars of work, formerly done in U.S. yards.

Sarah Hogan Visiting Finland As Part Of Exchange Program

Sarah Hogan, a student at the Woodward School for Girls in Quincy, is visiting with a host family in Helsinki, Finland for eight weeks as part of the Finland-U.S. Youth Senate Exchange Program.

Hogan, one of only 14 selected students to participate in the program, will return to the United States Aug. 20.

Last October, students in the junior class at the Woodward School were presented with an opportunity to apply for the exchange program, which is offered by Youth For Understanding International Exchange.

Hogan applied for the program, with the application process calling for the submission of a list of extracurricular activities, five short essays and two long essays. The second of the long essays required the applicant to research and report on an aspect of Finnish culture.

In December, Hogan was notified that out of 200 applicants in Massachusetts, she was one of the semifinalists. In January, she traveled to the Plymouth Yacht Club to be interviewed along with the other semifinalists. The individual interview segment consisted of a number of hypothetical questions regarding situations which might be encountered in Finland. In the group interview segment, the applicants were instructed to solve a problem as a group, while the interviewers observed the applicants' interactions with one another.

Later in January, Hogan was notified that she had been selected as one of two finalists from Massachusetts (the other is Magdalena Slosar of Lexington). Last month, she and the 13 others selected from seven states attended three days of mandatory orientation sessions in Washington, D.C. that included visits with Finnish government officials and information on general cross-cultural issues. They then traveled to JFK Airport in New York before flying to Helsinki where they met their host families.

The Finland-U.S. Senate Youth Exchange Program offers 14 scholarships nationwide—two each from California, Florida, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Oregon and Washington. The program makes it possible for students to be exchanged between the two countries and is designed as a vehicle for America to enhance its future business competitiveness and help make the world a more peaceful place.

Hogan currently lives in Quincy with her grandparents, Rocky and Ginny Rocuzzo. She is the daughter of Leona Douglas of Houston, Texas, and Peter Hogan of Elma, N.Y.

Arts In The Parks Program Begins July 16

Quincy's fourth annual Arts in the Parks program will be held this summer in park locations throughout the city beginning Thursday, July 16, announces Mayor James Sheets.

The family-oriented concert series will feature live music and entertainment, refreshments and face painting. The shows will be co-sponsored by the Quincy Park and Recreation Departments.

This year's featured act will be Big Nazo, a rhythm and blues band dressed at giant puppets. The band, which has been featured at Quincy's First Night celebration for the past three years, will perform at all six Arts in the Parks shows.

The schedule: July 16, Beechwood Knoll School in Wollaston; July 21, Wendall Moses Playground in Squantum; July 23, LaBrique Field in Houghs Neck; July 28, Fore River Field in Quincy Point; July 30, Bishop Field in Montclair; Aug. 4, O'Rourke Field in West Quincy.

All shows will begin at 6:30 p.m. Spectators are encouraged to bring their own lawn chair or blanket for seating.

"The Recreation Department is proud to encourage the advancement of the arts in Quincy," said Recreation Director Barry Welch. "Our arts and crafts programs offer children a chance to explore and hone their artistic abilities. The Arts in the Parks program should allow the entire family to enjoy an interesting and entertaining musical and artistic performance."

A new addition to the Arts in the Parks program will be an upcoming full art show in Merrymount Park. The show will be co-sponsored by the Quincy Park and Recreation Departments and the Quincy Art Association.

"Our parks are more than just a place to play ball," said Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments Executive Director Thomas Koch. "The can serve as the center of community activity, a place where people can come to relax and escape the stresses of the city. The Arts in the Parks program allows residents to enjoy a fun and entertaining show in a beautiful park setting."

For more information, call the Park Department at 376-1251 or the Recreation Department at 376-1394. Postponement information will be sent to WJDA Radio (1300 AM).

Three Residents Perform In 'The Wiz'

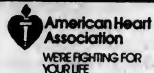

Three Quincy residents recently performed in "The Wiz," a musical based on L. Frank Baum's "The Wonderful Wizard of Oz," at Thayer Academy in Braintree.

WORKING ON YOUR FEET
Take a minute to consider: Would be you be able to do your job if your feet suddenly gave out? Even if yours is a so-called desk job, chances are you would be seriously challenged to function efficiently if you couldn't get around with ease. The National Safety Council urges workers to be aware of the hazards of the job as well as protective measures, to avoid taking risks, to take the time to do the job right, to watch out for the safety of others, to concentrate on the task at hand, to follow all procedures, and to keep the work area clean and in order. Most importantly, if your feet are injured on the job, get proper first aid immediately and follow it up with podiatric care for any further treatment. If you are suffering from these or any other foot related complaints call us at (617) 773-4300. We are located at 1261 Furnace Brook Pkwy., Suite #18, Quincy and are affiliated with Carney, Quincy and South Shore Hospitals.

P.S. About 120,000 job-related foot injuries are reported every year in the U.S., one-third of them toe injuries.

SOCIAL

HISTORIC FASHIONS exhibit entitled "Welcome to the 20th Century: Fashions, 1890-1920" will open and the anniversary of John Quincy Adams's birthday will be celebrated during the Quincy Historical Society's Founders Day festivities Sunday at 2 p.m. at Adams Academy, 8 Adams St. Both of these dresses are from the period 1900 to 1910. The one on the left is made of embroidered net and the other is silk and lace.

Historical Society To Mark J.Q. Adams Birthday Sunday

The Quincy Historical Society will present its Founders Day afternoon of festivities Sunday at the Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., beginning at 2 p.m.

The event will include a musical performance commemorating the anniversary of John Quincy Adams's birthday (July 11, 1767), the premiere of the society's exhibit of historic fashions, and refreshments. The public is invited and admission is free.

Flutist Caroline Calabro and violinist Brian Clague will perform a classical program featuring music with which Adams, himself a flute player, likely would have been familiar. Calabro, a Quincy resident, has appeared as both soloist and ensemble player with numerous area orchestras and chamber music groups.

The event also officially will open this summer's exhibit, "Welcome to the 20th Century: Fashions, 1890-1920," a look back at the styles and fashions that were popular during that period. On display are women's, men's, and children's clothes ranging from high style to the highly practical and artifacts of daily life and the passing scene.

The exhibit has been made possible by support from Talbot's stores and from the Massachusetts Cultural Council and Quincy Art Council. It will be on display through September.

For more information, call the Historical Society at 773-1144.

SPOTLIGHT ON BUSINESS

At Studio 1400, Fun Is Part Of The Big Picture

By LIAM FITZGERALD
Opening a professional studio seemed like the logical thing to do for Jim Collins and John Stephenson, a couple of Quincy men who share a passion for photography.

When they met at a Quincy shop a few years ago, both were involved in the photography business, but were in the market for something bigger and better.

"I originally did weddings out of my home, and it took off from there," said Collins. "I met John Stephenson at a photography seminar."

"He was working out of his house at the time, and I had outgrown the space I was in. We got to talking and decided to go into business together."

The result of the collaboration? Studio 1400, a professional photography service located in the heart of Quincy Center at 1400 Hancock St. The location, on the ninth floor of the building, had been vacant for many years but has proved to be an ideal spot for the owners.

"We like Quincy; we both live in the city and our kids go to Quincy schools," said Stephenson. "It's close to all the highways, which is nice and convenient for our customers. We've lived here quite a while, and the city looks vital again."

Although situated in Quincy, Studio 1400 also brings in business from surrounding communities, including Braintree, Weymouth, Cohasset, Duxbury and Milton.

"We have a good mixture of word of mouth and repeat business," said Collins, a graduate of New England School of Photography and the Art Institute of Boston.

"We also advertise heavily in local bride magazines and our prices are quite reasonable and right in the middle—not one extreme or the other."

Also factoring into the studio's loyal following is the partners' love for their work and their easygoing, relaxed attitude.

"The difference between us and a lot of other photographers is that we have a lot of fun with people," he said. "We help the seniors, brides and everyone feel comfortable in front of the camera."

"People seem to like it, and our work speaks for itself. For executive portraits, we're a little more serious, but we keep it light otherwise. We don't bark at people. We also enjoy photography, which makes it fun to come to work. John and I get along extremely well, which is great when you work with someone every day."

As well-rounded photographers, Collins and Stephenson embark a variety of shoots on an annual basis, including brides and weddings, high school senior pictures, proms, glamour portraits, sports team photographs, among numerous others. Recently, the two covered the 40th anniversary banquet of Quincy's St. John's Little League, which Collins played in as a child growing up in Quincy.

STUDIO 1400 partners, from left, John Stephenson and Jim Collins, believe the key to their success is making their clients feel relaxed and comfortable, no matter the setting. The studio, which handles about 200 weddings and 150 high school senior pictures annually, is located on the ninth floor of 1400 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

"Photography varies, so you have to be able to shoot all kinds of events," said Stephenson, a Rhode Island

School of Design graduate. "We've done Third Harbor Tunnel progress photos in Boston, photos of Montilio's Bakery products, and pictures of cakes for magazines, so I'd say we're pretty versatile."

Due to popular demand, Studio 1400 has recently begun custom framing their work and has received rave reviews from their clients.

"Everyone comes in asking for frames, and now we have someone who has been in the business 30 years to do it for us, which is great," said Collins. "We also do it in-house, so it doesn't have to be sent out and done elsewhere, which saves a lot of time."

Specializing in outdoor photography, the partners handle nearly 200 weddings and 150 high school seniors annually. Studio 1400 is involved in two types of weddings—one as part of the overall package, which includes the florist and the limousine. The other is by booking weddings themselves and traveling to wherever the event is to be held.

"We spend a lot of time with the bride, going over two or three different plans, in case the weather is bad the day of the wedding," said Stephenson. "We'll take formals inside or outside and in different locations, traveling all over the North Shore and South Shore."

During the hectic wedding season, which begins at the end of May and winds down at the end of October, Studio 1400 employs six part-timers to assist at the weddings, covering every angle.

Regarding the seniors.

Collins and Stephenson will often go outdoors for shoots, even in inclement weather. They also encourage seniors who would like to pose with props such as musical instruments to bring them along for the shoot.

"We're quite flexible with high school seniors; we'll do pretty much whatever they want, depending on their style and personality," said Stephenson. "We can do it inside or outside. The studio itself is all oak finish and offers a real nice setting for portraits. And if for some reason they don't like the pictures, we'll re-shoot them at no charge."

Studio 1400 offers packages for seniors that begin at $109 and sessions that start at $20. Once a senior books a session, he or she will receive a pamphlet which includes everything he or she needs to know about the package.

During the busy summer months, the photographers encourage interested parties to call 471-6275 for an appointment.

As a community-oriented business, Studio 1400 recently instituted a scholarship program that involves school photography and donations to a college scholarship fund. Participating schools make their own criteria, and a certain percentage of the gross gets deposited into the fund.

"We feel this is a good thing for us and for the schools," said Collins, a Quincy Lions Club member. "National companies do it, so we felt we could, too. As a local business, we're glad to be involved in the community."

Corrigan Leads D.A. Field In Fundraising In June

Former Assistant District Attorney Jack Corrigan raised more money last month than the combined total of his three competitors for the Norfolk County district attorney's office, according to the state office of Campaign and Political Finance.

Records show that in June, Corrigan raised $56,569, Republican incumbent District Attorney Jeffrey Locke raised $22,685, and the other two Democrats, Sen. William Keating of Sharon and County Commissioner William O'Donnell of Norwood raised $12,805 and $1,450 respectively.

At press time, the office could not provide totals raised and/or spent by the four candidates.

According to Corrigan Campaign Chairman and Quincy Atty. Thomas Kiley, Corrigan has raised over $360,000 for his campaign to date. Figures for the other candidates were unavailable.

Kiley will host a Corrigan fundraiser at his home at 159 Monroe St., Quincy, tonight (Thursday) from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Annuity Program For Parents, Veterans Passed

The state Legislature recently passed a program to benefit 100 percent service-connected disabled veterans and parents who lost a son or daughter to war.

The program was passed with support from Sen. Michael Morrissey and Reps. Michael Bellotti, Stephen Tobin and Ronald Mariano.

An annuity payment of $1,500 will be paid semi-annually to each parent starting July 1. Payments will be made in the amount of $750 in July and the same the following January.

An annuity payment of $1,500 was also made available to 100 percent service-connected veterans and will be paid in the same manner as set out for the Gold Star Parents.

For more information, call the Quincy Veterans

Services Department at 376-1191.

Chretien Endorsed By Boston Teachers

Larry Chretien, candidate for state representatives, announces he has recently been endorsed by the Boston Teachers Union.

In response to the endorsement, Chretien said, "I wish to thank the Boston teachers for endorsing my candidacy. Teachers have always been important to society. But today more than, ever, education is the key to economic success."

Flynn & Co. Real Estate Has New Web Site

A new web site for Flynn & Co. Real Estate Professionals in Quincy was recently developed by Interactive Media Solutions (IMS) of Hingham.

The site, located www.djflynn.com, outlines the mission of Flynn & Co., citing the firm's professional service, marketing skills and results.

With its duotones and simple layout, the home page serves as an overview of the company, providing links to areas such as residential real estate, commercial sales and leasing, property gallery, a list of clients, brokers' opinions, tips on property management, and biographies of the company's key players.

Flynn & Co. also has in-house ad agency capabilities, a state-of-the-art office support system, and various professional on-line services.

In addition, the web site provides an e-mail option to Daniel J. Flynn, president of the firm.

Several pages—such as the property gallery and the residential real estate area—feature color photographs of the property as well as facts about the property: square footage, the location, and who to contact for more information. Each page features links to other related areas—even a self-running real estate show (a multimedia feature which requires Shockwave to run).

The brokers' opinion page touts the fact that

Flynn & Co. has produced Brokers' Opinion of Values (BOVs) for some of the largest financial institutions throughout New England.

The page provides links to related topics such as quick service, accurate values and detailed reports.

"Our main focus is to provide an opportunity for people seeking real estate information to be able to access it in a non-threatening way," said Flynn. "With two offices in Quincy and over 30 million currently using the Internet, this is an ideal venture to reach our target market."

Hospital's McCauley Building Was Completed In 1989

Because of incorrect information given to The Quincy Sun, a story in last week's issue stated that Quincy Hospital's McCauley Building had not yet been completed when Mayor James Sheets took office in 1990.

City Councillor and former Mayor Francis McCauley, for whom the building is named, reports that it actually was finished in October 1989 while he was still serving as mayor.

Morrisette's Resiliency Shows In Latest Streak

By LIAM FITZGERALD

The Morrisette American Legion baseball team's roller coaster season continues, as a three-game winning streak lifted the squad to the .500 mark.

After opening the season with two setbacks, Morrisette reeled off two consecutive victories. The team followed that up with three straight losses, before its latest wins over West Roxbury, Randolph and Milton.

Morrisette (5-5) was slated to play a double-header Tuesday against Quincy, then host Milton (yesterday) Wednesday at 8 p.m. Morrisette and Quincy meet again Friday at 8 p.m., then Morrisette hosts Cohasset Saturday at 8 p.m. and Braintree Sunday at 2 p.m.

Monday, Canton visits Morrisette for a double-header at 5:30 and 8 p.m. Tuesday, Morrisette plays at Milton at 5:45 p.m.

In recent action, Keith Doherty pitched six strong innings for Morrisette, which collected 16 hits in a 12-8 victory Monday over West Roxbury. Doherty (1-2) yielded four earned runs, five hits and four walks and recorded five strikeouts.

Morrisette staked Doherty to a 6-0 lead into the bottom of the second, when the visitors collected a couple of hits, a walk and capitalized on errors to cut the deficit to 6-5.

Doherty breezed through the middle innings, keeping

Legion Baseball

WR off the board until the seventh, when WR scored three times. After issuing two wild pitches and hitting a batter, Doherty was relieved by Rob Celata, who retired three of the four batters he faced to close out the game.

Morrisette scored once in the first, before the flood gates opened in the second. Five consecutive hits, which led to five runs, knocked WR starter Rocky Rockwell from the game. Matt McLoughlin (2 for 5, two RBI) greeted the new pitcher with an RBI triple to center to cap the outburst.

The home team secured additional breathing room with a two-run fourth (RBI hits by John Sullivan and Jim Cunio) and four more runs in the sixth (RBI hits by Cunio, Ray Cattaneo and a sacrifice fly RBI by Chris Bregoli). Cunio led the hitting attack, going 3 for 4 with three RBI.

Other offensive standouts were Bill Walker (2 for 3, RBI), Shawn Manning (2 for 4, RBI), Sullivan (2 for 4), Steve Clarke (2 for 4) and Erik Gaff (1 for 4, RBI).

Sunday, Morrisette trailed Randolph 5-0, then erupted for six runs in the sixth to pick up a 6-5 win.

With one out in the sixth, Cattaneo and Doherty sparked the comeback with back-to-back singles. Bregoli drew a walk to load the bases and Walker followed with an RBI single. Manning then drew a walk with the bases loaded to force in a run. Now behind 5-2, McLoughlin knotted the game up with a three-run triple and scored the game-winner on a hit by Cunio.

Celata, in relief of starter Ryan Ploof, struck out the side in order in the seventh (all on called strikes) to seal the win. Ploof went six innings, allowed five earned runs on five hits, walked three and fanned one.

Randolph scored all its runs in the sixth, collecting three hits and three walks (and a Morrisette error) to put five runs on the board.

In a 5-0 triumph over Milton last Friday, Celata made his first start of the season a memorable one, firing a complete-game four-hitter with 13 strikeouts and four walks. Dominant from start to finish, Celata did not allow a baserunner to reach third.

Four walks, three wild pitches and aggressive coaching by head coach Tom Malvesti translated into a four-run first for Morrisette. Walker (1 for 2, run), Manning (1 for 3, run), McLoughlin (1 for 3), Sullivan (1 for 2, run), Cunio (BB, RBI) and Fagan (BB, run) paced Morrisette's offense.

Former QHS Wrestler Chases Olympic Dream Sleiman's Next Stop: U.S. Training Center

Ally Sleiman would like nothing more than to represent the United States in the Olympics, and now he may get his chance.

A former Quincy High School state wrestling champion, Sleiman was recently designated as a hopeful for the U.S. Olympic Greco-Roman Team for the 2000 Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia.

"I was elated when I heard I had been named a hopeful," said Sleiman, 23. "It's what I had been waiting for for a long time. Now I get to train at the next level, and I'm going to give it all I have."

As an Olympic hopeful, Sleiman will travel to the U.S. Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo., this September to train full-time and compete in various tournaments as a member of the 1998-99 Resident National Team.

Unlike many of the athletes he'll be training with, Sleiman knows what the Training Center has to offer. Back in February, he was granted a special training appointment by USA Wrestling to spend a month at the Training Center, where he was coached by Steve Fraser, U.S. National Greco-Roman head coach and 1984 Olympic Gold Medalist.

It was there that Sleiman met Greco-Roman wrestler picking my brain for different moves. He is very enthusiastic, has a great attitude and a good work ethic. He's young, and I think he could be around for the next two or three Olympics."

Sleiman recently dropped down a weight class (from 152 to 138.75 pounds) to avoid competing against Zuniga at 152, since only one wrestler per weight class earns a berth on the U.S. Olympic team.

Said Sleiman of his former training partner, "We lived in the same apartment while we were training and I feel I've improved tremendously as a result of Dave's efforts. I have the benefit of learning from the best coaches in the country."

During his stint with the Storm, Sleiman was coached by Dan Chandler, three-time U.S. Olympian and head coach of the U.S. Greco-Roman Olympic Team. The Minneapolis-based wrestling club is renowned as the nation's strongest Greco-Roman wrestling club, producing more Olympians than any other club (five in 1996, four in 1992).

It was after last summer's annual World Championships that Sleiman gave serious thought to competing for a spot on the Resident National Team.

Quincy Loses Twice To Unbeaten Braintree

After winning four of five games, the Quincy American Legion baseball team has dropped four in a row, including two setbacks to undefeated Braintree.

"We faced Braintree's top best pitchers, but we're still plugging along," said Quincy head coach Larry Taglieri. "Our defense has let up a bit, as has our pitching, but we still have nine games left and an opportunity to make a move in the standings."

This week, Quincy (4-7) was scheduled to play Morrisette in a double-header Tuesday, then travel to West Roxbury yesterday (Wednesday) for an 8 p.m. tilt. Today (Thursday) at 8:30 p.m., Cohasset visits Quincy. Friday at 8 p.m., Quincy takes on Morrisette.

Sunday at 11 a.m., Quincy hosts Milton, then heads to Randolph Monday at 6 p.m. Quincy hosts West Roxbury Tuesday and Canton Wednesday, both at 8 p.m. Quincy's home games are at Adams Field.

In recent action, Braintree hurler Kevin Truelson no-hit Quincy in an 11-3 victory Monday. Quincy's Brian Linskey and Adam Delorey each drove in a run with a groundout.

Braintree picked up a 7-4 victory over host Quincy Sunday. Quincy scored twice in the first on an RBI single by Linskey and an error which allowed Steve Wilshire to cross the plate.

Quincy scored two more in the seventh when Pat McGann's sacrifice fly scored Tim Pezzulo and Linskey singled in Greg Peck. Losing pitcher Mike Clark went 5 1/3 innings, giving up three earned runs on eight hits. He walked two and fanned one.

Parker Road Race Raises $560 For Enrichment Programs

The recent Parker Penguin Classic Road Race drew 72 participants and raised $560 for enrichment programs at the Parker School.

In the 5K run, Brian Hurley (19:59) was the top overall finisher and the first male to cross the finish line, followed by Mitchell Klutsch (20:58) and Paul Smyth (22:17).

The first female runner to finish was Barbara Quinn (22:14), ahead of Sue Blaton (24:35) and Debbie Kelly (24:42).

With a time of 27:21, Mai Li was the first girl to finish, while Kenny Leung (37:38) was the first boy to cross the finish line.

In the 1K event, the top four boys were Mark Costello (4:14), Christopher Hunter (4:16), Patrick Austin (4:18) and Mark McAuliffe (4:18). The top three girls were Raychel Kruper (4:35), Erin Kelly (5:00) and Lindsay Repucci (5:56).

The PTO thanked the participants and all those who helped make the day a success, including state Rep. Michael Bellotti, Ward 6 City Councilor Bruce Ayers, Quincy Emergency Management, Stop & Shop Supermarket, Shaw's Supermarket, and Nantucket Nectars.

Sleiman's Next Stop: U.S. Training Center

He earned the spot with a dominating first-place finish at the U.S. Northern Regional Senior Championships in LaCrosse, Wis., this past April. Not only did he win the title, but Sleiman also did not allow an opponent to score a single point against him.

Adding to his resume, Sleiman was named to the 1998 USA Wrestling Senior National Elite Developmental Tour Team, which will participate in the 1998 Haparanda Cup Dec. 5-6 in Haparanda, Sweden and the 1998 Vantaa Cup Dec. 12-13 in Vantaa, Finland.

Although he has been out of high school for six years, Sleiman attributes much of his success to his high school coach, Lou Venturelli.

"Lou was a great mentor, and I give him a lot of credit," said Sleiman. "He's been a tremendous influence since Day 1, and we've stayed in touch ever since. He was my support through college and he still follows my career, to see how I'm doing."

Venturelli, who called Sleiman the hardest-working wrestler he ever coached, added that the key to Sleiman's rise in wrestling circles is his "incredible self-motivation." "Ally has this quest to be the best wrestler he can be, and won't let anything stand in his way," said Venturelli, who recently organized a wrestling camp that drew 28 participants, with Sleiman lending a hand as a volunteer assistant. "He's worked so hard, and it's been great to see. If he makes the (Olympic) team, that would be something amazing."

"He is also a wonderful role model, and his story is a great example of wanting something, knowing what it takes to get it done, and going out and doing it."

After graduating from QHS in 1992 with a 117-19 record (including a 25-0 mark as a senior), Sleiman went to Wilkes University in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to further his academic and wrestling careers.

At Wilkes, Sleiman won over 100 matches and was a 1997 NCAA East Regional Runner-up, two-time NCAA National Qualifier, and a two-time NCAA Academic All-American.

Along with his success on the wrestling mat came success in the classroom, as compiled a 3.25 grade point average and graduated in 1996 with a B.A. in Sociology/Criminal Justice/Secondary Education.

Following his college career, Sleiman joined the staff of Southern Connecticut State University as an assistant wrestling coach, thinking his wrestling career was over.

That all changed in May 1997, when he entered the Southern Plains University Regional in Hutchinson, Kan., and came away with a first-place finish.

"I was visiting a friend out there and just showed up for the tournament," said Sleiman. "I decided to see what I could do, and ended up winning it."

That performance landed him on the U.S. University National Greco-Roman Team Tour, and on a trip to Poland, he finished second at the Polish Ziolkowski Cup, earning his first medal in international or world competition. To date, he has participated in five Senior Level International Open Tournaments.

Aware that wrestlers reach their peak in the 28- to 32-year-old range, Sleiman takes an optimistic look at his wrestling future.

"I've been wrestling for 11 years now, but I'm only 23," he said. "Five years from now, who knows how good I can be? It's a big commitment, and you have to love what you do."

"I'm having a lot of fun and I love the competition. It's an opportunity to go out and represent the United States, which is the most important thing."

23 Graduate From St. Joseph's School

St. Joseph's Catholic School in Quincy Point graduated 23 Grade 8 students during a recent Mass at St. Joseph's Church.

The Mass was celebrated by the Fr. Daniel Graham, pastor, and Fr. Robert Monagle, associate pastor, was the homilist. Parents, relatives and friends of the graduates were in attendance as well as the faculty and staff of the school, Principal Lisa Mirasolo, and Grade 8 teacher Arlyce Doucette.

The Class of 1998 at St. Joseph's includes; Matthew Barber, Walter Bettuchi, Diana Brennan, Ronald DeVera, Laura Feeley, Bianca Gay, Krystal Grow, Nicole Gullicksen, Marion Joyce, Michael Kalell, Kristopher Kamborian, David Lahage, Michael Lorenzano, Colleen Lynch, Stephen Mavilia, Rachel Marshall, Paul McLaughlin, Sandra McMurreugh, Anand Patel, Brianne Quencey, Steven Ramponi, Joseph Viola and Julie Vo.

The theme of Fr. Monagle's sermon was a reflection on how the students have grown since they began their studies at St. Joseph's and where they are going as they look to the future in their academic lives.

Members of the graduating class will be attending Boston College High School, Notre Dame Academy, Archbishop Williams High School, Fontbonne Academy, Quincy High School and other high schools.

St. Joseph's School was established in 1927 shortly after the construction of the parish church.

OBITUARIES

Mary T. Maki, 73
Retired Salesperson

A funeral Mass for Mary T. (Mosillo) Maki, 73, of Quincy, was celebrated Monday in St. Mary's Church.

Mrs. Maki died July 2 in Quincy Hospital after a long illness.

A retired salesperson, she worked for many years in the retail industry for several local companies.

She was a former member of the Stella del Nord Society.

Mrs. Maki was born, raised and educated in Quincy.

She is survived by her husband, Richard J. Maki; two brothers, Peter Mosillo of West Quincy, a retired Quincy police officer, and Jerry Mosillo of North Weymouth; two sisters, Lee Tomasini and Anna Akoury, both of Braintree; and many nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Paula L. Varney, 66
Operator For N.E. Telephone

A funeral Mass for Paula L. (Greenston) Varney, 66, of North Quincy, was celebrated Tuesday in Sacred Heart Church.

Mrs. Varney died July 2 at home.

She retired in 1981 from New England Telephone after 15 years as a long distance operator. After leaving the telephone company, she worked for Gem Electric Supply in Boston.

Born in Boston, she lived in Hull before moving to North Quincy 23 years ago.

Wife of the late Richard F. Varney, she is survived by two brothers, John H. Greenston of Canada and Roy A. Greenston of West Palm Beach, Fla.; and many nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Cedar Grove Cemetery, Dorchester.

*A Thought
For The Week*

SOME THOUGHTS ON PROGRESS...

Did you know that our forefathers did without sugar until the 13th century, without coal fires until the 14th century, without buttered bread until the 15th century, without coffee and tea and soap until the 17th century, without pudding until the 18th century, without gas and matches and electricity until the 19th century, and without canned goods until the 20th century?

To continue with these thoughts... Let us visit a museum... When we see the household utensils, farming implements, and clothing that our predecessors used, we wonder how on earth they got along. We wonder, until we remember these crude and clumsy things (to us) were once considered very modern... The people of that era considered them "the last word"...

Each generation starts to build where the previous one left off... We wonder that perhaps 500 years from now our cars, our planes, our spacecraft, and hundreds of other things we think are smart... "the last word," will be shown in museums to the amusement of our descendants...

Your Horoscope

by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Someone from afar may offer you a business opportunity. It's a good time to push career interests. Welcome the chance to get ahead. Attend a movie or enjoy a concert. High-minded pursuits bring you satisfaction and intellectual stimulation.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A desire for privacy shouldn't be ignored. Catch up on rest and save time for private talks and pursuits. Get to know yourself. Social life is on the upswing. You'll be introduced to important people over the weekend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Those in business for themselves face an increase in both customers and sales. It is possible to attain something you have long desired. Spruce up your appearance and buy yourself something nice.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It's a good time to make important domestic decisions. Luck comes through the family, and apartment-hunters meet with good fortune. An optimistic frame of mind makes you want to go places and do things.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) The unemployed meet with job opportunities. If you want a better position, now is the time to make inquiries. Begin new projects. Sports, hobbies and other recreational pursuits bring joy.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) An inheritance is possible, or news arrives about impressive financial gains. Luck comes to you through others. Close friends are supportive. The accent is on togetherness. You may receive an interesting proposition.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) It's best not to be concerned about career matters now, since small misunderstandings could occur. Travel or amusements should be pleasing. You'll find ways to sug-ment security. Someone conceals his true motives with superficial prattle.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A friendship reaches a turning point. Cultural pursuits will prove relaxing. Stay clear of those who gossip or misconstrue ideas. You may change your mind about a career matter.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You're inclined to be a loner now, though creatively, you're quite expressive. Ingenuity brings financial rewards. Trust intuition regarding financial matters. Minor domestic difficulties could lead to nagging behavior.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Fixed ideas can impede creativity. Relax and things begin to flow. Avoid petty disputes and take the family out to someplace special. Restlessness may interfere with concentration. Try not to scatter your energies.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You're inclined to be nervous, perhaps about a work matter, but a close friend is able to divert your attention quite pleasantly. Complete domestic duties. A relative may be manipulative. Don't argue with children about spending habits. Hobbies prove lucrative.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A close tie may convince you to change your mind. Dealings about money are touchy, especially with friends. Advice comes unexpectedly. Tidy up loose ends regarding a work project.

Robert Quinn Named V.P. At South Shore Savings Bank

Arthur R. Connelly, president and chief executive officer at South Shore Savings Bank, announces that Robert J. Quinn has joined the bank as vice president/business development officer.

"Bob Quinn is a well-respected, highly-regarded member of the South Shore business community," said Connelly. "He brings with him over 45 years of banking experience, and a unique perspective to business banking—he still feels that the best way to do business banking is face-to-face."

South Shore Savings Bank was created in October 1997 with the merger of Weymouth Savings Bank and South Weymouth Savings Bank. The bank now has branches in Braintree, East Bridgewater, Haverhill/Norwell, and Weymouth. It recently broke ground on a new Quincy branch scheduled to open in late 1998.

"South Shore Savings Bank is a true community bank—we have no stockholders, we exist to serve all members of the community," said Connelly. "And Bob has been the epitome of community banking on the South Shore for longer than most of us can remember. He's a trusted individual we feel very fortunate to have on our team as we expand our banking services to businesses on the South Shore."

Throughout his banking career, Quinn has worked to meet the financial needs of small businesses on the South Shore. As business development officer at South Shore Savings, he will be responsible for introducing the bank's newly-expanded commercial banking services to local businesses.

Quinn is a graduate of Boston College and Rutgers Graduate School of Banking and a veteran of the U.S. Marine Corps. He is a member of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, and in 1993 was the recipient of the Forest L. Neal Award.

An active volunteer in the Quincy community, he is past president of the Neighborhood Club of Quincy and past director and president of the Quincy Chapter of the American Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay.

South Shore Savings Bank operates under the state charter granted in 1833 to Weymouth Savings Bank and has assets in excess of $475 million. The bank is a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) and the Deposit Insurance Fund (DIF).

Susan O'Brien Asst. V.P. At Horizon Bank

Susan E. Bruynell O'Brien, a Braintree native, has been named assistant vice president for the new Horizon Bank & Trust Company.

The bank is the first new, independent bank to be chartered on the South Shore in over 30 years. Horizon Bank & Trust Company is scheduled to open in June at 550 John W. Mahar Highway, Braintree, subject to final regulatory approval.

SUSAN O'BRIEN

the progress and status of the venture.

"I've worked with Susan for 18 years at the Bank of Braintree and we share the same vision of community banking—providing a high level of service to people we know on a first name basis," said Donald Olson, chairman and CEO of Horizon Bank & Trust Company. "We both understand that community banking is stepping in and filling whatever role is necessary to deliver customer service quickly and efficiently."

According to James R.

Barbieri, president of Horizon Bank & Trust Company, "Susan is a lifelong Braintree resident and knows the pulse of this town. She has a loyal following among local business owners, professionals and consumers. She brings strong leadership and team skills to our community bank."

O'Brien is a graduate of Braintree High School and has taken numerous banking courses from the American Institute for Banking Center for Financial Studies and Massachusetts School for Financial Studies for Management Personnel.

She is on the Parent Teacher Organization (PTO) Leadership Committee and the Parent Teacher Advisory Council at Donald Ross Elementary, Braintree. Additionally, she is a coordinator and director of the Braintree Track Club.

She lives in Braintree with her husband, George, and their two daughters, Michelle, 7, and Stephanie, 10.

Quincy D'Angelo's Contributes $2,255 To Easter Seals And Genesis Fund

D'Angelo customers donated $60,307, including $2,255 from Quincy, to Easter Seals and the Genesis Fund this year in D'Angelo's 21st annual fund-raising campaign.

D'Angelo employees offered customers coupon books valued at $20 for a $1 donation. The coupons were redeemable for sandwiches, drinks and party platters.

The dollars went to Easter Seals and the Genesis Fund, supporting Easter

Seal services for people with disabilities and Genesis care for children with birth defects.

Fundraiser To Be Held At Waterworks July 18

A fundraiser for the Pan-Massachusetts Challenge/Jimmy Fund will be held Saturday, July 18 from 1 to 7 p.m. at Waterworks in Marina Bay.

Loretta DeGrazia NEWBO 'Business Woman Of Year'

By STEPHEN J. ALLEN

Loretta T. DeGrazia, president-owner of East Coast Petroleum in North Quincy, is adding to her reputation as New England's "Queen of the Fuel Oil Industry" with two new awards attesting to her accomplishments in a male-dominated industry.

The 43-year-old executive was selected as a "Woman of Distinction" by Women Unlimited Magazine award in April at Worcester's Holy Cross College by publisher Alice Stelzer.

Her latest award was by the New England Women Business owners (NEWBO) earlier this month.

DeGrazia was proclaimed the "1998 Business Woman of the Year" at the 20th anniversary awards program held in Waltham's Western Hotel attended by more than 250 women entrepreneurs.

Last month, DeGrazia received a citation from State Senator Brian Joyce of Milton, signed by Senate President Tom Birmingham, recognizing her for her charitable work in the Second Suffolk and Norfolk Districts.

DeGrazia was formerly employed by the Atlas Oil Company and the Grimes Oil Company in Dorchester for 12 years before she decided she had enough experience and confidence to be her own boss. In 1985 she moved out and up, establishing her firm on Dorchester's Freepoint St. It was a gamble.

She didn't have a staff, a single customer other than herself, or any vehicles. But ambition and tenacity, she had in abundance.

Within eight years, and with experience, she outgrew the Dorchester office and moved to her current headquarters to North Quincy, a block west of Wollaston Beach. Within a year, East Coast Petroleum's business increased 175 percent. By 1997, ECP had 17 employees representing eight nationalities and five minority cultures; seven vehicles, a division of HVAC (heating, ventilation and air conditioning installation and maintenance), and generated revenue of more than $2.5 million.

She had "arrived." It wasn't just a case of "Here I am!" for the former national treasurer of the PHYLIS GODWIN (left), president of the Granite City Electrical Supply Co. in Quincy, relinquishes her 1997 award to Loretta T. DeGrazia, president of East Coast Petroleum in North Quincy, as the reigning "1998 Business Woman of the Year" at the recent awards dinner at the Waltham Western Hotel attended by over 250 business women and their guests.

W.O.W. (Women on Wheels) Harley Davidson Motorcycle Club. For 11 years she rode an "imaginary bicycle" from town to town throughout the area doing what she does best—selling!

In between the ups and downs of the business, DeGrazia attended seminars, special programs, classes, and anything which hinted of self-improvement, mastering the techniques of management, fiscal strategies, computer operations, and the heating oil industry's intricate hands-on operations with the proficiency equal to her male counterparts at every level of the business.

The "Here I am!" philosophy is obvious in a visit to her office which resembles a museum of citations and autographed dignitaries' photographs representing a political who's who at every level of government, from the White House to the Quincy City Council, from Congress to the City of Boston.

In every instance there is a reference of her concerns for the homeless veterans, the battered women, the handicapped children, the ailing elderly, the impoverished families settled and the unsettled immigrants.

The company, which operates on a first name basis even with the president, generates an atmosphere of a "family operation" when in fact, the president's father is the only honorary volunteer and holds the title of "Ambassador of Good Will."

DeGrazia is the daughter of Milton's Gaetano Thomas DeGrazia and the late Nancy DeGrazia.

On her recent birthday, DeGrazia and her father moved into a new home built at 26 Malvesti Way in North Quincy.

DeGrazia supports such organizations as the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the Dorchester Celebrations Committee, Carney Hospital's Ladies of Charity, Quincy 2000, Father Bill's Place, and multiple local groups including those for female executives. Business-linkage includes the Massachusetts Oilheat Council and the New England Fuel Oil Institute.

The only woman founder-owner-operator in New England's fuel oil industry, she said she envisions her company becoming known as a "community family member respected for reliability, integrity, and affordability."

Michael Ward Honored By Ambulance Assn.

Michael Ward of Cataldo Ambulance Service was one of the 120 U.S. Emergency Medical Technicians, Paramedics, and outstanding ambulance service personnel honored by the American Ambulance Association at its recent fourth annual "Stars of Life" awards dinner in Washington, D.C.

The American Ambulance Association formed in 1979, is not-for-profit, national trade association comprised of 850 organizations.

Ward, a lifelong resident of Quincy, was nominated by his co-workers at Cataldo Ambulance Service for being an outstanding employee of Emergency Medical Services.

Hotline Established For Flood Victims

A toll-free hotline is now in operation for people in the five Massachusetts counties designated a federal disaster area because of recent flooding.

President Clinton has declared Bristol, Essex, Middlesex, Norfolk and Suffolk counties eligible for federal assistance because of damage from heavy rains which began on June 13.

Residents and business owners who sustained losses in the five counties can begin the disaster application process by calling 1-800-462-9029 or 1-800-462-7585 (TDD) for the hearing and speech impaired. The toll-free telephone numbers will be in operation seven days a week from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. until further notice.

Flood assistance will be coordinated by the Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency (MEMA) and the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and includes grants to help pay for temporary housing needs, home repairs and other disaster-related expenses. Low-interest loans from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) will also be available to cover residential and business losses not fully compensated by insurance or other grant programs.

Residents or business owners in the five affected counties who wish to apply for disaster assistance are urged to call the toll-free tele-registration phone number at 1-800-462-9029.

Policing Commission To Begin Work July 16

routinely spent regular time in designated neighborhoods and got to know personally local residents and business owners, creating a partnership between the police and the community.

The City Council has supported both the proposed community policing program expansion and the formation of the commission. At the request of Councillor Francis McCauley, however, the council will reopen discussion on the need for the commission in the fall.

Sheets noted that all members of the City Council have been invited to attend the commission's first meeting.

Sheets and Frane also have said they are hoping to use funding from the federal Community-Oriented Policing Services (COPS) program to hire 13 to 17 new police officers sometime next year, which would give another boost to the community policing program. The number of officers hired, however, will depend on how many department members retire next winter.

SALT AND OSTEOPOROSIS

People with high blood pressure have heard it before: When you sit down to eat, push away the salt shaker. Now, however, there is evidence that anyone concerned about osteoporosis — the decrease in amount and strength of bones — should be wary of salt as well. Studies of post-menopausal women have shown that those who consume high levels of sodium lose the most bone density. The more sodium consumed, the greater the loss. One finding reported that cutting sodium intake from 4,000 mg to 2,000 mg a day had the same benefit as getting an extra 1,000 mg of calcium a day. So be kind to your heart and bones — toss the salt foods!

When you are young, taking care of your bones can seem unimportant so many of us often forget how essential taking care of ourselves can be. Frequent weight-bearing exercise is helpful, as is reducing your salt intake. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. Men can suffer from osteoporosis, too. Talk to your doctor about bone-healthy lifestyle changes.

Ground To Be Broken July 21 For $15 Million Library Addition

The Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center will break ground Thursday, July 21 at 10 a.m. for the construction of a $15 million addition that will open in December 1999 or early 2000.

Among those in attendance at the groundbreaking ceremony will be Mayor James Sheets, library staff and trustees, members of the City Council, and the contractor, W.T. Rich of Newton.

The start of the project was delayed for more than two months while Sheets worked with City Auditor Robert Foy to put together a funding package from various city sources to cover a $3.1 million deficit.

Library Director Ann McLaughlin noted that June 29, the day the City Council approved the funding package, was the fifth anniversary of the day papers were passed on a property next door to the library that allowed officials to get the expansion project in motion. "I'm so excited," McLaughlin said. "These last few months have been so frustrating, and for it to finally begin is really great."

McLaughlin said she thinks the many resources at the expanded library—which will include new computers, video and audiocassettes, periodicals and more—as well as its new meeting rooms and other facilities will make the $15 million price tag for the project a wise investment.

"I think it's a very good use of the public's money, and it's going to be a wonderful resource for the city," she said. "We take our role very seriously to try to keep the people as informed and connected to information as possible."

Sheets echoed McLaughlin's comments on the need for the extra funding for the library addition.

"That's an historic

Quincy Hospital Expands Emergency Department

Quincy Hospital's Emergency Department recently underwent major renovations to increase space, upgrade equipment and services, and create faster, more efficient emergency services.

When construction is completed in July, the department will have added seven beds and a major medical area; a state-of-the-art cardiac monitoring/vital signs system; a large, modern resuscitation/trauma room for adults and children; a psychiatric care area with a consultation room; an expanded observation room; and an enlarged doctor/nurse station.

Two major features of the construction include the addition of the Family Room and Education Center, funded by Salomon Smith Barney, and a Fast Track for patient care.

Salomon Smith Barney

recently donated $10,000 for the creation of a Family Room and Education Center to provide families with a more private area. The room will also house books and videos for children, as well as educational materials.

The Fast Track for patient care, a new feature at the hospital, provides a designated area to assist patients with less serious illnesses or injuries. Patients

Retired Teachers Ask Honor For Benefactor, Former Principal Propose BM Be Renamed Beede School

By MICHAEL WHALRN

The Quincy Retired Teachers Association has proposed renaming Broad Meadows Middle School after Harry Beede, the school's late principal who bequeathed $1.25 million to the association for students' scholarships two years ago.

The name change would have to be approved by the School Committee.

School Supt. Eugene Creedon, who serves as the committee's secretary, said the committee has received the QRTA's letter making the request and has accepted it as correspondence.

No decision has been made as to whether the committee will discuss the matter or put the request on its agenda, Creedon added.

Beede, a former principal of three Quincy schools and science teacher at what is now Quincy High School, left the QRTA the endowment—three-quarters of his entire estate—to be used for scholarships for students from Quincy and North Quincy high schools. He died in April 1996.

Beede and his late wife Louisa, a former Quincy podiatrist who died in 1992, had no children of their own.

According to Robert Mattsson, treasurer of the QRTA's scholarship fund, earnings from the endowment "should provide at least $88,000 in scholarships per year in perpetuity. Each Beede scholarship would total $8,000."

Currently, the QRTA has about $1.7 million in its scholarship account, and it awards annual scholarships to students from the city's two high schools out of the account's interest, according to Mattsson. The amount given out now will increase because of Beede's endowment, he said.

The amount of the Beede scholarships will be well over half the total amount of $110,000 in scholarships to be awarded, Mattsson added.

Mattsson also said anyone who supports the proposal to change the name of Broad Meadows should contact Mayor James Sheets, who serves as chairman of the School Committee, or any of the committee's members.

All of the QRTA's money has been donated by retired Quincy teachers. The scholarship accounted was started with a $1,000 donation by retired Quincy High School teacher Warren Findley about 14 years ago.

Beede, a QRTA member, was principal of Broad

Horse Stable Meeting Topic

A neighborhood meeting regarding the overall conditions of the St. Moritz horse stable, 629 Willard St., West Quincy, was scheduled for last night (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. at the Ward 4 Community Center, 100 Brooks Ave., South Quincy. The meeting was scheduled by Ward 4 City Councillor Michael D'Amico. Quincy Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue was to provide an update on the issue.

Former Quincy Woman Gets $34,062 Reward For Kansas Killings Tip

A former Quincy woman whose tip to authorities led to the arrest of a man for the murder of three people in Salina, Kan. two years ago, has been awarded $34,062 as a reward.

Mary King, now living in Boston, was working as a counselor at the St. Francis homeless shelter in Boston in November, 1996 and while watching the television program "America's Most Wanted" recognized the man wanted for the killing.

The man, Alan Eugene White, 28, was at the shelter where she was working she reported.

Before the program was over that night, White was found at the shelter and taken into custody.

He is now serving a life sentence for the beating deaths of Dolores McKim, 80; her daughter, Carol Abercrombie, 56, and the latter's grandson, Christopher, 5. The three were killed in McKim's home.

Residents were shocked by the killings and launched a money raising campaign to establish a reward for anyone who could furnish the information to bring about the capture of the one responsible.

With $5,000 from a state fund as a start, residents, including children, and companies teamed to bring the reward figure to $44,062.

The city commissioners voted to give $34,062 to King and the remaining $10,000 to White's prison cellmate who aided authorities in the investigation.

His $10,000 will go to make restitution to victims of a property crime he committed.

Baker Beach Reopened; Others In City Deemed Safe Wollaston Beach Closings In Effect

Temporary swimmers' advisories were still in effect at press time for two sections of Wollaston Beach, according to the Metropolitan District Commission.

However, the Quincy Health Department reports that Baker Beach in Germantown, which also was closed at the beginning of last week, has been deemed safe for swimming and has been reopened.

According to the MDC's Beaches Water Quality Hotline, the advisories were in effect for Wollaston Beach at both Channing Street and Milton Street on Tuesday afternoon. Last week, they were in effect at the beach's Milton Street and Sachem Street testing sites.

The MDC samples water at four sections of Wollaston Beach, which it operates. They are: Sachem Street, Milton Street, Rice Road and Channing Street.

A Health Department spokeswoman said at press time that tests conducted July 6--the results of which were not known until later last week--show that "everything is fine" at Baker Beach and all of the other beaches under the city's jurisdiction. Newer test results were due yesterday (Wednesday), she added.

Heavy rains caused sewage overflows that results in beaches in Quincy, Weymouth and Braintree to be closed two weeks ago and early last week because of fecal coliform contamination.

Initial coliform counts two weeks ago ranged from 325 and higher at Wollaston Beach, to 540 at Baker Beach, to 2,120 at Smith Beach along the Fore River in Braintree. Counts over 200 colonies per 100 milli-liters are considered unsafe for swimmers.

Other tests showed that the water was safe at nine other Quincy beaches--Avalon, Mound, Rhoda (Rock Island), Edgewater Drive, Parkhurst, Post Island Road (Heron), Chickatabot Road, Nickerson and Orchard--where coliform counts ranged from less than 5 to 45.

For updates on the conditions of the Quincy beaches, call the Health Department at 376-1270 or the MDC Hotline at 727-5264, ext. 517.

HOW TO TREAT A STOMACH BUG

Health Myth #27: Stomach flu strikes mostly during the winter months.
Health Fact: What people commonly call "stomach flu" is often not really the flu at all, but rather a case of food poisoning -- and food poisoning can occur no matter what the season of the year. If a stomach "bug" hits you, complete with diarrhea, abdominal cramps, and vomiting, hold off eating any solid food, dairy products, and drinks with caffeine. As soon as you can keep it down, start taking small sips of clear, room-temperature drinks such as water, broth, sports drinks, or caffeine-free tea. After about 12 hours, you may add some bland food, such as white rice, plain soda crackers, bread, and cooked cereals.

Taking "time out" for oneself, to rest and refresh one's energy, is a good idea, whether one is drawn to bed by the flu or some other ailment, or simply needs some "down" time. AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. Those Ward 1 Mayors

One of these years, James Sheets will take that final walk out of City Hall into retirement.

And, when that day does come, (there are those who think it won't), who will succeed him as mayor?

If history means anything, a candidate running out of Ward 1 would seem to have a good shot at it.

Twelve of the 28 men who have served as mayor were residents of Ward 1 when they were elected. And, there may have been two more.

That's one of the little interesting political nuggets you will find in "A Political History of Quincy" Frank McCauley is writing as part of the city's planned millennium celebration.

The present city councillor and former mayor—one of the 12 out of Ward 1—was asked by Sheets to undertake the special project.

A good choice. McCauley is an authority on Quincy's political history. He knows his subject. And, the price is right. He's doing the book as a labor of love. No fee.

McCauley's history will cover the 20th century, beginning just before in 1888 when residents voted to change from a town form of government to that of a city.

McCauley is up to the 1940's now and says he will have the project completed in plenty of time for the celebration beginning in January, 2000.

And, who were those 12 mayors from Ward 1?

They were, notes McCauley:

Charles Porter, Quincy's first mayor; Charles Francis Adams who went on to become Secretary of the Navy under President Herbert Hoover; Gustave Bates, Joseph Whiton, Thomas McGrath, Russell Sears, William Bradford, Perley Barbour, Thomas Burgin, David McIntosh (Plan E), Arthur Tobin and McCauley.

McCauley left office in 1989 and is the last mayor—so far—to be elected from Ward 1.

Runner-up honors go to Ward 5 which sent five mayors to City Hall: Henry Fairbanks, Charles Bryant, Chester Campbell, James McIntyre and Walter Hannon.

Ward 3 produced four mayors: James Thompson, John Miller, Charles Ross and Amelio Della Chiesa. Ward 4 has had three: William Shea, Joseph LaRaia and James Sheets.

Two came out of Ward 2: Harrison Keith and Eugene Stone.

But there is a bit of a mystery about two of the mayors: William Hodges and John Hall.

According to City Hall records, Hodges who served as mayor in 1894-1985 lived at 33 Hancock St. and John Hall (1900-01) at 213 Hancock St.

That would seem to make them mayors from Ward 6. But the records also indicated they were in Ward 1 at the time.

So, either Ward 6 had two mayors—or none—or Ward 1 had two more for a total of 14.

McCauley is doing some further checking. History seems to smile more often on Ward 1 when it comes to electing mayors. Will it smile again?

Right now there are three Ward 1 residents who have mayoral aspirations: Paul Harold, Michael Cheney and Peter Kolson.

Is there a smile in the future for them?

PAT McDERMOTT says he is "feeling pretty good" after his second hip replacement in less than a month.

The Ward 3 councillor, who is 28, had his left hip replaced May 29 at New England Medical Center and returned June 25 to have his right one replaced.

"It went extremely well," McDermott says. "I'm slowly getting back to normal and should be at full speed by September."

McDermott couldn't make the final city council meeting before the summer recess but kept tabs on the proceedings via Ch. 10 cable TV.

He also missed out on the local July 4th activities and had to settle for the Boston Pops on the Esplanade via television.

He's been getting out of the house more each day and plans to attend the first meeting of the new community policing commission today (Thursday) at 2:30 p.m. in the mayor's office.

"I'm in favor of giving it a shot," says McDermott of the idea of a commission working in conjunction with the police department.

McDermott will return to Suffolk Law School for his second year in September and in addition to a law degree he is thinking of continuing school for a master's in public administration.

JEANNE REARDON, popular clerk of City Council committees, hopes to be back at City Hall in a few weeks.

REARDON

Jeanne is still recuperating at her Chickatabot Rd. home following surgery at Quincy Hospital early last month.

"The worst part is over and I feel good," she says. She wants to thank everyone for all the cards and other best wishes she has received. "Everyone has been so nice," she says.

City Council President Peter Kolson and Rep. Steve Tobin dropped by on the Fourth of July and serenaded her with "God Bless America."

"You can't beat that," Jeanne muses.

ALFRED BENEDETTI, the city's oldest Senior Olympian at the time of his death last April at age 104 will be remembered with a reflection on his life Tuesday, Aug. 11 at 6 p.m. at Beechwood on the Bay, East Squantum St., North Quincy.

The event will celebrate the occasion of his birth Aug. 11, 1893.

Benedetti was a Senior Olympics gold medalist in bocce, bowling and horseshoe pitching.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1937 POSTCARD is a general view of Wollaston Beach from the boardwalk at Wollaston Yacht Club looking south. The grandstand on the right was put up when the seawall was built in the mid twenties. It was used for concerts and other entertainment. The present seawall that replaced the one shown here was built in the early sixties by the U.S. Army Corp. of Engineers. The postcard was one of a series published by MacKay's Drug Store in Norfolk Downs.

As Good As It Gets On Quincy Shore Drive

Editor, The Quincy Star:

Two winters ago I was fortunate enough to find a place to live in an older home facing Quincy Shore Drive. I had grown up in the neighborhood and always envied those that had a view of the bay.

I thought I was in heaven. The breathtaking sunrises over Houghs Neck. The same sun exiting the sky over Boston. People that had lived in the house much longer said, "Just wait until the summer. You'll hate it."

What did they mean? The summer breezes blowing my lace white curtains. I had visions of a cottage scene. No ugly air conditioners, polluting the tranquility with their constant buzzing and hanging out windows like some ugly addition.

I arrived in time to witness my first blizzard on the bay that April Fool's Day. It was beautiful, tranquil and powerful at the same time. How could this ever be anything but a wonderful place to be? Then summer crept upon us. Actually, as tradition would have it lately, summer came, then spring, then summer again. People walking, couples strolling, baby carriages and roller blades. Okay, it's still good.

What did they mean? I opened my windows for those lacy summer breezes. I sat on my porch on my wicker love seat purchased just for the occasion. School got out. They were here to party. To celebrate freedom.

The car radios went on at full bass. The trunks were open for better hearing pleasure as they sat on the wall. Some not in high school types followed suit. My windows shook. The cat ran under the dust ruffle not to be seen again until fall.

Somewhere I was living beside a race track that was built while I was sleeping. An air conditioner was purchased and placed on nightly. Ear plugs were installed. I slept through my alarm clock.

This is as good as it gets until fall when the cat comes out from under the bed.

We have spent money on new sand and beach maintenance, colorful banners, well-manicured parks (although most are cared for by residents), and lifeguards guarding water that we still can't swim in for more than half a dozen days per season.

It is all very nice and I'm all for it. But hello! We need some sleep down here and its not in the budget for that right to be protected by having an officer on the beat like in the good old days.

Couldn't Get The Table Of Her Choice

Editor, The Quincy Star:

One Friday night around 6:30 p.m., my husband and I decided to take our two sons, ages 2 and 12, to Great Chow restaurant in Wollaston.

When we entered the restaurant we were greeted by a hostess who proceeded to look over the dining area for a table for us. The restaurant was pretty busy, but there were tables available.

She decided to seat us at the very first table as you walk into the dining area. We realized that this was not a great place to sit with our 2-year-old. It would have been too busy and distracting. We saw an empty table by the window, and asked the hostess if we could sit there. We had sat at a table by the window numerous times before—our 2-year-old loves cars and trucks and was always entertained sitting there.

The hostess hesitated at first, and then said "no," she wanted us to sit at the first table. We tried to explain, but she still refused. Finally, she said she didn't want our son to disturb any of the customers sitting at the other tables, and that the highchair would be in the way. We were totally amazed.

We still tried to reason with her. We had been at this restaurant many times with our 2-year-old, without any incident. The highchair would not be in the way—the highchair takes up less room than a regular chair.

We have always been considerate of other people in restaurants when we have our son with us. Instead of seating him beside someone at the next table, we would have put him beside an empty seat. Not that he is bad, but he likes to say "hi" to people.

We realized then that we were being discriminated against because we had a toddler with us. There were no other children in the restaurant at that time. Maybe the restaurant should hang a sign on the door on Friday nights that reads "No Toddlers Allowed."

Julianne Coleman-Caporale
North Quincy

[Ed. Note: Bill Ma, manager of the restaurant, said he was unaware of the incident and will look into it. He said he is "sorry" about the customer's experience and that children of all ages are always welcome at the restaurant. He added, however, that the restaurant sometimes tries to seat children away from couples who appear to be having "intimate" conversations. Ma also said there is a possibility the table in question could have been reserved.]

South Shore YMCA Expansion Receives $16,667 From BankBoston

Kevin Bryant, president of BankBoston's South Region, announces the presentation of $16,667 from the BankBoston Charitable Foundation to the South Shore YMCA as part of a total BankBoston grant of $50,000 to the organization's $2.5 million capital campaign.

The gift supports the construction of additional facilities and improving the overall accessibility to the 40-year-old building.

Bryant cited the grant as part of BankBoston's commitment to the President's Summit for America's Future and similar "initiatives that help children and youth achieve their potential." Commending the YMCA for the important role it plays in the community, Bryant said that the bank "is pleased to be a partner in the work that you do."

42 Candidates For City Council

By PAUL HAROLD

Forty-two candidates, including all the incumbents, have taken out papers for the city's first city council election under the new Plan E charter.

The latest entrants included Mario Pradeiro, Joseph Benn (a former city policeman), and Lawrence Crowley.

There were only five candidates for the school committee, with Richard Post taking out papers this week.

Under the new charter, councillors could be paid up to $4,000 a year, while there was no salary for the school committee members.

CHIEF AVERY TRAVELS WEST

Police Chief John Avery travelled to Albuquerque, New Mexico to personally escort back to Quincy, a suspect in two city robberies.

The 22-year-old being held in New Mexico was believed to be the person who earlier this year robbed the Snack Bar at Quincy Shore Drive and Davis St., and who also attempted to rob McCaffrey's filling station at 721 Hancock St.

MORRISSEY INSPECTS CRASH SITE

M.D.C. Commissioner William Morrissey inspected the area along Furnace Brook Parkway where a young girl was recently killed by a milk truck. It was believed that the lack of a sidewalk and the high rock hummock contributed to the accident.

Morrissey pledged that the M.D.C. would cut down the rock mound by five feet and extend the sidewalk, just west of Anderson Rd. The estimated cost was $4,000-$5,000.

QUINCY-ISMS

Mayor Charles Ross left up to the school committee, the selection of the contractor for work at the Altherton Hough School. The two low-bidders were C.R. Burns of Boston who built the Squantum School addition, and Clark and Smith of Quincy. Deputy Fire Chief Robert Fenby said the state fire marshal would investigate the fire that destroyed the abandoned barn on the Caster estate at the corner of Palmer St. and Brockton Ave. Quincy Elks Exalted Ruler Edward Lewis attended the 85th Elks Grand Lodge convention in Cleveland. QYC Commodore Bola Youngquist was race chairman for Quincy Bay Race Week. F.L. Morrill and Co. offered a nine-room house on Hospital Hill for $11,500. Howard Johnson's Restaurant in the Granite Trust Building had a shopper's special for 50 cents—soup, sandwich and coffee. Tyrone Power and Rita Hayworth starred in "Blood and Sand" at the Adams Theater on School St. Ray Millard was in "It Happens Every Spring" at the Capitol Theatre on Hancock St. Quincy Legion Post 95 went to court to halt the state convention of the Mass. American Legion. Quincy Commander Donald Mackay learned earlier this week that the post's charter had been revoked. The owners of the Anchor and Oar Restaurant on Chestnut St. announced its closure. Among those Civil Service approved for appointment as police sergeant were Paul LaHive, Warren Corbett, Dante Pettinelli, David Curtin, Sr., and Morgan O'Regan. Carol Lee Griffin was captain of the girls' softball team at the Macy St. playground. South Shore Buick offered immediate delivery on a super, four-door sedan for $24,418.80. Ann Nestor of Glover St. married Raymond Birmingham at St. Ann's Church. Sacred Heart Church held masses at North Quincy High School, Houghs Neck Gospel met at the Manet Lodge Hall and the Bethlehem Lutheran Church was located on Garfield St. Mildred Tucker was the recent bride of Allan Japon. Hank Conroy set the pace among regulars on the Whiteman A.A. of the Quincy Park League with a 412 average. The six-week strike by steel workers in Greater Boston, including Norfolk Iron on Newport Ave., was expected to end with a contract offer of a five cents an hour increase. Mrs. and Mrs. Eugene Castelli of Brooks Ave. spent their honeymoon in Havana, Cuba. Quincy milk inspector John Curtin was state president of the milk inspectors' association. Full military honors were accorded James Foye, former commander of the Bryan VFW and former commander of the Quincy Veterans' Council, at his funeral this week. The Bargain Center held the "largest fur sale in Quincy's history" selling $96,000 of furs for $29,000. Jan Fossati and Paul Kendrick were recreation leaders at Adams playground.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Seafood Sauce, Fritters

At our dinner party last week guests said I should print some of the recipes in the paper.

So I took their advice and picked two easy recipes, and both can be made ahead of time. One is a seafood sauce, the other is a fritter.

Scallop-Shrimp Sauce

- 1 pound scallops
- 1/2 pound large shrimp
- 2 large cans tomatoes
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 large garlic cloves (chopped)
- 1 tablespoon basil
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 med onion (chopped)
- 1 pound bows
- salt and pepper to taste

This is in two parts. First, saute the onion and one garlic clove in half the oil and add the tomatoes, basil, salt and pepper and cook for at least 25 minutes.

In a medium size frying pan, saute the garlic in the rest of the oil and the butter or margarine. Add the scallops and the shrimp and saute until almost done. Set aside, and when the tomato sauce has cooked, add the scallops and shrimp.

Set aside. Do not heat, until you are ready to serve the pasta. Pour over bows and serve with grated cheese. (I made the sauce early in the day, and refrigerated it.)

Broccoli Fritters

- 1 package frozen chopped broccoli
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup grated romano or parmesan cheese
- salt and pepper to taste
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 tablespoons pancake flour
- vegetables oil for frying.

Cook the broccoli. Add the rest of the ingredients and blend well. It should be a thick mixture. Add a smidgen of water if needed.

In the hot oil, place by tablespoons and turn until brown. Drain on paper towel. Refrigerate if made early, otherwise keep in warming oven when ready to serve. There were 10 of us, and with these two recipes, I served a summer salad, chicken cutlets and fresh asparagus.

Electrical Service Interrupted By Adams St. Manhole Explosion

Electrical service to about 3,000 homes was briefly interrupted Monday by an explosion in a manhole on Adams Street.

Susan Stevens, a Massachusetts Electric spokeswoman, said a minor underground explosion at about 5 p.m. blew off the manhole cover near South Shore Buick. The cover landed about two or three feet away, she said.

Power was rerouted around the 23,000-volt cable within one minute, Stevens added.

Grace Raymondi To Receive Citizens Assn. Award Saturday

Grace Raymondi of 25 Quarterdeck Rd., Germantown, will receive the 25th annual "Citizen of the Year Award" of the Quincy Citizens-Wollaston Park Associations on Saturday.

The award will be presented at noon at Raffael's Restaurant in North Quincy.

Raymondi will receive the honor for "her many years of unsung community service," according to Do-

REAL ESTATE

Lorraine Ingenito Realtor of The Year

Lorraine Ingenito, sales associate in the firm of Century 21 Tullish & Clancy Real Estate in Weymouth, was recently named 1998 Realtor of the Year of the South Shore Association of Realtors at award ceremonies held at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Ingenito received the honor for her outstanding contributions and dedication to the Realtors Association and the real estate profession.

A member since 1980,

Ingenito has been on the Board of Directors since 1992. She has been active in board activities including serving on the Budget and Finance, Professional Standards, Multiple Listing Service, Building, and Board Orientation Committees. She has also served as chairman of Board Orientation since 1995.

Ingenito has received the Professional Recognition Award for the past two years. In addition, she was the recipient of the Diane Campbell - President's Awards in 1996 and was applauded by her fellow Realtors for her "indomitable spirit and sense of humor, continued commitment to the Realtors Organization and the giving of herself to its newest members."

She has been active in community activity and is a member of the Weymouth Art Association, attends weekly art classes and recently won an Honorary Mention Award for her painting "Wild Flowers."

Present at the awards banquet were friends and family members and 16 business associates from Century 21 Tullish & Clancy Real Estate. Over 110 members, guests, and friends were in attendance.

As local Realtor of the Year, Ingenito's name will be placed in nomination for receipt of the Massachusetts Realtor of the Year Award to be presented in September at the Massachusetts Association of Realtors in Boston.

Realtors Annual Convention Sept. 8-10

One of the largest educational programs ever offered to local real estate professionals will take place later this summer when the Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR) holds its 74th annual convention and trade show Sept. 8-10 at the Hynes Convention Center in Boston.

The three-day program will feature daily offerings of courses which will allow agents to acquire the 12 hours of mandatory continuing education required to renew their real estate license. In all, the convention will offer more than 50 educational sessions for both new licensees and experienced brokers and agents, many of which will focus on the real estate industry's latest and most popular issues and trends.

Among the topics to be addressed each day will be legal liability issues, including fair housing, landlord-tenant laws, buyer agency and environmental law, and technology oriented subjects such as creating a virtual office, prospecting and customizing MLS reports, and covering assets with Internet risk management. Additionally, there will be sessions on office management techniques, creative management of advertising expenditures, real estate exchanges and successful strategies for working with builders.

During the association's two-day trade show, which takes place in conjunction with the state convention, attendees will be able to view over 80 exhibits on the latest industry-related products and services available to real estate licensees and consumers.

Early registration fees for the complete MAR Convention & Trade Show package, which apply through Aug. 7, are $200 for Realtors and $250 for non-member licensees, with a special $25 discount for Realtor members who will attend for the first time. Single-day packages also are available at a cost of $99 for Realtors and $150 for non-member licensees registering for one day.

For more information, call the MAR Customer Service Department at 1-800-725-6272.

USS Salem To Participate In Historic Ships Radio Event

The USS Salem Radio Club will sponsor its second annual Historic Ships Radio Event this Saturday and Sunday.

Initiated last year by the club as a special event station with club members and special guests operating from onboard the USS Salem at the Fore River shipyard in Quincy Point, this year's event has been expanded to include almost 20 historic ships worldwide, including one in Russia.

The USS Salem Radio Club is a group of active volunteers at the museum who share a common interest in amateur radio. The club operates with the amateur radio sign K1USN. The Salem's original radio call sign during her active duty days was N1QY, and today the ship has been assigned the U.S. Navy/Marine Corps MARS call sign NNN1QY, putting the ship back on the air as a participant in U.S. Naval communications.

The USS Salem CA139 is a retired U.S. Navy Navy/Des Moines class heavy cruiser. Built by Bethlehem Steel at Fore River, the ship was commissioned in 1949. After spending most of her career as a flagship of the U.S. Sixth Fleet, the Salem was decommissioned in January 1959.

In 1994, the Salem returned to her birthplace where she now serves as the centerpiece of the U.S. Naval and Shipbuilding Museum. Most of the ship's original radio equipment is intact, and much of it is now operational on amateur radio frequencies.

The radio event will feature not only modern equipment brought on-board the ships, but wherever possible also will feature the ships' original radio equipment.

Officials expect the Salem to be operating several pieces of her original equipment, including TCC's, and what is believed to be the world's only still-tion, area dignitaries, military officials and well-known amateur radio personalities have been invited onboard the Salem as guest operators.

The Salem's original equipment was operated mostly on CW, with some AM (mostly around 75 meters). In addition, the modern equipment will operate on almost all bands and modes, rotating as conditions warrant.

For more information, call the shipbuilding museum at 479-7900 or check the museum's web site at <http://www.uss-salem.org> (there is a link on the main page to the radio club's site). In addition, a preliminary frequency list and schedule may be found in several amateur radio publications.

Nawal Saffarini Wins Labor Scholarship

North Quincy High School senior Nawal Saffarini was recently named the 1998 recipient of the RWDSU Local 444's Scholarship in the amount of $300.

The award was presented at the 40th annual Scholarship Awards Program of the Massachusetts AFL-CIO.

Nawal, a Quincy resident, plans to attend Northeastern University in the fall.

Ground To Be Broken For New Library Addition

"We can't build the addition with cheaper, non-matching types of materials. If you do that, you're cheating yourself and to be honest, I never entertained thoughts of doing so."

"We're thrilled that it's finally going to happen. It gives us something to celebrate. The lives of those who use the library will be greatly enriched."

The mayor's $3.1 million funding package for the project required no additional bond issue. Other funding the city already had for the project totaled $11.5 million, including a $7.2 million city bond issue and a $3.5 million state construction grant.

The total cost of the 50,000-square-foot addition rose, in part, from an unexpectedly high $12.3 million construction bid. The mayor and other officials have said a thriving state economy was among the reasons for the higher price.

The contractor, Rich, aided the city by holding his original bid for two months even though he was not bound to do so under the law.

Because of the late construction start, the new addition probably will not open until early 2000. Sheets and library officials, however, still hope to hold a dedication ceremony on New Year's Eve 1999 in conjunction with the city's millennium celebration.

The library's Coletti building has been closed since April in preparation for construction of the addition. The original Richardson building, which is now the library's reference section, has remained open while the Crane's North Quincy branch is temporarily housing the bulk of the main library's materials.

The new addition was designed by Childs, Bertman and Tseckares, an award-winning architectural firm in Boston.

The original building was designed in 1880 by Henry Hobson Richardson, an internationally-famous architect, and opened two years later. The Coletti building was added in 1939.

Locke Urges Law Officials Not To Give Up Drug Fight

Norfolk County District Attorney Jeffrey Locke recently told a regional gathering of law enforcement officials that they must not give up the fight to keep drugs out of the hands of the nation's schoolchildren.

Locke was the keynote speaker at the annual meeting of the New England Organizes Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force Regional Conference held at the Attitash Mountain Conference Center in Bartlett, N.H.

"We must not be willing to concede defeat to those who clamor on behalf of the 'easy fix' of (drug) legalization," Locke said in prepared remarks to an audience of federal, state, and local drug enforcement professionals.

"The challenge is to remain focused and committed to combating drugs in our communities," he said. "What one agency does in one neighborhood may be as important to the overall fight as what another may be doing at the international level."

Locke, former deputy chief of the U.S. Attorney's drug task force in Massachusetts, compared his life experiences in stopping the shipment of illegal drugs from overseas to his work as the county's top law enforcement officer.

Locke said law enforcement efforts to stop the spread of drugs should not be an either-or contest with those who favor an educational approach.

"Prevention and strict enforcement should not be competing concepts," he said, adding that agencies must learn to share resources wisely.

The district attorney told the group of a recent D.A.R.E. graduation program at a Norfolk County middle school where he was approached by a fifth grader.

Locke said the 12-year-old expressed fear that the much-touted school prevention program "was a joke" because drugs were readily available to his classmates.

"You can't protect us," the student told him. Locke said, "I had to admit there was much truth in what he said. But I reject the idea that the answer is to say we failed and do nothing."

Locke reminded the group that drug use is on the rise with young people even as it falls among adults. From 1992 to 1996, marijuana use by teens increased 400 percent, while heroin use nearly doubled.

Juvenile crime is also on the upswing, and is expected to increase by as much as 20 percent by 2005, Locke said.

"We must speak up and not give up," he said. "That 12-year-old is counting on us to prove him wrong."

•Catherine A. Friel, who graduated magna cum laude and received a bachelor of science degree in business administration. Friel is a supervisor of donor records for the American Red Cross in Dedham.

•Pamela Wright, who graduated magna cum laude and received a bachelor of science degree in business administration. Wright is in ocean import sales support/customer services for BOC International Inc. in South Boston.

Accent On Good Buys, Good Entertainment

Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival Opens Today

The 28th annual Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival, featuring good buys and family entertainment, opens today (Thursday) for a three-day run through Saturday.

The event, sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association (QCBPA), will be held on Hancock St. which will be closed off to vehicular traffic between Granite and School Sts.

As in the past, shoppers will be able to stroll down Hancock St. looking for merchandise on the sidewalk in front of participating stores.

QCBPA Executive Director Maralin Manning said the event should be fun for all ages.

"We just know the luck of good weather is sitting on our doorstep," she said. "The event will be bigger and better than ever."

Entertainment and other activities are scheduled for 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. all three days.

Mayor James Sheets has been invited to attend the opening ceremonies which will begin today at 10 a.m.

Nearly 100 canopied booths and other attractions will dot Hancock St., giving it a festival appearance for the three days. In all, more than 50 QCBPA member stores and businesses will participate along with other organizations.

A "Center Stage" for entertainers and musical units will be set up in the middle of Hancock St. across from Cottage Ave.

New performers this year will consist of Rick Russell and the Cadillac Horns, sponsored by State Street Bank, Sherman Realty and Burgin & Platner, who will play Thursday from 6 to 8 p.m.; and 11 different folk, rock and blues acts sponsored by South Shore Musicians Referral, New Song Folk Club who will play over the three-day period (see schedule below).

Among the returning entertainment will be the Riverside Theater Group Live Broadway Revue, sponsored by Stop & Shop/Eurest Dining, Fleet Bank, BankBoston and Eastern Bank, Friday from 6 to 8 p.m.; Tae Kwon Do Professional Demonstration Team, sponsored by J. Kim Institute of Tae Kwon Do, Saturday from 10 to 11 a.m.; and Wah Lum Kung Fu Demonstration Team, sponsored by Wah Lum

Kung Fu, Saturday from 2 to 3 p.m.

WIDA Radio will broadcast from the festival all three days. In addition, Quincy Access Television will film footage for a program to be aired at a later date.

Other three-day features will include crafter and vendor booths, children's rides, pony rides, Norfolk County drug-sniffing demonstration, crime prevention booth, and more.

Scheduled events:

Morrisette On A Roll Heading Into Playoffs

By LIAM FITZGERALD

As the weather has started to heat up, so has the Morrisette American Legion baseball team, winners of five consecutive games following Monday's double-header sweep of Canton.

"We've really turned it around after a rough start," said Morrisette manager Ray Cattaneo. "We've won nine of our last 11, and I credit Tom (Malvesti, head coach) and Billy (Corcoran, pitching coach) for doing a good job. This is a good time to peak, with the playoffs just around the corner."

Heading into Tuesday's action, Morrisette (11-7) trailed second-place West Roxbury (12-6) by a game and third-place Milton (12-7) by half a game with two games remaining. A win over Milton Tuesday and Randolph yesterday (Wednesday), coupled with a West Roxbury loss, would secure second place for Morrisette and home-field advantage in the playoffs.

The Zone 6 playoffs (best two-of-three series) are slated to begin this weekend. The Sectional playoffs, also best two-of-three, begin next Wednesday, July 22. The Sectional winners move on to Sandwich for the Final Eight double-elimination Dept. Championship Tournament Aug. 1-7.

Morrisette will serve as host of the Northeast Regional Tournament Aug. 13-17 at Adams Field. The winner of that Regional will join the other Regional winners at the American Legion World Series Aug. 20-25 in Las Vegas, Nev.

In the sweep of Canton, Morrisette won the opener, 5-4, in eight innings, and took the nightcap, 15-13.

Rob Celata (2-1) fired a complete-game six-hitter in the opener, allowing two earned runs, fanning 13 and walking two. Ray Cattaneo (2 for 3, four RBI) broke a 3-3 tie with a two-run double in the top of the eighth. Chris Bregoli and Jim Cunio each had two hits.

In the second game, Cattaneo again was Morrisette's leading hitter, going 3 for 4 with three RBI. Also contributing offensively were Celata (2 for 4, three RBI), Erik Fagan (2 for 3, two RBI), Shawn Manning (2 for 3, two RBI) and Keith Doherty (3 for 3, two runs). Jerry Burke pitched just two-thirds of an inning, but earned the win in relief of starter Ryan Ploof. Celata pitched, two scoreless innings and got the save.

ERIK FAGAN (2) receives congratulations from his teammates after scoring a run in the victory over Quincy.

Sunday, Morrisette rolled past first-place Braintree, 15-8, as Bregoli (1-0) went the distance to post the victory. Bregoli scattered 11 hits, allowed seven earned runs, struck out two and walked five. Fagan's three-run double highlighted a six-run, second-inning outburst and Steve Maze, Manning, Fagan, Walker, Goodrich and Doherty all collected RBI singles.

Saturday, Doherty (2-2) tossed a two-hitter to go with nine strikeouts, leading Morrisette over visiting Cohasset, 2-1. Doherty, who walked just two, outduelled Cohasset's Bill Fitzgerald,

Quincy's Hitting Woes Extend Losing Streak

Scoring just three runs in its last three games (all losses), the Quincy American Legion baseball team looked to break out of its offensive drought as the season concludes this week.

Quincy (5-13) also hoped to break a five-game winless skid when it hosted Zone 6 East foe West Roxbury on Tuesday and Canton yesterday at 5:30 p.m. in the season finale. The Canton game was originally slated for 8 p.m. but was moved up to accommodate an additional Legion tilt.

In recent action, Quincy's Jon Caliri went the distance and allowed just two earned runs, but host Randolph came away with a 5-0 triumph. Caliri walked only two and fanned five.

"Jon pitched an excellent game, but we couldn't score," said Quincy head coach Larry Taglieri. "We got on base, but couldn't get the big hits when we needed them. We left 10 runners on base, so we definitely had our chances."

Sunday, Quincy hosted Milton and came out on the losing end of a 6-1 score. Last Friday, Quincy jumped ahead of Morrisette, 2-0, in the first, then surrendered five runs in the fourth and sixth innings and lost, 10-2.

In Quincy's two-run first, Greg Peck singled to deep short, Pat McGann walked and Brian Linskey scorched a two-run double to left. Morrisette pitcher John Sullivan got out of the jam by picking Linskey off and yielded just two more hits—a third-inning single by Lou Bell and a single by Frank Alibrandi in the seventh.

Losing pitcher Dennis Palardy went the distance, allowing five earned runs on seven hits, walking six and striking out four. Four Quincy errors in the sixth resulted in five unearned runs as Morrisette put the game out of reach.

Quincy also fell to visiting Cohasset last Thursday and host West Roxbury last Wednesday. Last Tuesday, Quincy split a double-header with Morrisette, losing the opener, 17-3, before rallying in the nightcap to pick up a 7-5 victory.

In the opener, Morrisette jumped out to an early lead after two innings and put the game away with an 11-run outburst in the fourth, sending 15 batters to the plate and knocking Quincy starter Dan Toland out of the game.

Quincy got on the board in the second on a RBI single by Tony Staffier, scoring Matt Graham. Two more runs came across in the third when Steve Wiltshire doubled in Peck and McGann. Morrisette's Sullivan went the distance for the victory, scattering 10 hits, issuing two walks and striking out seven.

In the nightcap, Quincy trailed 5-1 heading into the seventh, then put six runs on the board against Morrisette starter Ray Cattaneo and reliever Rob Celata.

Pinch hitter Mike Keddy began the inning with a single off Cattaneo's glove, then moved to second on a single by Bell. Graham laid down a bunt that Cattaneo fielded, but he threw wildly to third, loading the bases with nobody out. Celata, the losing pitcher, came on to pitch and walked McGann to force in the first run.

Peck followed with an

St. John's Baseball Marks 40th Anniversary

The St. John's Baseball League of Quincy celebrated its 40th anniversary at a banquet held June 25 at Lombardo's in Randolph.

Organized by St. John's Little League Commissioner Pompeo Cardarelli and St. John's Farm League Commissioner Kevin Todd with assistance from Kathy Simmons, the event attracted 688 people.

In attendance were the players from all 15 teams, along with coaches, sponsors and the players' parents and grandparents. Among the invited guests was Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymond, who gave the keynote speech.

Over 250 to 300 boys and girls participated in the program, with all players receiving trophies and plaques following another successful season.

Anthony Constantino, the only living founder of the league, was honored for his tireless efforts and dedication over the past 40 years. Constantino and his wife, Marie, were presented with Bulova watches from the league's commissioners.

Retired after 43 years as a supervisor in the rigging department at the Fore River shipyard, Constantino, 82, remains actively involved as president of the league's association.

"He orders and picks up the uniforms, arranges the fields for the games, and writes up the schedules," said Marie Constantino. "He still enjoys it after all these years."

Anthony Constantino founded the league in the late 1950s along with his brother, Rosario, and James Williams, Frank Rusconi and Eric Lindewall. John Noonan, chairman of the Quincy Council on Aging, has handled publicity for the league for many years.

Since the league's inception, St. John's Church has played an important role, said Mrs. Constantino.

"Fr. Leo Lynch assisted with the formation of the league and helped us a great deal," she said. "We owe a debt of gratitude to Fr. (William) McCarthy and all the St. John's priests without whose support we couldn't have survived."

In attendance were Fr. Lynch, Fr. McCarthy, Rev. Peter Quinn and Deacon Joseph Papile, along with Fr. Joseph O'Brien, a former St. John's Little League player.

The current sponsors of the league are: Gilcoine and Burke Insurance Agency, A.H. Campbell & Son, Huntington Realty, Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, Paul Brodeur Construction Co., Stephen Matarazzo, DMD; Bolea-Buonfiglio Funeral Home, Sweeney Funeral Home, Reggie's Oil Co., Family Tire & Auto, Nation One Mortgage Realty, Sunshine Fruit, Studio 1400, Dairy Freeze, and Impressions Plus.

RBI single, scoring Bell. After Wiltshire struck out, Adam Delorey singled to left, driving in Graham and McGann to tie the game.

Quincy scored the eventual game-winning run when Bryan Linskey squared around to bunt, with Peck breaking in from third. Linskey missed the pitch, but the ball eluded Morrisette catcher Steve Maze, allowing Peck to scamper home and push Quincy ahead, 6-5. After a walk to Staffier loaded the bases, Keddy drove in Delorey with a groundout, providing Quincy with a two-run cushion.

Linskey, who yielded five earned runs, scattered six hits, walked six and struck out six to earn the victory and the praise of his head coach.

"Brian brings a real charge to the team," said Taglieri. "He's a battler and give us everything he has every time he plays. He kept at it and there was no way he was coming out. It was his game all the way. With him on the hill, I knew we'd be in the game.

"The whole team deserves credit for this win. As hard as the first game was, they put it behind them and came back in the nightcap. They got it done, and I'm proud of them."

Trailing 1-0 in the fourth, Quincy tied it up when Delorey smacked a one-out triple and Linskey followed it with an RBI double. Morrisette re-took the lead with two runs in the fifth and two more in the sixth, before Quincy rallied to win it in its final at bat.

Sullivan fired a complete-game four-hitter, sparking Morrisette over Quincy, 10-2, last Friday. After surrendering two first-inning runs, Sullivan shut Quincy down, yielding just two additional hits. In a five-run fourth, Sullivan, Manning and Cattaneo had RBI singles, Bregoli drew a bases-loaded walk and Doherty had a run-scoring sacrifice fly. Morrisette scored five more runs in the sixth, with the benefit of one hit and four Quincy errors.

Despite an excellent pitching performance by Ploof, Morrisette fell to Milton, 3-2, last Wednesday. Ploof pitched 6 1/3 innings and yielded three runs (all earned) on eight hits, walked two and fanned three. Morrisette scored both of its runs in the third when Manning belted a two-run triple.

Last Tuesday, Morrisette rolled to a 17-3 victory over Quincy in the first half of a double-header, then relinquished a four-run lead and lost, 7-5, in the nightcap.

In the opener, Morrisette put the game out of reach in the fourth with an eight-hit, 11-run explosion. Sullivan, who went 3 for 5 with a solo home run and three RBI, got the win with a solid complete-game effort. He scattered 10 hits, walked two and fanned seven and held Quincy scoreless over the final four innings.

McLoughlin (3 for 4, four RBI), Manning (4 for 5, three RBI), Walker (3 for 4, RBI) and Bregoli (2 for 2, two walks, two runs, RBI) also contributed to Morrisette's 17-hit attack.

Morrisette built a 5-1 lead in the second game, only to see it slip away in Quincy's six-run, seventh-inning eruption. Manning blasted a two-run triple and McLoughlin smacked a two-run double. Cattaneo cruised through the first six before he ran into trouble in the seventh and was relieved by Celata. Celata didn't fare much better, yielding a walk and two hits and was charged with the loss.

South Shore Buick Enters Playoffs Sporting Perfect 20-0 Record

By defeating Burke Club, 4-0, defending Quincy Youth Baseball Junior League champion South Shore Buick wrapped up the regular season with a perfect 20-0 record.

Buick, which enters the playoffs as the No. 1 seed, was led by the outstanding pitching effort of John Folino (12-0) who pitched a complete-game two-hitter with eight strikeouts. Buick's Matt McNeil and Brian Weeks came up with tremendous defensive plays to help preserve the win.

Steve Williams led the winners' offensive attack with a solo home run in the first. Sean Lynch made a key contribution with a two-run double in the fourth, before scoring Buick's fourth and final run on a throwing error.

In other recent action, an early offensive explosion sparked Beacon over Rotary, 12-4.

Beacon scored twice in the first, four times in the second and added a six-run, third-inning outburst to put the game out of reach. Winning pitcher Dean Sandoz, who fanned five, helped his own cause with a double.

Other big hitters for Beacon were Ryan Feldhoff (2 doubles, triple), Matt Grazioso (2 singles), Mike Cafano (double), Paul Lennon (double), Tim Desaulniers (double) and Evan Harrington (double). Lennon and Robert Baker were the defensive standouts.

For Rotary, losing pitcher Malcolm Lynn struck out four. Eric O'Dea singled and tripled and Chris Jacobs added a triple. O'Dea and Lynn also turned in solid defensive performances.

Local 2222 captured the Quincy Youth Baseball Triple A championship by edging CNA Insurance, 7-6, in the recent title game at Mitchell Field.

Both teams played outstanding games, with the outcome not determined until Local recorded the final out. Local, the American League champion, was paced by Joe Norris who collected 3 hits and capped a six-run second inning with a three-run blast that cleared the fence.

Local pitcher Joe McManus went the distance for the victory, striking out eight and walking three. Ryan Barter had 3 hits and Chris Tierney, Tom McKenna and Dan Gallagher each chipped in with a hit for the winners. Among the outstanding defensive plays was a tremendous catch by Local right fielder Mike Barter in the sixth.

Local is coached by Dave Sommers and includes

CNA, representing the National League, capped off an outstanding season with its appearance in the title game. Jon O'Connor pitched a complete game, striking out 10 and walking four. He also collected 4 hits, while Rob Richards added 2 hits. Kellan Losi played a strong game behind the plate.

CNA is coached by Joe Losi and includes Shaun Richardson, Dennis Conway, Brian Cunningham, Chris Garvey, Paul Hardiman, Tyler Lagrotteria, Harman Losi, Kellan Losi, Mike Merlis, Jon O'Connor, Steve O'Neill, Justin Petkus, Rob Richards, Joe Verrochi, Matt Boyle and Chris Perkins.

Local advanced to the final by defeating Yellow Cab, 14-4, in the semifinals. Local was paced by winning pitcher Ryan Barter, who went the distance and helped his own cause with 3 hits. Joe Norris was a perfect 5 for 5 with 2 doubles and a triple, Tim Sommers and Joe McManus had 2 hits apiece and Paul McLean, Rob Gardiner and Matt Palmer played solid defensive games.

Yellow Cab wrapped up a successful season, led offensively by Roy Keefe (4 hits) and Justin Boyd (2 hits). Chris Scherer and Mike Rooney each scored a run and played well defensively.

Quincy Bay Race Week Casts Off Aug. 7

The 61st edition of Quincy Bay Race Week (QBRW) will be held Aug. 7-9.

Eight yacht clubs--Squantum, Wollaston, Quincy, Town River, Metropolitan, Braintree, Wessagusset and South Shore--will sponsor the event. Entries are also expected from Hingham, Hull and Scituate.

Divisions for the 1998 QBRW are Inside Line (Optimists, N10s), Outside Line (Lasers, 420s, 110s, 210s, Thunderbirds, Hustlers) and Ocean Race (PHRF). Registrations are now being accepted.

Established to promote recreational boating on the South Shore, QBRW draws almost 400 entries over the three-day regatta. The South Shore Yacht Club is combining its annual Meatball Regatta for PHRF boats with QBRW this year.

Historically one of the largest sailboat regattas in Massachusetts Bay, QBRW is seeing a resurgence in the number of entries. Race organizers attribute this to the growth in youth sailing and welcome entries from the area's young sailors.

QBRW will host a parade of boats (open to power boats only) that provides the yacht clubs' power boats with an opportunity to participate in the festivities. The parade will start Sunday morning at Town River Yacht Club. It ends at Squantum Yacht Club, where judging will take place.

Quincy Yacht Club, which swept last year's awards for Best Decorated, Most Decorated, Most Original, and Largest Number of Entries, will attempt to defend its titles in the four categories.

Your Horoscope by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Beware of what you say this week. People rely on your honesty, but you could make promises that you cannot keep. If you maintain a low profile socially this weekend, all will turn out great.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Don't procrastinate — tend to those chores that are left undone around the home. You'll feel so much better once you have completed everything. By the weekend, you'll be able to relax and enjoy some outdoor activities.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A deal is a deal, and you're quick to recognize it. The latter part of the week is best spent with friends and family. You learn some valuable lessons from them.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It isn't the best week for a sit-down chat with a partner — which could lead to a number of misunderstandings. Wait until this person is more receptive. Finances are the major problem here.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) While you feel independent, you are seriously considering a lifelong commitment — either professional or personal in nature. Weigh this important decision carefully. The rest of your life depends on this.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Cantankerous relatives are the bane of your week. Instead of being trapped by bickering and complaining, go about your business. It's best to bite your tongue and swallow your pride.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Avoid signing on the dotted line. Contractual agreements are not favored. Be aware of those who would take advantage of a weak moment you could be having. Trust your instincts.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Don't be overly secretive. Confiding in a close pal could be the answer to your pressing problems, so don't be shy. An intriguing financial deal is possible this weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Money could be the subject of a debate with a loved one. However, you seem to know just how to handle the problem. The weekend is calm, and togetherness is accented.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Don't allow minor annoyances to get your week off to a bad start. Avoid squabbles with loved ones who are having personal problems. Children are relying on your strength.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You and a partner share important responsibilities equally. While you disagree from the get-go, it all falls into place as the week progresses. This weekend is a good time to just relax.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) While you could be in an indecisive mood on the job, it doesn't hamper harmony on the home front later on. A quiet weekend with a partner or family member brings a surprise.

A Thought For The Week

SCOTT DEWARE

The importance of funerals has been recognized since ancient times when our ancestors conducted reverential ceremonies to accompany the burial of their dead. A funeral commemorates the life that has been lived and offers family and friends an opportunity to pay tribute to their loved one.

The time immediately following the death of a loved one can be traumatic and very stressful. At the Deware Family Funeral Homes we provide family members with the guidance and emotional support they need at this time in their lives. We are always ready to provide you with professional after care service.

Our sincere commitment to excellent service is shared by every associate on our staff. Our funeral home provides for every detail... from pre-need funeral planning to care after the service.

You can be assured that our most important concern is you and your family and your desires. We are proud of our dedication to treat families like they were our own...

At the Deware Family Funeral Homes we are big enough to serve you and small enough to know you...

Brush Hill Tours Employee

A funeral service for Christine A. (Noren) Durgin, 49, of Quincy, was held July 11 at the Hamel, Wickes & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

Mrs. Durgin died July 8 at Quincy Hospital.

An employee of Brush Hill Tours of Randolph, she also had worked as a scale master of BFI for 14 years before working for Brush Hill Tours.

Born in Cambridge, she was a lifelong resident of Quincy.

She is survived by a son, Kurt E. Noren of Quincy; her parents, Merwin "Red" Durgin and Muriel Durgin of Quincy; a sister, Joan Leslie Durgin of California; and several nephews and nieces.

Burial was private. Donations may be made to the Make A Wish Foundation, 295 Devonshire St., Boston, MA 02110.

Olga M. Tozzi, 82

Waitress For Montilio's

A funeral Mass Olga M. (Berrini) Tozzi, 82, of Quincy, was celebrated Monday in St. John the Baptist Church.

Mrs. Tozzi died July 10 at the Bay Path at Duxbury Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in Duxbury after a brief illness.

She worked as a waitress for eight years in the restaurant of the former Montilio's Bakery in Quincy Center before retiring many years ago.

She was a former member of the St. John's Church Ladies Sodality.

Born, raised, and educated in Milford, she lived most of her life in Quincy until moving to the nursing center in September.

Mrs. Tozzi is survived by a son and a daughter, Louis P. Tozzi of Marshfield and Marie A. Nelson of Middleboro; a sister, Edna Cavallo of Duxbury; and three grandchildren, and a great-grandson.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Donations may be made to Bay Path at Duxbury Resident Activity Fund, 308 Kingstown Way, Duxbury, MA 02332.

David D'Ambrosia, 70

Construction Co. Superintendent

A memorial Mass for Daniel D'Ambrosia, 70, of San Diego, formerly of Quincy, was celebrated July 11 at St. John's Church.

Mr. D'Ambrosia died June 11 at home of leukemia.

He was general superintendent for 40 years at the Harrison Construction Co. in San Diego. He was a retired member of the carpenters union, a former motor-sports driver and a motorcycle race in New England and California.

He was a member of the Cannoneers Club, the Woodworkers Association and the Clambers Group.

He was a Navy musician during World War II, performing on more than 300 U.S.O. shows.

Born in Weymouth, he attended Quincy schools and the Wentworth Institute in Boston.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT HOME PROGRAM

NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST A RELEASE OF GRANT FUNDS

City of Quincy 1305 Hancock Street Quincy, MA 02169 376-1362	Town of Weymouth 75 Middle Street Weymouth, MA 02189 325-2000 ext. 331	NOTICE: Issued: July 10, 1998 Expires: July 25, 1998 Application Grant Number: M-98-DC-0214

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:

On or about July 27, 1998 the City of Quincy and the Town of Weymouth will request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal HOME funds under the National Affordable Housing Act of 1990 (PL 101-625) (as amended) for the following projects:

A. First Time Homebuyers - Quincy - $30,000 Weymouth - $141,656.00
Assist income-eligible buyers with below-market interest rate mortgages, down-payment assistance, and a portion of closing costs. Available for properties purchased in the City of Quincy and the Town of Weymouth.

B. Moderate Rehabilitation - Quincy - $175,000
Assist income-eligible homeowners to access moderate rehabilitation loans and grants. Available for properties located in the City of Quincy for income-eligible residents.

C. Community Housing Development Organization (CHDO's) and Rental Acquisition/Rehabilitation - Quincy - $190,753.00 Weymouth - $30,191.00
Acquisition and support of rental housing projects and moderate or substantial rehabilitation of existing structures for multifamily rental use.

D. CHDO Operation - Weymouth - $9,300.00
Assist CHDO with operating expenses
The reason for the decision not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement are as follows:

The projects qualify for categorical exclusion under 24 CFR 58.35.

Environmental reviews for these projects have been conducted by the City of Quincy and are available for public examination and copying at the Department of Planning and Community Development, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, MA 02169.

RELEASE OF GRANT FUNDS

The City of Quincy and the Town of Weymouth will undertake the project described above with HOME funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). The City of Quincy and the Town of Weymouth are certifying to HUD that the City of Quincy and Town of Weymouth consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision making, and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the City of Quincy and the Town of Weymouth may use the HOME funds, and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) of 1969 and other environmental responsibilities listed in 24 CFR Part 58. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the Chief Executive Officer or other officer of the City of Quincy and the Weymouth Board of Selectmen, (b) that the City of Quincy and the Town of Weymouth Environmental Review Record for the projects indicated omission of a required decision finding, or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process, or (c) another Federal agency has submitted written comments pursuant to Section 309 of the Clean Air Act or Section 102(c) of NEPA. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58), and may be addressed to HUD, Boston Federal Office Building, 10 Causeway St., Boston, MA 02222-1092. Objections to the release of funds on bases other than these stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after 15 days from the date of request for funds listed above will be considered by HUD.

The Contractor to whom the Contract may be awarded will be required to appear at this office with the surety offered by him and execute the Contract within ten days from the date of the mailing of the notice from the Commissioner to the bidder, according to the address given by him that the contract is ready for signature and in case of his failure or neglect to do so, the Commissioner, may, at his option, determine that the bidder has abandoned the contract and thereupon the certified check of bid bond shall become the property of the City of Quincy.

The Contractor will be required to provide both a performance bond and payment/labor and materials bond, each for the full amount of the contract. A certified check of bid bond in the amount of 5% of the base bid shall accompany each bid.

Specifications may be obtained at the Public Works Engineering Division upon a non-refundable deposit of Ten Dollars ($10.00) for each set. Bidders requesting specifications mailed to them shall add a separate mailing fee of five dollars ($5.00) to cover the mailing and handling.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or to accept the bid deemed in the best interest of the City.

Hospital's Center For Women's Health Closing In October

The Center for Women's Health (CWH), an obstetrical/gynecological practice owned and operated by and based at Quincy Hospital, has announced it is not accepting new patients.

CWH will provide options to its current patients for continued care, as the practice will be closing in October.

Quincy Hospital will continue to operate its maternity unit, expecting to deliver over 600 babies in FY 1998. The unit provides highly-personalized nursing care, and offers patients all private rooms.

The hospital established the Center for Women's Health in 1987 to ensure that uninsured women and women covered by Medicaid had access to obstetrical care. Working in conjunction with Manet Community Health Center, the hospital developed a nurse-midwifery practice to ensure that these women could get care locally. Over the years, the center has delivered over 4,100 babies.

Access to obstetrical services has improved over the years as a direct result of changes in Medicaid policy to encourage more private practitioners to become Medicaid providers. Changes in payment rates and enrollment in management care plans have enhanced the provider options for local women.

"We are working with Manet Community Health Center and Crown Ob/Gyn to ensure that our patients still receive the best possible care and will still be able to deliver their babies at Quincy Hospital," said Jeffrey Doran, Quincy Hospital CEO. "With all the different pressures in health care, we evaluated the nurse-midwifery practice in the context of our mission and determined that sufficient alternatives exist.

"It is never easy to eliminate a service, but Quincy Hospital has been subsidizing this practice since its inception, and underwrote $600,000 last year. The hospital can no longer afford to do so, and the center will close on Oct. 9, 1998."

"Manet worked closely with Quincy Hospital to develop the Center for Women's Health and we have been immersed in the discussions regarding the feasibility of continuing the service," said Ellen Hafer, executive director of Manet Community Health Center. "Manet will continue to provide obstetrical care for our patients, and use Quincy Hospital as our delivery site. I am very comfortable with the fact that the hospital carefully considered the needs of the community and the patients, and we fully support their decision."

Said Louis Mazzini, chairman of the Quincy Hospital Board of Managers: "The decision to close the Center for Women's Health was a difficult one.

The Board of Managers has always been very proud of the role the center has played for women in need in the community.

"We also have a responsibility to look at the overall fiscal health of the organization. As the administration was planning the next budget, this was the time to evaluate the subsidy we have provided to the center over the years. I believe the hospital is acting in the best interest of the community to utilize our limited resources in the most effective manner."

"The Quincy Hospital management team took a hard look at the hospital's services and determined that changes had to be made in light of new financial pressures from the Balanced Budget Amendment and the impact of shorter lengths of stay on hospital reimbursement," said Mayor James Sheets. "I believe that the decision to close the Center for Women's Health and the thought that has gone into providing options for the patients demonstrates the hospital's continued concern for women in this region."

TIME FOR A NEW BATTERY?

Generally, car batteries can be expected to last three to four years. As this time approaches, car owners should take careful note of sluggish start-ups, which may warn of the need for a new battery. Before making this determination, battery terminals should be checked to see that they are clean and securely clamped. The water levels of non-sealed batteries should also be checked to see if more water is needed. And, if more should be determined if an electrical problem is draining the battery. Beyond these checks, auto technicians can perform two tests to assess battery health: a load test, which measures voltage under realistic conditions, and a test involving a hydrometer to check acid concentration in battery cells.

Don't hesitate to ask any questions about your battery or about anything else related to your car when you bring it into LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO for servicing. We have modern test equipment, the right parts and the best ASE Certified service technicians available in the area. Let's get acquainted at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are a Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer. Hours: Mon. - Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm. We're also your local source for propane for grills, motor homes, and converted vehicles.

HINT: At 0 degrees Fahrenheit, car batteries produce less than half the power they can produce at 80 degrees F.

Others Cited As Safe Wollaston Beach Gets Green Light For Swimming

Wollaston Beach is open for swimming this week after having been given a clean bill of health by the Metropolitan District Commission.

Parts of the beach, along with other MDC-operated beaches in surrounding communities, had been closed in recent weeks because of fecal coliform contamination.

The MDC's Beaches Water Hotline, however, reported at press time Tuesday that "all (MDC) beaches are open and swimmable today."

The MDC reported last week that temporary swimmers' advisories were in effect for Wollaston Beach at both Channing Street and Milton Street. Two weeks ago, they were in effect at the beach's Milton Street and Sachem Street testing sites.

The MDC samples water at four sections of Wollaston Beach: Sachem Street, Milton Street, Rice Road and Channing Street.

Heavy rains earlier this summer caused sewage overflows that resulted in beaches in Quincy, Weymouth and Braintree being closed because of fecal coliform contamination.

Initial coliform counts three weeks ago ranged from 325 and higher at Wollaston Beach, to 540 at Baker Beach, to 2,120 at Smith Beach along the Fore River in Braintree. Counts over 200 colonies per 100 milliliters are considered unsafe for swimmers.

Sheets Voices Support For 'Beede School'

Mayor James Sheets has voiced support of a proposal to rename Broad Meadows Middle School after Harry Beede, the school's late principal.

The proposal was made recently by the Quincy Retired Teachers Association. Beede, who died in April 1996, bequeathed $1.25 to the association for students' scholarships. He was also involved in the design, planning and construction of the Broad Meadows School, retiring as its principal in 1970.

Sheets said he has "no problem" with the idea of the name change, which would have to be approved by the School Committee.

"The Broad Meadows School is named what it is simply because of its location," said the mayor, who serves as the School Committee chairman. "I could see naming it for someone who made a major contribution to the school. I think it's appropriate to do that."

School Supt. Eugene Creedon, who serves as the School Committee secretary, said last week he has received the QRTA's letter making the request and has accepted it as correspondence.

No decision has been made as to whether the committee will discuss the matter or put the request on its agenda, Creedon said.

November, 1999 Completion Target Date
Ground Broken For 'Library Of 21st Century'

By MICHAEL WHALEN

City and state officials gathered Tuesday for a groundbreaking ceremony for a $15 million, 50,000-square-foot addition to the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center.

The ceremony was touted as a historic occasion for a facility that will help the city reach new educational heights well into the 21st century.

Preparation work for the project already has begun, according to Library Director Ann McLaughlin. Construction on the addition and renovations to the library's existing Coletti building should begin by this September and be completed by November 1999, while renovations to its original Richardson building should be finished by the following spring, she said.

Officials plan to hold an official dedication ceremony on New Year's Eve 1999 in conjunction with the city's millennium celebration.

Also in attendance at the groundbreaking ceremony were Mayor James Sheets, library staff and trustees, members of the city's State House delegation, city councillors and other Quincy officials, project contractor Walter Rich, project architect Richard Bertman, Elizabeth Watson, wife of the late Crane Library Director Warren Watson, and others.

McLaughlin, in her remarks during Tuesday's ceremony, noted that the library addition was a longtime goal of Mr. Watson, who served as the Crane's director for 25 years before

Business 'Pretty Good' To 'Super' Sidewalk Festival Gives Center Summer Boost

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The 28th annual Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival sponsored last week by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association was a great success, according to a Quincy Sun survey.

Participating merchants polled by the Sun said their businesses, over the three-day period, did anywhere from "pretty good" to "extremely well" to "super."

Among the comments:
Russ Demeo, Quincy Records and Tapes: "It was the best sale of the '90s. Super, super, super."

Chris Kusy, Rhyme 'n Reason: "Our business was very, very good. The weather was good and conditions were there for a successful Sidewalk Festival. I think it was very successful, in terms of drawing people to Quincy Center."

Deanna Gazarian of Phase II Jewelry, QCBPA president: "Sales were good, very good. The people who were coming in were generally from outside the city. I'm impressed with the effort of our organization to promote the event. After 27 the license of The Hatrack, 7-9 Copeland St. West Quincy for two consecutive Mondays after serving an intoxicated person.

The board heard testimony from Officer Nancy Coletta who said she was driving by the establishment a little after 1 a.m. June 5 and saw a man virtually falling out of the door.

After she stopped and helped the man steady himself, the man was taken in a cab to his home in Braintree.

Coletta said she then entered the bar and spoke to the bartender who said the man was on prescription drugs and because of this it intensified the effects of alcohol. The bartender did not know at the time of serving the gentleman, however.

Police Chief Thomas Frane, who made the motion to suspend said if prescription drugs were not an issue, the suspension would be greater.

Hatrack owner Donna Hatfield said the bartender is "very conscientious" and added that the man in question is a regular customer who normally has "slurred speech" and said proper steps were taken when they had previously called a cab.

Det. Sgt. Robert M. Perchard, liquor inspector and license board agent told the board that Hatrack's female bartender runs a "tight ship" and that he has had no problems with the establishment.

Board Chairman Joseph Shea read a letter from Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico who said he was concerned about the incident and hoped the board would take necessary action.

Shea told Hatfield that she could appeal years of practice, we had it down pat."

Mary Lineberry, Payless Shoes: "It was the biggest and best crowd ever."

Charlie Ryder, Ryder's Curtain & Drapery Store: "We did very well. All three days were better than last year. It was a rather upscale crowd; it was very positive. We had more business inside than we usually do, and it was pretty steady for the whole time. It was the best festival in the last three or four years."

Joanne Dondero, Abigail's Crossing: "We did pretty good. We weren't down inside [Quincy] Center with a tent like we were last year, but we probably did better inside the store than we did last year. It was a better-than-average day each day."

Tony Agnitti, Mando's Italian Bistro: "We did extremely well. We definitely feel that the festival had a positive effect on business, especially for lunch and extended lunch. There were definitely people eating throughout the day, as opposed to just lunch and dinner."

Jeff Bertman of Rogers Jewelry, QCBPA Promotions Committee chairman: "The Sidewalk Sale (outside the store) was adequate, but inside was phenomenal."

Inside we just made it easy and put the whole store on sale, 25 percent off, and we're going to continue it through the end of July. We sold a lot of diamonds and wedding bands."

QCBPA Executive Director Maralin Manning: "It was nice to see so many families enjoying the festivities. It's hard to estimate how many people were there because it's a changing crowd over three days and we don't charge admission, but we were more than pleased with the overall attendance. It was so pleasant to see so many people enjoying Quincy Center."

Quincy Hospital Emergency Dept. Seeking Volunteers

Quincy Hospital is seeking customer oriented, community volunteers who want to help out in the emergency department.

The department serves approximately 28,000 patients annually.

The position is for an adult who is willing to donate four hours of his or her time on a regular basis to serve an important role within the hospital. After appropriate training and education the volunteer will:

- Greet patients and families in the emergency department waiting room as they arrive and direct them to triage and registration.
- Assist families with relatives in the clinical area by being an informational liaison between the patient and family.

- Keep patients/family/friends informed of the status of the patient's care and timetable of treatment.

- Assist in making patients more comfortable in the treatment area by offering coffee or drinks, blankets or reading materials.

- Assist families by directing them to telephones, vending machines and other necessities.

- Provide a margin of comfort to certain patients who are alone.

For more information, call Karen Tufts, coordinator of volunteers at (617) 376-5504.

We'd All Be Millionaires

If we could have today's paycheck with 1930s prices we would all be millionaires.

Or, so it would seem, in spending power, at least.

City Council President Peter Kolson, some time ago, brought me the remnants of a special advertising section of the old Quincy Evening News—Quincy's then other daily newspaper—dated May 15, 1934.

"Thought you might be interested," he said. "The prices in the ads are really something."

And, they were really something.

For example, at a store called Morgan's at 1454 Hancock St. where Health South is now located, you could get a family-size steel refrigerator for $12.85. (That's 12 dollars and 85 cents.) And, a table-model radio (tubes included) was going for the same price.

Someone had a year-old Chevrolet business coupe for sale at $435.

You could pick up a pair of men's slacks at Donaher's for $1.95.

Foy's Market was offering two cans of Heinz soups for 25 cents, three bars of Lux soap for 18 cents and five rolls of toilet paper for 25 cents.

And, at Foy's you could also get a can of fancy ripe tomatoes for 10 cents. Or, save two cents by buying six cans for 58 cents. Three bottles of India pale ale could be had for 25 cents.

And, if you were apartment hunting, there were plenty of them with many choices: three rooms and a den for $25 a month. Four rooms for $28 and five rooms for $30.

If you needed more space there was a six-room apartment, plus sun parlor and steam heat, for $40.

Of course, everything is relative. That was 64 years ago. Income back in those days was like the price of goods: Low.

The News was founded in 1928 by former Mayor Perley Barbour to compete with the Ledger.

SPARGO

"He didn't think the Ledger had treated him fairly while he was mayor," recalls Ed Spargo of Sherman St., Wollaston, who worked at the News as a reporter, sports editor and then general manager.

The competition for news between the Ledger and the News was keen and the battle for advertising a bit on the cut-throat side.

The News was located on Hancock St. across from the Quincy Masonic Temple where Toodie's Jewelry is today.

It was a good paper with a talented staff but it lasted less than a decade. The Ledger won the battle for the life-spanning advertising and in May, 1937, bought out the News.

One story circulating at the time was that the Ledger was shaky itself from the competition and if the News had hung on a little longer, it might have won the battle for survival.

And, if it had, The Quincy Evening News would have been Quincy's local daily today.

KOLSON

LARRY MACKIN, "the other" candidate for Norfolk County sheriff, will make his formal announcement at a 6 p.m. fund-raiser Tuesday, July 28 at the Brintree VFW Post, 356 Washington St., Brintree.

Mackin, a Brintree resident and president of "Citizens Against Reverse Discrimination" is running as an independent candidate.

He's up against a couple of better-known political heavyweights: Republican incumbent Jack Flood of Canton and Quincy Democrat Mike Bellotti who is giving up his state representative seat to make the run for the sheriff's badge.

Mackin says "any donation from $15 to $500 will be appreciated" at the fund-raiser.

A "FUN DAY" fund-raiser for Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, candidate for the state representative seat Mike Bellotti is leaving to run for sheriff, will be held Wednesday, July 22 at 130 Oxenbridge Rd., Wollaston. Festivities start at 1:30 p.m. Tickets are $75. For more info, call 328-0102.

THE RECENT REMINISCING here by Jean Ann (MacLean) Phinney about the fun of shopping in Quincy Square during the 1940s and early 1950s stirred fond memories for Helen Duncan of Albion Rd.

A retired teacher of the old Pollard School in Quincy Point, she writes:

"My sister, Margaret Duncan MacLeod and I, so very much enjoyed your article on a nostalgic trip down Hancock Street.

"We well remember going to Remick's and Sheridan's—such favorite interesting stores and especially Guay's Bakery with its delicious culinary concoctions.

"Then, perhaps at a later time, shopping in Touraine Dress Shop, especially on sales and, of course, Woolworth's and Kresges and also Sears."

"Oh, yes, we certainly miss the old Quincy Center shopping area."

A NUMBER OF well-known names came out of the Quincy High School class of 1943 which is planning its 55th anniversary reunion for Oct. 2 at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Among them: late Quincy Police Chief Francis Finn, former Quincy High head football coach Hank Conroy who was also the class president, John Gillis, former city clerk and present county commissioner; Quincy assessor James Papile, former Quincy police officers Guido Pettinelli and Bill Draicchio, John Nourse, former Weymouth public works commissioner and Sulo Soini, former Weymouth tax collector.

Members of the class were credited with helping to keep high school sports going through World War II.

Basketball and baseball were cut to save money but Papile, Pettinelli and other class members argued that sports would help boost morale and the programs were restored.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1920 POSTCARD showing the Holy Trinity Rest House at 85 Shelton Road in Adams Shore. Located at the corner of Swan Road, this house was built by Benjamin Johnson, Jr. whose father was the owner of the Johnson Lumber Company in Quincy at the turn of the century. That business later became the Quincy Lumber Company and included the site of the ancient tidemill on Southern Artery. Johnson's widow lived here until she died in the early twenties. They later made this bungalow available to Catholic nuns as a summer retreat as shown on this postcard. The building was destroyed by fire in the mid-twenties and the site has remained an empty lot to this day.

Thinking Of Those Without Freedom

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

During the Fourth of July weekend, when we were celebrating the wonderful freedoms which we enjoy, I couldn't help but think of those who have no freedom in their own homes.

As a member of the Quincy Coalition for the Prevention of Domestic Violence, I have been made very aware of those who live in constant fear. While most of us are able to give thanks for the freedom of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, others don't even have the freedom from fear. Physical and emotional abuse takes a heavy toll, not only on the person abused but on everyone else in the home.

We are fortunate in the City of Quincy to have a police department and courts which are sensitive and quick to respond when made aware of abusive situations. However, the public and media need to encourage those who live in such fear to reach for the help which is available.

He'd Rather Walk At Wollaston Beach

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

It is truly sad to live so close to the Atlantic Ocean but feel so afraid of getting wet in it. Such a gift to have but when we apparently misused for so long, we now are paying the price.

People tell me Quincy Bay is getting real clean but as for me walking Wollaston Beach is the closest I wish to get to the water. Hey, if the seagulls are foolish enough to sit in it, doesn't mean we have to follow their lead.

I try to walk Wollaston Beach on a daily basis. I've been doing it for years but even more since Christmas.

In five months of power walking and eating better, I've shed 35 pounds. I often look out into the bay and wonder what life was like decades ago when you weren't afraid to touch the water without fear of contracting e.coli or worse.

I'm told dogs are causing the pollution but the amount of pollution there is man-made. Blaming dogs is barking up the wrong pollution. The other day as I headed south along the beach, I noticed a blue flag at the first lifeguard stand I passed. But the second one had a red flag flying. Finally, by the third stand, no flag was up. I assumed I was in Switzerland taking a neutral stand on pollution. Personally, one red flag would be enough but flag or no flag the MDC couldn't pay me to wade there.

Perhaps in my daughter's lifetime, Wollaston Beach will be safe to touch but right now I won't even let "Mikey" in it and he's a Border Collie. We had so many beaches to choose from in my younger days and just like we all thought that Ozzie and Harriet had the perfect family, we all thought clean water was a given, too. Well, it ain't the Fifties anymore and the water still isn't clean enough for this aging Muskateer.

We can put a man on the moon. We can survive El Nino. We can survive the last episode of "Seinfeld." If we can do all that, we can find a way to clean up our act and get our beaches back into the shape they once were. Eventually, it will happen but until then, I'll just dream during my beach walks of the way things once were.

Hey, at least the sand is safe, isn't it?

Dear Readers,

A 286-item silver trove attributed to the quizzical Union Cavalry sergeant who shot President Lincoln's assassin on April 26, 1865 has generated a great deal of interest in the local being of this historical figure: Sgt. Boston Corbett, who lived in several downtown Boston neighborhood districts for 16 years before the Civil War erupted in 1861.

The 286 silver items believed to have been crafted by Corbett in the time period 1847-52 were unearthed from the foundation ditch of the new South Station Bus Depot in Boston's South Cove in the winter of 1994. The site on which the artifacts were brought to ground surface was occupied by Corbett under three names for the time period during which the items are believed to have been crafted, 1847-52. This site (Cove Place) was a little L-shaped alleyway on the Fort Point Channel side of Atlantic Avenue at the far terminus of Kneeland Street in Boston's South Cove District.

I am seeking information on two facet of Corbett's quizzical existence in many downtown Boston neighborhoods before the Civil War: his philosophical basis and his occupational basis.

Corbett was born Nov. 28, 1832 in Ireland or London. While his birth name was "Thomas Patrick Corbett," he was given the Christian name "John" in a baptism rite soon after his birth. After living in Manhattan for five years (after his family landed in the Port of New York on June 20, 1839), he lived in several downtown Boston neighborhoods.

Any information on the above is appreciated. Please send responses to: Sgt. Boston Corbett Institute, 43 Woodgreen Rd., Boston, MA 02136.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Gov. Volpe Visits Shipyard

By PAUL HAROLD

Governor John Volpe toured the Fore River shipyard this week with Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa, shipyard officials and representatives of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

July 23 - 29

33 Years Ago

The issue of a new Fore River Bridge was raised. While the bridge was adequate for automobile traffic, shipyard officials were concerned with the traffic under the bridge. A new bridge with an enlarged span would allow the shipyard to bid on large ships, particularly nuclear-powered aircraft carriers. The existing span was only 170 feet across.

OHIO FIRM HIRED TO ASSESS CITY

The mayor signed a contract in the amount of $198,600 with the Ohio firm of Cole-Layer-Trumble to reevaluate all properties in the city.

The hiring of a firm was the first step in response to a 19-person, taxpayers' suit, forcing the city to equalize valuations. Up to that time, the city was unable to set a tax rate or send out tax bills.

Assuming the judge hearing the case allowed the city to set its rate, Mayor Della Chiesa anticipated that the rate would go up $5.70 to $89.20.

HEARING ON FILLING MONTCLAIR MARSHES

Two property owners of marshlands in Montclair, including the Gardiner Realty Trust, took the first step to gain approval for the filling of the area.

Under state law, the property owners had to file with the license board for a public hearing. George Yarrington, executive director of the Quincy Development Commission, said the issues of roadway and utility construction would also be presented. He pledged the cooperation of the commission and the city engineer's office in preparing the development plans.

QUINCY-ISMS

Rep. Joseph Brett, who ran for mayor in 1961, said he would not be a candidate for the office this year. ... A permit was granted to John Gillis for the construction of a single-family home on Richard St. at an estimated cost of $10,000. ... Dr. Joseph McDermott was named chairman of the newly organized city conservation commission. ... Richard Newcomb of Newcomb Bakery announced the opening of a Mug N Muffin restaurant on Beale St. He said he hoped it would be the first of a chain of such restaurants. ... After three years as assistant coach, social studies teacher Robert Nolan was named basketball coach at North Quincy High School.

... Dr. William Ridder was sworn-in as the new Norfolk County medical examiner. ... At a hastily called meeting of the city council, $111,555 was transferred from one school account to another, so that the architect for the new vocational school could be paid. ... Louis Simons was chairman of the Probus Club's annual outing at the Metropolitan Yacht Club. ... Margaret DiBona married Robert Gorill at St. Boniface Church. ... On the motion of James McCormick, Sr., School Supt. Robert Pruitt was given a $2,141 raise. His new salary was $21,420. The vote was 6-1, with Mayor Della Chiesa voting against. ... Quincy Adams Yacht yard on Palmer St. was sold to John Kazanjian of Medford for $70,000. It was expected that it would be developed as a marina. ... The first touch tone phone in the city was installed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hayden of Bigelow St. ... Leo Hammon was a candidate for Ward 1 councillor. ... Antonio Volpe, president of L. Volpe and Sons Granite Co., died at age 55. ... Hugo Swensen was banquet chairman for the Houghs Neck Community Council's upcoming "Good Neighbor" award. The award was started in 1957 when Otto Paige was honored as Houghs Neck's good neighbor when he retired after 43 years as the community's pharmacist. ... George Fallon of Elm Ave. was a candidate for school committee. ... The school committee accepted resignations from the following teachers: Edward Coleman, Jr., assistant principal at Gridley Bryant; Francis Bryant as art teacher at Broad Meadows and Mrs. Maurs Graham as librarian at North Quincy High School.

ART EXHIBIT featuring the work of Quincy High School students was held recently at River Bay Club on Brackett Street. Among those who admired the students' entries—including this one by junior Linda Wallace, which took first place in the pastels category—were Deborah D'Allesandro, River Bay's executive director and Ida Braverman, one of its residents.

'Yankee Doodle Dandy' At Library July 30

"Yankee Doodle Dandy," the life and music of American composer George M. Cohan, will be presented by vocalist Judy Bernstein Thursday, July 30 at 12:30 p.m. on the lawn at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center.

The show is the second in the library's "Concerts on the Lawn" series.

Bernstein has performed in "Hail to the Ladies" and "Dinner at the White House," both one-woman shows. She is a classically-trained singer, a graduate of New York University's School of Dramatic Art, and holds a master's degree in oral communication. She performs her one-woman shows throughout New England.

Kurt Wenzel of Raynham will accompany Bernstein on the keyboard in the program of American songs.

The library's Aug. 6 concert will feature the Afro-Caribbean rhythms of Jorge Arce and the final concert on Aug. 13 will showcase street singer Stephen Baird.

Concertgoers are welcome to bring chairs or beach blankets, picnics, and sun shades. In case of in-

Types: race walking, fitness walking, or regular walking. Race walking, with elbows flapping and hips swinging, has probably turned more than a few people away from walking as exercise. Fitness walking is known variously as aerobic walking, health walking, power walking, or filled walking, and even mall walking. Whatever the name, it typically calls for only a slight increase in speed from regular walking - from about 3 mph to 4 mph - and system.

For most of us, a regular program of fitness walking holds the greatest potential for strong, healthy feet, legs, and heart. HIDDEN THYROID DISEASE

Have you been feeling worn out lately? Put on some extra weight? If so, you are certainly not alone — those could be among the symptoms of many problems. They are also, however, two of the trademarks of a condition that can be detected in its early stages by a simple blood test. A sluggish thyroid, or hypothyroidism, often goes undiagnosed for months or even years precisely because its signs are so common. In addition to fatigue and unexplained weight gain, symptoms may include difficulty with simple mental tasks, general aches and pains, a slowed heartbeat, constantly feeling cold, dry and lifeless hair, and thickened skin. Fortunately, the prescription of thyroid hormones usually resolves the problem quickly and effectively. If you suffer from any recurrent symptom, it's worthwhile to get yourself a physical and find out what might be the matter. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. While hypothyroidism can affect virtually anyone, of any age, it is most common among women.

Hirshberg Fund Awards $3,000 Grant To Children's Disabilities Center

The Mollie Hirshberg Fund recently awarded a $3,000 grant to the Children's Developmental Disabilities Center (CDDC) in Quincy, a program operated by Cerebral Palsy of Massachusetts.

The grant will fund both audio-visual and computer equipment for the center.

The computer equipment will enable the children to become computer-literate by having access to a computer, its software and printer and developing computer skills. The audio-visual equipment will allow the therapists to document the progress of the children in their therapy programs, including speech, physical and occupational.

Hirshberg Fund board members on hand for a recent check presentation at the CDDC included Dr. Summer Hirshberg, president; William MacDonald, treasurer and John Kane. Accepting the check were Cerebral Palsy of Massachusetts staff members Tom Zukauskas, executive director and Ann Connor, clinical director. Several children also were in attendance.

Alex Thompson Displays Research At BU Science Day

Alex Thompson of Quincy recently displayed his research in Boston University's Science Day '98, which offers graduate students the opportunity to make a visual presentation of their scientific research in a public forum.

Thompson was among the more than 90 students who presented their research in a poster display. His research demonstrated a technique that allows scientists to discover new genes that are regulated when a growth factor is added to bone marrow-type cells.

Science Day '98 honored the scientific research of graduate students, demonstrated the quality of faculty research and teaching, and provided training in the presentation of research data. For many graduate students, the day provides the first opportunity to organize research results in a poster format, the most common way of presenting data in scientific meetings.

Bellotti Bill Would Restrict Sex Offenders' Sentence Reductions

State Rep. Michael Bellotti has filed a bill that would restrict sentence deductions for sex offenders.

Under current law, sex offenders can earn "good time credit" (or sentence deductions) by participating in community service programs, education programs or drug and alcohol programs.

Bellotti's bill would only allow sex offenders to earn "good time" if they participated in the jail's sex offender treatment program or any other program specifically designed to reduce, if not altogether eliminate, the general lack of power to control sexual impulses by these inmates.

"Right now, sex offenders have no incentive to participate in these programs," said Bellotti. "With this bill, these inmates can still participate in other programs, but they can only earn good time if they participate in a sex offender treatment program."

By some estimates, 40 percent of convicted sex offenders commit a similar crime within five years or being released from prison. Many commit similar crimes decades after their initial release.

"Because of sex offenders' propensity to re-commit sex crimes, it's imperative that we provide an incentive for inmates to take sex offender treatment programs while they are under watch," Bellotti said. "This is not a guarantee they will never commit another crime, but it is the best way to reduce the percentage that they will."

In 1995, there were 317 sex offenders committed, 100 paroled, and 285 released, according to state statistics. In 1996, there were 273 sex offenders committed, 75 paroled, and 275 released.

"This bill will increase participation in sex offender treatment programs," Bellotti said. "And sex offenders won't be able to get good time just by doing community service."

Bellotti's bill has the support of Sen. James Jajuga (D-Methuen), chairman of the Senate Committee on Public Safety.

Chretien Calls For State Role At Quincy College

Larry Chretien, candidate for state representative, says the budget crisis at Quincy College is severe enough to consider all options necessary to protect academic quality and the rights of employees.

"Over the next few months, the Board of Governors should work with its employees and look at all options," Chretien said. "Maybe they can work with our legislative delegation to garner a state subsidy. But at some point, they must publicly produce a business plan that will ensure academic quality without busting unions."

"If by January 1999 there is no better way to preserve employee rights than by making the institution part of the community college system, then legislation should be filed to make that happen. If elected, I will file that bill myself. The legislative process will then allow for a final public discussion about how to create a pragmatic future for Quincy College."

Chretien added, "Without state funding, the college will be unable to get out of its current downward cycle—fewer students leading to budget cuts, which hurt the school's reputation, which lead back to even lower enrollment. I don't see how the budget crisis is going to fix itself. Since the City of Quincy obviously lacks the resources to bail out the college, the state will need to subsidize Quincy College or take it over."

Chretien has previously stated that education is his priority and, if elected representative, his first choice for committee assignments would be the Education Committee.

Community Service Conference Aboard USS Salem July 26-29

Students, staff and vocational instructors from Job Corps centers across New England will participate in the second annual JACS Service Learning Conference Sunday through Wednesday, July 26-29, aboard the USS Salem in Quincy Point.

The conference fills the Salem's need for volunteer labor while providing an opportunity for student participants to further develop their job skills. It is sponsored by Joint Action in Community Service Inc. (JACS), a national human service organization of community volunteers helping at-risk youth enter the work force and become self-reliant adults.

Under the supervision of Job Corps instructors and Salem volunteers, students will assist in the ship's restoration by using skills developed through Job Corps, a federal residential program that provides educational and vocational training to young men and women ages 16-24. Conference work projects will include welding, carpentry, plumbing, painting and archiving.

The USS Salem, a post-World War II heavy cruiser built in Quincy, is the centerpiece of the U.S. Naval and Shipbuilding Museum at the Fore River shipyard. It is dependent upon volunteers for its restoration.

The conference is designed to teach the concept of service learning, a method of learning through which students apply newly-acquired academic skills and knowledge to address needs in the community. The idea for the conference was originally conceived by two Job Corps students.

Over the next four months, Quincy Point, Union, Bethany and Memorial congregational churches will sponsor a series of suppers to raise money for Habitat's "Building on Faith Week" project.

The project will culminate in an effort by all of the city's faith communities to build three homes at the Habitat for Humanity Granite Village site Sept. 12-20. Those communities will provide the volunteers and the money to build the homes.

Delegates from Habitat will provide an educational session on Habitat for Humanity and the Granite Village project after the supper. There also will be entertainment and prizes for attendees. A free-will offering will be taken.

Transportation will be provided from 1000 Southem Artery. For reservations, call 773-6424.

Computer Firm Leases Space At Crown Colony

Gulf Computers Inc. has leased 3,339 square feet of office space from Insurance Service Office Inc. at 400 Crown Colony Drive, West Quincy.

Gulf Computers, which specializes in resolving the Millennium computer problem, relocated from Westford.

Jay Nuss of Daniel J. Flynn & Co. represented Gulf Computer and J.P. Plunkett and Tom Powers of Cushman and Wakefield represented Insurance Services Office.

Flynn & Co. Brokers Long-Term Lease

Acupuncture of Hingham recently moved to its new home, a 4,500-square-foot office suite at 45 Pond St., Norwell.

Jay Nuss of Daniel J. Flynn & Co. Inc. brokered the long-term lease between the property owner (45 Pond Street Corp.) and the health center.

Located just over a mile from its previous location at 62 Derby St., Hingham, and less than a half-mile from Queen Anne's Corner—as well as across the street from Accord Pond—the health center is in a contemporary grey clapboard office building near Rte. 3, Exit 14.

Acupuncture of Hingham originally offered acupuncture and Chinese herbal medicine but over the years has added additional healing therapies. Its new location allows the center to focus on its all-encompassing or "umbrella" name, the Genevieve Lane Natural Healing Center, which came into being more than a year ago because the center embodies numerous treatment therapies.

Second Blacks Creek Muster This Weekend At Pageant Field

Two hundred Colonial Minutemen will set up a camp on the shores of Blacks Creek this weekend for the second annual Blacks Creek Muster.

The event will take place Saturday, July 25 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, July 26 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Pageant Field, 100 Southern Artery.

The Colonial Encampment is hosted by Massachusetts Council of Minutemen and First Night Quincy and sponsored by the City of Quincy, Harbor Express, VHS Transportation Co. and Atlantic Development.

Visitors are welcome to walk through the camps and witness military drilling, battle reenactments, listen to live fife and drum music, take in the aroma of open fire cooking, learn how to make candles, pottery, leather items and witness colonial woodworking in action.

Those in attendance can also ride around the encampment on an old fashion hay ride and watch the battle reenactment.

Young minutemen can join in by becoming the latest recruits in the Militia. Youngsters will learn military drilling and experience what it was like for a young minuteman in the 1700s.

GRAEME MARSDEN, left, and his son James dress in colonial attire to promote the second annual Blacks Creek Muster colonial encampment, which will be held this weekend at Pageant Field.

Event Chairman Michael Cheney said he expects this year's event to draw from 4,000 to 5,000 people. Last year's Blacks Creek Muster attracted over 2,000, he said.

Cheney said he hopes to attract tourists in Boston to see the Tall Ships to the Blacks Creek event.

For more information, contact Cheney at 471-1493 or visit the web site at www.ci.quincy.ma.us.

Concourse Meeting Aug. 5

The Quincy Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC) for the Quincy Center Concourse will hold a special meeting Wednesday, Aug. 5 at 3:15 p.m. in the second floor conference room, City Hall Annex.

CAC Chairman David Ezickson said the agenda will deal with specific concerns members have voiced pertaining to the 75 percent engineering design plans relative to Phase 1 of the project.

This phase of the connector roadway includes the proposed bridge over the MBTA Red Line and commuter rail tracks linking Burgin Parkway to Ross Parkway. The connector will then proceed through the vacant former Kincaide store lot to Hancock Street.

According to Earth Tech engineers, the project designer, and Quincy DPW officials the final plans for this phase could be approved by state officials in three weeks.

It is further expected that groundbreaking for the project could take place the latter part of August. Construction time is estimated to be 18 months from start to finish.

LEGION BASEBALL

Red-Hot Morrisette Vaults Into Sectionals

By LIAM FITZGERALD

With a sweep of Norwood in the Zone 6 playoffs, the sizzling Morrisette American Legion baseball team secured a berth in the first round of the Sectional playoffs.

"The kids are all playing well right now," said Morrisette manager Ray Cattaneo. "Their attitude is better and they feel they can beat anyone. It's great."

Winners of nine straight games and 13 of its last 15, Morrisette (15-7) was slated to open the best two-of-three Sectional series yesterday (Wednesday).

As of press time, Morrisette's opponent had not been determined. The fourth seed in Zone 6, Morrisette would play the second seed in Zone 9 (either Somerset, Attleboro or Taunton).

The second round of the Sectional, also a best two-of-three series, is tentatively scheduled to begin Sunday and go through Tuesday.

Last Saturday, Morrisette wrapped up its series against Norwood with a 7-5 victory. Winning pitcher Keith Doherty went the distance, yielding four earned runs on eight hits, issuing one walk and striking out one. After Norwood scored five runs in the fourth, Doherty retired the side in order in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings to seal the triumph.

Morrisette took an early 3-0 lead, scoring twice in the first and once more in the second. Bill Walker led off the game with a double, moved to third on a single by Erik Fagan (2 for 3), and scored when Fagan successfully beat the catcher's throw to steal second. Fagan later crossed the plate on a single by Ray Cattaneo (9 for 4). In the second, Jim Cunio singled and stole second and was driven in by Steve Clarke's single.

In the bottom of the fourth, the hosts rallied to take a 5-3 lead, scoring once on a wild pitch, and four times on a two-run triple and a two-run single.

Morrisette came back in the fifth, pushing three runs across to take the lead for good. Matt McLoughlin (2 for 4) led off with a single, Cattaneo singled and Rob Celata (2 for 4) followed with a two-run double to tie the game. With two outs, Chris Bregoli (2 for 4) delivered the game's big hit, slapping a double to left to score Celata and push Morrisette ahead to stay, 6-5.

The visitors notched an insurance run in the seventh, when Fagan tripled and McLoughlin followed with an RBI single.

In last Friday's series opener, Celata struck out 10 as Morrisette edged Norwood, 2-1, at Adams Field. Picking up the complete game win, Celata scattered nine hits and walked one.

Trailing 1-0 in the fifth, Bregoli smacked a two-out triple and scored the tying run on a single by Steve Maze. After Walker singled, Fagan doubled to drive in Maze with the eventual game-winning run.

In the regular season finale, Walker sprinted home on a wild pitch in the sixth, lifting Morrisette to a 6-5 victory over visiting Randolph July 15.

Randolph rallied in the top of the seventh, collecting a single and double off Bregoli. With runners on second and third and nobody out, Celata relieved Bregoli and retired the next three batters to earn the save. In six-plus innings, Bregoli yielded five runs on seven hits, but only one of the runs was earned. He also walked two and fanned four.

Morrisette scored twice in the first, starting with back-to-back triples by Walker and Fagan. Fagan scored the second run on a wild pitch.

Randolph took a 4-2 lead into the bottom of the third, when Morrisette evened the score. A ground-rule double by Fagan, an RBI triple by McLoughlin and a RBI single by Manning produced two runs.

The visitors went ahead again in the top of the fourth, but Morrisette responded with a run in the bottom of the inning. With two outs, Walker belted a triple and Fagan followed with a clutch RBI single.

Bregoli retired the side in order in the fifth and sixth innings, setting the stage for Walker.

Walker led off the inning with his third triple of the game and scored the game-winning run on a wild pitch.

On July 14, Morrisette's Cattaneo fired a complete-game four-hitter, sparking the visitors over Milton, 10-7. Cattaneo surrendered three earned runs, walked four and struck out four.

Leading Morrisette's 13-

STEVE MAZE crosses the plate with the game-winning run in Morrisette's 2-1 victory over Norwood Friday night. Morrisette wrapped up the series Saturday by defeating Norwood, 7-5, and moved into this week's Sectional playoffs.

hit attack were Walker (3 for 5, four RBI), Fagan (3 for 5), McLoughlin (2 for 4, two RBI), Manning (1 for 4, two RBI) and Doherty (2 for 3). Trailing 4-2 in the fourth, Morrisette sent 10 batters to the plate, producing a five-run outburst to take the lead for good.

BABE RUTH

Elks, Barry's Deli Notch Playoff Wins

The Elks finished the Quincy Babe Ruth League regular season at 14-1, capturing first place and entering the playoffs as the No. 1 seed.

The Elks secured first place by defeating Morrisette, 6-5, behind the pitching and hitting of Pat Bregoli. Bregoli had a single, double and triple with 3 RBI and as a pitcher scattered eight hits. Justin Hall also collected 4 hits for the winners.

Thirteen-year-old Brian O'Handley fired a one-hitter against Local in a 5-1 Elks win. Andy Nestor's single in the seventh spoiled O'Handley's no-hit bid. Hall led the Elks' offense with 2 hits.

In a first-round playoff game, the Elks defeated Barry's Deli, 10-4, as pitchers Chris Ham and Dave Reilly combined for the win. Bregoli paced the Elks offensively, picking up 3 hits, including 2 doubles and 3 RBI. Reilly had 2 hits, as did Mark Gibbons, O'Handley and Mark Robinson. Matt Joyce and Walter Perry had 2 hits apiece for Barry's.

Morrisette upset the Elks in the second round, 12-7. The Elks had the bases loaded in five of the seven innings but couldn't come up with the big hit.

Dennis Thompson led Morrisette with 3 hits while Billy O'Brien and Brendan Bowes collected 2 hits apiece. For the Elks, Bregoli had 2 hits and scored 3 runs and Gibbons added 2 hits.

In other recent action, Barry's Deli qualified for the playoffs with a 15-2 win over Golden Print. Winning pitcher David Centrella went the distance and contributed 2 hits. Jimmy Devlin and Jordan Virtue both scored a pair of runs for the winners. Players with multiple hits were Walter Perry, Matt Joyce, Conral Leger and Phil McGillicuddy. Leading Barry's defense were Pat O'Brien and Mike DeAngelo.

After losing to the Elks,

10-4, in the first round of the playoffs, Barry's rebounded with an impressive 6-0 triumph over Police.

Leger fired a complete game and fanned 12 to earn the win. Barry's offense was paced by Charlie Vidoli (2 hits), Centrella (2 hits, including a triple), Ryan Rogers (double, single, two runs scored) and a perfectly executed suicide squeeze bunt by Joyce that scored McGillicuddy.

McGillicuddy turned in the defensive play of the game, leaping to snare a high throw from third baseman Rogers. After making the catch and falling down, McGillicuddy dove to the base to get the base runner. Pat Mullen had a strong game in right field starting a 9-6-5 double play and Tommy Callahan played well at second base.

SOUTH SHORE BUICK

50 ADAMS ST., QUINCY • (617) 770-3300

YMCA Golf Classic Raises $19,300 For Programs, Services

The South Shore YMCA's recent annual Golf Classic raised $19,300 for YMCA programs and services for people and families throughout the South Shore.

The tournament, held at the Thorny Lea Golf Club in Brocton, drew 120 golfers from throughout the South Shore.

Sean McDonough, national sports announcer and TV voice of the Boston Red Sox served as guest auctioneer at the festivities following the tournament.

Among the items auctioned were an autographed Mo Vaughn baseball bat, air transportation for two to San Francisco donated by American Airlines, a collection of Beanie Babies, numerous golf outings, and restaurant gift certificates.

A grand prize of $5,000 was also raffled and the winning ticket was purchased by Pyramid Printing of Weymouth. Ninety-seven raffle tickets were sold at $100 apiece.

The South Shore YMCA

is a not-for-profit association of individuals dedicated to improving the quality of life for all through programs that promote healthy body, mind and spirit. Rooted in Christian traditions and values, the YMCA seeks to serve all people regardless of age, sex, race, religion or economic circumstances.

For more information about the YMCA, call June Blair at (617) 479-8500, ext. 109.

Quincy Native's Bicycle Trek Aimed At Raising Awareness

Ann McCarron, a Quincy native and former Quincy High School basketball star, is bicycling across America this summer to raise money and awareness for child sexual abuse.

McCarron, 35, the recreational sports director at Assumption College in Worcester, will embark on a 3,900-mile trek called Bike Across America. Beginning July 28 in San Diego, Calif., McCarron will ride 80 to 100 miles a day and plans to arrive in Worcester Sept. 15.

During the 50-day trip, she will ride through 14 states and make a number of speaking engagements regarding sexual abuse prevention. A team of three people will ride alongside in a van, including Assumption College students and faculty, family members and friends. A new team will fly out each week to join her.

A victim of sexual abuse as a child, McCarron's goal is to prevent what happened to her from happening to others by getting the word out across the country.

Among the facts of child sexual abuse are that one out of every three girls and one out of every six boys is sexually abused by the age of 18. Also, in 85 percent of child sexual abuse cases the perpetrator is someone the child knows and the abuse often occurs in the child's own home.

McCarron, a Plymouth State College graduate, has many friends and family members, including her parents, who live in Quincy.

All the money donated will be equally divided and sent directly to the following four agencies: ACC Inc. (Advocacy Center for Children), CAP (Child Assault Prevention) Daybreak-YWCA, CACA (Court Appointed Special Advocates) Project, all of Worcester, and NCASA (National Coalition Against Sexual Abuse), Enola, Pa.

To support Bike Across America or for more information, call Assumption College's Reach Out Center at (508) 767-7142.

Beacon Picks Up Playoff Victory Over Colonial

In Quincy Youth Baseball Junior League playoff action, Beacon defeated Colonial Federal, 5-2, behind the 10-strikeout effort of winning pitcher Dean Sandomato.

Offensive leaders for Beacon included Mike Cafano and Scott Flaherty, both of whom had multiple-hit games, including one double apiece. Joe Cafano belted a triple, and Ryan Feldhoff and Robert Baker played well defensively.

For Colonial, Chris

Traietti had a multiple-hit game, including a solo home run over the fence.

Top defensive players were Nicholas Malvesti and Dan Reggiannini. Sean Richardson struck out six in a losing effort.

Cerebral Palsy Receives $2,500 Donation From Smith Barney

Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore has received a donation of $2,500 from Salomon Smith Barney as part of the company's local contributions program being conducted at Smith Barney branches throughout the country.

Robert Slattery, senior vice president and branch manager and John Keating, vice president-investments of Salomon Smith Barney's Hingham office made the selection of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore.

A representative of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore will accept the check on behalf of the organization July 28 at Cerebral Palsy's Quincy location.

Slattery said Smith

Barney is "honored to be able to contribute not only to such a worthy cause as the fight against cerebral palsy but also to be able to make a difference in the South Shore community."

The donation is the second made in the past month by Smith Barney to a charity in the South Shore community.

Quincy Hospital Offers Birthing Classes

Quincy Hospital is offering first time and refresher childbirth classes in August and September at the hospital.

The first time childbirth class is offered as a four-week series or as a weekend course. Weekend classes are from Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 1 and 2, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The four-week class is held on Wednesday evenings, Sept. 2, 9, 16 and 23, from 7 to 10 p.m.

The first time childbirth class covers labor and delivery, breathing relaxation, post partum and baby care. The refresher course reviews several sections of the first time class for women who are having another child.

Cost of the first time series is $100, and the refresher course is $50. Advanced registration is required, and space is limited.

For information on additional classes or to register, call the Quincy Hospital Public Relations Department at (617) 376-4018.

Mass. Police Association Endorses Keating For D.A.

The 18,000-officer Massachusetts Police Association (MPA) has endorsed Sen. Bill Keating for Norfolk County district attorney in a recent letter to its members.

The MPA represents police officers from every community in Norfolk County, including Quincy.

"For over two decades, Bill Keating has been finding tough, innovative ways to get criminals off the streets, keep them in custody for a period benefiting their crime, and working to prevent them from re-offending," the endorsement letter reads.

"It is gratifying to have so much support among those who really understand what it takes to make a great district attorney," said Keating, who is currently the Senate chair of the Judiciary Committee and vice chairman of criminal justice.

The MPA letter praises Keating's work fighting juvenile crime, domestic violence and drugs, as well as touts his work supporting education and training for police officers.

To date, Keating has been endorsed by organizations representing over 30,000 police officers.

KIDS AND AIR BAGS

A new regulation from the National Highway Safety Administration allows parents to install an on-off switch for passenger-side air bags if they cannot avoid having children under age 12 in the front seat. This measure removes any deployment risk in the event a child is positioned too close to the air bag. Please note, however, that nearly all fatalities involving children and air bags occurred either because the children were not buckled in or properly restrained. In any case, the backseat is the safest place for children in a vehicle. According to a study by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, riding in the backseat reduces a child's risk of death by 35-50%, with or without an air bag.

The safety of our customers and their families is very important to us here at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO and we want them to be informed. We are small enough to provide friendly, personal service and large enough to have the latest, most modern equipment and ASE Certified technicians who are constantly trained and re-trained. You can trust your auto repairs to us at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." We're also your local source for propane for grills, motor homes, and converted vehicles.

HINT: No matter where a child sits in a car, the most important factor is that he or she is properly buckled up.

SCOTT DEWARE

*A Thought
For The Week*

Bibles of every religion in the world mention the word — "witness." Let's think about the word, not necessarily in a religious sense, but from an earthly view of human reaction. All of us witness things every day. We see varying circumstances, situations and attitudes all around us, both good and bad.

As we witness these things in other people, wouldn't it be a good idea for us to ponder what other people see or witness in us? Each of us, individually sets a standard of behavior, thought and expression linked to ourselves. In doing this, we naturally provide a scene or knowledge for others to witness. The things we do and the things we say cause people to talk about us favorably or gossip about us unfavorably.

We create our own image, good or bad. We control the destinies of our image in the minds and thoughts of others. When we can be rightfully proud of what others witness in us, we gain an inner gladness that automatically portrays a better, more likeable image...

Bellotti Endorsed By Public Safety Coalition

The Coalition of Public Safety, a 350-member law enforcement union, has endorsed state Rep. Michael Bellotti, the Democratic candidate for Norfolk County sheriff.

The Coalition of Public Safety, or COPS, is made up of the Massachusetts Parole Officers Association, the Environmental Police Officers Association, the Bureau of Special Investigations Association, and the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission Investigators Association.

"We know Mike from the work he has done the last six years as a state representative," said COPS President James Alves. "Now we need his leadership as sheriff. He will be a positive force in that office."

Bellotti said he is pleased to have the COPS endorsement.

"This is a strong group to have with us," he said. "Working together with other law enforcement agencies, we will have an impact on reducing crime in Norfolk County."

Three Residents On Dean's List At Framingham State

Three Quincy residents have been named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at Framingham State College.

They are: Bridget A.

Finn, Class of 1998, an elementary education major; Valerie A. Loiselle, Class of 1999, an art major; and Tina Katsarikas, Class of 2001, whose major is undeclared.

his retirement in 1993.

"Warren Watson carried this dream from the time he came here," she said. To those who worked to make the project possible, she added, "We are grateful to all of you for the many ways in which you have helped."

City officials hope to name the new addition in the late director's memory.

Sheets, who McLaughlin noted has been "unwavering in his support" of the project, said the event will both help preserve the city's history and provide a link to the future.

"We are doing this project simply because it is the right thing to do, it is the best thing to do, and it is the only thing we can do," said the mayor. "We will continue to preserve the great history which is ours and finds itself included in the building which is behind us. The best facilities are needed to attract the best educators....This event passes the torch to future generations."

Others whose support for the library addition was crucial also spoke.

Elia Marnik, chairman of the state Board of Library Commissioners, had high praise for the project.

"It is really an honor for me to be here," said Marnik. "This is an exemplary project. This is an outstanding project. Your new library will serve you well into the 21st century. We are proud to have contributed, in part, to the funding of this project."

Sen. Michael Morrissey and Reps. Stephen Tobin and Michael Bellotti touched upon the state's role in supporting the project, saying teamwork was crucial to its success. Although the Board of Library Commissioners rejected the library's initial proposal for the addition, the delegation members noted they regrouped to help present a more comprehensive proposal that was approved by the board.

City Council President Peter Kolson, speaking on behalf of his council colleagues, made similar comments regarding the city's role.

"This is a one-time opportunity for all of us to really make history in the City of Quincy, and I'm proud to be a part of it," said Kolson.

Added Arthur Ciampa, chairman of the library's Board of Trustees, "This ambitious project will bring nothing but beauty and knowledge to the City of Quincy."

Another Board of Trustees member, Thomas Hurlbauss, presented McLaughlin with a bouquet of flowers following Ciampa's remarks.

The expanded library will have a larger collection of resources—including new computers, video and audiocassettes, periodicals and more—as well as new meeting rooms and other facilities.

The start of construction, originally slated for May 1, was delayed for more than two months while Sheets worked with City Auditor Robert Foy to put together a funding package from various city sources to cover a $3.1 million deficit.

That funding package required no additional bond issue. Other funding the city already had for the project totaled $11.5 million, including a $7.2 million city bond issue, a $3.5 million state construction grant, and other monies from fund-raisers and private donations.

The total cost of the addition rose, in part, from an unexpectedly high $12.3 million construction bid. The mayor and other officials have said a thriving state economy was among the reasons for the higher price.

The contractor, Rich, aided the city by holding his original bid for two months even though he was not bound to do so under the law.

The library's Coletti building has been closed since April in preparation for construction of the addition. The original Richardson building, which is now the library's reference section, has remained open while the Crane's North Quincy branch is temporarily housing the bulk of the main library's materials.

The new addition was designed by Childs, Bertman and Tseckares, an award-winning architectural firm in Boston.

The original building was designed in 1880 by Henry Hobson Richardson, an internationally-famous architect, and opened two years later. The Coletti building was added in 1939.

Annual Chris Peter Blood Drive July 28

The 14th annual Chris Peter Memorial Blood Drive will be held Thursday, July 28 from 2 to 8 p.m. at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Darrow St. (behind Most Blessed Sacrament Church), Houghs Neck.

There will be signs beginning at the Quincy Police Station located at Southern Artery and Sea St. leading to the donor event.

The Blood Drive, which benefits the American Red Cross, is held in memory of Chris Peter of Houghs Neck who was killed by a drunken driver in September 1984 at the age of 22. The event is run by the Red Cross and sponsored by the Peter family.

Free child care and homemade goods will be available. The hall is air-conditioned. Donors are encouraged to make appointments but walk-ins are welcome.

For more information or an appointment, call Charles or Trudy Peter at 471-9586.

12-Year-Old Organist At Bethany Aug. 5

Brandon "Randy" Santini will perform an organ concert Wednesday, Aug. 5 at noon at Bethany Congregational Church, Spear and Coddington Sts., Quincy Center.

The young organist, whose concert will include works by Bach, Mozart and others, will be performing at the church one day before his 12th birthday. Last year, in his first appearance at Bethany, he performed on his 11th birthday.

Randy, a resident of Weymouth, has been studying piano for six years at the Hingham Music Company and has been playing the organ for two years. He also plays bells and saxophone in his school orchestras as well as other keyboard instruments.

Randy has accompanied youth singing groups for various plays and shows, performed at a number of churches, and given his own piano and organ performances.

In January, he received a full music scholarship from the American Guild of Organist/Youth Organist Initiative of which he is a member. He attends the South Intermediate School in Weymouth where he will enter the seventh grade this fall.

Over $800,000 For Flood Damage Relief

Due to the flood and rain damage in Norfolk and Plymouth Counties, 579 South Shore residents have received commitments for more than $800,000 in relief. According to Cong.

William D. Delahunt, more help is available. The following is a list of those eligible.
•Individual residents, businesses, renters and property owners in Norfolk County and Plymouth County with documentable damage from the rains beginning June 13.

•Emergency grants for minor housing repairs, funding for displaced homeowners and renters; low-interest loans for home and personal property repair.

•Low-interest loans to homeowners and renters for damage to real estate and personal property; loans to businesses for property damage and certain types of economic injury due to flooding.

The deadline for most of the programs is Aug. 22. For relief from economic injury to local firms: March 23, 1999.

Persons may apply by calling 1-800-462-9029, toll free. FEMA officials will be on hand for assistance.

Aside from FEMA assistance, eligible local residents with disaster-related losses exceeding 10 percent of their adjusted gross income may be entitled to federal income tax deductions.

Details about potential tax implications of disaster repairs are available by calling the IRS, toll-free at 1-800-429-1040.

Wollaston Beach Gets Green Light

Last week, however, results from tests conducted by the city showed that Baker Beach was again safe for swimming, as were nine other Quincy beaches--Avalon, Mound, Rhoda (Rock Island), Edgewater Drive, Parkhurst, Post Island Road (Heron), Chickatabot Road, Nickerson and Orchard.

A Quincy Health Department spokeswoman said Tuesday that all of the above beaches, which are under the city's jurisdiction, still were safe at press time.

For updates on the conditions of the Quincy beaches, call the Health Department at 376-1270 or the MDC Hotline at 727-5264, ext. 517.

Marina Bay Night Spot Granted Cabaret License

The License Board Tuesday refused to issue an entertainment license to the Ocean Club and Raw Bar at Marina Bay, but granted them a cabaret license instead with some restrictions.

The club will have to notify Det. Sgt. Robert Perchard each time a function includes entertainment. And also that the entertainment would not be on the board walk, but only inside the premises.

Brian Leonard, manager of the club told the board that they had provided entertainment for several functions, but had not applied for a license. He said at the present time, the license would only be used for function purposes.

One abutter, who complained about the noise from the club on June 20 and 21, asked the board not to issue an entertainment license to the club unless the music could be contained inside the premises.

Shea told Leonard that the cabaret license means not more than three persons can perform. An entertainment license would be a full sized band or piano bar.

Shea read a letter from Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, who opposed the granting of the license because of the extra noise and felt it needed further study.

Supporters in the audience at the city hall chambers said they were not offended by the noise, but instead called the music "enjoyable".

Maralin Manning,

executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association said Quincy is replacing its retail base with restaurants and entertainment and said she supported the efforts of the Ocean Club.

THIS COLONIAL "DUEL" took place during the second annual Black's Creek Muster at Pageant Field. Mel Fuller (front right) of the First Independent Artillery of Chelmsford played the part of a Colonial soldier and James Murray of the Billerica Minutemen portrayed Fuller's adversary, a Tory. Fuller defeated his opponent in the duel just as the Colonials defeated the British in the real Revolutionary War.

More Than Double Last Year's Crowd 7,000 Attend Second Black's Creek Muster

By MICHAEL WHALEN
The second annual Black's Creek Muster held over the weekend at Pageant Field was a tremendous success, according to event organizer Michael Cheney.

The colonial encampment drew a crowd of about 7,000, "a little more than double" the inaugural effort last year, Cheney said.

"It was better than I expected," he said. "The weather played a role, as it usually does when it comes to events like this. But what we also found was that the people are hungry for experiencing history."

Cheney said about 10 groups of re-enactors from all over New England gathered at the event to demonstrate to the crowd how people lived, and died, during the American Revolution. Many of the re-enactors commented on the "high caliber" of the questions being asked by those in attendance, he added.

"It was exciting," he said. "I think it all came together very, very well."

Cheney said he also was heartened by the fact that "well over 100" of those in attendance were from Boston, as opposed to about 20 last year. He credited an increased promotional effort for that increase.

"So from a tourism standpoint, it was also a

For Probationers Supervision, No Inmates To Be Housed Corrections Center Planned By Sheriff At Downtown Site

The Norfolk County Sheriff's Office is planning to open a Community Corrections Center at 14 Revere Rd. in Quincy Center, the location of the former Premier Furniture store.

The Norfolk County Sheriff's Office is planning to open a Community Corrections Center at 14 Revere Rd. in Quincy Center, the location of the former Premier Furniture store.

The plan for the center, which essentially will function as an administrative office after it opens in early September, is being backed by Mayor James Sheets and Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott. No inmates will be housed at the center.

According to information released by the Sheriff's Office, the center will be one of a handful of pilot programs across the state that pools the resources of the sheriff's and probation departments to improve supervision of probationers.

The site was chosen because of its close proximity to Quincy District Court and the Probation Department. The center will focus on improving the supervision of probationers by using tools the sheriff's office has employed with inmates for the past decade.

At the corrections center, the sheriff's office will operate its Electronic Incarceration Program that uses state-of-the-art technology to monitor up to 150 offenders. The center also will include a Day Reporting Program for probationers, community service programs, substance abuse treatment, an on-site drug and alcohol testing laboratory, job placement and education programs.

"Community corrections points to the future of corrections in Massachusetts," said Norfolk County Sheriff Jack Flood. "If we can reform these people before they become inmates, help them kick their drug habits, help them get an education and a job, then we've truly served the public. And if we—the Sheriff's Office, the Probation Department, the Office of Community Corrections—don't do it, then who will?"

Sheets said he believes the presence of the Corrections Center will be an asset to the downtown.

New Signage Ordinance Signed Into Law By Mayor

A new citywide signage ordinance passed last month by the City Council has been signed into law by Mayor James Sheets.

Sheets said he signed the ordinance around July 8 "with a bunch of others," including traffic ordinances and year-end appropriations.

The law took effect as soon as it received his signature, Sheets said.

He said he is glad the long hours of a special committee that worked for nearly two years to revamp the city's previous signage ordinance are finally over.

"It's been a long, arduous pathway, but it's a done deal," said Sheets. "Now we have to look forward to enforcement."

The City Council unanimously passed the new signage ordinance June 29. It initially was passed May 18, but the council later rescinded that position so it could vote again on the ordinance with some last-minute amendments included.

Prior to the ordinance's final council approval, City Solicitor Stephen McGrath reviewed the law with Assistant City Solicitor Kevin Madden, Quincy Director of Inspectional Services Walter White, and Bernice Mader, Sheets' administrative assistant who chaired the special signage committee. The group had to make sure the law was in proper legal form, McGrath said.

Mader said the city's law department had some minor concerns over the language in the new ordinance and wanted to make sure all of its provisions are completely enforceable under tremendous success," he said.

The free event—which Cheney said cost around $3,500 to present to the public—was sponsored by First Night Quincy, the City of Quincy, Atlantic Development, Harbor Express, and the transportation company VHS.

Cheney, who is also chairman of First Night

Quincy, said plans call for the event to double in size next year and feature music and dancing from the Colonial era. The reenactors provided such entertainment at First Night Quincy '98 and will do so again at the city's upcoming New Year's Eve celebration, he noted.

Cheney said he also hopes to link next year's Black's Creek Muster with the USS Salem at the Fore River shipyard and the city's other historic sites.

For now, however, he is satisfied with the success of this year's event.

"I just want to thank the city and other sponsors, as well as the reenactors, for their support," said Cheney. "Everybody had great time, and I had a lot of fun doing this."

SECOND ANNUAL Black's Creek Muster held over the weekend at Pageant Field drew an estimated 7,000 spectators. Strolling the grounds in front of the tents erected at the field for the colonial encampment are Ginnie and Russell Knowler of Woburn.

Joy King Restaurant To Become Murphy's Tavern

After more than 20 years, the Joy King Restaurant on 425 Hancock St. has been purchased by twin brothers, Peter J. and David P. Murphy, and will be known as Murphy's Tavern.

The License Board last week allowed the transfer of the common victualer-all alcoholic license from Soon Lee Corp. and also the approval of the pledge of the all alcoholic license to Meetinghouse Cooperative Bank.

The board, however, did not give the Murphys a cabaret license until Ward 6 Bruce Ayers has a chance to meet with area businesses and schedules a neighborhood meeting.

The Murphys plan to make substantial renovations (both men are carpenters) and are former owners of the Twin Whistle in Weymouth.

License Board Chairman Joseph Shea praised the former owner Raymond Lee for his "good record in the community" and called him a "great guy."

The hearing for the cabaret license is set for Aug. 18.

Whiplash & Chiropractic

During a car accident, injuries to the neck and spine may be caused by the sudden movement of the head back and forth beyond its normal limits. The resulting instability of the spine and damage to muscles & ligaments can result in headaches, shoulder/arm/hand pain, a reduced ability to turn & bend and back problems.

The Chiropractic approach is to use specific adjustments to help correct and restore the natural motion and position of the vertebrae. If caught early enough, inflammation and scar tissue can be minimized.

Emergency Dept. Staff Increased Quincy Hospital Launches New 'Fast Track' Service

In an effort to enhance the service provided to all patients, the Quincy Hospital Emergency Department has created a new "Fast Track" for patient care.

In the new system, patients with less serious illnesses or injuries, like a sore throat or a small cut, are triaged and offered the option to be treated in the "Fast Track."

The goal is to have patients spend less than 60 minutes in the ED from registration to discharge. Patients with several complaints or more serious illnesses or injuries are not eligible for "Fast Track" services.

In order to offer this new service, Quincy Hospital increased the number of emergency department physicians and nurses on staff. Also, the department underwent renovations to provide more space for patient care and increase the number of beds from 13 to 20.

"Our 'Fast Track' system, along with the renovations and the new equipment we added, brought our ED into the new millennium," said Octavio Diaz, MD, chief of emergency services. "Medical technology changes so fast that ED's all across the country need to be constantly changing in order to provide the most efficient and highest quality patient care. Quincy Hospital has achieved this with 'Fast Track.'" want to keep the kids off the streets, and this is another way to do that."

Sheets first voiced support of the project last month after The Quincy Sun printed a letter to the mayor from Jane Sullivan of 183 Liberty St. Sullivan wrote that her sons, their cousin and some of their friends collected over 200 signatures last August in support of the construction of a Quincy "SkatePark."

Sheets, who estimated the cost of the effort at between $30,000 and $40,000, has said he does not want to build a separate, special park for skateboarding and/or rollerskating because of liability issues.

Still, he reiterated Tuesday his belief that the youth of the city deserve some designated area for the activity.

"We've got to do that for those kids," he said. "We owe them that much. And we're always saying we

Friend Weiler Named To Chamber Board

Sheets has assigned Thomas Koch, executive director of the Quincy Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments, to look into the matter to see if the "SkatePark" can be incorporated into one of the city's parks.

"I've indicated to Thomas that he should find an appropriate parcel of land," he said. "We've just begun a site search."

Friend S. Weiler, senior vice president of Fleet Financial Group in Boston, has been appointed to the Board of Directors of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce in Quincy.

Weiler lives in Duxbury where is former chairman of the Board of Selectmen.

Restoration Project At Cemetery Completed

The Quincy Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments recently completed a historic landscape renovation project at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

More than 110 new trees were planted as part of the Department of Environmental Management's Landscape Restoration Grant Program. The city was awarded a grant in the amount of $50,000 to help restore Mt. Wollaston as a "rural" or "garden" cemetery.

The species of new trees planted by Greenscape Land Design Inc. included sugar maples, pin oaks, kousa dogwoods, callery pears, European beech, Japanese maples, blue spruce, scotch pines, red cedars and home- stead elms.

"The diverse beauty of our new trees combined with the stately magnificence of the century-old trees in the cemetery will make Mt. Wollaston Cemetery a peaceful and beautiful location for many years to come," said Thomas Koch, executive director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments.

Mt. Wollaston Cemetery was consecrated in 1855. The original planners of the cemetery, including landscape designer Daniel Brims, modeled the cemetery after Forest Hills Cemetery and Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Koch noted that through the years, many of the trees that originally inhabited the cemetery were removed due to death and disease. The landscape restoration project represents the largest tree-planting in the cemetery's history, he said.

"Mt. Wollaston Cemetery is a location of major historical importance to the city," Koch added. "Through the support of the DEM, Mayor Sheets and the Quincy City Council, we are able to return Mt. Wollaston to its original design intent."

Food, Nutrition Demonstration At Farmers' Market

The Quincy WIC Program will present a food and nutrition demonstration Friday at the Quincy Farmers' Market in the Hancock Parking Lot across from Quincy District Court.

University Extension personnel will cook produce from the market for consumers to sample. The demonstration also will be presented Aug. 21 in conjunction with the kickoff of Massachusetts Farmers' Market Week.

The Quincy Farmers' Market is being held every Friday, rain or shine, from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Oct. 30. It offers a wide variety of home-grown fruits and vegetables. Additional produce becomes available weekly as the season advances.

Participating farmers include: Boston's Long Island Shelter Farm from Long Island, a NOFA (Northeast Organic Farming Association)-certified farm; Janet McKenzie Herb Farm from Duxbury, Freitas Farm from Middleboro, Stillman Farm from Lunenburg, River Bend Farm from Berkley and Noguchoke Orchard from Westport. The Parker Orchard of Westboro plans to participate later in the season.

The market is sponsored by the City of Quincy, the office of Mayor James Sheets, Quincy Planning Department, Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, Quincy 2000, and the Federation of Massachusetts Farmers' Markets and is managed pro bono by Johnson Building and Remodeling of Quincy.

The Young Alan Shepard

News of Alan Shepard's death both saddened me and brought back personal memories of our first man in space.

His accomplishments as an astronaut were well detailed in the news coverage but one little part of his earlier career seemed to have gotten lost.

Shepard was a young ensign on my ship, the destroyer Cogswell in the Pacific, during World War II.

He wasn't one of the "plank owners" who put the ship in commission at the Charlestown Navy Yard in August, 1943. He came aboard near the end of the war.

But he was with us long enough to make a lasting impression.

Many of us enlisted men were still kids not long out of high school. And he was just a year or two older.

Maybe it was the closeness in age that made us connect with him. He was happy-go-lucky with a good sense of humor and a ready grin to go with it. He liked to kid and joke with the crew.

He was sort of like a Mr. Roberts with a dash of Ensign Pulver. Or, the other way around.

None of us back then would have ever thought we had a future space pioneer among us. That in 1961 he would become the first American to travel in space. And then, 10 years later, step foot on the moon.

That would have been hard to believe back then when the only thing we were thinking about was ending a war on earth and going home. Whenever we thought about the moon it was to hope it wouldn't be too bright to make it hard for the Japanese to spot us at night.

It would have been hard to think this easy-going young ensign would someday walk on that moon.

But, I think, if we knew he was going to, it would have been easy to believe he would do something like whacking a couple of golf balls off the lunar fairway. And, to hear him yell: "Fore!"

AND IT WAS with sadness that I heard of the death of Don Wilder, retired editor of The Patriot Ledger and a long-time friend and co-worker.

Don was a great newspaperman who rose through the ranks from part-time sports writer to the top editor's job at the Ledger.

I worked with him for nearly 14 years before going off to the old Boston Traveler. He was a joy to work with. He was fair to his staff and to the readers. He always insisted on both sides of an issue.

SHEPARD

WILDER

He remained calm and cool, regardless of what news story was breaking. And he could sit down and bang out one himself at deadline.

I have fond memories of my days at the Ledger with colleagues like Laban Whittaker, Fred Hunt, Lin Raymond, Denny Allen, Percy Lane, Bill Robertson, Mila Dixon, Mabelle Fullerton, Carl Scrivener, Dick LaBrecque, Bob Cady, Mildred Pickering, all of whom are gone now.

And especially Don Wilder who made reporting to work something to look forward to every morning.

He was, as another good friend Mo Reardon has said: "A newspaperman's newspaperman."

And, a lot more.

He was also a great human being.

TONY SICILIANO is taking some vacation time before returning to his duties as the city's Emergency Management Deputy Director.

Siciliano was admitted to Quincy Hospital in early June with a serious foot infection. And, for awhile, it was touch and go.

But he's out and around now and has warm praise for Quincy Hospital.

"They were wonderful," he says. "We are so lucky to have that hospital. Especially the Transitional Care Unit. I can't say enough about the treatment and care I received."

Although he's not officially back at his post, he is keeping close tabs on things by phone.

And ready to be there in person if needed.

AN OPEN HOUSE is set for Saturday, 10 a.m. to noon at Senator Bill Keating's Norfolk County District Attorney campaign headquarters, 1585 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

It's being hosted by his Quincy Coordinating Committee, which you have to say, has a bit of political clout. Among the members: Frank Bellotti, Michael Morrissey, Peter Kolson, Paul Harold, Michael D'Amico, Patrick McDermott, Michael Cheney, Mary Collins and Alicia Coletti.

FORMER Councillor Larry Chretien, candidate for state representative, has a fundraiser tonight (Thursday), 7 to 9 p.m., at Best Western Adams Inn, 29 Hancock St., North Quincy. Donation is $25. For more info call 472-1400.

Consumer Guide On Division Of Registration Available

State Sen. Michael Morrissey announces the availability of "A Consumer's Guide to the Licensed Professions Within the Division of Registration."

The guide provides information for consumers concerning the professional and occupational licensing for over 500,000 individuals in more than 45 trades and professions, ranging from nurses to electricians to pharmacists.

"The brochure gives the consumer concise information on professional licensing. The information in the guide ranges from checking the status of an applicant's license to filing a complaint with the Board," said Morrissey, Senate chairman of the Joint Committee on Government Regulations.

The guide provides a listing of the boards of registration's license trades and professions. It explains of the licensing and complaint process as well as tips for choosing tradespersons and licensed professionals.

"It is a brief and excellent way to be introduced to the Commonwealth's Board of Registration," said Morrissey.

To get a copy of A Consumer's Guide to the Licensed Professionals Within the Division of Registration, call Morrissey's office at 722-1494.

Do you know who was the only president to serve two non-consecutive terms? Grover Cleveland.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS is an early 1920's view of Wollaston Beach showing the yacht clubs in the distance. The picture was taken from the bath houses that were on the site of today's Beachcomer. Before the first seawall was built, high tides such as the one shown here left little beach to use and on stormy days the water easily came across the road. The bathhouses and other buildings in this area were built on stilts. Buried under the boulevard is the sewer pipe that runs from Squantum to Nut Island. Hopefully it is not contributing to the pollution problems at the beach today.

Supports 'Beede School' Proposal

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Geographical location is not to be valued more than the memory of a dedication principal-educator. I'm all for renaming the Broad Meadows Middle School "The Harry Beede Middle School."

Many never got to know Harry Beede as I did, having begun my teaching with him at what then was the Central Junior High School and having transferred with him to Broad Meadows School when it opened. Many times at Central he was proud to show me the architectural drawings he was working on for the proposed new school.

Those were not lush, budgetary days for school principals. Yet when I was at my wit's end trying to personalize instruction, Harry himself made me a "listening station" that services eight students at one time to listen to the Latino tape instruction that came with Dr. Waldo Sweet's new approach to the study of Latin.

Harry also saw to it that I had constant priority use of an overhead projector to further enhance my ability to meet the differing learning needs of early adolescent boys and girls. This instrument proved especially valuable in my English classes for teaching composition.

Once a year, I used to correspond with Harry after he moved to Florida. He and his wife, Louisa, had made some very smart investments and lived very comfortably in retirement. Even so, I remember how tormented he was when he had to place his failing wife and constant companion in a rest home.

This humble man left behind him an educational legacy that will benefit the children of Quincy long after the rest of us are gone. I urge the Quincy School Committee to place on its agenda the matter of renaming the Broad Meadows Middle School "The Harry Beede Middle School."

Thanks Those Who Helped Him Following Accident

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The purpose of this letter is to both thank those who came to my aid following a recent accident and to relate to the citizens of Quincy the gracious and generous assistance extended to me by young people driving by.

On July 13, at approximately 9:30 p.m., I sustained a fall outside the American Legion Post 95 on Mechanic St. Immediately, two cars stopped, with five young people rushing to my aid. Their help was much appreciated and a true expression of compassion and concern that speaks well for the young people of Quincy.

Additionally, the prompt response by the police, fire and ambulance service reminds us all of the professional services that are in reserve, but not always visible until needed.

100 Dutch Elm Trees Killed

By PAUL HAROLD

City Forester Warren Stewart reported that while Dutch Elm disease had killed 100 trees in South and West Quincy, there were other sections of the city unaffected.

He said that Wollaston Hill was a good example of what can be done by pruning trees early in the season and spraying with DDT. In that neighborhood, only three trees were affected. Meanwhile, eight trees on Adams St. were identified for immediate attention.

HOT-RODDERS GIVEN WARNING

Capt. Joseph Flaherty of the police traffic bureau warned hot-rod boys in the city that there would be strict enforcement, including license and registration suspension, for vehicles racing on city streets.

Six owners of souped-up cars had already been cited. The police were on the lookout for two vehicles racing on North Central Ave.

SQUANTUM, BRAINTREE ROBBERIES LINKED

Capt. William Ferrazzi, head of the police detective bureau, said the recent armed robbery of a Squantum filling station had the "same pattern and brutality and stupidity" as the recent robbery of an East Braintree package store.

In Squantum, a 24-year-old attendant was knocked out with a tonic bottle and robbed of $400.

Rita's Salmon Burgers

Here is a fabulous recipe for salmon burgers, one which our daughter Rita serves in her restaurant. I recently enjoyed it and thought you might also.

Salmon Burgers about 1 pound of fresh salmon filet (fresh is better) (uncooked)
1 cup cooked rice
1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
salt and pepper to taste
1 teaspoon fresh parsley

1 teaspoon fresh dill or fresh basil
Chop or process salmon in food processor (about 15 seconds) Add all other ingredients and blend for another minute. If mixture seems too liquidy, add 1/4 cup breadcrumbs and mix by hand.

Form into burgers and either pan fry in small amount of olive oil and grill using wire rack. Serve either in hard roll or plain with fries or cole slaw.

THAT FICKLE PHANTOM PAIN
 Phantom pain -- the "feel-brain. Fortunately, there are ing" of pain in a part of now several effective options body that is no longer there for relief from phantom pain. - is a problem that can occur virtually anywhere in the body. The feet are among the most frequent targets of phantom pain, though, as toes and feet are the most common appendages to undergo amputation. Although phantom pain is still not entirely understood, we know that it occurs when remaining living nerves receive the same kind of signals that would have been "just all in the head." It is as sent by the missing tissue if real to the patient as the pain it were there, transmitting from any existing part of the these pain signals on to the body.

Hospital Receives $30,000 Donation From Auxiliary

A check for $30,000 from the Quincy Hospital Auxiliary was presented to Quincy Hospital Director Jeffrey Doran at the auxiliary's recent annual meeting at the Wollaston Golf Club.

The money was raised in the hospital gift shop and through fundraising activities, including a fudge sale, Heart Tag Day, and book, handbag and linen sales sponsored by the auxiliary throughout the year.

The funds will be used for equipment to benefit patient care.

Director of Volunteers announced the awarding of the annual scholarship award of $1,000 to Fa (Junnie) Lo, a North Quincy High School graduate and hospital volunteer who will begin studies for a medical career at Northeastern University.

Chairperson for the luncheon was Arlene Constant.

A business meeting was conducted by President Carol Herbai. New officers installed were: Herbai, president; Marion DeSantis, 1st vice president; Arlene Constant, 2nd vice president; Mildred Jacobs, corresponding secretary; Ilda DiMascio, recording secretary; Yolanda Romanelli, treasurer; and Natalie Fossati, assistant treasurer.

Guest speakers included Doran; Dr. Octavio Diaz, chief of emergency services; Louis Mazzini, chairman of the hospital's Board of Managers; and Carol Gagnon, director of the Transitional Care Unit.

Musical entertainment was provided by the Silver Stream Duo.

Stacia Galvin Wed To Troy Roelen

Stacia Galvin, daughter of James Galvin and Kathleen Galvin, both of Quincy, recently was married to Troy Roelen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Roelen of Mission Viejo, Calif.

The Nuptial Mass was celebrated at Sacred Heart Church in North Quincy and officiated by Fr. John O'Brien. The couple left the church in an old-fashioned horse and buggy, and a reception followed at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Carolyn O'Brien of Quincy served as Maid of Honor. Bridesmaids were Kim Galvin and Kerry Galvin, both of Quincy, Lonnie Roelen of California and Kelly Wirtz of Quincy.

Scott Roelen of California served as Best Man. Ushers were Jonathan

Galvin and Christian Galvin, both of Quincy, and Thomas Krucil and Timothy Brambilla, both of California. Ring Bearer was Scott Higgins of Quincy.

The bride is a graduate of North Quincy High School, Aquinas College in Milton, and the University of Massachusetts in Boston where she received a degree in sociology. She is an analyst for CAPPCare Health Services in California.

The groom is a graduate of Mater Dei High School and Pitzer College, both in California. He is a teacher at Mission Viejo High School where he also coaches basketball.

Following a wedding trip to Martha's Vineyard, the newlyweds are living in Los Flores, Calif.

Melissa Adams Engaged To Keith Shaw

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Adams of Quincy announce the engagement of their daughter, Melissa A. Adams, to Keith C. Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Shaw of Melbourne, Fla. and Mrs. May Carrotti of McCormick, S.C.

Miss Adams also is the daughter of the late Marlene Adams.

Miss Adams, a 1988 graduate of North Quincy High School and a 1993 graduate of the University of Maine, is employed by Network World magazine.

Mr. Shaw, a 1985 graduate of Shenendehowa High School in Clifton Park, N.Y. and a 1989 graduate of Syracuse University, is employed by Computerworld Magazine.

A November wedding is planned.

Louise Forsyth Chairman Of Counselors Awards Committee

The Massachusetts School Counselors Association (MSCA) announces that Louise B. Forsyth of Quincy will serve as chairman of the National Awards Committee as well as Life Trustee on MSCA's Governing Board.

Although now retired from active service in the schools, Forsyth spent many years serving students in the field of guidance and counseling.

She has been active in professional counseling organizations for several years and encourages school counselors in the local area to contact her for information about MSCA in general as well as about her specific responsibility within the association.

The MSCA serves over 1,200 counselors throughout the state by responding to requests for information, offering a variety of professional development programs, conducting an annual three-day conference, and publishing a monthly journal.

Gas Station Granted 3,000 Gallon Increase

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The License Board has granted permission to Furnace Brook Gas & Variety, 507 Furnace Brook Pkwy. to store an additional 3,000 gallons of gasoline, totalling 12,000 gallons.

The owner Elie Youssef who also requested the construction of a canopy, was told that he would have to appear before the Zoning Board of Appeals.

The license board has the authority to issue the license for the extra gasoline, but not for a canopy.

According to Chairman Joseph Shea, the site is the only gas station in Quincy that sells groceries and it was under the "grandfather clause".

After a neighborhood meeting with Ward 5 Councillor Steve Durkin, Shea said neighbors thought the canopy was "not conducive to the residential neighborhood."

Originally, Youssef has requested permission to store 18,000 gallons of gasoline.

However, Councillor Durkin said abutters voiced concerns about the dangers of storing extra gasoline.

Questions of fire safety were discussed by Fire Chief Thomas Gorman who said a canopy was not needed for fire protection.

According to the owners, the Environmental Protection Agency said that all gas stations have to change pumps that are one walled and change to two walled pumps. The Furnace Brook Gas & Variety pumps are 15 years old. According to Gorman, by Dec. 31 of this year, all pumps in Quincy have to be changed.

At the end of the discussion a motion by Police Chief Thomas Frane to decrease the gasoline from the 18,000 to 12,000 which the board then voted unanimously in favor.

Owners must now go before the Zoning Board of Appeals about the canopy.

Two Quincy Telecommunications Productions Recognized At Festival

Two video productions made through the Quincy Access Television facilities of the Quincy Telecommunications Corporation Inc. (QTC) were recognized at the recent Alliance for Community Media's annual Hometown Video Festival awards ceremony in Portland, Ore.

"As this is the first year of our organization, much of our effort has been geared toward helping our members develop new and interesting local programming and also toward increasing public awareness of community television," said QTC Executive Director Elizabeth Campbell.

"That we have been so successful, now celebrated by first place and finalist recognition in national competition, is especially exciting," added Campbell, who attended the awards ceremony with QTC board members Barry Welch and William Earley.

"The Night Before Christmas: A Municipal Reading" won first prize in the creative use of municipal government access television category. A joint production of QTC and Welch, its board chairman, the three-version production of the classic holiday poem featured 44 civic leaders and other highly-recognizable community members, including Mayor James Sheets, City Council President Peter Kolson, Fire Chief Thomas Gorman, School Supt. Eugene Creedon and Marianne Peak, superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site.

"We had a lot of fun when we did it," said

Welch. "Even individuals who might be considered rivals during the rest of the year came together and welcome the opportunity to bring such a unique, yet traditional, greeting to the citizens of Quincy."

A second production, "First-Time Homebuyer's Video," produced by Angelito Santos and Nancy Callanan of the Quincy Planning Department, was recognized as a finalist in the government profile category.

Produced through the Quincy Access Television facilities, the video showcases the positive aspects of owning one's own home, while educating potential first-time homebuyers and the community about the city's First-Time Homebuyers Program.

Corrigan Praises Sheets, Raymondi On Community Policing

Jack Corrigan, candidate for Norfolk County district attorney, praises the work of Mayor James Sheets and Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi for their leadership in establishing Quincy's community policing commission.

"Mayor Sheets and Councillor Raymondi have taken a great step forward in addressing Quincy's crime problems," said Corrigan, a former assistant district attorney.

"Community policing and the practice of involving law enforcement in the daily workings of local communities have proven to be invaluable in the fight against crime," Corrigan said. "When police have the opportunity to really get to know the residents personally, they can work to forge a true partnership with the community."

Corrigan has previously called for the implementation of community prosecution in the district attorney's office.

"Community prosecution is based on the same principle as community policing," he said. "If assistant DA's are assigned to specific towns and have the opportunity to get to know the community, they can more effectively solve the crime problems of the area. Community prosecution has proven to be an incredibly effective in Suffolk and Middlesex counties and only inertia prevents its implementation in Norfolk."

Julie Dunn Receives Scholarship From Cambridgeport Bank

Cambridgeport Bank has presented $1,000 in scholarship funds to Julie Dunn, a 1998 graduate of Quincy High School.

Dunn will attend Providence College this fall.

The annual Cambridgeport Bank Social Service Scholarship program presents local high schools with a $1,000 grant to be presented to students by each school's academic committee.

Founded in 1987, the Cambridgeport Bank Social Service Scholarship program has assisted more than 45 students with their financial academic needs. The one-time grant is bestowed to a graduating senior who has made significant contributions in the area of social service to the school or community.

Dunn has been actively involved in her local community, serving as a peer educator and counselor, as well as a member of the Pride Committee, National Honor Society, and Year-book Committee. In addition, Dunn was a member of the cross country team and was also named among "Who's Who For American High School Students."

Realtors Assn. To Hold Convention Sept. 8-10

The Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR) will hold its 74th annual Convention and Trade Show Tuesday through Thursday, Sept. 8-10 at the Hynes Convention Center in Boston.

The three-day program will feature over 50 educational sessions and more than 60 hours of continuing education class time for both new licensees and experienced brokers and agents. Many of the sessions will focus on the real estate industry's latest and most popular issues and trends, including legal liability concerns and new technology for the agent.

The 1998 MAR Convention also will feature well-known national real estate trainers Ginny Denton, Tom Lundstedt, Jim Pugliese and Jerry Rossi.

One-day early registration fees for convention attendees are $99 for Realtors and $150 for non-member licensees. The cost for the full package is $200 for Realtors and $250 for non-members who register before Aug. 7.

For complete program and registration details, call the MAR Customer Service Department at 1-800-725-6272.

Hosts Northeast Regional Aug. 13-17 At Adams Field Season Not Over Yet For Morrisette Legion

By LIAM FITZGERALD

All is not lost for the Morrisette American Legion baseball team, despite being swept from the South Sectional playoffs by South Attleboro last week.

As the host team for the Northeast Regional to be held Aug. 13-17 at Adams Field, Morrisette received an automatic berth. As Morrisette head coach Tom Malvesti puts it, the "new season" begins Aug. 13 at 8 p.m., when Morrisette plays the representative from Pennsylvania.

The winner of the Regional will advance to the American Legion World Series in Las Vegas, Nev.

Heading into Bracket B of the South Sectional, Morrisette (15-9) was riding a nine-game winning streak and had reeled off 13 victories in its last 15 games. All that came to a screeching halt when a powerful South Attleboro team swept Morrisette, 16-3 and 16-6, last Thursday night at Adams Field to capture the best-of-three series.

"We just ran into a team that had pitching depth, good defense and a heck of a lot of hitting," said Malvesti. "I knew we didn't have too much pitching depth, and they hit the ball very well."

"It's kind of a letdown, but the kids will put it behind them. We've come a long way with what we had, and I'm proud of them. Everybody wrote us off, but we turned it around and made the playoffs, and now we'll get ready for the Regional after a few days of rest."

In the series opener, which began last Wednesday night, Morrisette got off to a good start, scoring twice to take a 2-0 lead. Leadoff hitter Bill Walker and Erik Fagan belted back-to-back triples and Matt McLoughlin followed with a groundout, scoring Fagan.

South Attleboro (16-6) threatened in the top of the second when Dan Webber led off with a double, but he was erased trying to stretch the hit into a triple. Center fielder Keith Doherty tracked the ball down and fired it to shortstop Fagan, who rifled the ball to third baseman Shawn Manning, who tagged out Webber.

The visitors broke the game open in the third off starter and losing pitcher Rob Celata, collecting five hits and six runs to go ahead, 6-2. After two hit batsmen and a single loaded the bases, Jeff Renga belted a three-run double and Shaun Bryant added a two-run double.

During the inning, Celata began experiencing pain in his left shoulder, and was relieved by Ryan Ploof. However, before Ploof threw his first pitch, the lights went out at the park. Following a 30-minute delay, Legion officials decided to continue the game Thursday afternoon, followed by the second game.

Yet another delay occurred Thursday, when thunderstorms postponed competition of the first game until 8 p.m. When play resumed, Ploof walked the first batter then caught a pop-up to end the threat. SA put the game out of reach with a four-run fourth.

Meanwhile, SA starter Geno Orsogna bounced back from a rough first inning to hold Morrisette's hitters at bay. He breezed through the next three innings. Morrisette scored its third run in the fifth when Fagan and McLoughlin drew two-out walks. In an attempt to pick off McLoughlin, Orsogna threw wildly past first base, allowing Fagan to score.

Once again, the visitors put together a big inning, scoring six times in the seventh, combining three hits, three errors, a walk and a sacrifice fly.

Early in the second game, the momentum appeared to shift towards Morrisette as McLoughlin drew a two-out walk, advanced to second on a wild pitch and moved to third on Manning's infield single. With Cunio at bat, starter Dan Webber uncorked another wild pitch and McLoughlin broke for the plate. Unfortunately for Morrisette, the ball bounced back to catcher Shaun Bryant, who fired to Webber, and the sliding McLoughlin was called out to end the inning.

A scoreless game in the third, SA quickly changed that with a 13-run eruption, sending 19 batters to the plate and collecting 10 hits, five walks, and a hit batsman off starter John Sullivan and reliever Chris Bregoli.

SA's Paul Hasenfus flew out to open the inning, but the next 13 batters reached base. Sullivan, the losing pitcher, allowed 10 South Attleboro hitters to reach and was charged with 10 runs. Bregoli walked the first two batters he faced with the bases loaded and gave up three more runs (one on a sacrifice fly) before striking out Hasenfus to stop the onslaught.

The next inning, SA opened with three straight hits, leading to two more runs and a 15-0 lead. Morrisette got on the board in the fifth, as Jim Cunio led off with a triple and scored on a groundout by Ray Cattaneo.

Morrisette added two more in the sixth and another three in the seventh, but SA maintained a double-digit advantage. Doherty opened the sixth with a double, then moved to third on a wild pitch and scored on a RBI by Bill Walker (three RBI). After Fagan walked and McLoughlin hit a fielder's choice, Clarke drove in Fagan with a grounder.

Sandwiched between a flyout and a strikeout in the seventh, Bregoli walked and moved to third on a single by Doherty. Walker followed with a two-run double to center and scored on Fagan's single to left for the final run of the series.

TWO QUINCY PLAYERS were significant contributors to the success of the 1998 Suffolk University baseball team, which compiled the best regular season record in the school's history. From left, Dave Reinhart of North Quincy and Jay Schnabel of Quincy. Reinhart was the Rams' co-captain and as a pitcher posted a 6-1 record with two saves. When not pitching, the 1993 North Quincy High School graduate played left field and batted .345. Schnabel, a 1993 Boston College High School graduate, played in all of the Rams' games and batted .278 with 28 runs batted in.

Christopher Barra Silver Medalist At U.S. Judo Junior Nationals

Christopher Barra of 99 Bigelow St., Quincy, won the silver medal at the 1998 U.S. Judo Association (USJA) Junior National Championships held at the Seagate Convention Center in Toledo, Ohio, over the Fourth of July weekend.

Barra, who will enter his senior year at North Quincy High School this fall, competed in the boys 16-year-old 73-kilogram (158 lbs.) category.

Barra won his first match handily when he threw Timothy Bell of Cincinnati, Ohio, with harai-goshi (sweeping hip) for ippon in just 15 seconds. Ippon is a full hard throw or a finishing technique as judge by the referee and is equivalent to a knockout in boxing or a pin in wrestling.

In his second match, against Scott Boback of Ft. Worth, Texas, Barra injured his knee when their legs got entangled. Barra was given an injury time out, but managed to come back and throw with harai-goshi for waza-ari (not quite ippon). He forced a submission from Boback with a koshijime (hip strangle).

Barra continued to advance in the winners pool by pinning Adam Kakala of Wichita, Kan., with a modified yoko-shiho-gatame (side hold down).

As a double elimination event, all competitors, with the exception of the gold medal winner, had to absorb two losses. Only Barra and Jesse Garshink of Dilltown, Ill., remained at the end.

CHRISTOPHER BARRA of 99 Bigelow St., Quincy, receives a silver medal for his performance at the recent U.S. Judo Association Junior National Championships. Barra, a student at North Quincy High School, didn't lose a match until the gold medal round.

Early in their first match, Barra was charged with a minor penalty, which was the only score in the contest and resulted in Barra's first defeat. A little more determined, Barra dominated their second fight, throwing Garshink four times to force a tie-breaking gold medal match.

In the gold medal match, Garshink caught Barra late in the contest with a drop seoi-nage (shoulder throw) for the victory. Although Barra was disappointed to finish second, he had the distinction of scoring the most ippons (five) in the tournament.

After returning to Quincy, Barra visited his personal physician and was informed that he had sustained ligament damage in his left knee. The injury, which occurred in the match against Boback, will keep Barra out of several competitions this summer.

Barra is instructed by Bill Stevens and Tom Comerford at the L Street Judo Club in South Boston and by Rick Meara at Angelo's Karate & Judo School in Everett.

Charlie Saccetti Memorial Golf Tournament Aug. 3

A golf tournament held in memory of Charlie Saccetti, a retired captain of the Quincy Police Department and a member of Cyril P. Morrisette Post #294, will be held Monday, Aug. 3 at the Halifax Country Club.

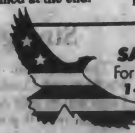

Shotgun start will be at 1 p.m. Cost is $85 per person and includes greens fees, carts, dinner, awards and prizes.

The proceeds, which have amounted to $2,000 in each of the event's five-year existence, will be donated to the Morrisette Post scholarship program. Deserving children and grandchildren of members are awarded scholarships after acceptance to college.

Those interested in participating or sponsoring a hole may contact the Triage Filling Station, 15 Centre St., Quincy, or call (617) 472-9517.

42 Local Youngsters Qualify For State Track & Field Meet

Forty-two Quincy youngsters qualified for the State Championship following top 16 performances at the recent 21st annual Hershey's National Track and Field Youth Program.

The winners of the state meet will have their times and distances compared with other New England state champions and the top competitors will receive an all-expense paid trip to the National Championship in Hershey, Pa.

Two hundred and thirty-five local boys and girls ages 9 to 14 competed in a local meet sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department. The events, held at Veterans' Memorial Stadium in three separate age groups, included the long jump, softball throw, 50 meter dash, 100 meter dash, 400 meter dash, 4 x 100 meter relay, 800 meter run, and 1600 meter run.

Saying "volunteers are the heart of the program," Recreation Director Barry Welch thanked Quincy Track Club Director Geoff Hennessy for his outstanding commitment to the program.

The Quincy champions, their age group and events are as follows:

Erin Bailey (Girls 11-12): 100M, long jump, 4x100M relay; Diana Berberan (Girls 13-14): 100M; Maura Blaney (Girls 13-14): 4x100M relay; Elizabeth Bloomer (Girls 13-14): 1600M; Matthew Bondaryk (Boys 11-12): softball throw; Devin Cahill (Girls 9-10): 100M, 200M; Samantha Chaison (Girls 13-14): 4x100M relay; Kate Collins (Girls 11-12): softball throw; Anthony Connolly (Boys 11-12): long jump; Sarah Dodd (Girls 9-10): 4x100M relay; Stephanie Fiandacia (Girls 13-14): softball throw; Siobhan Green (Girls 11-12): 4 x 100M relay; Christi Haines (Girls 11-12): 800M; Matt Hawko (Boys 11-12): 200M; Mark Jordan (Boys 9-10): 400M, 4 x 100M relay.

Riley, Bregoli Lead Elks To League Title

BABE RUTH

Behind the complete game effort of Dave Riley and Pat Bregoli's four-hit outburst, the Elks defeated Sons of Italy 18-4 in the Babe Ruth championship game.

Riley, who scattered 11 hits while fanning 7, worked out of two bases-loaded jams in the second and fifth innings.

The Elks jumped to a 7-0 lead in the first using 6 walks to their advantage. Mark Gibbons had a big 2-RBI hit in the inning. SOI answered with 4 runs as Pat Jaehnig had an RBI while Bobby Muollo's triple drove in two.

Riley's triple in the second helped increase the Elks' lead to 9-4. The Elks exploded for 7 more runs in the third. Bregoli led with a triple and scored on Riley's single. Two walks and 2 errors led to a Mark Robinson RBI and a Ryan Farnum RBI. Bregoli drove in another run with his second hit of the inning.

Bregoli had 2 doubles, a trip and a single for the winners while Riley had 3 hits including 2 triples. Gibbons also had 2 hits for the Elks.

SOI was led by Joe Thorley's 3 for 3 performance while Kyle Piazza also had 2 hits.

In the semi-final, Chris Ham got his second playoff victory as the Elks held on to the edge SOI 8-7. Bregoli again was the hitting star collecting 4 hits, including a triple. Piazza had 2 hits for SOI while Thorley had 3 more hits.

Thirteen-year-old Brian O'Handley limited Fire to 6 hits while fanning 6 in the Elks 13-2 quarter-final win. O'Handley had 2 hits and 3 RBI. Gibbons had 3 hits and 2 RBI, while Erik McGinnis added 2 hits. Bregoli also had 2 hits and 2 RBI.

For Fire, Chris Walsh was 3 for 3 while Craig Royce added a double and an RBI.

Bregoli led the Elks in their run to the championship going 15 to 19 (.789). Gibbons also stood out at the plate hitting .556 in the playoffs. Riley also batted .500 in the playoffs.

Coaches are Rich Bryan, Les Fidalgo and Paul Bregoli.

Top-Notch Pitching, Defense Spark Lions To Playoff Wins

JUNIOR LEAGUE

Rookie Drew Loud recorded his first playoff victory, leading the Lions to a dramatic, 7-5 come-from-behind win over a talented Jaehnig Club in recent Quincy Youth Baseball Junior League play.

Displaying pinpoint control, Loud changed speeds effectively and held the Jaehnig Club at bay. In full command of his breaking ball, Loud fanned 13 and issued only two walks as he saved the Lions from virtual playoff elimination.

Brett Martinson's clutch hitting provided the spark as the Lions rallied to overcome a three-run deficit. Ryan McCarthy walked, stole second and scored on Brendan Craig's two-base hit. Andrew McAllister singled and Craig scored on Nick Ledger's fielder's choice. Martinson came up with two outs and drilled a bases-clearing double to deep right center field, giving the Lions a 4-3 lead.

Loud went untouched in the fifth, before Jaehnig's Masey set the Lions down in the sixth.

With the entire season on the line, the Jaehnig Club battled into the last inning down by one run. Carmody singled and stole second and third. After Loud struck out the next batter, Chris Marinelli grounded to short to drive in Carmody to tie the game. Bearing down, Loud closed out the sixth with no further damage.

The Lions jumped ahead in the seventh when Craig singled, stole second and scored on Germain's solid base hit. McAllister hit safely and Martinson doubled for his third hit and fourth RBI, pushing the Lions' lead to 7-4.

Martinson got the nod to close out the seventh. With one run in, no out and the tying run aboard, Martinson faced the top of Jaehnig's order. In a gutsy effort, Martinson struck out the side to end the game and move the Lions deeper into the playoffs.

For the Jaehnig Club, center fielder Jaehnig turned in a fine defensive play as his strong throw to second nailed Loud trying to stretch a single into a double. Tobin, Jaehnig and Carmody hit safely.

The Lions' Joe Berlo singled and the defensive support of Ledger, Kane and Gibbons and Alex Scott contributed to the memorable and hard-fought triumph.

The upstart Lions continued their winning ways, defeating a tough Beacon Club for their second playoff win. McAllister was the Lions' starting pitcher, facing Dean Sandonato, who took the mound for Beacon. This thriller went down to the wire and was decided on a play worthy of highlight material.

With the score knotted at 3-3 and two Beacon runners in scoring position, Scott Flaherty lined a shot to center for what appeared to be a sure extra-base hit and a two-run lead for Beacon. However, Lions' center fielder Drew Loud got a good jump on the ball, racing towards the gap in right center. It appeared Loud would have no chance as the ball rose and hastened toward the fence.

Angling slightly backward, Loud streaked toward the smoking liner. What happened next was likely the most athletic and improbable play of the season. Getting every inch out of his last stride, Loud went airborne and thrust his glove skyward while stretching his body to its limit. He speared the ball in the webbing of his glove as he dove through the air. With the ball precariously snow-capped in the tip of his mitt, Loud slid across the outfield grass. He rolled over, righted himself and hung onto the ball. The crowd erupted in applause and were abuzz about the play they had witnessed.

Pumped by Loud's defensive gem, veteran sluggers Nick Ledger and Andrew McAllister homered for the Lions. Brendon Craig and Matt Germain came alive and led the Lions to victory.

Brett Martinson pitched three innings of excellent relief, allowing just one run. It was Martinson's second straight playoff save, keeping the Lions' championship hopes alive.

Corrections Center Planned By Sheriff At Downtown Site

"I had known about that," said the mayor when asked about the plan. "It wasn't a use that I thought would negatively impact the area. It will bring more people into the downtown to shop and to eat at the restaurants, and anything that brings more people into the downtown is a good thing."

McDermott, who serves as chairman of the City Council Downtown Committee and whose ward borders on the proposed site, said he also thinks the plan is a good one.

"I find it to be a good use," he said. "You see more of a police presence there. I think it adds to the safety of the neighborhood."

Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin, whose ward includes the site, could not be reached for comment.

Flood said he has made the Community Corrections Center a priority for the Sheriff's Office because of the direct link between his office, the Office of Community Correction, and the Probation Department. A majority of the inmates in the Sheriff's House of Correction are incarcerated because they violated the terms of their probation.

The effort by the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office is one of six pilot programs across the state—Barnstable, Essex, Hampden, Suffolk and Worcester counties operate the others—in a plan, endorsed by the state Legislature and run by the Trial Court's Office of Community Corrections, to provide closer supervision of probationers. The Sheriff's Office already assists in the supervision of 30 probationers in Norfolk.

The Norfolk County Sheriff's Office has used the Electronic Incarceration Program, which requires an inmate to wear a monitoring bracelet on his or her ankle as a way to relieve jail overcrowding, since 1988. Inmates cleared for the program are allowed to live in the community under tight supervision provided they have a job and a place to live, meet curfew, and refrain from using drugs and alcohol. The Sheriff's Office randomly checks on the inmates three times weekly, ensuring they are drug-free and attend mandatory work and counseling.

"We're going to provide a menu of custody options to the Trial Courts for the purpose of monitoring offenders for the community," said Flood. "This is a critical step in improving public safety in Norfolk County and saving taxpayers' money. By lending our expertise, we can better supervise probationers and keep them out of trouble and out of jail. That's good for us because our House of Correction is overcrowded."

The Sheriff's Office also will provide the following services and programs at the new Community Corrections Center:

- Day Reporting-- Probationers must visit the office daily and check in with a supervisor.

- Community Service-- Offenders ordered by the court to perform community service may be assigned to a Sheriff's Office work crew.

- Substance Abuse Treatment and Testing-- Substance abuse counseling will be available at the center and an on-site laboratory will let the Sheriff's Office and Quincy District Court quickly learn the outcome of drug and alcohol tests.

- Education-- Classrooms at the center will provide GED and life skills classes.

- Job Readiness and Job Placement-- Counselors will work with offenders in preparing to enter the workforce and finding employment.

The new center will be located near Quincy District Court, which provides about 50 percent of the inmates at the House of Correction. The offenders who report to the Community Corrections Center will be the same individuals who, on a daily basis, come and go from the court and the Probation Department office on Hancock Street.

Flood said that before signing the lease on the building, the Sheriff's Office sought input from city officials, local law enforcement representatives and community leaders.

"This center is a critical component in the evolution of corrections," said Flood. "These partnerships among criminal justice agencies combine statutory authority, fiscal resources and manpower to put up a united front in upholding public safety. I am pleased the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office is among the leaders."

Donald C. Wilder, 81 Former Patriot Ledger Editor

A memorial service for Donald C. Wilder, 81, of Braintree Highlands, retired editor of The Patriot Ledger, will be held later this summer at Cuttyhunk Island off Cape Cod.

Mr. Wilder died July 23 after a brief illness.

He began and ended a 41-year newspaper career at the Ledger. From 1937 to 1978, he worked up through every rank of the paper, from part-time sportswriter to editor-in-chief.

He was a general assignment reporter, Braintree-Weymouth beat reporter, church editor, copy editor and newspaper librarian before being promoted to city editor in 1946.

Mr. Wilder on occasion also took on special reporting assignments.

After a stint as executive city editor, he became managing editor in 1961, and moved to the editor-in-chief's corner office in 1969.

He helped promote writing excellence in the newspaper industry, serving as chairman of United Press International and Associated Press journalism contests, and as a juror for the Pulitzer Prize committee.

Mr. Wilder was editor until he retired in April 1978. During his tenure as editor, the Ledger expanded to become a nationally-known, three-edition regional newspaper that covered 30 communities south of Boston with a staff of 125 and a circulation of 74,000.

A Braintree native and Braintree High School, he got his start with the Ledger when one of the paper's reporters told him there was an opening for a part-time sportswriter.

He quit his Depression-era job as a bowling alley pinboy, and began reporting local games for 5 cents per inch of copy.

It was also at the Ledger that he met Janet Adair, a social writer whom he became married in 1940. They were married for 58 years.

A World War II veteran, he served in the Pacific from 1943 to 1945, as a Navy electronics technicians mate on the attack cargo ship USS Matthews. He returned to the Ledger in 1946.

Mr. Wilder was active in the South Shore Natural Science Center in Norwell and the Quincy and Braintree historical societies, and was past president of the Massachusetts Archaeological Society.

As an avid boater, lobsterman and fisherman, he focused his retirement years on Cuttyhunk, where he held many town positions including electric light commissioner, town moderator, and harbormaster. He had a second home on the island.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a son, Donald A. Wilder of Newfields, N.H.; a daughter, Robin Wilder Younger of Albuquerque, N.M.; two brothers, John Wilder of Orem, Utah, and Alan P. Wilder of Cuttyhunk; a sister, Grace Butler of Deerfield Beach, Fla.; and four grandchildren. He was the brother of the late William Wilder of Rye, N.H.

Funeral arrangements were by the Mortimer N. Peck Funeral Home, Braintree.

Memorial donations may be sent to the Cuttyhunk Historical Society, Cuttyhunk, MA 02713.

A Thought For The Week

It's difficult (sometimes impossible) to stop worrying completely. Perhaps the easiest way out is to try to worry about one worry at a time. When you have too many worries on your mind at one time you get confused, and then you're really got something to worry about! ...

SCOTT DEWARE

All of us have occasionally looked back and wondered, what have we really accomplished? Many times we have failed... sometimes miserably. But there is no use to mourn everlong at past mistakes. Perhaps the saddest words in the English language are, "OH, I could only go back and do that again!" That is like trying to gather up water that has been spilled on the ground. We need to use our failures as stepping stones, and look forward, not backward. It is also useless to expend energy worrying about the future. Most of the things we worry about never come to pass anyway, and it seems the real troubles come without warning.

"Some of your grief you have earned, and the worst you have survived... But, think of the pain you have endured... from the evils that never arrived." - Author Unknown

Your Horoscope by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) An early start puts you ahead of the competition. Later in the week, distractions could be a problem for you. You'll have to meet a partner halfway on an issue regarding finances this weekend.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You could have a disagreement about a shopping matter but, over all, financial interests are favored. There's more than one iron in the fire! However, choose carefully.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Be careful you don't step on someone else's toes on the job. For some, it's a trip to the beauty parlor or an extra emphasis on personal appearance and adornment. Be sure to get enough rest over the weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A business/pleasure meeting may not come off, which means you'll have more time for sheer pleasure with a romantic interest. Creativity is a plus. A social event this weekend leads to inspiration.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A breakthrough comes on a domestic problem. Meet with bankers about home improvements and mortgages. A concern about a family member turns into joy later in the week.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) This is one time you should listen to your intuition. You'll be led to the right place at the right time. The weekend accents friendship and club meetings.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Guard against the impulsive use of credit. A somber mood early in the week gives way to optimism and enthusiasm. The weekend is quite special for recreation and entertainment.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Play your cards close to your vest in financial dealings. For some of you, it's an exchange of services. You learn much through your powers of observation.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Work is inspired and you'll be pleased with what you accomplish. The early part of the week requires you to utilize tact with a co-worker. Some work overtime right before the weekend to get everything done.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You could get in over your head about a financial matter. Although you'll tend to quarrel with partners, you should be receptive to their point of view. You don't have all the answers.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You could be making too much of a little thing. A romantic mood insures happy times in the company of a loved one. Wining and dining are favored for the weekend.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Your social life could lead to career advantages, but remember to have the sense to know a good proposal from a bad one. Some financial developments are promising. Others are dead ends.

Fr. Bill's Hosts Restauranters, Gears Up For Aug. 26 Food Fest

Father Bill's Place, the city's homeless shelter, recently hosted a group of chefs, owners and managers from some of the South Shore's finest restaurants.

Those who toured the shelter are among those involved with the shelter's fourth annual Food Fest and Auction to be held Wednesday, Aug. 26 at the Summer House in Marina Bay.

Jim Wells, owner of Abbadessa's Restaurant in Hingham, has chaired the event for the past three years.

"We really want people to know what a great evening this is," said Wells during the tour. "We bring together 20 to 25 of the finest restaurants for an evening of fine food, wines and fun. All of it goes to help a very important cause. A visit like today helps us all to remember why we are involved and why we do this."

This year's Food Fest and Auction will offer fine cuisine and a number of unique gifts to benefit the work of Father Bill's Place.

In the last fiscal year, the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition, which operates the shelter and Father Bill's have served over 1,100 people, opened the Veterans McIntyre House in Quincy, taken steps toward developing sober housing in Weymouth, and offered working women a safe haven from homelessness at the O'Neil House.

In addition, the QISC's housing search services expanded and its tenant-based shelter program offered over 40 disabled people safe, affordable housing.

For more information about the Food Fest or to purchase tickets, call 376-2255. Master Card and VISA are accepted.

Mader said the law gives store owners more freedom and flexibility--such as al-

Mader added that the signage committee represented a cross-section of the city and held about 70 meetings over the course of more than two years.

$77 Million Project Bridge Repairs To Begin

State Rep. Ronald Mariano recently met with officials from the Massachusetts Highway Department to discuss renovations and repairs to the Fore River Bridge, which links Quincy Point with Weymouth and the rest of the South Shore.

The $77 million project is slated to begin shortly after a groundbreaking ceremony on Aug. 17.

"I am pleased to announce that the state is committed to making the Fore River Bridge safer and more commuter-friendly to both motorists and boaters," said Mariano. "Included in this project is a plan to re-vamp the electrical system that lifts the drawbridge, redesign the approaches on both the Weymouth and the Quincy sides of the bridge, and improved lighting. New motors will open and close the bridge faster, which should reduce traffic delays that are all too common, as of late.

"Obviously, the most important aspect of this revitalization project are the safety improvements, which include the installation of a special surface of concrete and reinforced steel. This special surface will span the movable portion of the bridge and will reduce the skidding of motor vehicles that now happens on the bridge. In the past seven years, two motorists have died in accidents as a result of skidding. Replacing the surface will eliminate this potentially deadly hazard."

Mass Highway also has agreed to construct a temporary replacement bridge next to the Fore River Bridge.

"This bridge will alleviate traffic and ensure that this project has minimal impact and disruption on life in Quincy Point," said Mariano.

He added, "This project, combined with our efforts to revitalize upper Washington Street, open the new Clifford Marshall Elementary School, reopen a Quincy Point Middle School and improve traffic patterns throughout the Quincy Point area will stimulate development and continue to make Quincy Point a great place to live and work."

Residents Back CVS At Best Buy

By MICHAEL WHALEN

About 70 local residents backed a proposal for a new CVS Pharmacy at the former Best Buy site in North Quincy during a neighborhood meeting held last Thursday by Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers.

Ayers said the support of those at the meeting, held at the nearby Beechwood Community Life Center, was unanimous.

"Area residents were in favor of the CVS proposal based on the neighborhood concerns being addressed," he said. "I asked for a show of hands, and everybody raised their hands."

Ayers said residential concerns that must be addressed by CVS include:

"The pharmacy will not be allowed to operate 24 hours a day.

"Quincy Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon will add traffic safeguards to the proposal.

"CVS will clean up the site's parking lot, make sure that lighting is shielded from the neighborhood, and replace the old dumpster with a modern compactor.

Ayers said he will ask the Zoning Board of Appeals to have all neighborhood concerns made permit conditions before the board votes on the CVS permit next month.

He added that residents also were pleased with the fact the pharmacy would receive only one truck delivery per week—considerably less than when Best Buy and an adjoining package store were located at the site—and create jobs for about 15 employees. CVS also estimates that about 30 percent of its traffic is walking traffic, Ayers said.

Ayers said written comments he received from neighbors following a recent mailing will be forwarded to city department heads.

The Zoning Board of Appeals meeting will be the third opportunity for public input regarding the project. Ayers held a meeting for director abutters two weeks ago.

Keep It In Quincy Survey Results: 'Give Us Upscale, More Store Choices'

A citywide survey of Quincy residents conducted by the "Keep It In Quincy" Shopping Commission indicates they want "upscale" and a wider choice of stores in Quincy Center.

They said they seldom shop in the downtown area but would regularly if their choice of stores were available.

Their top choices for stores are:

- Upscale/boutique clothing stores.
- Department stores.
- Bookstores.
- Housewares/hardware stores.

Respondents indicated "upscale" in everything from baked goods to tours to housewares.

The survey, mailed to residents with their tax bills, yielded more than 1,600 responses.

Seventy-nine percent of the respondents said they seldom or never shop in the downtown. The perception of the shopping quality also was low, with 77 percent rating it fair or poor.

However, 68 percent of respondents indicated they would shop regularly in Quincy Center if the choice of stores was more to their liking.

A previous survey of Quincy Center employees conducted by the commission in April indicated that of the 738 respondents from

Schools To Receive $177,301 From State

Quincy's State House delegation announces that the Fiscal Year 1999 state budget approved by the Legislature includes extra education funding for the city's schools.

The budget language includes a one-time payment of $177,301 to the City of Quincy for Fiscal Year 1999.

"The additional state aid compensates the school system for formula changes in the Chapter 70 Education funds," said Sen. Michael Morrissey.

The Chapter 70 Education's funding formula includes criteria and factors such as labor market wages and are reclassifications. The Department of Employment and Training is responsible for setting a community's labor market wages for use in the formula.

"Changes in the job market directly affects the way communities gain or lose Chapter 70 money," said Rep. Stephen Tobin.

The Legislative Delegation discovered that inequity in the formula and pushed to have it corrected through the "pothole" account, a line item in the budget used to provide additional funds for communities who may have lost money due to the formula changes, enrollment increases, unforeseen Chapter 766 costs or other unanticipated educational costs.

Morrissey amended the budget to include money in the formula to help communities meet projected shortfalls due to the wages change. The Quincy delegation also lobbied the Conference Committee to provide financial support to communities unfairly affected by the inequity in the Chapter 70 Education funding formula.

"We were successful in having funds earmarked to Quincy in the amount of $177,301 and included in the final version of the budget sent to the governor," said Rep. Michael Bellotti.

"Overall, the Fiscal Year 1999 state budget was extremely generous to education with Quincy receiving substantially more Chapter 70 money than last year," said Rep. Ronald Mariano. "The City of Quincy will be receiving $11,369,375 in education funding, which is an additional $1,084,811 over last year."

"Even with the 9.5 percent increase last year, we felt it was important that we obtained the wage funds under the Chapter 70 formula," said Morrissey. "The state's one-time payment of $177,301 represents funds that we would not normally have received under the newly calculated Chapter 70 formula."

TICK ALERT

Warm weather alert: Scientists were initially puzzled by a flurry of reports of an illness closely resembling Lyme Disease from the telltale bull's eye rash to the accompanying flu-like symptoms) that tested negative for the bacteria that causes Lyme disease. Researchers at the North Carolina Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources have now identified a new disease primarily carried by the lone star tick.

This new tick-borne disease has been turning up from Texas to Missouri to Florida. For protection, when in the brush or woods, wear light colored clothing, tuck long pants into your socks, and wear an insect repellent containing DEET. Always check yourself, children, and dogs for ticks when coming in from outdoors. If you are suffering from symptoms that just don't go away, no matter what they are, consult your physician. A checkup can ease your concerns and most likely provide you with some relief. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

In Search Of Woman's Body

Granite Rail Quarry Draining To Begin

Metropolitan District Commission officials said this week they plan to move forward on their proposal to drain about half the water out of the Granite Rail Quarry in West Quincy in search of a woman's body.

The announcement on Monday night that 115 feet of water will be drained from the site—leaving a depth of about 120 feet—came after the MDC reached a preliminary compromise with rock climbers and environmentalists opposed to the draining who had threatened legal action against the project.

Friends of the Blue Hills Director David Hodgdon said the compromise must be approved by state agencies but that his group and other opponents of the project will drop their formal challenge if that happens. An MDC spokesman said he does not know when the draining would begin.

Officials want the draining to occur in order to recover the body of a woman known to be in the quarry. Norfolk County District Attorney Jeffrey Locke is backing the plan, as is the state Legislature which has set aside $1 million for the draining.

"Our commitment to the victim who may be at the bottom of the quarry is greater than any recreational use there may be," Locke said at the West Quincy site. Some groups had voiced opposition to the draining because they believe they are important recreational resources.

Officials believe the body of 21-year-old Karen Hammond of South Boston may be in the waters of the quarry. Last year, searchers found a woman's body in the quarry but were unable to retrieve it.

Hammond's family was back at the quarry Monday to talk with officials about the draining plans.

According to the compromise between the MDC and the other groups, while the water is being drained, the Granite Rail Quarry will be surrounded by a chain-link fence, but the public will be permitted to walk up to the fence and view the quarry, said Hodgdon.

Pat Flynn, a south region superintendent for the MDC, said climbers will not be allowed on the quarry walls inside the fence but will have access to climbing spots outside the fence. Officials do not know what the long-term use of the quarry will be after the woman's body is recovered, he said, and a study has been commissioned to review possible uses.

CHARLIE AND KAREN Hammond of South Boston and their grandchildren meet with reporters at the Granite Rail Quarry in West Quincy. The Hammonds believe the body of a woman that was sighted by divers in the quarry last year, but was never recovered, is that of their 21-year-old daughter Karen who has been missing since January 1995. Officials plan to drain the quarry and look for the body.

rangers have guarded the Granite Rail site 24 hours a day since last summer, when 26-year-old Thomas Roberts of Quincy drowned while diving there. A number of deaths have occurred at Quincy's quarries over the years, including that of 19-year-old Ryan Whitney of Milton who drowned at nearby Lyons Quarry last Friday.

Mayor James Sheets said

this week the city currently is overseeing the draining of Swingley Quarry, the other major quarry in West Quincy besides Granite Rail. Sheets said Lyons and the other smaller quarries in the area will no longer be attractive sites for teenage swimming and partying when construction of a planned golf course/recreation complex is completed in a few years.

Hospital Has Free 'File Of Life' For Seniors

Quincy Hospital is distributing a free "File of Life" refrigerator magnet containing vital emergency medical information for anyone calling the hospital's Public Relations Department at (617) 376-4016.

Quincy Hospital is the only hospital in the area offering the magnet. The magnet is particularly helpful for seniors living alone.

Local emergency crews, such as ambulance, fire and police can simply look for the File of Life magnet containing important medical information when responding to an emergency. The file includes cards the patient fills out containing information such as medications allergies, medical conditions, and general information such as name, social security number, physician, next of kin, and health care proxy.

"Seconds count in an emergency so when information is readily available, such as through the File of Life, emergency medical staff can readily identify allergies and other important factors that affect people's health," said Dr. Octavio Diaz, chief of emergency services.

Call Quincy Hospital at the above number for a free File of Life magnet.

Remembering Munroe MacLean

Jean Ann Phinney's recent reminiscing here about shopping in the Quincy Square of the 1940s and early 1950s has stirred more fond memories, this time, from out of state.

Not just about the way the Square was back then.

But also about a beloved Quincy High School legend: the late Munroe MacLean, Jean Ann's father, who coached basketball and football there for a quarter century.

In her article, Jean Ann, who grew up to become a well-known Quincy teacher and school principal, recalled shopping with her father at Remick's as a child. And salesmen like Ray Josephine and Ellis Hughes shooting the breeze with him about football or basketball.

It brought a warm letter to her from a boyhood friend and one of her father's former players, Doug "Skip" Campbell now living in Greenville, South Carolina.

We asked Jean Ann to share part of it with you.

"Times change, and the years go by," Campbell writes, "But to me Quincy and Quincy Square will always be the way you described it in The Quincy Sun."

But he has even more fonder memories of his old coach who died in 1969.

"It (the article) brought back a flood of good memories regarding your father. I had the privilege of playing football and basketball for Coach MacLean in 1948, 1949 and 1950.

"And our basketball team was fortunate enough to get to the Tech Tourney in Boston Garden in both 1949 and 1950.

"Your father was a gentleman in every respect of the word. He very seldom got angry, even though on many occasions he had a perfect right to do so.

"He never swore at his players or the opposition and he was a dedicated coach. I can't recall anyone ever saying a bad word about him.

"He was a fine teacher of not only sports, but of life. I can't think of a better role model for a young man growing up in the 1940s and 1950s than your father."

Munroe MacLean was everything Campbell says he was. Anyone who played football or basketball for him, or covered his teams as a sportswriter or had him as a gym teacher or just knew him will certainly second Campbell's tribute.

What great times those were with Munroe MacLean as head football coach and Bill Sullivan as his assistant. That was quite a football coaching duo. Sullivan, of course, went on to become head coach and a popular Quincy High School legend himself. He recently marked his 85th birthday, a young 85th.

Munroe MacLean was, indeed, a role model as a

A LOCAL EARLY stop on the Presidential campaign trail?

Atty. George Burke will host a poolside cookout with Senator John Kerry as a guest to honor Thursday, Aug. 13.

The event will be from 6 to 8 p.m. at Burke's Wollaston home, 174 Warren Ave.

Burke and Kerry have been friends since the 1960s when Burke was a Norfolk County district attorney and Kerry was an assistant D.A. in Middlesex County.

Kerry was on hand to speak and pay tribute not long ago at the dedication of the George "Trigger" Burke Athletic Hall of Fame at UMass/Amherst where Burke was a basketball all-star in the 1950s.

Burke has been a campaign coordinator in the Quincy-South Shore area for Kerry's Senate runs.

And, now, for his Presidential run?

GOOD FRIEND Charlie Sweeney, the former school committeeman, is proudly showing photos of red roses at his Ames St. home.

Proof, he says, he knows how to grow the real McCoy.

A couple of years ago, you might remember, Charlie sent away for a special rose bush that was supposed to produce beautiful roses by the dozens.

Charlie planted it and faithfully watered it day after day. But no roses. "Where the devil are they?" he kept complaining to his better half, Betty.

One day, Charlie went off to play golf and when he came back he went right to the rose bush to check it. Eureka! There on the bush were three or four gorgeous roses. He couldn't believe it.

A couple of days later he was beaming as he showed them off to a neighbor. The neighbor looked and then looked a little closer. "Charlie," he said, "those are artificial roses!"

"What do you mean?" Charlie wanted to know. "Everyone knows you can't grow artificial roses."

Well, what happened was that Betty just got a little tired of Charlie moaning about the rose bush that wouldn't produce roses. So, when Charlie went off to play golf that day, she went off and bought a few artificial roses. And, with an artistic touch, strategically wired them to the bush.

Since then, people have kidded Charlie about his artificial roses. So Charlie decided enough was enough and this year reports he grew the real thing. And offers the photos as proof.

They are the real thing ... aren't they, Betty?

A FUNDRAISER RECEPTION for Councilor Bruce Ayers, candidate for state representative in the First Norfolk District, is set for tonight (Thursday) 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Siros at Marina Bay. Suggested donation: $100.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1925 real photo postcard view of Wollaston Boulevard. On the left the Clam Shell Cafe was located on what is now the southern end of the Beachcomer parking lot. In the right center were privately owned bathhouses that later became the site of Bowen's Restaurant later known as The Wollaston Lobster and then The Boulevard Haven. That is now the home of the Beachcomer. The house on the right with the gambrel roof was used as the first Howard Johnson ice cream stand on the beach, and is now the site of the Clam Box at Sached Street.

Cites Support Of 'Beede School' Proposal

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The proposed name change for Broad Meadows Middle School has the support of the Beede-Ad-Hoc Committee, the Quincy Retired Teachers Associate (QRTA) Board of Directors and the QRTA Scholarship Committee.

I personally would like to thank Mayor James Sheets, an educator on leave, for his support. Our scholarship fund soon will total $1,800,000, which generates enough interest to award $110,000 yearly in scholarships to graduates of the city's two public high schools.

An important item that has been omitted from recent news releases: at least one of the Beede Annual Scholarships would go to a recipient who attended the proposed Harry Beede Middle School.

Revere Road Is Alive And Well

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I'd like to congratulate The Quincy Sun for including the special supplement "Historic Quincy" in the July 2 edition.

However, I noticed that Revere Road was not labeled in the two-page map in the center pages. It showed Mechanic Street and Chestnut Street which is now called Dennis Ryan Parkway in the section by the Court House.

I also have noticed that Revere Road is not on the kiosk on City Hall Plaza. There it is labeled as Mechanic Street.

The Post Office delivers any mail to my Revere Road address and some present and former candidates for public office have asked us to place political signs on our property before elections because of good visibility, so why is Revere Road off the maps?

Revere Road runs from Hancock Street opposite the movie theater where Bernie's Formal Shop is located to the intersection of Miller Stille Road on one side and Dennis Ryan Parkway on the other side. There are 11 businesses on Revere Road just in the block to Mechanic Street.

The MBTA buses used Revere Road during the recent Sidewalk Sale when Hancock Street was blocked off for three days. The Hancock Parking Lot entrance for monthly parkers is on Revere Road. Shoppers have to enter from Dennis Ryan Parkway opposite the Court House.

There is a large sign on Revere Road informing us about the Farmer's Market that is held every Friday in the Hancock Parking Lot. Signs of businesses such as Bad Abbots, Pacini's, The Fours and Hanlon's Shoes are facing Revere Road from the Hancock Parking Lot.

And best of all, Revere Road has an island maintained by the American Legion Auxiliary and Post 95 with a flagpole with the American flag proudly waving to all who visit Revere Road. The American Legion on the corner of Mechanic Street and Revere Road, although not officially designated as an historic site, is one of the oldest Legion Posts in the country.

Favors CVS At Best Buy Site

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I am writing to express my support for the development plan that has been proposed for the old Best Buy site in North Quincy. I am a local carpenter and would benefit from a new CVS Pharmacy off Wollaston Beach, as would many other residents.

A lot of business people who work in North Quincy and Wollaston will also find it a convenient location, since there is no other pharmacy nearby. Most of the other pharmacies are located in Wollaston or The Downs.

I live on Davis St., which is only a few blocks away from the site and, while we all worry about increased traffic, I think a pharmacy there might actually cut down on traffic that passes through our neighborhood to go to stores and pharmacies on Hancock Street. I also doubt that the pharmacy would attract any more traffic.

I'm confident Councillor Bruce Ayers will keep a close eye on the development and make sure the necessary landscaping and traffic controls are put in place to make it safe and appealing. At present, the site is abandoned and badly in need of repair. I hope the City Council approves the pharmacy without delay.

Cemetery Expansion Seen Meeting City's Needs For 50 Years

By PAUL HAROLD

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa predicted that the pending transfer of 42 acres of MDC land to the city, for cemetery purposes, would meet the city's needs for 50 years.

Legislation conveying a portion of the Blue Hills Reservation (on the Quincy-Braintree line) was awaiting Governor Volpe's signature. The city would receive title to the parcel at no cost.

Della Chiesa predicted that the operation, if properly managed, would be self-supporting. An estimated 34,000 graves would be developed at the site. Sales at $175 each would generate $4.2 million for the perpetual care account and $1.8 million in the sales account.

RECORD 200 BOATS IN QBRW PARADE

A record 200 decorated boats took part in the Quincy Bay Race Week's 25th annual boat parade that traveled along the city's coastline, from Town River to Wollaston Beach.

First prize went to Roger Lyon's "First Affair" decorated as a birthday cake.

The parade was led by the Quincy police boat, "Guardian II," piloted by Joe Lind. Charles Romano was parade chairman with Donald Haskins as parade marshal. Also in the lead boats was Joan Marie Vissa, Miss Quincy.

Judges for the competition were Mayor Della Chiesa, QBRW President Vincent McCabe, Sheriff Hedges, William O'Connell, executive vice president of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce, former state representative William Jenness and Thomas Sheehan, association secretary.

CAMPAIGN POSTCARDS CREATE CONFUSION

Postcards sent out to "unregistered voters" in the city this week caused confusion, resulting in more than 200 calls to the clerk's office.

Postcards urged Quincy residents to register to vote so they could support Ted Kennedy for U.S. Senate in the September primary. Many of those who received the cards, however, were already registered. City Clerk John Gillis said the confusion resulted, in part, because late registrants were no on the street lists.

Meanwhile, Atty. General Edward McCormack, also a candidate for the senate, campaigned this week at the gates of the shipyard. There, he pledged to the workers that he would work for a war deterrent of a fleet of 100 Polaris submarines. Furthermore, he said that Fore River should be the number one builder of such subs.

Also campaigning in the city was George Cabot Lodge, a candidate for the Republican nomination. He spoke in opposition to President Kennedy's policy in Southeast Asia. He said that a neutral zone in Laos provided a supply route for guerrillas fighting U.S. Marines in South Vietnam.

Legislation On Cellucci's Desk Plans Moving Ahead For Little Fenway Park

Legislation that would provide a major boost for plans to build a Little Fenway Park in West Quincy is on the desk of Acting Gov. Paul Cellucci, state Sen. Michael Morrissey said Tuesday.

Morrissey said the bill filed by Cellucci, which he helped move through the state Legislature along with Rep. Michael Bellotti, will allow the Metropolitan District Commission to transfer the land to the state Division of Capital Planning and Operations.

The DCPO would then lease the property to the Athletes Reaching Out Foundation, the non-profit organization designed to benefit children and run by Boston Red Sox infielder Tim Naehring that is behind Little Fenway.

"It's critical to moving the whole project along in a timely manner," said Morrissey. "I look forward to getting it done."

Morrissey said the project will mean a lot to local youth.

"It will open up a whole lot of opportunities for youngsters in the metropolitan area," he said.

The project would be about two-thirds the size of the real Fenway Park in Boston. The 3,000-seat mini-Fenway would be built on 12 acres off Ricciotti Drive on state-owned land currently controlled by the MDC.

Officials want the bill passed as soon as possible so construction can begin by the fall of 1999. Mayor James Sheets has said he already has "two or three" offers from benefactors he declined to name to pay the entire $1.5 million construction cost.

The City Council passed a resolution in June supporting the plan. Ward 4 Councilor Michael D'Amico has said the project will not disrupt area traffic.

Once the park is completed, members of the Red Sox, Bruins, Celtics and Patriots would act as mentors for the youth who go there. The park would be similar to another Little Fenway that Naehring had built in Cincinnati, Ohio, where he played baseball as a boy.

Sewer Project To Go Forward

State Sen. Michael Morrissey and Rep. Stephen Tobin announce the Quincy Sewer Pump Rehabilitation Project will go forward next year.

Related legislation that passed the Legislature July 31, the last day of formal sessions, allows land transference between the city and the state.

"The legislation is an integral part of the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) plan over the next four years to perform major rehabilitation and improvements to their sewage facilities in Quincy," said Tobin.

One of the major components of the project is the replacement of the sewage pumping station adjacent to Merrymount Park in Wollaston. The station, built in 1901, cannot meet the needs of the 53,000 residents it services because its maximum capacity is 21 million gallons per day (mgd). Morrissey said that capacity cannot meet peak flows of over 26 mgd during wet weather.

In addition, the undersized wetwall cannot contain the amount of sewage coming to the station, which results in sewage remaining in the local sewage system, he said.

"The modernization of the sewage pumping station will alleviate many of the problems Quincy residents have been experiencing with the sewage system, especially during wet weather days," said Morrissey.

The MWRA requires 0.2 acres of city land for the new pumping station and the state requires 0.4 acres to the city. The existing pumping station will continue operating while the new pumping station is being constructed.

APPEALING FOR QUIET

Most people can identify an automobile's muffler and the booming sound that provides ample notice that it must be replaced. Located behind the catalytic converter in line with the exhaust pipe, the muffler is usually constructed of heavy-gauge steel, wrapped in a canister. Its interior contains a series of baffles and plates designed to slow and interrupt the exhaust flow in an effort to suppress noise. Some automobiles are also outfitted with resonators, which are really secondary mufflers. They may be slightly smaller than mufflers and more cylindrical in shape. Located behind the muffler, they serve to suppress noise even further. And, like mufflers, resonators are subject to eventual deterioration due to moisture and vibration.

For most all types of service, including exhaust system repair, count on us. Our customers continue to tell us they find our ASE Certified staff to be superior. LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO is proud of that. We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Open: Mon.-Fri. 8am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm.

HINT: The life expectancy of a muffler can be stretched by longer life mufflers, resonators are subject to eventual deterioration due to moisture and vibration.

Communications Workers Back Bellotti For Sheriff

The Communications Workers of America, Local 1301, has endorsed state Rep. Michael Bellotti, Democratic candidate for Norfolk County sheriff.

"As president of the local, vice president of the Massachusetts AFL-CIO, and a resident of Norfolk County, it is personally gratifying to endorse a candidate with an 85 percent-plus labor voting record while serving as the state representative for the First Norfolk District," said George R. Alcott III, president of CWA Local 1301.

"Michael has always represented, protected and voted for the best interest of working people of Massachusetts. We are confident he will continue to do so as the sheriff of Norfolk County."

"I'm pleased to have been endorsed by the Communications Workers of America," Bellotti said. "This endorsement is evidence to me that our campaign to reinvent the Sheriff's Office is resonating in Norfolk County."

Applications Available For State Women's Commission

Applications for the Massachusetts Commission on the Status of Women established in May are now available through the office of state Sen. Michael Morrissey.

The commission will study and report on the status of women in the Commonwealth, serve as a central clearinghouse for information, and encourage greater participation among women in state government.

"I look forward to the work of the commission in creating a permanent voice in state government," said Morrissey. "I encourage all interested individuals from the City of Quincy to apply."

The commission will be comprised of 19 persons who have had prior experience working toward the improvement of the status of women. Appointments will be made by the governor, the Senate president, the House speaker, and the Caucus of Women Legislators.

Applications will be accepted through Sept. 16. They are available through Morrissey's office or by calling 722-2800, ext. 8435.

Delahunt Hosts Child Labor Activists From Broad Meadows

Congressman William Delahunt recently hosted three Quincy students and their teacher at a series of briefings with senior administration officials in Washington, D.C.

Delahunt led the tour after hosting a Capitol Hill forum featuring the students' work against child labor abuses.

The three Broad Meadows Middle School students—Elizabeth Bloomer, Katie Sault and Meagan Donahue—were accompanied on the trip by their teachers, Ron Adams.

The forum kicked off a new initiative, sponsored by the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID), to focus American students on the challenges of facing developing nations. Broad Meadows, which has earned national recognition for its work on child labor, was selected as one of five participating schools and was featured in the hour-long event chaired by Delahunt and USAID Administrator Brian Atwood.

The new project, called Operation Day's Work, will concentrate particularly on Haiti. Participating students will become immersed in the island nation's history and culture, then embark on grassroots advocacy to help ease the overwhelming challenges in Haiti, the poorest nation in this hemisphere.

Delahunt, active in efforts on Capitol Hill to stop international child labor abuses, has co-sponsored legislation to establish a "Child Labor Free" clothing label. Delahunt said he is also one of the most Congressional advocates for Haiti, having visited three times in the last year to help forge its emerging democratic institutions.

Delahunt sought to capitalize on that by arranging a full day of meetings with the State Department ambassador who coordinates U.S. policy toward Haiti; the Labor Department Undersecretary who heads international child labor initiatives, the Agriculture Department official who enforces domestic child labor laws which apply to migrant farm workers; and the Washington director of the United Nations watchdog entity overseeing overseas child exploitation.

"Our objective is twofold," Delahunt said. "We first want to brief senior officials on the remarkably ambitious and successful work of Broad Meadows students in combating child labor in Pakistan—and then educate ourselves about how to use these approaches in the new USAID pilot project."

For example, Delahunt said, the discussions focused on problems such as "restevens"—thousands of impoverished Haitian girls forced into virtual slavery in Port-au-Prince. Worldwide, there are an estimated 250 million child workers, as well as tens of millions of child slaves, involved in industries ranging from textiles to sex trades.

Delahunt also briefed the students on humanitarian projects close to their home which perform work to benefit Haiti. Among others, he described the efforts of St. Boniface Church in Germantown, which has run a health facility in rural Haiti since before the three visiting students were born.

Broad Meadows students and teachers began their efforts against child labor in order to fulfill the legacy of Iqbal Masih of Pakistan, who was sold into slavery by his father at age 4, escaped to become an outspoken activist at 10 and, after visiting Broad Meadows, was murdered in his native country at 12.

Since then, Broad Meadows students have raised more than $100,000 to build a school in Pakistan and have broadened their work on child labor globally.

Ayers Endorsed By Plumbers, Gasfitters

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers has been endorsed by the United Plumbers and Gasfitters Local 12 in his campaign for state representative.

Ayers, in accepting the endorsement, said it affirms his commitment to assist families by active support of issues critical to working men and women.

"The Plumbers and Gasfitters Union is an organization that believes in the same values I do: fair wages, fair working conditions and a fair opportunity for families to get ahead," he said. "Their endorsement of my candidacy is gratifying because it reaffirms my resolve to continue pushing for those issues critical to working men and women."

Kevin Cotter, the union's financial secretary and treasurer, told Ayers when making the announcement, "I am confident you will be successful and I trust you will represent the interest of working men and women, subsequent to your election to office."

SPOTTING FUNGAL NAIL

Fungal nail is one of the most common foot problems of the elderly. That's partly because people become more susceptible to foot inflammation with age, and partly because it gets harder to bend over and care for the feet, so seniors are more likely to miss early signs of the condition. It may all begin with a trauma such as a stubbed toe. The victim may not even be aware that an injury has occurred, failing to note the subsequent appearance of a dark spot of blood under the nail.

Unfortunately, that drop of blood can provide perfect nourishment for the kind of fungi that thrive in the warm, moist, protected environment under the nail. Other signs, such as yellow discoloration, may not appear for several months. If you are suffering from these or any other foot related complaints call us at (617) 773-4300. We are located at 1261 Farnace Brook Pkwy., Suite #18, Quincy and are affiliated with Carney, Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. P.S. The longer a fungal nail infection is allowed to "dig in," the more difficult it is to eradicate. Seek help early!

Ward 5 Association Candidates Night Aug. 10

The Ward 5 Community Association will host a "Candidates Night" Monday, Aug. 10 at 6:45 p.m. at the Beechwood Knoll School, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston.

Highlight will be a debate between Democratic state representative candidates Bruce Ayers and Larry Chretien. All other candidates for the offices of state senator, state representative, district attorney, sheriff and Governor's Council also will be invited to attend and give a five-minute commentary.

The audience will be allowed to write questions for the state representative on index cards. The questions will be read by the debate monitor. In addition, there will be a direct question period for the candidates to ask questions of each other.

This year's primary election will be held Tuesday,

Sept. 15. Winner of the state representative (First Norfolk District) Democratic primary will not face opposition in November. There are no Republican candidates for that seat.

For more information, call Doug Gutro at 328-7982.

REAL ESTATE

What Are Your Renter's Rights?

Is your lease up soon? Looking for a new apartment? Before you go ahead and sign a new lease, make sure you understand your rights and responsibilities as an apartment tenant, advises the Better Business Bureau.

A lease is a written agreement between you and your landlord. Read it carefully before signing. If any point in the contract seems unclear, discuss it with the landlord until you understand what it means. If necessary make changes to the wording.

The lease should also state how much the rent will be and for what period of time. Any services the landlord provides, such as lawn care, routine maintenance, snow removal, etc., should also be clearly written. You should keep a copy of your lease in a safe place while you are in residence.

A security deposit is usually required to offset the landlord's cost of repairing any damage you may cause. According to Massachusetts law, the deposit cannot exceed one month's rent. Within 30 days, the landlord must deposit the check (never pay cash) in an interest-bearing bank account and inform you of the bank, account number, and interest rate.

The landlord is also required by state law to give you a list of damages from previous tenants stating the present condition of the apartment.

Review the list carefully, writing down any additional damage that the landlord may have missed.

Inform the landlord of the changes made to the list before you sign and date the list. Keep a copy of this list along with your lease.

Rental agreements, in general, are not permitted to include:

• A waiver of the landlord's responsibility for injury caused by his or her actions;

• A claim that the tenant must pay the landlord's legal fees and court costs in the event of a trial;

• A waiver of the tenant's rights to the full application of all local housing codes.

The Better Business Bureau advises renters to check with the following local agencies for more information:

Flood-Damaged Appliances Should Be Replaced

All flood-damaged plumbing, heating, cooling and electrical appliances and related systems should be replaced rather than repaired, warns the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association (GAMA).

The organization representing all major producers of natural and LP gas equipment also strongly recommends that all work on flooded equipment be performed by a qualified, licensed contractor, not by homeowners.

The GAMA warning

stems from past reports of accidents resulting from improper do-it-yourself repairs of flood-damaged appliances. One homeowner, for example, suffered severe burns in a flash fire that occurred when he tried to re-light the pilot on his flooded gas water heater. The association stresses that not only gas equipment is at risk, but also units using oil or electricity as the energy source.

"Controls damaged by flood are extremely dangerous," said GAMA President C. Reuben Autery. "Attempts to use equipment with defective gas or oil control devices can result in fires, flashbacks or explosions. And in the case of electric appliances, the result can be injury or even death from a powerful electric shock."

Autery noted that devices at risk include water heaters, furnaces, boilers, room heaters and air conditioners.

The association stresses that the repair of flooded appliances and related systems (including damaged venting and electrical connections) is not a job for the do-it-yourselfer, no matter how skilled. This is particularly true of control valves, according to GAMA officials. These components are manufactured to extremely close tolerances. Once submerged in flood water, they must be replaced. The homeowner should never attempt field repairs.

Eastern Bank Donates $2,000 To Ship Museum

Eastern Bank recently donated $2,000 to the U.S. Naval and Shipbuilding Museum at the Fore River shipyard in Quincy Point.

"Eastern Bank recognizes the importance of national treasures such as the USS Salem and the Shipbuilding Museum, and we are excited to be a corporate sponsor of the ship," said Executive Vice President Mark Primeau. "The USS Salem is one of the many highlights of Quincy's rich history and is a wonderful attraction for the residents of Quincy and neighborhood communities."

The USS Salem, which serves as the museum's centerpiece, is a Quincy-built heavy cruiser and flagship of the United States Sixth Fleet. It was commissioned by the Navy in 1948, and has been boarded by a variety of historical figures such as President Dwight D. Eisenhower and the former president of Greece.

Eastern Bank is a $2.5 billion full-service banking company serving the Greater Boston area. Eastern's lines of business include consumer banking, commercial lending, asset-based lending, and equipment leasing, trust and investment management, mortgage banking, and consumer finance.

Former Boston Red Sox GM Lou Gorman Banquet Speaker Morrisette To Host Northeast Regional Legion Tournament

By LIAM FITZGERALD

The 1998 American Legion Northeast Regional Baseball Tournament, hosted by the Cyril P. Morrisette Post 294 of Quincy, will kick off Wednesday, Aug. 12 with a banquet at the George F. Bryan VFW Post, 24 Broad St.

Former Boston Red Sox General Manager Lou Gorman will be the keynote speaker at the banquet, with a social hour from 6 to 7 p.m., followed by dinner at 7 p.m.. The eight participating teams will be in attendance.

This year marks the fourth time Morrisette has served as host of the Northeast Regional, and the first since 1992. Quincy Veterans Services Director Henry Bradley, who served as tournament chairman in 1992, resumes his duties for this year's event.

"Having run the tournament before, we knew what to expect this time around," said Bradley. "Everything has worked out very well so far and we're looking forward to an enjoyable tournament."

Six years ago, the games drew crowds of over 1,000 to Adams Field, filling both bleachers and Bradley expects this year will be no different.

"It's usually slow at the start, then picks up near the end," he said. "For the semifinals and the final, we could have about 1,000 people each day."

Admission for each game is $3 for adults and children over 12, and $2 for seniors and children under 12.

Beginning Thursday, Aug. 13, fifteen games will be played at Adams Field over a five-day span, culminating in the championship game Monday, Aug. 17.

Along with Morrisette, which received an automatic berth as the host, state champions from all six New England states—Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Maine and Vermont—and Pennsylvania will compete for the regional crown.

As of Tuesday, four teams remained in the hunt for the Massachusetts state title: Gloucester, Chelmsford, Walpole and the host team, Sandwich. In the double-elimination tournament, only Gloucester remained undefeated (3-0) through Monday's action.

Northeast Regional double-elimination play begins Aug. 13 with four games, starting at 10 a.m. with Vermont taking on Maine, followed by Connecticut vs. New Hampshire. At 5 p.m., Massachusetts will play Rhode Island, followed by Morrisette against Pennsylvania at approximately 8 p.m.

The same format will be followed Friday, Aug. 14, starting with a 10 a.m. tilt between Connecticut and Rhode Island. Pennsylvania then battles Maine in the second half of the double-header. At 5 p.m., Morrisette takes on Vermont, followed by Massachusetts against New Hampshire.

On Saturday, Aug. 15, four more games will be played starting at 10 a.m. with Pennsylvania and Vermont, followed by New Hampshire against Rhode Island. The 5 p.m. double-header will feature Massachusetts against Connecticut, then Morrisette vs. Maine at approximately 8 p.m.

The four remaining teams will play in the semifinals Sunday, Aug. 16, with game times set for 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. The winners of those two games will play for the championship Aug. 17, with the winner advancing to the American Legion World Series in Las Vegas.

eight teams, will begin Sunday at 8:30 a.m. and continue throughout the day. The championship game will be played on Sunday, Aug. 23 and broadcast on Quincy Access Television.

Those interested in making a donation can send it to The Kevin Moore Rehab Fund, c/o Timothy Lewis, 22 Samoset Ave., Quincy, MA 02169. For more information about the tournament, call Timothy Lewis at 479-4469.

FOUR TRACK ATHLETES who qualified for the state championships at the Quincy meet will travel to Hershey, Pa., next week for the Hershey Track and Field North American Championship. From left, Brenna O'Brien and Makini Thompson, both of Quincy, and Siobhan Green of Hingham, along with Erin Bailey of Milton (missing from photo) will compete in the 4x100 meter relay event.

Four Local Girls To Compete At Hershey Nationals Aug. 15

Four participants from the Quincy qualifying meet will compete at the annual Hershey's Track and Field Youth Program North American Championships Aug. 15 in Hershey, Pa.

The competitors—Erin Bailey, Siobhan Green, Brenna O'Brien and Makini Thompson—captured the Massachusetts state title in the girls 11 to 12-year-old 4x100 relay and had the best time in the New England region, which earned them a trip to the North American Championships. They qualified for the state final with strong performances at a June meet at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The North American Championships, sponsored by Hershey Foods, features 480 of the best young track and field athletes in North America. This is the 21st year the Hershey Youth Program has provided boys and girls ages 9 to 14 the opportunity to learn and develop skills required to participate in basic track and field events.

All expenses for the girls' trip are provided by the Hershey Chocolate Co. Bailey attends Pierce Middle School in Milton and Green attends Hingham Middle School. O'Brien, a Quincy resident, attends Central Middle School and Thompson, also of Quincy, attends Sterling Middle School. All four are Quincy Track Club members.

O'Brien, of 45 Cliff St., is an honors student at Central. She is a member of the school's cross country and spring track team and is the city champion in 400 meters. She has reached the state finals four straight years, finishing first and second, but prior to this summer had not made it to the nationals.

O'Brien is on the Division A soccer team and is a guard on winter and summer league basketball teams. She has also served as a volunteer at the North Quincy High School basketball tournament for three consecutive years.

Thompson, of 123 Elm St., was also the state champion in the 200 meter run in her age group. An honors student at Sterling, she participates in track and field and cross country and also serves as a mediator.

Quincy resident Julia McGunigle captured the state title in the girls 13 to 14-year-old softball throw.

Other local competitors and their results from the state championships include:

Erin Bailey (Girls 11-12): second in 100M (14:83), fifth in standing long jump (6'8 1/2"); Diana Berberan (Girls 13-14): 100M (15:15); Maura Blaney (Girls 13-14): sixth in 4x100M relay (60:11); Elizabeth Bloomer (Girls 13-14): fifth in 1600M (6:23.80); Samantha Chaisson (Girls 13-14): sixth in 4x100M relay (60:11); Kate Collins (Girls 11-12): softball throw; Sarah Dodd (Girls 9-10): 100M, fourth in 4x100M relay (71:20); Stephanie Fiandaca (Girls 13-14): third in softball throw (140'6").

Christi Haines (Girls 11-12): sixth in 800M (3:01.12); Mark Jordan (Boys 9-10): fifth in 400M (1:15.95), third in 4x100M relay (63:09); Matt Kern (Boys 11-12): 4x100M relay (67:37); Brigid Kyle (Girls 9-10): fifth in softball throw (80'2"); Benson Lac (Boys 9-10): 100M, third in 4x100M relay (63:09); Kevin Lac (Boys 11-12): 4x100M relay (67:37); Kathryn Markhard (Girls 13-14): sixth in 4x100M relay (60:11); Kayla Martin (Girls 9-10): fourth in 4x100M relay (71:20); Kevon Mason (Boys 9-10): seventh in 200M (34.53), fourth in softball throw (5'11"), third in 4x100M relay (63:09).

Erin McFarland (Girls 13-14): 100M (14.49), second in 800M (2:37.51); Katie Mercurio (Girls 13-14): 800M (3:01.25); Dan Nguter (Boys 13-14): 100M (15.44), third in 4x100M relay (59:16); Brenna O'Brien (Girls 11-12): second in 400M (69:37); Sean O'Keefe (Boys 13-14): third in 4x100M relay (59:16); Mike O'Malley (Boys 13-14): third in 4x100M relay (59:16); Meghan Oldham (Girls 13-14): 200M (31.74); Corey Piazza (Boys 13-14): seventh in softball throw (157'0"); Vincent Pleva (Boys 11-12): 4x100M relay (67:37).

Kerry Regan (Girls 9-10): second in 400M (1:25.51), 4x100M relay (71:29); Conor Roche (Boys 9-10): third in 4x100M relay (63:09); Linda Schweiri (Girls 13-14): sixth in 4x100M relay (60:11); Alysha Williams (Girls 9-10): 200M (35.43), fourth in 4x100M relay (71:20); Eric Wilson (Boys 11-12): 800M (2:57.32), 4x100M relay (67:37); Dan Wooster (Boys 13-14): 800M (2:42.00); third in 4x100M relay (59:16); Norman Yuen (Boys 13-14): seventh in 200M, softball throw.

Quincy Recreation Department Director Barry Welch noted the co-sponsorship by the National Recreation and Park Association as a prime reason for the involvement by the Quincy Recreation Department.

"The department has seen the benefits of our residents taking part in this activity since its inception," said Welch. "We appreciate the assistance of Mr. Geoff Hennessy and the Quincy Track Club for helping conduct the local meet. It is the largest in the state and provides recreational opportunities to these boys and girls at a very important age."

Softball Tourney For Kevin Moore Begins Sunday At O'Rourke Field

A fundraising citywide softball tournament to benefit Kevin Moore will be held the next three Sundays at O'Rourke Field in West Quincy, beginning Aug. 9 at 8:30 a.m.

Moore, a senior at Quincy High School, was seriously injured in a May 23 automobile accident and has remained in a coma for the past 10 weeks.

He was recently transferred from Massachusetts General Hospital to Brain-tree Rehabilitation Hospital, where the medical staff is taking an aggressive approach to stimulate Moore and develop a comprehensive rehabilitation program.

As captain of the Quincy High football team, Moore demonstrated his determination and will to win and continues to show how much of a fighter he is on the road to recovery.

The tournament, organized by a support committee for Moore and consisting of

McCarthy Paces Firefighters Over Morrisette In Playoffs

Prior to losing to the eventual champion Elks in the semifinals, the Firefighters rolled to an 11-1 victory over Morrisette in the opening round of the Babe Ruth League playoffs. The Firefighters were last year's league champions.

Mike McCarthy went the distance for the winners, yielding four hits and three walks and striking out seven. He helped his own cause, going 3 for 4 with a double and scored three runs.

Also hitting well were Chris Walsh (4 for 4, double, two runs), Matt Barrett (3 for 3, double, three runs) and Brandon Sleeth (3 for 3, run). Joe Duffy, who walked and scored, reached base in all 16 games he played. Duffy has also been solid behind the plate as the team's catcher.

Firefighter Joe Holleran went 1 for 3 and 13-year-olds Ryan Donahue, Ryan Conley and Steve Graham all reached safely and played excellent defense. Mike Doherty flashed some good leather as did Mike McGonagle.

For Morrisette, Brendan Bowes went 1 for 2 with a walk and played well behind the plate. Kris Kamborian, Jackie Liuzzo and Ryan Pyter added hits and Mark Lopez, Johnson, Chris LaFleur all reached base. Chris Doherty, battling the flu, got on base and scored the lone Morrisette run.

A 14-10 triumph over Local secured the Firefighters their third consecutive playoff berth. Brandon Sleeth earned the win, pitching 5 1/3 innings before Barrett came on in relief and threw 1 1/3 innings to close out the game.

For the winners, Duffy got on base five times with four walks, a hit, scored two runs and turned in a strong effort behind the plate. Also contributing were Walsh (three walks, double, four runs), Craig Royce (3 for 5, double, solid defense at third base), Donahue (1 for 1, walk) and McCarthy (1 for 3, two walks, two runs, flawless at shortstop). Also reaching base were Joey Holleran, Kevin Holleran, Neal Gavin, Doherty, Dan Sheehan, Ryan Conley.

Leading Local were Todd White (2 for 4, double), Andrew Nestor (2 for 3, walk, run), James Mateu (2 for 4, walk, run), Benn Bell (1 for 2, two walks, two runs), John Fidalgo (1 for 4, walk, two runs) and Bill O'Toole (1 for 2).

In previous regular season play, the Firefighters edged Golden Print, 6-5; defeated Morrisette, 5-4; knocked off Granite City, 9-4; beat Golden Print, 10-8; and held off Sons of Italy, 11-7.

Matthew Pyne Visits Hong Kong

Navy Airman Matthew R. Pyne, son of Timothy F. and Barbara E. Pyne of 179 Sea St., Quincy, recently visited Hong Kong while on a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific Ocean and Arabian Gulf aboard the aircraft carrier USS Abraham Lincoln, home ported in Everett, Wash.

During the port visit, sailors and Marines from Pyne's ship participated in Project Handclasp, providing humanitarian aid to adults and children residing in a disaster relief organization, a school for the mentally handicapped, and an international Christian school. In addition to providing food, hygienic items, toys, books and paper to the recipients, members of Pyne's ship cleaned, repaired and painted buildings.

A 1995 graduate of Quincy High School, he joined the Navy last September.

Lisa Satkevich State Champion In Girls Basketball, Soccer

Twelve-year-old Lisa Satkevich of Quincy, a student at Central Middle School, has had a busy but quite successful year in sports.

Lisa is the only Quincy player of the Bay State Magic, a 12-year-old AAU basketball team that went undefeated through eight games and won the state championship in May. The Magic recently traveled to Nashville, Tenn. to play in the National AAU Tournament.

Lisa is also the only Quincy player on the South

LISA SATKEVICH

Coast Girls Soccer Club, a 12-year-old team that plays in the Mass. Premier League. In June, the team captured the state title in Springfield, earning an opportunity to represent Massachusetts in the Regional Championships in Erie, Pa., earlier this month.

The South Coast team represented the state well, bringing home the bronze medal as the third-place finisher out of a field of 16 states. During the Regionals, Lisa's team picked up impressive victories against New Jersey, Vermont and West Virginia. The team's third-place effort placed them among the top 12 teams in the country in their age group.

Pat Bregoli Sparks N.E. Mariners At AAU Baseball National Tourney

Pat Bregoli of Quincy, a member of the New England Mariners 14 and under AAU baseball team, helped the squad advance to the medal round of the national championship tournament currently being held in Charlotte, N.C.

In the Mariners' opener, a 12-10 setback to the New Jersey Redhaws, Bregoli went two for four at the plate.

The Mariners' starting center fielder, Bregoli crushed a three-run home run out of the park in a 17-15 victory over the West Sound Baseball Club of Seattle, Wash. His blast came in the third inning and gave the Mariners a 4-2 lead. Bregoli, who batted 4 for 12 in the Mariners' first three games, added another hit in the win.

Monday, the Mariners upset the No. 1 seed in their pool, the San Diego (Calif.) Mavericks, 3-2. The Mavericks were the ninth overall seed out of 60 teams. Craig Stinson of Rhode Island belted a two-run homer to pace the Mariners.

Winning their pool would earn the Mariners a berth in the final eight, single elimination gold medal round this Friday and Saturday.

Three Quincy Cyclists To Raise Funds For American Lung Assn.

Quincy residents Geoffrey Hays, Deborah Shaughnessy and Jeff Stapleton will join other bicycling enthusiasts at the 14th annual American Lung Association Autumn Escape Bike Trek Sept. 11-13.

The three cyclists, all veterans of the Autumn Escape Bike Trek, will pedal from Plymouth to Provincetown to raise awareness and funds for the American Lung Association.

"The trekkers are highly motivated volunteers who continue to make a significant impact in the lives of those living with lung disease," said Martha Waldron, executive director of the American Lung Association.

Over the three-day, 160-mile trek, cyclists will tour the Cape Cod Canal, the Falmouth Shining Sea Bike Trail, and the Cape Cod National Seashore. Each cyclist pays a $35 registration fee and raises $375 in pledges.

For more information about the Autumn Escape Bike Trek, or how you can help in the fight against lung disease, contact the American Lung Association at (508) 668-6729.

Notre Dame Academy's Kathleen Burke Selected As Outstanding Senior Athlete

Kathleen Burke of Quincy, a recent graduate of Notre Dame Academy in Hingham, was the recipient of the Outstanding Senior Athlete Award at the school's annual sports banquet.

Burke, a four-year varsity soccer player, also served as captain for both the indoor and outdoor track and field teams.

Her soccer team advanced to the second round of the state tournament every year. In her senior year, the team reached the South Sectional final against Hingham and lost, 2-1, in overtime.

In indoor track, Burke was a two-time Dual County League All-Star in the 1000 meter run, and her 4x800 relay team holds the school record as well as a 10th place finish in the 1998 Massachusetts All-State meet. In outdoor track, she was a two-time Catholic Conference League All-Star in the 800 meter run and 4x400 meter relay.

Recently, Burke's club team, the South Coast Girls

Soccer Club, won the Massachusetts State Soccer Championship with a 2-1 victory over the Greater Boston Bolts. The team then traveled to Erie, Pa., to compete in the Snickers Region I Championship and posted a 2-1 record, recording wins over New Hampshire and Eastern Pennsylvania, and losing 4-2 to the national champions from Long Island, N.Y.

Burke will attend Wheaton College this fall where she will continue her soccer career.

Once There Were Dahlias. Today, Tradition Meets Convenience.

In 1962, M. Joseph Sweeney acquired the Elcock Estate in West Quincy to better serve the residents in that growing area of the city. The circa 1863 residence was built long before the expressway. Its previous owner, Mr. Elcock, had a green thumb and soon became known as the "Dahlia King" for his spectacular dahlias.

Today, the location is not only near the Southeast Expressway (I-93), but also the Furnace Brook Parkway. These two major arteries offer convenient access to West Quincy, Milton and Boston. Joe's son, Dennis, has recently had the location redecorated, continuing the family's philosophy of maintaining a beautiful, home-like atmosphere.

Since 1917, the staff at Sweeney Funeral Homes has been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions. And as the area has grown, they've become more accessible to you.

A Thought For The Week

A wit once remarked that the number of times the average man says no to temptation is once weekly! ... It has also been said that the difference between those whom the world esteems as good, and those whom it condemns as bad, is in many cases little else than that the former have been better sheltered from temptation...

Everyone of us at sometime in our lives go through the experience of temptation. Temptation is a trial. Have you ever noticed that a lot of times temptation seems to be directed at those points in our lives where we seem least able to withstand. "Lead us not into temptation" is simply the petition that God will keep us free from the trial of temptation. God never tempts anyone. We tempt ourselves.

A life without temptation and trial would appear to be an ideal existence. But is this true? We don't think so... We all need to stand before the hard situations of life if we are going to get out of life the blessings it promises.

Your Horoscope by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) The bonds between lovers grow stronger. Don't disregard good counsel about an investment. The weekend brings changes in plans. A financial proposal may have strings attached. An all-or-nothing attitude prevails in romance.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You may be clinging too tightly to a child. A turning point is reached in a love relationship. Capitalize on a work opportunity. Artistic types enjoy special productivity. A partner is fickle later in the week. A romantic entanglement may be too intense for your taste.

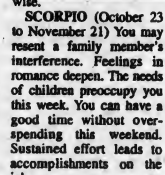

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Siblings reach a new understanding of each other. Creative juices are flowing. The weekend accents leisure activities. Follow through on commitments. Don't inconvenience others by being unable to make up your mind.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You are too possessive at times. Give others enough freedom to show how much they care. A planned meeting is subject to change. Your heart may be set on a purpose. A mix-up in communications can occur with a relative or date over the weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your loyalty is appreciated by a friend. Still, don't let others take advantage of your good nature. Watch escapism over the weekend. A touch of eccentricity marks your approach to shopping.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A friend promises more than he can deliver. You may find romance at a distance. You'll meet others who share your views. It's not the time to share confidences with others.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A co-worker's brazenness may upset you. Consult with experts about financial moves. Partners share responsibilities happily. Steady application, rather than impulsive moves, bring gains career.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You may resent a family member's interference. Feelings in romance deepen. The needs of children preoccupy you this week. You can have a good time without overspending this weekend. Sustained effort leads to accomplishments on the job.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) It's time to introduce a romantic interest to your family. Go out for good times this week, but check expenditures. A ticklish job situation can be resolved by socializing with a co-worker.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You may overreact to someone's inconsiderate remark. Weigh decisions carefully. Avoid snap judgments. Monetary deals are favored. Don't disregard the feelings of a family member. Be tolerant of those whose views differ from your own.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Being too aggressive injures your case careerwise. Be tactful with higher-ups. Make a point to keep in touch with an old friend. Though the financial picture improves, you're still inclined to argue with a relative about money.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Fulfill a social obligation. Relations with friends go well, but don't seek monetary favors. Job developments are favorable. This is the week to take a stand regarding a matter of principle. However, don't force issues.

Robin Ngo Receives Scholarship From Cambridgeport Bank

Cambridgeport Bank has presented $1,000 in scholarship funds to Robin Ngo, a 1998 graduate of North Quincy High School.

Ngo will attend Worcester Polytechnic Institute this fall. The annual Cambridgeport Bank Social Service Scholarship program presents local high schools with a $1,000 grant to be presented to students by each school's academic committee. Founded in 1987, the Cambridgeport Bank Social Service Scholarship program has assisted more than 45 students with their financial academic needs. The one-time grant is bestowed to a graduating senior who has made significant contributions in the area of social service to the school or community.

Ngo has been actively involved in her local community, volunteering at the Crestview Nursing Home and Thomas Crane Public Library. In addition, Ngo was a member of the North Quincy High School Pride Committee, Robotics Club, Spanish Club, Asian Culture Club and the Thomas Jefferson Forum.

SAINT CLARE OF ASSISI FEAST DAY,

AUGUST 11

PATRON OF TELEVISION

Declared by Pope Pius XII, February 14, 1958

Prayer To Saint Clare

O Blessed Saint Clare, your life shines like a beacon and casts its light down the ages of the Church to guide the way to Christ. Holy and beloved saint, take authority over television, this invention of communication, bring your light out amongst us this day. Great servant of Christ, who shines in integrity, obtain for us truth and virtue, on which public order should depend. Hear our distress and from your pure heart to the Eucharistic Heart of Jesus, our healer, speak to him of our hope, who has only to say the word that we may be saved. AMEN. St. Clare Pray For Us

Survey Indicates Residents Want Upscale, More Store Choices

12 business locations, most feel the restaurants in the area are above average but they, like the residents, also believe the selection of retail stores needs to improve.

The employees also indicated a desire for the same kinds of stores as the ones proposed by the residents as well as a pharmacy.

City Council President Peter Kolson, who initially proposed the formation of the shopping commission, said the group is focused on its mission of improving shopping in the downtown.

"This commission is looking forward, not back," he said. "The city recently won a prestigious national award for being a highly livable city. A number of top-quality restaurants have opened in Quincy Center, and now we have to work on making Quincy Center a first-rate shopping destination."

"The commission is challenging the existing property owners and retailers to improve the stature of the area. We are looking forward to eliminating the obstacles to creating a quality shopping environment. We invite Quincy Center property owners and all existing retailers to join us in becoming a part of this cooperative effort. It is time to recognize that our Quincy Center is a precious jewel and we all can make it shine."

The "Keep It In Quincy" Shopping Commission, appointed to a one-year term by the City Council, has been meeting biweekly since February. Members include Nancy Callanan, Linda Colon, Joanne Dondero, Judy Farmer, Elmina Greene, Judy Kolson, David Lydon, Nancy McArdle and Zaida Shaw. They are being assisted by Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph Mannarino, Liz Harrington of the Quincy Planning Department, and Helen Murphy, assistant to Mayor James Sheets.

In addition to conducting survey research, the commission has met with members of the business and real estate communities to gain their insight into market conditions and possible retail opportunities. Quincy Center lighting conditions also have been improved by the mayor's office at the commission's request.

Plans now call for the commission to actively identify and recruit the top retail choices of survey respondents. The group is encouraging entrepreneurs and business owners to contact Mannarino at (617) 847-1454 if they have an interest in opening a business in Quincy Center.

Adams Street Building Accident Under Investigation

Two Workers Die As Scaffolding Plunges 80 Feet

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Two workers were killed Tuesday afternoon after falling nearly 80 feet when the scaffolding they were working on collapsed at 77 Adams Place, Quincy Center.

The accident occurred at about 2:45 p.m. as the two men were doing brick repair work and water proofing on the outside of the sixth floor of the building, adjacent to Adams St.

There were unconfirmed reports of a third victim at press time.

According to Quincy Fire Chief Thomas Gorman, the scaffolding that was tied to the wall of the building was overloaded and apparently pulled away, causing the two workers to fall nearly 80 feet to the ground. The two men were buried under as much as 10 tons of debris, said Gorman.

"It was a horrific scene," said Robert Fitzgerald, owner of South Shore Buick, located a few yards down on Adams St. "The scaffolding piled up like match sticks.

"It looked like a bombing. It made you think of the Oklahoma and the American buildings bombings in Africa."

Fitzgerald commended Quincy firefighters, police, EMT's and others who helped the rescue efforts.

"They dug into and under the piles of debris looking for the victims as though they were members of their own families," he said.

Due to the amount of debris, it took officials on the scene an hour and 15 minutes to reach one of the victims. He was removed from the scene, transported to the hospital with serious injuries and pronounced dead at 4:15 p.m., according to hospital spokesperson Tamara Erdley. The man was identified as a 22-year-old but his name was not released pending notification of next of kin.

The other victim was pronounced dead at the scene by a doctor from Quincy Hospital. He did not have identification.

Among the officials working on the scene to recover the victims were the Boston and Weymouth Fire Departments and the Quincy Police Department.

Fire Chief Gorman said a lengthy investigation will follow to determine the cause of the accident.

Quincy Director of Inspection Services Walter White said the two workers, employed by Diversified Contractors in Braintree, had a permit to do brick repair work and water proofing on the building.

Hugh O'Connor of the state Department of Public Safety said the state building inspector, the Quincy building inspector and OSHA would review the incident and file a report.

D'Amico Forming 'Safe Quarries Task Force' Police To Crack Down On Quarry Swimmers

Ward 4 Councillor Michael D'Amico is forming a "Safe Quarries Task Force" to find ways to crack down on trespassing and swimming in hopes of eliminating deaths there.

Meanwhile, D'Amico said, he has a commitment from the Quincy Police Department to arrest swimmers at the quarries on sight and to prosecute them.

"There will be no exceptions to this zero-tolerance policy," D'Amico told some 75 Quincy and Milton residents at a meeting Saturday night at Lyons Quarry where Ryan Whitney, 19, of Milton fell 50 feet to his death early on the morning July 31.

"It is going to be tough medicine for kids, but most parents would rather find their son or daughter

D'Amico: "It is going to be tough medicine for kids, but most parents would rather find their son or daughter at the police station than at the bottom of a quarry."

First Woman To Hold Post Eileen Feeney Named Principal At NQHS

Eileen Feeney is the new principal at North Quincy High School, the first woman high school principal in the city's history.

School Supt. Eugene Creedon who made the appointment said "Eileen certainly has earned it."

Assistant principal at NQHS for nearly 20 years, she succeeds Peter Chrisom who retired in June.

She is only the school's fourth principal since it opened in 1927. The first was James Collins, followed by John Walsh and Chrisom.

Creedon noted that

women have been appointed principals at the elementary and middle school levels but that Feeney is the first to be named a high school principal.

"We are making progress," he said.

"I have known Eileen for a long time and I have always had a great respect for her and her talents. The other screening committee members felt the same."

"I was the assistant principal for a long time, so I am quite pleased to be the new principal," said Feeney. "I just plan to continue the good things my predecessors did and keep it a good school. I'm looking forward to meeting the challenges that may arise and doing what is best for the students."

Fund To Repair Or Replace Climbing Structure Established Vandals Damage Day Care Playground

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A climbing structure at a Germantown day care center playground was vandalized Sunday or Monday, causing an estimated $2,000 in damage and leaving many youngsters without a play outlet.

The wood, plastic and metal play structure is located at the playground of the Beth Kaiser Day Care Center, 9 Bicknell St., Germantown.

"The climbing structure was the centerpiece of our playground," said Sheila deBettencourt, director of Beth Kaiser Day Care. "It helped the children learn coordination, develop their muscle skills, and gave them a chance to play constructively with other children."

The vandalized structure was discovered this morning, deBettencourt said, adding police believe the vandals struck sometime Sunday night or early Monday morning. Yellow police tape was wrapped around the 8-foot structure which 18 toddlers used to climb from level to level to reach a slide and a playhouse. The top of the structure has a big steering wheel so youngsters could pretend to "drive."

"It's completely unusable," deBettencourt said of the six-year-old structure. "It's not stable anymore. It's leaning to one side and one of the four footings is completely out of the ground. The cement was pulled right up out of the ground."

Beth Kaiser is a non-profit day care center and a program of South Shore Mental Health which serves many low-income families in the area. The day care center staff cares for infants and toddlers up to 36 months old.

South Shore Mental Health Center plans to repair or replace the structure. DeBettencourt estimated the damage at $2,000. She said the price to replace it may be $2,500 or more.

South Shore Mental Health is seeking donations to help repair or replace the structure. Donations may be sent to: South Shore Mental Health Center Playground Fund, 9 Bicknell St., Quincy, MA 02169.

"We have to have something for the kids to play on. It's a very essential piece of equipment," deBettencourt said. Besides the day care children, the playground equipment was utilized by neighborhood children, she said.

DeBettencourt said the incident "surprised" her. "We've been so lucky over the years. It's the first time

PLAYGROUND STRUCTURE at the Beth Kaiser Day Care Center in Germantown was discovered vandalized Monday morning. The structure which will be repaired or replaced according to South Shore Mental Health, the agency which operates the day care center. (Quincy Sun Photo/Robert Noble) anything major has happened to the playground. "The neighborhood has been incredibly supportive—that's why it's even more surprising."

Headaches & Chiropractic

Headaches are a distress signal telling you that something is out of balance in your body. A common and overlooked cause of headaches is the misalignment of the spinal bones in the neck and upper back. The loss of normal position or motion of these bones could happen because of falls, poor posture, stress, repetitive motion, or injuries.

Medications may cover up these warning signs but they do not help correct the underlying structural cause. More and more people are finding relief with chiropractic care. Call today to learn more and/or schedule an appointment.

Jewish War Veterans Memorial Dedicated

THE MEMORIAL HONORING Jewish war veterans and dedicated Sunday at Pine Hill Cemetery is admired by Rabbi David Jacobs (left) of Temple Beth El, and Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue. The four-foot wide, three-foot high granite monument was commissioned by the Quincy Jewish War Veterans Post.

New Paint, Deck Work Slated For Heavy Cruiser

$2M Earmarked For USS Salem Improvements

By ROBERT BOSWORTH
The USS Salem will undergo a $2 million capital improvement project beginning this fall, including the heavy cruiser's first significant paint job in over 40 years and other necessary repairs and updates, Mayor James Sheets announced Tuesday.

The $2 million in state funding was signed into law by Gov. Paul Cellucci Monday as part of the Capital Supplemental Appropriations Order for Fiscal 1998, Sheets said.

Besides paint for the ship's hull, the Salem's improvement project calls for repairs to the ship's teak deck, 10 new bathrooms, new handicapped accessible entrances and exits and an emergency generator.

The mayor said the entire $2 million will be spent on capital improvements only. The funding is a state grant and does not require repayment, he said.

Sheets called the $2 million funding package "a shot in the arm" for the Salem, the centerpiece of the city's shipbuilding museum at the Fore River Shipyard and a key cog in Quincy's effort to boost its tourism industry.

"This is absolutely welcome news. It will turn the whole program around without question. (The Salem) will become more attractive for scouting and for tourism."

"It's really the shot in the arm that we need," the mayor added.

The lion's share of the project will be repainting the ship's hull—an estimated $900,000, Sheets said. The painting is expected to start early next spring, he said.

Sheets said he believes the Salem has not been painted since it was decommissioned in 1956—42 years ago.

The other work will likely start in the fall, the mayor noted.

Sheets credited the city's legislative delegation, and another area state senator, with steering the funding from legislative committee to the governor's desk.

Sen. Paul Haley of Weymouth, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, put the funding into the supplemental budget, the mayor explained, after learning $10 million was being appropriated for capital improvements for the battleship, USS Massachusetts.

"Paul said he sees the Salem every day crossing the Fore River Bridge. He figured if the state's going to allocate $10 million for the Massachusetts, then the Salem is worthy of $2 million," Sheets said.

"I want to express my gratitude to our legislative delegation, (Reps.) Ron Mariano, Steve Tobin, Michael Bellotti and (Sen.) Michael Morrissey for supporting the funding," he mayor added.

Are you paying too much attention to the stock market?

You think about it a lot. Even worry about it sometimes. Sure, the market's been very good to you over the past couple of years. But that "unprecedented" growth makes you nervous too. What if the market levels off or—God forbid—goes down? Would that be a problem? Then it's time to stash some of those stock market profits in a 5-Month Certificate from Colonial Federal Savings Bank. Safe, secure and guaranteed by FDIC, this short-term, high-rate CD is the smart, easy way to diversify your holdings. Come see us! Or call Jamie Doherty at 617-471-0750.

Medically Speaking

by Michael M. Bakerman, M.D., F.A.C.C.

A QUESTION OF POWER?

For years, there was considerable speculation that electromagnetic radiation from power lines (most often mentioned are high-tension wires) was responsible for an increased incidence of cancers. Fanatics also theorized that the electromagnetic fields around electric household appliances such as electric blankets and alarm clocks could also cause childhood leukemias. Recently, the National Cancer Institute (NCI) released the results of one of the most massive studies ever undertaken on this subject. Their conclusion? In a report recently published in the New England Journal of Medicine, the National Academy of Science stated that there "was no evidence to support that residential electric and magnetic fields produce cancer, adverse neurobehavioral effects, or reproductive and developmental effects."

Current medical research is always revealing something new, and often times that research can alleviate fears we have about how we are affected by our environment. In our office, we keep up-to-date with the latest developments and are happy to share what we have learned with you. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. There was a sharp slump in the sale of electric blankets because of the above-mentioned unfounded rumor.

Lady Bird Remembers

Lady Bird Johnson has made two visits to Quincy and remembers both with fondness.

She twice visited the Adams Mansion, home of four generations of the Adams family and summer White House to Presidents John and John Quincy Adams.

She liked what she saw so much, she would like to have something like it back home in Texas.

City Councillor Paul Harold got to meet the former

First Lady and her daughter, Linda Robb, wife of Virginia Senator Chuck Robb, at a recent Democratic Party fundraiser reception on Cape Cod.

She fondly recalled the two visits here. The first was in 1967 while her husband, Lyndon Johnson, was president.

The second was a surprise visit in October, 1995 when she popped in with her granddaughter, Claudia Nugent, on the latter's way to college.

"She told me she was really impressed with the Adams Mansion," says Harold. "She liked the way it was maintained by the National Park Service."

It was that warm live-in-look—rather than a cold museum look—that impressed her.

"She said she was interested in the preservation and interpretative work at the mansion and that she was planning on setting up a similar house museum at the family farm in Texas."

Harold said she did call it a farm—not a ranch.

Her daughter said she wished she had been able to accompany her mother to Quincy, Harold says.

"She's very interested in history. We talked about the Adams mansion and Mount Vernon as historic sites. She really knows Mount Vernon."

Lady Bird's first visit here in 1967 was while she was in the midst of her campaign to "Keep America Beautiful." She was accompanied by Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall.

She spent three hours at the mansion June 9, the first wife of a President to enter the home in more than a century. The last before her was Louisa Catherine Adams, wife of sixth President John Quincy Adams who lived there. That was an historic touch that day. And, there was a humorous footnote to that visit.

It happened to be trash pick-up day in the Furnace Brook Parkway and Adams St. area along her motorcade route.

Mayor James McIntyre suddenly realized that fact shortly before her arrival. And he ordered the pick-up in the area to be given top priority so Lady Bird wouldn't have to look at trash barrels on her way to the mansion.

And, just to be sure, McIntyre decided to check things once more. The trash had been picked up as ordered. But the empty barrels were scattered about.

And, as the story goes there was a sight to see: the mayor of Quincy, his Public Works Commissioner Jack Browne and Executive Secretary James "Pete" Ricciardi jumping out of their cars and hiding the empty trash barrels behind shrubs, hedges and parked cars so that Lady Bird would find Quincy beautiful on her "Keep America Beautiful" mission stop here.

Lady Bird loved the beautiful flowers she found in bloom at the mansion. They were a perfect fit to her "Keep America Beautiful" theme.

If she saw any of the trash barrels she didn't mention it. And nobody else did.

YOU CAN IMAGINE the many demands on Alan Shepard when he became a hero as America's first man in space.

That flight was May 5, 1961. But he wasn't too busy just two days later to respond to a letter from a young Quincy boy.

The youngster was in the third grade class of Helen Duncan of Albion Road at the old Pollard School. She remembers the student as John but does not recall his last name.

"I was so sorry to read of the demise of Alan Shepard, Jr. but it made me recall some interesting memories," she writes.

"In 1961 I visited friends in Derry, N.H. and met Alan's grandmother. She had a stone library built in memory of her husband. Mrs. Shepard was a very pleasant woman who gave me a library card so that I could take out some of the new books."

"When I returned to my third grade class I told my students about my visit to Derry, N.H."

"Shortly after, a pupil in the class showed me a letter he had received from Alan. I was very surprised and said, 'How did you know the address?' He stated that he remembered that I had said Derry, N.H."

"Of course, John's father framed the letter."

Miss Duncan included a copy of the note from Shepard dated May 7, 1961.

"Dear John,
"Thank you so much for your letter. We are glad you will remember our first American rocket flight. When you grow up you will be able to take a trip to the moon yourself. We must work hard to make possible these wonderful things."
Sincerely, Alan B. Shepard, Jr."

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1924 POSTCARD view of Phillips Street in Wollaston looking Southeast toward its intersection with Elm Avenue. Most of the young elm trees shown here are now gone. In the summer the city sprinkled dirt roadways with water to hold down the dust. In the lower right of this view can be seen the trail of a sprinkler from a water truck.

Likes CVS At Best Buy But Has Traffic Concerns

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Every time I drive by the site of the former Best Buy store, it grows uglier by the minute. It has been an eyesore for too many years now. For years the surrounding neighborhood has wondered how long it would take to get a new business to open at this site. An empty store is not in the best interest of anyone.

Recently, the CVS Pharmacy chain has expressed an interest in opening a new drugstore at this site. The abutters had a meeting and there was also a neighborhood-wide meeting.

Most of those at the neighborhood meeting liked the idea of CVS taking over the site. Most abutters seem to also like the idea. However, traffic concerns are a major factor which will need to be addressed by the folks building this new CVS store.

The intersection of East

Squantum Street and Quincy Shore Drive is currently far from being either pedestrian- or traffic-friendly. Current traffic to and from the existing liquor store at the corner (which will be eliminated for the new CVS store) creates a terrible gridlock at the corner going back 30 to 40 feet to Hummock Road. The CVS Pharmacy is planning to continue to use all four existing entrances/exits to the property. The proposed new main entrance to the pharmacy will be on Quincy Shore Drive about 70 feet from the traffic lights at the intersection. The rear of the building near the backyards of folks living on Hummock Road will have a drive-thru pick-up window.

Those proposing to build this CVS store see customers exiting the drugstore onto Quincy Shore Drive. I see them leaving the store the same way they do now: either right onto East Squantum St. at the crosswalk and traffic lights or back near Hummock Road. No one really wants to fight traffic on Quincy Shore Drive, but I am concerned about the gridlock that might come if customers start using East Squantum and Hummock as their escape routes.

I want CVS Pharmacy to come to North Quincy. I think the site is ideal for a drugstore but I think traffic concerns are real and will need to be addressed. I think it will be addressed because CVS Pharmacy wants to be a good neighbor as much as we want them to be good neighbors.

There are several options available to the builders. They could work with the MDC and the City of Quincy in redesigning the intersection to avoid any increase in gridlock. Super Stop & Shop did that on Newport Ave. and Shaw's Supermarket did that on Hancock St. So anything is possible while things are on the drawing boards.

Perhaps, a new entrance at the East Squantum St./Quincy Shore Drive might work. Perhaps, there are no other choices that would make the corner safer for everyone and convenient for CVS customers, too.

Everyone seems to like the idea of this proposed CVS site. The uproar, if any, isn't over CVS coming, rather it is over the impact on the immediate abutters and the traffic flow at a very messy intersection.

Put me down as in favor of this new CVS Pharmacy but put me down in favor of protecting the neighborhood, too.

If CVS Pharmacy wants to be our neighborhood drugstore, I'm sure all these issues can be worked out for both CVS and the neighborhood.

Thanks Those Who Made Vacation Bible School A Success

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Each year, the Interchurch Council of Wollaston and North Quincy host a Vacation Bible School for the children of our community. It was our pleasure once again to be the host congregation. We had over 60 children in attendance and the program was a phenomenal success.

nominal success.

The Interchurch Council is made up of Roman Catholic and Protestant congregations. It is exciting to see the Christian Ecumenical spirit so alive and well.

Many of the children were Catholic and of other various Protestant denominations and some of no church affiliations at all.

I would like to thank the Interfaith Council for financial support, my parishioners, Memorial Congregational, Wollaston Lutheran Church, and the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene for volunteers. Also I would like to thank Officer Sullivan and Crackerjack of the Quincy Police, Lisa Aprea and Chuckles of Happy Dog School and most especially, the Rev. Martha Swanson, program director.

5,000 Workers In Shipyard Stoppage

By PAUL HAROLD

Some 5,000 of the 6,700 daytime production workers at the shipyard, staged a 45-minute work stoppage to demonstrate their support for union demands in the current contract negotiations.

The workers heard Local 5 CIO President Donald Edmonston and Vice President James Mortimer outline the union's contract strategy. They then marched past the administration building to show their support for the union leaders.

A company spokesman said the protesting workers would not be paid for the 45 minutes they were off the job.

Meanwhile, at Baltimore, workers demonstrated at Bethlehem Steel's Sparrow Point and Key Highway shipyards.

100 DEGREE TEMP SNAPS 77-YEAR RECORD

A 77-year record was broken this week as the temperature reached 100 degrees.

Deputy Fire Chief Thomas Maloney said the fire peril in the city was the worst it had been in 20 years, with 15 grass and woods fires in a single day.

One fire behind the Pollard School reached a foot below the surface, requiring firefighters to dig trenches around the perimeter of the fire.

NO WRONG DOING FOUND IN CHIEF'S EXAM

Attorney General Francis Kelly reported to Mayor Charles Ross that he found no evidence of fraud in the action of the state civil service commission relative to the recent Quincy Police chief exam.

As a result, the list would stand as corrected, with Capt. James Kemp in sixth place, instead of first place he held on the original list.

Entries Open For 'Quincy ArtsFest'

The Quincy Art Association and the Quincy Park and Recreation Departments announce that entries are available for those artists and photographers interested in participating in the first annual "Quincy ArtsFest."

The juried show will be held at the Richard J. Koch Family Park & Recreation Complex in Quincy's Merrymount Park Sept. 18-20.

Interested participants may receive entries by contacting the Quincy Park Department at (617) 376-1251 or the Quincy Art Association at (617) 770-2482. For more information, call either of the numbers listed above. Registration forms can also be found at art and photography stores throughout the South Shore. Acceptance for all entries will occur on Aug. 28 and 29.

The juried art show will feature the following categories: oil and acrylic, drawing and pastel, watercolor, printmaking, mixed media and sculpture. There is a maximum of three entries per artist.

The juried photograph show will feature categories of: color, black and white digital, best Quincy historical photograph and best Quincy park photograph. There is a maximum of five entries per photographer.

Prizes for the juried art show and the juried photograph show will include best of show $500; first place $100 (all categories); second place $75 (all categories); and third place $50 (all categories).

"The Quincy ArtsFest will be the finest family-friendly event on the South Shore. The eclectic mix of arts, children's displays, photography and live entertainment will ensure that there will be something of interest for everyone," said Barry Welch, Quincy Recreation Department director.

Along with the South Shore and Greater Boston's finest artists and photographers, the event will feature musical and dancing entertainment all weekend.

Judges for the juried art show and QAA members show include Anne Belson, cultural affairs coordinator for the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston; Beth Neville, former director of the Milton Art Museum; and Jennifer Wood-Patrick, from Art/Advisory Boston.

The juried photography show will be judged by Greg Derr, Patriot Ledger photographer and George Loring of Loring Studios in Hingham.

There will also be a contest for young artists, which will be open to all students from kindergarten through Grade 12. Works from kindergarten through eighth grade will be judged separately from Grades 9 through 12. William Beyer, professional watercolorist and children's book illustrator, will judge the young artist show.

"Our parks are more than just a place to play ball," said Thomas Koch, executive director of the Quincy Park Department. "We want to offer people a chance to appreciate the finest art in New England while in the comfortable and relaxing surroundings of Quincy most beautiful park."

The acceptance of all entries will occur on Aug. 28 (1 to 4 p.m.) and Aug. 29 (10 a.m. to 2 p.m.) at the Richard J. Koch Family Park & Recreation Complex on Merrymount Parkway (Rt. 3A in Quincy). Judging will occur on Aug. 29. Notifications will be sent out shortly thereafter.

SIGNS OF POOR CIRCULATION
 When the body has trouble getting blood from the heart out to the rest of the body and back again, you've got a case of poor circulation. Causes may include atherosclerosis ("hardening of the arteries"), microvascular disease (narrowing of small arteries), or venous disease (defective valves blocking blood flow). You may be able to get a leg up on circulatory problems, however, if you pay attention to signals from your feet. Among the symptoms to watch for are swelling in one or both legs or feet, sores that do not heal, ulcers over bony

When the body has bumps, red or purple discoloration of feet after dangling, and a feeling of heaviness after reclining. Any of the above signs should prompt a consultation with your doctor. If you are suffering from these or any other foot related complaints call us at (617) 773-4300. We are located at 1261 Furnace Brook Pkwy., Suite #18, Quincy and are affiliated with Carney, Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. P.S. Your podiatrist may choose from several comfortable, non-invasive tests to evaluate your vascular health.

Seniors 'Jeopardy' Game Aug. 20

The Quincy Department of Elder Services and Logan Health Care are co-sponsoring "Factorama," a "Jeopardy" game for senior citizens.

The event will take place Thursday, Aug. 20 at 1 p.m. at the Squantum Gardens Community Center, 83 Saratoga St., North Quincy. Prizes will be awarded to the best players. All are welcome to play or watch. Refreshments will be served.

For more information, call Mary Burke at 376-1243.

Annual Senior Conference At Broad Meadows Sept. 19

The Quincy Council on Aging, in conjunction with the Quincy Commission on the Family, will hold the third annual Senior Conference at Broad Meadows Middle School on Saturday, Sept. 19.

The conference, entitled "Young At Heart," will be held from 8:30 a.m. to approximately 1:30 p.m. with a luncheon. Mayor James Sheets will be the luncheon speaker. Cost is $5.

The event is open to all Quincy residents 60 and older. It will offer 17 workshops (each senior may choose two) geared to helping people deal with issues in their everyday lives, including Medicare/Medicaid, educational opportunities, travel, safety and others.

Keynote speaker will be Richard Knox of The Boston Globe. Knox joined the newspaper as a medical writer in 1969 after graduating from Columbia University School of Journalism.

Born in Lafayette, Ind., in 1946, Knox spent his childhood in Hoopeson, Ill., where his father published a daily paper, and his youth in Champaign, where he attended public schools and was a correspondent for The Champaign-Urbana Courier.

Previously, he served a fellowship at the Harvard School of Public Health. Knox and his wife Jean live in Dorchester.

Early registration for the conference is encouraged. To receive an application, call 376-1243.

Senior SAFE Expanding To Year-Round Effort

Mayor James Sheets and other city leaders have pledged support of Senior SAFE, a year-round effort to ensure safe living for seniors, announces Beechwood Community Life Center Executive Director Sharon Beals.

The new year-round senior service grew from the successful Project SAFE (Smoke Alarms For Elders) launched last October. The mayor proclaimed October as Fire Prevention Month in Quincy.

"Project SAFE Day was the first Saturday in October," said Beals, the project coordinator. "The initial goal was a serious one: to identify and outreach to frail and special needs seniors (those seniors at greatest risk of fire in the home), to ensure that working fire detectors are in place. Community organizations, clergy, neighborhood associations, the Council on Aging and others helped spread the word."

An initial "challenge grant" from the National Fire Protection Association served as "challenge" monies to initiate resource development for detectors and batteries. The Quincy Rotary Club, Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers, and Beechwood fundraisers provided "match" monies for more than 1,000 detectors in 1997.

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman and Deputy Chief Paul Cuddy called the citywide effort "one of the best fire protection efforts ever effected in Quincy, a great community collaborative."

"We are goal-oriented to extend Senior SAFE outreach, counseling and assistance throughout the year," said Beals, who added that the Quincy Elder Home Repair Program, started by Beechwood in 1983, is currently assisted by the city's CDBG program. Fundraising is underway to access resources for the expansion of Senior SAFE, she added.

For more information, call Beechwood at 471-5712.

Social Club For Retirees At 'Y'

Your Social Security Report: Long-Term Problems Manageable

By KENNETH APPEL

The 1998 Report of the Social Security Board of Trustees indicates that the Social Security long-range financial projections have improved since last year's report. This report was released at a press conference that I attended, along with fellow Board members Robert Rubin, Secretary of the Treasury and Managing Trustee of the Board; Alexis Herman, Secretary of Labor; and Donna Shalala, Secretary of Health and Human Services.

According to the 1998 report, the Old Age and Survivors Insurance (OASI) and Disability Insurance (DI) Trust Funds have gained three years of solvency during the past year. Instead of a projected exhaustion date of 2029, as reported last year, the trust funds now are expected to remain solvent until 2032. The good news can be attributed to a period of sustained economic growth, reduced unemployment rates and low inflation.

I believe that the report confirms that the long-term financing issue is one of manageable proportions. Although there is no immediate financial crisis, the time to act is now to prevent a crisis from ever occurring.

In 2032, the trust fund reserves will be exhausted, and income going into the trust funds will provide enough money to pay only three-quarters of benefits. In 2013, a year later than predicted in 1997, income from taxes will be insufficient to meet all obligations, and it will be necessary to begin using interest income to pay benefits. Beginning in 2021, it will be necessary to redeem trust fund assets to pay benefits. Over the 75-year long-range actuarial forecast, the predicted shortfall is now 2.19 percent of taxable payroll, rather than 2.23 percent, as noted last year.

In addition to the cash benefits trust fund projections contained in the report, the financial condition of the Medicare trust funds is discussed. The report shows that the Hospital Insurance (HI) Trust Fund would be exhausted in 2008. Last year's report had indicated that the HI trust fund would be exhausted by 2001. The longer solvency period is due primarily to legislative changes. (Kenneth Appel is the commissioner of Social Security.)

Applications Available For Rotary Club International Youth Exchange

The Quincy Rotary Club is now accepting applications for high school students who would like the opportunity to spend the year in a foreign country.

The Rotary International Youth Exchange Program is a unique scholarship for a young person to study abroad. Students have the opportunity to choose from approximately 45 countries.

To be eligible, a high school student should have good character, an outgoing personality, an average to above average academic ability and want to learn about other countries. Students must be at least 15 1/2 and cannot be older than 18 1/2 on July 31 of the year of the departure.

Rotary Exchange Students are generally hosted by more than one family during their stay. Students also receive a monthly allowance from the host Rotary Club.

Volunteer Rotarians and their families throughout the world organize the Rotary Exchange program. They select the students, prepare them to go out, help with their visa, school admissions, host family's accommodations, etc. Rotarians do all of this as a service.

The Rotary program is the least expensive exchange program. The student's family is responsible for the round-trip airfare, health insurance and sundry expenses.

The other major advantage is that every town where students are placed, members of the Local Rotary Club are directly involved in the welfare of the students.

The Quincy Rotary Club provides support to local charities as well as youth sports and civic activities.

For more information, call Joseph Shadduck, Quincy Rotary Club president, at (617) 773-7377 by Oct. 19.

Fr. Bill's Place Food Fest, Auction To Be Held Aug. 26

The Father Bill's Place Annual Food Fest and Auction will be held Wednesday, Aug. 26 from 6 to 10 p.m. at The Summer House in Marina Bay.

Twenty-five South Shore restaurants will be represented at the event, which for the past three years had been held at Presidents Place in Quincy Center.

"We simply ran out of room at Presidents Place," said Joseph Finn, executive director of the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition which operates Father Bill's Place, Quincy's homeless shelter. "The committee thought we could add a little atmosphere; as it turns out, we added a lot of atmosphere."

Fine wine will be offered and entertainment will be provided by Chris Luard's Jazz Trio.

A number of items will be auctioned including vacation packages, a 25-inch color television, sporting event tickets, Beanie Babies and more. Celebrity auctioneers will include Mayor James Sheets and local business owners.

Jerome Shea, local sculpture artist, will carve a work from blocks of ice. Shea also has sculpted artwork for First Night Quincy and the Quincy Presidents Day Winter Festival.

Jim Wells, owner of Abbadessa's Restaurant in Hingham and chairman of the event for the past three years has teamed up with Michael Cheney, chairman of First Night Quincy.

"Jim has done an outstanding job in bringing together 25 of the finest restaurants on South Shore," said Cheney. "Jim and Fr. Bill (McCarthy, for whom the shelter is named) have worked hard to secure some exciting auction items. I know everyone is going to love this event and I am honored to play a small role in this exciting event for a great cause."

All proceeds will benefit Father Bill's Place. Tickets are $50 which includes admission, foods and wine samples.

Father Bill's Place has served over 1,100 clients in the last fiscal year. The majority of them come from the Quincy and South Shore area. The QISC and the homeless shelter are only partially funded by public dollars, and the QISC needs to raise over 40 percent of its total annual budget through donations and fundraising.

For more information or tickets, call 376-2255. Credit cards will be accepted.

The shelter also has a web site at www.fatherbillsplace.org.

Freedom Trail Players At Adams Shore Library Aug. 18

The Freedom Trail Players from the Freedom Trail Foundation will present a retelling of the events that led to the founding of the United States Tuesday, Aug. 18 at 7 p.m. at the Adams

Shore Branch Library, 519 Sea St.

Costumed reenactors dressed as Paul Revere, Mother Goose and others will tell the tales that shaped the nation. The program is for families with children 5 and older.

At the same time, storyteller Dottie Moynihan will present her "Pajama Time Storyhour" for children under 5 accompanied by an adult. She will tell both old and new stories.

On Monday, Aug. 17 at 3:30 p.m., a program on reptiles and amphibians entitled "Skin and Scales" will be presented. The program is for all ages.

Programs are sponsored in part by the Quincy Arts Council, the Massachusetts Cultural Council, and the Friends of the Library.

Patrick Cummings Reports For Army Duty

Patrick E. Cummings has joined the United States Army Reserve under the Delayed Training Program at the U.S. Army Recruiting Station in Quincey.

An enlistment in the Reserve gives many new soldiers the option to learn a new skill, serve their country, and become eligible to receive more than $7,000 toward a college education and $20,000 for repayment of college loans.

After completion of basic training, most soldiers receive advanced individual training in their career specialty.

Cummings will report to Ft. Leonard Wood, Waynesville, Mo., for basic training on Aug. 18.

He is the son of Nancy Cummings of 320 Billings Rd., North Quincey, and Richard Cummings of 3 Arbor Way, Rowley.

Feeney Appointed Principal At NQHS

"When I found out, my first reaction was excitement," said Feeney. "I wasn't sure what would happen, but I was just glad to do a good interview. The committee deliberated and called me back to tell me I got the position."

"To be the first woman principal in Quincy at the high school level, that's a milestone," said Feeney. "I didn't even think of that until later on, but I'm pleased to be the one."

That committee consisted of Crendon, Asst. School Supt. Richard DeCristofaro, Quincy Public Schools Coordinator of Personnel Thomas Walsh and Director of Business Affairs George Umscheid, North Quincy High School Social Studies Department Chairman Michael Hurley, Pegg Buck of the Quincy Education Association, citywide representative Barbara Isola and North Quincy High Parent-Teacher Organization Co-President Susan Bell.

Feeney was the only candidate for the position, which was advertised only within the school system, Crendon said. The screening committee unanimously recommended she receive the promotion, he said.

Feeney began her career in education at North Quincy High in 1957 as a mathematics teacher, a position she held for two years. She then left teaching from 1959 to 1975 in order to raise her four children.

In the 1970s, she served on the Citizens for North Quincy High School Committee whose work culminated in a new addition and renovations to the original school building by the end of that decade.

"She played a key role in that as parent," said Crendon.

Feeney returned to North Quincy High as dean of students in 1976 and was appointed assistant principal in 1979.

Feeney attended the Quincy Public Schools and graduated from North Quincy High. She later received a bachelor's degree in mathematics from Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y. and a master's degree in education from the former Boston State College.

She lives on Surfside Lane in Squantum with her husband Joseph.

William McKeon A.F. Technical Sergeant

William P. McKeon has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of technical sergeant.

McKeon is an airbase ground combat skills instructor assigned to the 343rd Training Squadron at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

He is the son of Clarus E. McKeon of 500 Willard St., Quincy.

He graduated in 1982

from Don Bosco Technical High School, Boston, and received an associate degree in 1984 from New Hampshire Vocational Technical Institute, Laconia.

Aug. 15 Deadline For Taiwan Trip Registration

The Chinese Cultural Development and Promotion Council is holding registration for a 12-day tour to Taiwan as part of the celebration of Double Tenth, the National Day of the Republic of China.

The tour, which begins Oct. 5 and ends Oct. 16, costs $1,328 per person, which covers flights on China Airlines, accommodations, three meals a day and sightseeing. Reservations must be made by Saturday, Aug. 15.

Tour leader Peter Jae has 20 years of tour-guiding experience in Taiwan, leading groups to China, Japan, Malaysia and Thailand before he came to the United States. He also has led pilgrimage groups to Rome, the Holy Land, Fatima and Lourdes during the last 10 years.

The Chinese Lunar Calendar includes a number of traditional festivals, most of which are observed in Taiwan. The first major festival of the year is Chinese New Year and the last is Double Tenth National Day, which commemorates the anniversary of the Oct. 10, 1911 revolution that led to the overthrow of the Qing Dynasty and the founding of the Republic of China.

For more information, call Jae at 770-3166 or Asia Travel at 482-0605.

Morrisette Pursues World Series Dreams

Northeast Regional Starts Today At Adams Field

By LIAM FITZGERALD
No good seats available at Fenway Park following the Red Sox' successful road trip?

Don't worry--there's plenty of baseball to be played this week at Quincy's Adams Field, site of the 1998 American Legion Northeast Regional Tournament.

Starting today (Thursday) and continuing through Monday's regional championship game, eight teams from every New England state and Pennsylvania will compete for the ultimate goal--a trip to Las Vegas for the Legion World Series.

Henry Bradley, tournament chairman, and the Cyril P. Morrisette Post 294, the host team, are thrilled to again welcome the visiting teams to the city. Bradley also served as chairman when Morrisette hosted the tournament in 1992.

"It's rather nice to have the entire tournament here, with the champions from all the neighboring states getting together, meeting each other and having a good time," he said.

"We're also glad to be the host because it gives us a chance to showcase one of the most outstanding fields around. I've seen a lot of fields, and I couldn't judge any of them as better than Adams. The work the Park Department does to keep the field looking so impeccable is incredible."

As the host team, Morrisette receives an automatic berth and will play in a division with state champions from Pennsylvania (Post 245, State College), Vermont (Post 13, Bennington) and Maine (Andrews Post 17, Portland). The other division is compiled of state champions from Massachusetts (Capt. Lester S. Wass Post 3, Gloucester), Rhode Island (Collette Tours Post 25, Pawtucket), New Hampshire (James E. Coffey Post 3, Nashua) and Connecticut (Post 141, Trumbull).

The schedule for the first three days will be the following: two double-headers each day, at 10 a.m. and approximately 1 p.m., then at 5 p.m. and approximately 8 p.m. All games are slated for nine innings.

Today's opener features Vermont against Maine, followed by Connecticut taking on New Hampshire. The evening double-header begins with Gloucester hooking up with Rhode Island, then Morrisette takes on Pennsylvania.

"We know nothing about these teams, so the only chance to scout them will be to watch them play," said Morrisette manager Ray Cattaneo. "We're all in the same boat. All we can do is play our best and try to come out on top."

"We played three Yawkey League teams last week, and it was good to get some games in and see where we stand. The coaches were pleased with the effort, and the kids were glad to go from practice to actual game situations. Hopefully, everyone will be healthy and ready to go Thursday night."

Perennially strong teams, according to Cattaneo, hail from Connecticut and Pennsylvania, and occasionally the Maine representative is a solid competitor. From firsthand accounts, Cattaneo also cited Gloucester as a regional title contender.

Friday's early game pits Connecticut against Rhode Island, followed by Pennsylvania against Maine. Later on, Morrisette takes on Vermont, before Gloucester plays New Hampshire to close out the day's action.

Saturday's early game, Pennsylvania against Vermont, will be followed by New Hampshire against Rhode Island. Gloucester battles Connecticut in the first of the evening's two games, then Morrisette closes the day with a tilt against Maine.

Following Saturday's games, four teams will be eliminated and four teams will move on to the semifinal round. The first-place team in each division will play the second-place team in the other division Sunday. Games are slated for 1 and 7 p.m.

The winners of the semifinals will clash for the regional championship Monday at 7 p.m., with the winner heading west next week to compete in the Legion World Series.

Former Legion Star Speaker At Banquet

Baseball Executive James 'Lou' Gorman Kicks Off Regional

James "Lou" Gorman, longtime major league baseball executive and former American Legion baseball star, kicked off the Legion's Northeast Regional Tournament as the opening banquet's keynote speaker last night (Wednesday) at the Bryan VFW Post, 24 Broad St.

Tickets, at $25 apiece, were available the day of the event by calling tournament director Henry Bradley at 376-1193 or Jake Comer at 471-3534. Bradley said he expected close to 300 people to attend, which was scheduled to begin with a 6 p.m. social hour, followed at 7 p.m. by dinner.

A member of the American Legion, Gorman played Legion baseball as a member of the Rhode Island state champions and competed in the Regional Tournament in Glens Falls, N.Y., where he was selected as the Most Valuable Player.

Gorman, currently an executive consultant for the Boston Red Sox, served 10 years as the Red Sox general manager. He also served as vice president, director of baseball operations and director of player procurement and development for the Kansas City Royals, director of player development for the Baltimore Orioles and vice president and director of baseball operations for the New York Mets.

During his career, he contributed to the development of three World Series champions, five league championship teams and eight division championship teams.

On three occasions, or-

ganizations Gorman has been responsible for have won major league baseball's Organization of the Year Award.

He also played a role in the development of numerous major league players, including Hall of Famer Jim Palmer, former stars George Brett, Boog Powell and Dan Quisenberry, and current standouts Mo Vaughn, Jeff Bagwell, Roger Clemens and Curt Schilling.

A number of young executives in major league baseball were trained by Gorman, including general managers John Schuerholz (Atlanta Braves), Spencer "Herk" Robinson (Kansas City Royals) and Joe Mclivaine (New York Mets).

In addition, Gorman developed many former and current major league managers, including Earl Weaver, Darryl Johnson, Joe Altobelli, Rene Lacheman, Don Baylor and Bobby Valentine. Currently, Baylor is the Colorado Rockies manager, and Valentine is the manager of the New York Mets.

Gorman was likely the history to be principally involved in the play personnel area responsible for the creation of two major league expansion teams, the Kansas City Royals and the Seattle Mariners.

He has served on the Board of Directors of the Major League Scouting Bureau since its inception. He has also served on the Board of Directors of the High School Amateur Baseball Committee.

He is highly regarded by his peers in major league baseball as an excellent judge of talent and as one of the more productive player personnel executives in the game.

Gorman has been elected to the New England Heritage Hall of Fame, Boys' and Girls' Clubs of America Hall of Fame, and the Rhode Island Gridiron Hall of Fame.

He has received the New England Shriners Humanitarian Award for community service and the Ted Storer Award from the Boys Scouts of New England for exemplary contributions to youth and the Greater Boston community.

A graduate of Stonehill College, he is on the school's Board of Trustees and is a member of the school's Athletic Hall of Fame. The Stonehill College baseball field was dedicated in his name last September. He also holds a master's degree in education from Bridgewater State College.

A retired Navy captain, he served eight years on active duty and a combined total of 34 years in the active Naval Reserve. He and his wife of 32 years, Mary Louise, live in Weston.

Quincy Stars 11-Year-Old Team Dunn Memorial Classic Winners

The Quincy Stars travel team, sparked by strong pitching and timely hitting, swept six straight games to win the 11-year-old division of the recent George Dunn Memorial Summer Classic baseball tournament.

In the championship round at McCoy Field in Quincy, Dave Jaehnig and Dean Sandonato tossed back-to-back shutouts to clinch the title. In the championship game, Quincy blanked Abington, 2-0, playing solid defense to support Jaehnig's two-hit, six-strikeout performance. Justin Thorley and Bret Martinson each knocked in a run to ensure the triumph.

Quincy's Sandonato struck out nine and yielded only three hits as Quincy rolled to a 9-0 win over Milton in the semifinals. Kevin Richardson, Nick Devico and Steve Strick all collected timely hits.

To reach the championship round, Quincy called upon John Folino, ace of the Junior League champion South Shore Buick, to secure a 9-1 victory over a tough Brockton club. Folino fanned eight and gave up just two hits in five innings. Buick teammate Mike Arrafat came on to close out the game, striking out two of three batters he faced. Folino and Thorley both contributed two hits.

In an 11-1 victory over Braintree, Nick Malvesti went the distance for the win. Arrafat went 3 for 4 and Paul Lennon and Justin Thorley each picked up two hits for Quincy.

A 20-2 triumph over Milton was highlighted by the strong pitching of Lennon, who utilized a sharp-breaking curve to keep Milton's hitters off balance. Quincy's bats came alive, banging out 20 hits in four innings, led by Chris Marinelli, Thorley, Richardson (home run) and Straz.

A grand slam by Sandonato powered Quincy to a 5-0 lead en route to a 7-5 win over Abington in the opening game. Martinson and Richardson both pitched well for the winners, while Jaehnig, Marinelli and Thorley provided the offensive spark.

Coaches of the Stars are Fran Sandonato, Bill Richardson, Bob Malvesti and Mark Jaehnig.

THREE MEMBERS OF the 27th Mile Club were recently honored by the Jimmy Fund for their participation in the 1997 Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk. Club members raised $1.4 million of the overall total of $2 million raised. From left, Dianne McGunagle of Quincy, Suzanne Mullane of Halifax and Ann Diodati of Quincy.

Two Quincy Residents Participate In Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk

All participants in the Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk are "heroes" in the minds of those receiving cancer care at the Jimmy Fund Clinic and Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

But members of the 27th Mile Club, those who raise $500 or more in donations, are especially thanked by Walk organizers and treatment recipients.

Dianne McGunagle and Ann Diodati, both of Quincy, and Suzanne Mullane of Halifax were recently honored by the Jimmy Fund for being three of the 1,038 27th Mile Club members who raised funds to benefit the Jimmy Fund in the 1997 Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk.

Last year, although only 18 percent of the 5,500 who participated were members of the club, they brought in more than $1.4 million of the $2 million that was raised. Because the Boston Marathon route can not accommodate more than 7,000 walkers, each needs to go that "extra mile" and raise the most possible.

All walkers raising more than $500 automatically become members of the 27th Mile Club, have their names announced at the finish line of the Walk and receive a special club T-shirt. They can also receive Bronze, Silver or Gold recognition for bringing in pledges from $1,000 to more than $2,500 in donations.

The main purpose of the Walk is to raise much needed funding for cancer care and research, but according to Mike Andrews, chairman and executive director of the Jimmy Fund, "participants walk away with so much more—the feeling that they have made a difference in the fight against cancer."

The 10th annual Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk is scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 27 beginning at 7 a.m. in Hopkinton. Participants who are walking the half-marathon (13.1 miles) will start at 11 a.m. in Wellesley, and Family-Walk participants will start the three-mile walk at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in Boston at 2 p.m.

For more information or to receive a Walk packet, call 1-800-632-3562.

QHS Hockey Coach Bob Sylvia's Power Skating Clinic Aug. 24-28

Quincy High School hockey coach Bob Sylvia's 23rd annual Power Skating Clinic will be held Aug. 24-28 at the Rockland rink.

Sylvia, former South Shore Braves coach and a captain and All-American player at Boston University, guided the QHS hockey team to its best-ever finish last season, the Div. 1 South Sectional finals.

The clinic, which is open to all players ages 7-15, costs $50. There are special rates for goaltenders. A $15 non-refundable deposit to be submitted with each application is also required.

Applications, which will be accepted on a first come, first serve basis, are available at the snack bar or Pro Shop at the rink. No applications will be accepted over the telephone.

Each session is limited to 35 skaters and four goaltenders.

The time slot for the 7-11 age group (Mites and Squirts) will be 2 to 3:20 p.m. each day. The 12-15 age group (Pee Wees and Bantams) will skate from 3:30 to 4:50 p.m. each day.

The clinic will be geared towards improving speed and preparing players for tryouts and the upcoming 1998-99 youth hockey season.

For an application or for more information, call Fred Isleb at (781) 871-0547.

Michelle Drury Mass. Chaperone At Hershey Track And Field Finals

Michelle Drury, a recreation supervisor in the Quincy Recreation Department, has been selected as a Massachusetts chaperone for the North American Championship of the Hershey Track and Field Program in Hershey, Pa., to be held this weekend.

Drury, a Quincy resident will board a plane with the New England team today (Thursday) for the four-day event.

MICHELLE DRURY
Hershey meet for the past seven years and an assistant and head track coach at Fontbonne Academy, Drury is "uniquely qualified and deserving of the selection," said Barry Welch, Quincy Recreation Department director.

Welch extended his appreciation to state chairman Doug MacDougall, director of the Weston Recreation Department for selecting Drury to serve as a representative of the Quincy staff.

Two Quincy residents, Makini Thompson and Brenna O'Brien will compete in the girls' 11-12-year-old 4 x100 relay at the championships. All participants and chaperone traveling expenses and lodging are paid by the sponsor, Hershey Chocolate U.S.A.

Marie Curry Walk For Cancer Sept. 20

The Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Quincy Hospital Health & Education Foundation announce the first Walk for The Marie Curry Fund on Sunday, Sept. 20 in Quincy.

The five-mile walk begins at 9:30 a.m. Registration opens at 8 a.m.

Major sponsors are Citizens Bank and Quarry Hill Associates.

Individuals, families and friends will participate in this one-day, non-competitive event to raise money for The Marie A. Curry Fund which has provided more than 150 free mammograms at Quincy Hospital for individuals without insurance.

Future goals include raising awareness about early cancer detection and assisting individuals in receiving needed services.

Annual Recreation Dept. Pool Show Friday At Lincoln-Hancock School

The Quincy Recreation Department will present its 23rd annual pool show at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School Pool Friday at 1 p.m.

Barry Welch, recreation director, announces that this year's show will be a dance party and will feature participants from the summer instructional program supervised by the Recreation Department.

The show marks the end of the summer instructional program.

More than 750 people, from beginner to advanced, are enrolled in the program this summer. The synchronized swim team will also perform.

The show, which is free and open to the public, is under the direction of Water Safety Staff members Marianne Blaikie, Tom Gildea, Janelle Hersey, Elizabeth Holland, Elisabeth Hunt, Matt Lebo, Christine Lewis, Jennifer Lewis, Jim Melchin, Janine Miller, Christopher Myers, Bill Norris, Katie Sullivan and Jen Tantillo.

For more information, call 376-1394.

Seadogs' Drew Loud Plays In Second World Series

Drew Loud of Quincy is only 10 years old, but he has already played in two World Series.

As a member of the South Shore Baseball Club Seadogs 11-and-under team, Loud recently competed in the National AAU World Series in Orlando, Fla.

He helped the Seadogs reach the finals by defeating Worcester in the Massachusetts AAU state finals.

The Seadogs advanced to the national semifinals with victories over Florida, Utah and Indiana.

California, the runner-up a year ago, won the championship this year.

Loud represented last year's state champion Seadogs at the National AAU World Series in Kansas City, Mo.

at the police station than at the bottom of a quarry."

There has been a number of deaths at the quarries down through the years.

D'Amico said the task force will be comprised of local authorities and parents of teenagers.

"Our goal is not only to crack down on trespassing at the quarries, but to get the community involved in deterring kids from ever thinking about it," D'Amico said.

"While draining the quarries may solve the problem in the long run," he said, "we can act now in a cost effective way that sends a message and saves lives."

D'Amico said the task force has the backing of Mayor James Sheets, Norfolk County Dist. Atty. Jeffrey Locke and Quarry Hills Associates that is building a golf course and recreation area on a former landfill quarry nearby.

The MDC, meanwhile, is moving ahead with its plans to drain the Granite Railway Quarry.

The plan is to lower the depth of the water by approximately 115 feet to 120 feet to help fund the body of a woman seen there last fall by divers as they searched for and found the body of P.J. McDonough, an Irish student visiting here. They were unable to recover her body.

State police now have an around-the-clock guard stationed at the quarry.

Crime Watch

Crime Prevention Officer
Quincy Police Department

How To Protect Your Neighborhood Be A Good Neighbor

Want to know the best crime prevention device ever invented? A good neighbor.

The police can't be everywhere at once, but you and your neighbors can. You're the ones who really know what's going on in the neighborhood.

Put that neighborhood know-how to work. It's simple; just use your eyes and your ears - and then your telephone. If you spot something suspicious, call your police immediately. Don't try to stop the criminal yourself - it can be dangerous.

In cities and towns across the country, people are joining with their neighbors to fight crime. Take the initiative. Don't wait until a crime happens. Start your "good neighbor" program now.

Check with your local police, they can tell you:

- About specific crime problems in your area
- The best prevention techniques
- What to report
- How to organize a responsible anti-crime project if none exists

• How your club or neighborhood group can make prevention part of its activities.

Report Crime. Sounds easy, doesn't it? But only about half of all crimes are ever reported. Too bad, because police can't do anything if they don't know what happened. They say information from people like you is the key to solving many crimes.

Even an anonymous tip is better than no report at all. So, Don't Hesitate! Follow this rule: If you see something suspicious, call police - fast... so that police can act - fast. The longer you wait, the harder it is to catch the criminal.

Program On Sheriff's Office Wins National Cable Award

A 30-minute program about the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office that has been shown on cable television across the county won national recognition recently when the 19th annual Telly Awards were announced.

The program, called "Welcome to Your Norfolk County Sheriff's Office," earned a bronze Telly for Cramer Productions, the Norwood company that produced the show. The Telly, considered the Emmy-equivalent for the cable industry, came in the category of Cable Program Information.

"This outstanding program has proven to be a tremendous success in informing the citizens of Norfolk County about their sheriff's office. The office has an annual budget of $25 million and performs vital public services that people deserve to know about," said Norfolk County Sheriff Jack Flood. "Winning a Telly award confirms what we already knew: this video is engaging and informative."

The video takes a behind-the-scenes look at the operation of the House of Correction in Dedham, the Dedham Alternative Center and the Braintree Alternative Center. It discusses the different functions of the Sheriff's Office, including rehabilitation, community service programs, inmate transportation, K-9 services and mutual aid for local police departments, and drug and alcohol abuse prevention programs for school children.

The Telly Awards are judged by more than 20 production professionals from across the country, according to contest organizers. The judges, all previous Telly recipients, are producers from agencies, TV stations, production houses, and corporate video departments.

Copies of the "Welcome to Your Norfolk County Sheriff's Office" are available to cable television channels, schools and community groups. Contact the Public Information Office at the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office at (781) 329-3705, ext. 206.

*A Thought
For The Week*

DOORS... Ever think about how many doors you have passed through in your life? Silly question? Not really...

We all have seen the sign over certain doors in public buildings, "Exit" or "This Way Out." This designation over doors has a figurative as well as literal meaning. All of our lives, and particularly when we are young, we will be going through many doors. It can mean opportunity, service, and happiness when doors lead into something beneficial. In this sense education and religion are doors which open to us new vistas of meaningful living...

But there are other doors which lead only to frustration and unhappiness. One of these doors opens the way to quick wealth by dishonest means; another to satisfying revenge; another to avarice and greed. It seems that the doors opening the way to experiences of this type are unfortunately much more numerous than those opening upon a happy life.

When we approach a door which we think will lead us to a new dimension of life, we should look up before we pass through... Above many will be the sign, "This Way Out."

Our Facade Remains Circa 1800s.

Inside, We're All Set for 2000.

When the Blackmur residence was purchased by Dennis S. Sweeney in 1929, Quincy had a new place to pay its respects. At the time, residents liked the intimate parlors and separate visiting areas.

They still do. But today, some families prefer a larger, more modern visiting area. Other issues, like handicapped and elderly access, have become important, too.

That's why we recently added 1,645 square feet to our Elm Street location. From the front of the building, you won't notice the change. But, inside it means a much larger room and a more accessible entrance.

All, without disturbing our historic roots.

Your Horoscope
by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Business partners are amenable to discussions about financial ventures which could be quite profitable for both of you. However, on the personal side, it's best to keep your wallet and checkbook firmly closed this week.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) While you are usually quite scrupulous regarding research into any new ventures, you just might let something slip this week. Make sure you study all contracts carefully before signing.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A visitor from far away could take advantage of you if you allow this person to overstay his welcome. Before accepting this person into your home, make sure there is a definite departure date as family life could become quite disrupted.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Your natural curiosity is not sitting well with a recent acquaintance who interprets your interest as an invasion of privacy. Be aware of this and use tact. Be careful about finances this week as the stars are not favorable regarding purchases and investments.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Work pressures are getting to you, so you need to take some time off and recharge your batteries. See if you can take a weekend trip to "get away from it all." If possible, try to do this alone as you need time to reflect and get in touch with yourself.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) While you believed a certain situation needed understanding and patience, you've gone too far overboard and have compromised yourself. Put your foot down in no uncertain terms.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Behind-the-scenes activity at work can pose a possible threat to you. Be sure to be on your toes and on your guard against jealous co-workers. You are justified in your suspicions.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You are tempted to get involved in a friend's personal business, but avoid that trap. While you have that person's best interests at heart, meddling can backfire. Plan a surprise outing for the weekend for a special loved one.

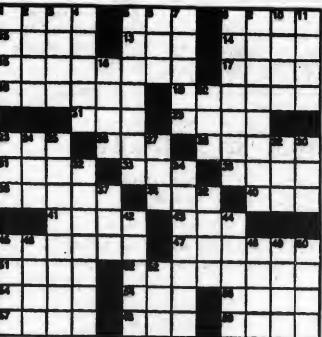

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Avoid social get-togethers at this time with co-workers and bigwigs. This no time to mix business with pleasure. Financial entanglements are somewhat depressing, but relief is in sight soon.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Those of you who are single will find yourself making some long-delayed romantic decisions this week. Don't worry, though. That which you dread will turn out to be very pleasing.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Instead of being so keyed up about what's going on at work, you should spend more time taking care of yourself. Be sure to get plenty of much-needed rest this weekend.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A bigwig has a special project for you at work, but be careful. You will have to map out the details yourself, as these won't be made clear to you. It would be wise to seek out the advice of an expert regarding your finances.

Citizens Earns $50.1 Million In The Third Quarter

Citizens Financial Group, Inc. ("Citizens") reports net income of $50.1 million for the quarter ended June 30, 1998, an 11 percent increase over the net income of $45.1 million reported for the comparable quarter of 1997.

Net income for the nine-month period ended June 30, 1998 was $150.5 million a 31 percent increase over operating earnings of $114.5 million reported for the comparable period of 1997. Net income for the nine-month period ended June 30, 1997 included an after tax gain of $27.8 million from the sale of mortgage servicing.

"We are pleased to report another quarter of strong growth at Citizens. Significant increases in deposits and loans throughout our franchises, and fee income from trust, mutual fund and annuities sales, and mortgage banking have contributed to our momentum. Citizens unique position as a super community bank which offers both exceptional service and competitive prices to our customers continues to play in an important role in New England," said Citizens Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer Lawrence K. Fish.

Atlantic Data Services Donates $18,000 To Children's Hospital

Atlantic Data Services Inc. (ADS), a solution-oriented financial services consulting firm in Quincy, recently donated $18,000 to the Franciscan Children's Hospital and Rehabilitation Center.

The donation was raised through the 13th annual ADS Charity Golf Tournament at the Country Club of Halifax. The 120 tournament participants partook in the ADS raffle, which included two US Air round-trip plane tickets and a $500 cash prize. All proceeds went to the hospital.

"Helping local charitable organizations is an integral part of who we are at ADS," said ADS Chief Executive Officer Robert Howe. "We have been hosting our annual golf tournament for 13 years now and we are pleased to present this year's donation to such a worthy cause."

Since 1949, Franciscan Children's Hospital and Rehabilitation Center has pioneered clinical, therapeutic and educational programs for children with a variety of handicapping conditions. Through the decades, the hospital has expanded its complement of programs and services for children with disabilities as well as children from the local community.

ADS is solution-oriented consulting services firm, which exclusively partners with financial services institutions to manage change. ADS offers business, project and technology expertise to its industry partners to provide substantive value-added solutions that meet their business needs.

A PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN

Oh most beautiful flower of Mount Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of heaven, blessed Mother of the Son of God. Immaculate Virgin assist me in this, my necessity. Oh star of the sea, help me and show me herein you are my mother. Oh holy Mary Mother of God, queen of Heaven and earth. I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart. Succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your call. Oh show me herein you are my mother, Oh Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee. (3 times). Holy Mary I place this cause in your hands. (3 times). Sweet Mother I pray for this cause in your hands (3 times). Holy Spirit, resolve my problems, light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life, you are with me. I want this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you even in spite of material things. I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. (The person must say this prayer on three consecutive days. After three days the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the prayer is granted.)

Bill Awaits Cellucci's Signature

State Leases Quincy Land To Build Little Fenway

The plan for a Little Fenway Park in West Quincy took another step forward this week as legislation was enacted to lease land to the organization directed by Boston Red Sox player Tim Lincecum.

Nachring, who organized Athletes Reaching Out Foundation, a non-profit organization designed to benefit children, hopes to lease the land to construct a park in Quincy similar to the one he had built in his hometown of Cincinnati, Ohio. The public park would be an 80 percent scaled down version of Fenway Park.

"This agreement could be another great private/public partnership that will put MDC park resources to use as a recreational facility for the children of Quincy and the Boston area," said state Sen. Michael Morrissey, who along with state Reps. Stephen Tobin and Michael Bellotti helped move the bill through the state Legislature.

Under the terms of the legislation, the state may lease land currently under the control and operation of the Metropolitan District Commission.

"It is extremely encouraging and beneficial to the youth of Quincy and other neighboring towns to see a celebrity athlete like Nachring working with local officials to create this opportunity for them and other young children," said Tobin.

"The enactment of this legislation will allow the youth in Quincy the opportunity to enjoy the benefits of Fenway Park right in their own backyard," said Bellotti.

The bill was enacted in both branches of the Legislature on July 31 and sent to Acting Gov. Paul Cellucci for his signature. The Quincy delegation was instrumental in moving this bill before the close of the legislative session at midnight on July 31.

The bill is currently on the Governor's desk awaiting approval. The governor has 10 days to sign the bill into law, make amendments or veto the bill.

Tobin said, "The Governor has been supportive of this bill from the beginning, so his signature should be forthcoming in the very near future."

Law Designates Don Kent Park

Legislation has been signed into law designating a Metropolitan District Commission park as "Don Kent's Ocean View," announce state Sen. Michael Morrissey and Rep. Michael Bellotti.

The property, located at 729-733 Quincy Shore Dr., formerly Kent's Carpetland, was purchased by the MDC in 1996. After renovations, the passive park opened on June 26, 1996.

The site is where Don Kent broadcast his meteorological reports for radio. He also developed his weather instruments in the family-owned carpet store then known as "Kent's Carpetland."

"The MDC had initially responded by administratively naming the park and the legislature has confirmed and named and placed into the laws of the Commonwealth," Morrissey said.

"We worked to have the Commonwealth purchase land and designate it in honor of meteorologist Don Kent," said Bellotti.

Kolson Targets Abandoned, 'Unkept' Structures 'Eyesore' Properties Ordinance Is Proposed

By MICHAEL WHALEN
City Council President Peter Kolson is planning to propose an ordinance that would help the city's building department in dealing with abandoned or "unkept" properties.

The ordinance, if passed by the City Council, would require residents and business owners to maintain their properties at a level sufficient to meet certain safety and cleanliness requirements. The purpose behind it is to both increase property values and make the overall look of the city more aesthetically pleasing.

Kolson plans to introduce the ordinance at the council's Sept. 9 meeting. He said he wants to hold a public hearing on his proposal later in the fall and, if possible, have the law passed by next year.

He added that the law will be based on a national building code standard he learned about from Quincy Director of Inspectional Services Walter White.

"It would cover a myriad of areas," said Kolson. "It deals with the whole outside envelope of a building and its property, and how you have to keep it up to a certain standard."

The proposed ordinance is currently being reviewed by the city solicitor's office "for legal criteria to see if any changes must be made," he said. Details of the ordinance, such as enforcement and other issues, will be determined at a later date, he said.

Kolson said the standards that would be required under the ordinance are used in other parts of the country, but he believes Quincy would be the first Massachusetts community to fully employ them.

He noted, however, that "some of them are addressed in the state sanitary code."

Kolson said the ordinance would both increase Quincy's property values and beautify the city.

"I think it's a step in the right direction," he said. "It's a city of neighborhoods, and it really doesn't take more than one eyesore to sour a neighborhood."

He also stressed that the ordinance would only apply to properties in extremely poor condition, not to ordinary situations such as a house that could use a fresh coat of paint or a lawn that needs to be cut.

"We're talking about the extreme here," he said. "I

At Marshall School Several Streets Reconsidered For Busing

Officials from the Quincy Public Schools are going to relook at several streets in the Quincy Point area to determine if they should be included in the bus routes for the new Clifford Marshall Elementary School.

The streets include Edison, Graham, River and Thompson streets and "possibly others," according to Richard DeCristofaro, assistant school superintendent. Those streets are "right on the edge" of where the city draws boundaries for the bus routes, he said.

"I think this area's one we're going to have to relook at," he said. "It's going to take a couple of weeks for us to go through the routes. Some streets (such as those listed above) are always going to be on the bubble."

Some parents from that area recently expressed concern after their streets were not listed on a mailing sent by the school system to families in Quincy Point regarding the new bus routes.

DeCristofaro said most of the students in Grades 1-5 who walked last year to the former Point-Webster Elementary School will be bused to Marshall, while most who were bused to Point-Webster will walk to the new school. That plan, he noted, is in keeping with school system's policy of generally providing bus service only for those who live a half-mile or more away from their school.

The great majority of Quincy Point's kindergarten students all will be bused, although a few who live within two-tenths of the new school will be transported by their parents, he said.

'Safe Quarries' Group Meeting Aug. 26

The city's new "Safe Quarries Committee" will hold its first meeting Wednesday, Aug. 26 at 7 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room at City Hall Annex, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

All interested parties, as well as public safety committee heads have been invited to attend this session. The agenda will be open for discussion as well as an evaluation of current conditions and will include an update on police activity.

The committee is a partnership between neighbors and police of Quincy and Milton. The meeting is open to the public.

Quincy 2000 Workshop Focus

Create Window Displays That Attract Customers

The owners of 13 Quincy retail stores recently attended a Quincy 2000 free workshop entitled "Create Window Displays That Attract Customers."

And, it went so well according to Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph Mannarino that other workshops and seminars for the business community are already in the works.

"The enthusiastic feedback that we received from the participants has encouraged us to plan a whole series of workshops for the business community," Mannarino said.

Future ones, he said, will cover business development topics such as: how to write a business plan, publicity and marketing and understanding financial statements.

Some of those attending the display window workshop held at Quincy 2000 offices at Presidents Place were so enthused about the ideas presented they immediately began rearranging their own display windows, Mannarino said.

Among those who did, Mannarino said were Marisa Deangelo and Renee Murray, co-owners of Boston Bride on Cottage Ave.

Although their windows had received praise, they decided to do some redesigning after the workshop.

"Our large windows provide a challenge when displaying custom made bridal headpieces and wedding accessories," noted Murray. "In the past, we've effectively used mannequins to fill the space. We're now going to try adding color and activity to the window display."

According to Marilyn

THE DISPLAY WINDOW at Boston Bride on Cottage Ave. are an eye-catcher. Owners Marissa DeAngelo and Renee Murray were among the 13 Quincy retailers participating in the recent Quincy 2000 workshop on creating customer-attractive display windows.

(Quincy 2000 Photo)

Reisberg of Bernie's Formal Wear, their daughter, Donna Reisberg "redid everyone of the windows after attending the workshop." Although Donna is on vacation this week, her mother said Donna praised the workshop and said she learned "so much in the two hours." Reisberg said her husband who she said seldom praises anyone called the new window display "spectacular" and said it "looked like it belonged on Newbury Street in Boston."

Cindy Ryder of Ryder's Curtains called the workshop "excellent" and hoped they would do more of them. She added, that the interchanging of ideas of those who were there gave each other "feedback."

Caryn Smith of Caryn's Corner said she had "never learned so much in just two hours."

Sally Levine, Director of Interior Design and Visual Studies at the Boston Architectural Center directed the workshop at the invitation of Ann Fisher, Quincy 2000 Economic Development Specialists.

The accent was on how to create easy, effective and inexpensive window display that make customers want to shop at their stores.

The participants first learned to identify the distinct features of their storefront window display areas, such as window height or exposure to direct sunlight. Levine then explained how a customer's view of the window depends on whether the customer is walking or driving by the store which is something the owner needs to consider.

Levine also encouraged the participants to consider the products, image, and attitude they wish to project through their window display. She explained how different compositions and arrangements-taking into consideration characteristics like scale, texture, color and lighting-affect the overall impression a customer gets from a window display.

Most participants came to the workshop with items from their stores that they wanted help in displaying. During the second half of the workshop, the store owners got advice from both Levine and other participants on how to showcase these items.

"I was very pleased that the participants of the workshop shared their ideas and developed an excitement about their storefronts," said Levine.

Levine encouraged retailers to seek the input of others when designing new displays since, in the end, the display is designed to attract the attention of customers.

Levine concluded the workshop saying, "There are many 'right ways' to set up window displays...but there are a few wrong ways. The techniques you have learned today will enable you to develop effective windows that will draw customers and sell your products."

Raymondi: 'A Whole New Landscape' Point Improvement Project About To Start

By MICHAEL WHALEN
The first phase of the multi-million dollar Quincy Point Improvement Project is about to begin.

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi said the work will include the narrowing of Chubbuck Street and Cleverly Court as well as new sidewalks, water mains, trees and street resurfacing throughout a good part of the area.

"From this day forward, you're going to see a whole new landscape in Quincy Point," he said.

The project is being funded by Community Development Action Grant (CDAG) and Public Works Economic Development (PWED) money made available by Acting Gov. Paul Cellucci in April. Cellucci presented $3.7 million in state grants to city officials for various public works infrastructure and traffic signalization improvements in Quincy Point.

Raymondi said he could not offer a cost estimate for the improvements but added that he is hopeful the city can obtain more state money for future work in the area.

Most notable among the improvements in the Quincy Point project's first phase will be the narrowing of Chubbuck Street and Cleverly Court. A 2.5-foot grass border with trees will be added on both sides of both streets, Raymondi said, to beautify the area and to encourage motorists to slow down.

Streets that will receive resurfacing, sidewalk repairs, grass borders and trees, in addition to Chubbuck Street and Cleverly Court, include Watson Terrace, Watson Road, and Broadway.

Receiving new water mains will be South Street from Cleverly Court to Washington Street, East Howard Street, and a portion of West Howard Street.

Some of the work will be done by the end of the year, and all of it will be completed by the end of next spring, Raymondi said. He noted that Derbes Bros. of Quincy has been contracted to handle the street and sidewalk work, while two other companies will take care of the water main replacements and tree plantings.

The second phase of the project, which will include new lighting, water mains and other improvements on streets such as Germain Avenue, Faxon Park Road, Quincy Avenue and others will begin sometime next year, he added.

The Quincy Point Improvement Project is one of several efforts designed to upgrade the area. The reconstruction of Moody Street, which leads to the front of the soon-to-be-opened Clifford Marshall Elementary School, began Monday, and a Washington Street CARD (Commercial Area Revitalization District) project is slated to begin at the Fore River Rotary in the spring, Raymondi said.

HONORARY CITIZEN—Mrs. Nellie Petzoldt Hillier, 100 years young, of Nova Scotia, formerly of Quincy, was made an Honorary Quincy Citizen by Mayor James Sheets and got to try out the mayor's chair during a recent visit. With her and Mayor Sheets are her daughter, Betty DeCristofaro and son-in-law, former Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro.

Two Neighborhood Meetings Planned

NQ Phase II To Get Underway

Phase II of the North Quincy Business District renovation project will begin in the next few weeks, announces Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers.

The area involved will be the span from Sacred Heart Church running along Hancock Street, stopping before the intersection of Hancock and East Squantum streets.

The initial construction will involve water main replacement, relocating utility wires underground, brick sidewalks, and installing colonial lights, Ayers said. Upon completion, the next step will be finishing sidewalks and paving, and tree planting will be done in the spring of 1999, he added.

Ayers will hold neighborhood meetings on the project Friday, Sept. 4 at 8 a.m. at Daniel J. Flynn & Co., 37 Billings Rd. and Wednesday, Sept. 9 at 7 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center.

LIGHTING "LIGHTS"?

Many smokers are unaware that cigarettes are made with filter vents. When the vents are covered by the smoker's fingers, which happens with the typical grip on a cigarette, the smoker is subjected to much higher levels of tar and nicotine than the FTC-rated levels suggest. It is estimated that two-thirds of smokers in this country are unaware of the existence of the vents or the increase in toxicity levels when these practically impossible to see vents are blocked. Smokers of "Light" and even "Ultra-light" brands may be unhappy surprised to learn their intake levels of tar, nicotine, and carbon monoxide are as high as those delivered by regular brands. No matter how you look at it, smoking is not a great idea when it comes to maintaining your optimum health. If you are wondering how you might quit, see your physician for advice. We're here to help. 'Church Of The Mayors'

United First Parish Church is well known to residents and tourists alike as the "Church of the Presidents."

That designation, of course, comes from the fact that Presidents John and John Quincy Adams and their wives—Abigail and Louisa Catherine—are entombed in a crypt in the church basement.

The Adams family also worshipped there. And the John Quincy Adams pew is a visitor's attraction today.

But, you might say, First Parish could also be called the "Church of the Mayors."

Since Quincy became a city 110 years ago, 28 men have served as mayor. And, of these, at least nine are known to have been members of First Parish church.

That would make more mayors out of First Parish than any other church in the city. And they were, you might say, distinguished.

One of the nine was Quincy's first mayor, Charles H. Porter, a Civil War veteran, who took office in 1889 the year Quincy officially shifted gears from a town to city form of government.

Charles Francis Adams, a direct descendant of the two Presidents, served from 1896-97 and then went on to become Secretary of the Navy under President Herbert Hoover.

Russell Sears who served a one-year term in 1898 was elected at age 27—the youngest mayor in the city's history.

John O. Hall (1900-01) and Eugene R. Stone (1912-13) followed in this period when Quincy was governed under what was known as the "Homemade Charter."

During that period, 14 men served as mayor, averaging out as a new mayor every two years.

Joseph Whiton, another member of United First Parish Church, took office in 1917, the first under the Plan A form of government in existence today. He served until 1920.

William A. Bradford (1921-22), Perley E. Barbour (1925-26), and Thomas S. Burgin (1935-1942) were also members of First Parish Church. Burgin was the last mayor from that church.

And Burgin, who later became a state senator, also served as Quincy's first Plan E mayor in 1950 when Quincy tried out the city manager form of government. Under that government, the mayor was actually a city councillor elected mayor by his council colleagues.

The mayor presided over the city council as the council president does today and was the city's ceremonial head while the city manager was the chief executive.

Plan E proved to be a stormy marriage for the city which divorced it after five years to return to its real love, Plan A.

In addition to Burgin, there were two other Plan E mayors: David S. McIntosh (1952-53) and Amelio Della Chiesa (1954-57).

There were three city managers: William J. Deegan (1950-55), Donald Blatt (1955-56) and Edward T. Lewis (1956-58).

Della Chiesa still holds the city's mayoral longevity title if you count both forms of government, serving a total of 12 years: four under Plan E and eight under Plan A.

There were those in Quincy who grew up knowing only him as their mayor. He was in office when they started first grade and was there handing out diplomas with his name on them when they graduated from high school.

The Plan A mayoral camp, however, is Charles Ross who served nine years.

Present incumbent James Sheets is closing in on that. Now in his fifth term, he will tie Ross's nine years at the end of this year. And set the Plan A longevity record at the end of 1999 which will give him 10 years.

He is expected to run for a sixth term which would give him 12 years. And, maybe a seventh which would make it 14 years and give him the undisputed title.

One that may never be challenged.

GOOD FRIEND Vin Moscardelli, owner of ERA Central Real Estate in Quincy and former Central Junior High School principal, underwent quadruple bypass heart surgery at Boston Medical Hospital last week.

The operation was successful and he was expected to be released from the hospital this week.

A speedy recovery, Vin, but take it easy and don't go rushing back to the office. They've got everything under control there.

Cranch School, QUINCY, Mass.

THIS IS A 1909 POSTCARD view of the Cranch School on Maywood Avenue near Quincy Center. It was built from the same architectural plans as the Massachusetts Fields and Gridley Bryant schools. It was one of the few Quincy schools that never had an addition and it remains pretty much like this view today except that it was sold by the city and converted into condominiums in the 1980's.

Chosen Site 'Not Appropriate' For Sheriff's Corrections Center

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I recently wrote to you about how Revere Road is alive and well. However, that was before I learned about the Probation facility going into the former Premier Furniture store at 14 Revere Rd. We are now very angry.

My ward councillor, Steve Durkin, left a message on my answering machine on Tuesday afternoon, July 28 about a meeting on Wednesday, July 29 about the Probation Office going in across from us. He said he got a fax the day before.

On Wednesday morning, I saw people outside the site and went over and spoke to Mr. Patrick Bradley from the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office and asked if my husband and I could attend the meeting and he said we could. At the meeting, Sheriff Flood said to all presents that they had met with the mayor, Councillors Durkin and Dan Raymondi and the Downtown committee and all were in favor!

I was confused about my councillor's position because it first sounded to me like he was not informed about what was going on. After the meeting and after reading the Ledger and the Sun, I spoke to him again and asked him if he was in favor or not. He said he was in favor of the concept and did not see a problem with the location.

Your article says Councillor Pat McDermott of the Downtown committee was in favor. Then why was it such a big secret beforehand and why was Maralin Manning, the president of the Downtown Business Association notified on July 28 for a July 29 meeting?

The Quincy Sun obviously knew enough in advance to write a front page article. Sheriff Flood said at the meeting that the community was in favor! However, every resident and business person in the Revere Road area is not so sure that this will be an asset to the neighborhood.

Councillor Durkin said he plans to have a neighborhood meeting soon. However, it appears this is a "done deal" and was done in secret. If the mayor thinks this will be "a good thing to bring more people downtown" why was it not brought to the attention of the Downtown Business Association. Maralin Manning said at the meeting it was a shame that no councillors were present and she was very concerned that she was not notified in time to meet with her members, and she expressed concern about the Hancock Lot.

Your article states that Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin, whose ward includes the site, could not be reached for comment. Perhaps he will have the opportunity to comment in The Quincy Sun.

The concept of the probation center may help troubled youth age 17 and over sounds very good to me and Mr. Bradley seemed very nice. However, the former furniture store because of its proximity to the court house by way of the Hancock Lot is not an appropriate site in my opinion. I hope the way this all took place is looked at closely by those who are concerned with city, county and state government.

Thanks Those Who Supported The Chris Peter Blood Drive

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The Peter family would like to thank our friends and neighbors for their continued support of the Chris Peter Memorial Blood Drive.

As you know, there is no substitute for blood, and so far the scientists have not been able to replicate it in a laboratory. The donation each individual made, along with so many others, will help assure that there is a safe blood supply for those who need it.

We feel the most wonderful thing about the Blood Drive is the number of people who will come and donate without knowing how or when their donation will be used. To us, you all are unsung heroes!

The final total for the 14th Chris Peter Memorial Blood Drive was 117 pints collected. One hundred sixteen were collected at the hall in Houghs Neck and the other was donated off site. This brings our total to almost 1,500 pints of blood collected. Everyone who donated, this year or in the past, should feel a sense of pride in what they have helped accomplish.

To everyone who assisted in other ways, such as the media, volunteers to make calls, and help in the canteen, we thank you from the bottom of our hearts. Charlie and Trudy Peter

Tom Gambon Will Be Fondly Remembered

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I was saddened by the recent passing of Tom Gambon, well known in Wollaston Center as a gracious and friendly gentleman.

My remembrance of him goes further back to 1967 when I was a new high school graduate, and he was my boss in my first government job at the Veterans Administration Clinic in Boston. He was generous and kind, often buying coffee and donuts for the whole office, and he was a great example in his dedication to serving veterans.

He will be fondly remembered and missed by many.

Petition Drive To Save Norfolk Downs Station

By PAUL HAROLD

Rep. Joseph Brett spearheaded a petition drive seeking to retain the Norfolk Downs railroad station on the Old Colony rapid transit extension.

Brett was opposed to the relocation or elimination of the Norfolk Downs stop because of its importance to the Billings Rd. business and retail district.

Aug. 20 - 26
1965
33 Years Ago

The petition, directed at the MBTA board of directors, urged them to give "the most careful consideration to the location of the station stops, keeping in mind the convenience to the citizenry and the economic well-being of the surrounding area."

PRIVATE OPERATION OF CEMETERY STUDIED

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa suggested a feasibility study for the private operation of the new Chickatawbut Rd. cemetery.

Following a meeting at City Hall, members of the cemetery board of managers were divided on the proposal. Robert Deware, chairman, was in support, with Joseph Pinel "generally in support." Anthony Famigletti, graves registration officer and an ex-officio member of the board, was opposed as was Arthur Drake, cemetery superintendent.

Assistant City Solicitor Stephen Keefe was asked to research the legality of such a contract and whether legislative approval was needed for the city to enter into a 10-year contract with a private operator.

NILSEN OBJECTS TO TALE POND PLAN

City Engineer Henry Nilsen objected to a plan, approved by a sub-committee of the School Committee and Park and Recreation Board, to fill Tale Pond with demolition lumber.

He made reference to a 1950 study by Metcalfe and Eddy that called for the pond filling, with clean sand and a gravel and building materials such as stone, brick and concrete.

The John Duane Company had proposed filling it with two-thirds lumber and one third demolition plaster.

QUINCY-ISM

There were three candidates for mayor in the fall elections: Sen. James McIntyre, Council President Joseph LaRaia and former state senator James McCormack. Two who took out papers but didn't file: Joseph May and Leo Cardarelli.

Family Reunion Chicken

How would you feed about 55 people at a family reunion?

My brother John offered to start my menu by preparing his delicious lasagne. And our niece Ann prepared a ham. After that the rest sort of fell into place. With the lasagne, I made meatballs and sausage sauce, breaded chicken, fettuccine Alfredo with bow pasta, and the salad. Others brought homemade pizza, desserts and fruit.

Today's recipe (not for 50 people) is for the chicken thighs which were quite large so my husband skinned and then chopped them in half. They cook quicker and are easier to serve and eat especially with so many other foods. By chopping them in halves I ended up with more than 40 pieces of chicken. (none were left over by the way)

Breaded Chicken Thigh Halves
6 chicken thighs (in half, optional)
1 egg (beaten with a little milk) corn flake crumbs for coating
1/4 cup grated parmesan cheese

If the thighs are good size, you can cut them in half. But if you wish, they naturally can be used whole.

Prepare the egg mixture. Add the grated cheese to the corn flake crumbs. Dip the chicken in the egg mixture and then the corn flake crumbs.

Place in a slightly greased baking pan add about 1/4 cup water, and bake covered in a 350 degree oven for 25 minutes. Remove cover and bake for another 10 minutes or so. Try it with a fork to see if they are done.

Inaugural Quincy Family Day Set For Sept. 6 At Shipyard

The inaugural Quincy Family Day, a festival planned as a celebration of the community, will be held Sunday, Sept. 6 at the Fore River shipyard near the USS Salem.

The event is co-sponsored by State Street Corporation and Stop & Shop Companies in cooperation with Mayor James Sheets and the City of Quincy. In case of rain, the event will be held Monday, Sept. 7.

An area at the shipyard will be transformed into a picnic and entertainment venue for the day long festival.

Beginning at 10 a.m., the entertainment for children will include interactive music, dance and hula hoop contests, face painters, balloon masters, kids rides, and special costumed characters.

Later in the day, an exciting program of live entertainment features a wide variety of musical groups. The program opens with Quincy's own Symphony Orchestra at 3 p.m., followed by the Fat City Band at 5 p.m. and Sha Na Na, the headlining act, at 8 p.m. Sha Na Na, a popular American rock n' roll group, is celebrating its 30th anniversary

Quincy Hospital Offers Birthing Classes

Quincy Hospital is offering first time and refresher childbirth classes in September and October at the hospital.

The first time childbirth class is offered as a four-week series or as a weekend course. The four-week class is held Wednesday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m., Sept. 2-23. Weekend classes are from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 17 and 18.

The class covers labor and delivery, breathing, relaxation, post partum, and baby care. The refresher course reviews several sections of the first time class for women who are having another child.

Cost of the first time series is $100; the refresher course is $50. Advance registration is required, and space is limited.

The hospital is also offering additional classes and a support group for young parents. The first of the classes is called the Early Pregnancy Class and is designed for expectant mothers early in pregnancy. The second of the classes focuses on mothers who delivered a previous baby by Cesarean, and is called the Vaginal Birth After Cesarean (VBAC) class.

There is also a class on breast feeding instruction and a class for soon to be big brothers and sisters. In addition to these classes is the Young Parents Pregnancy Support Group.

For more information about class dates, times and cost or to register, call the Public Relations Department at Quincy Hospital, (617) 376-4016.

Breast Cancer Memorial Tree Bricks At Hospital

You can honor the memory of a friend or family member who has lost her life to breast cancer and help fight the disease by placing a memorial brick under the Quincy Hospital

Breast Cancer Memorial Tree, located near the main entrance to Quincy Hospital.

The bricks cost $125 and proceeds will support women's imaging services at Quincy Hospital. While approximately one in every eight women in the United States will develop breast cancer during her lifetime, today women have the best chance ever of overcoming the disease through early detection, a hospital spokesperson noted. Quincy Hos-

Ninety Nine Restaurant Scheduled to Open Sept. 21

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

A Ninety Nine Restaurant is coming to Quincy and is scheduled to open on Sept. 21.

The licence board Tuesday granted a common-victualer-all alcoholic license to the restaurant located at the Stop & Shop Plaza, 59 Newport Ave. It also issued a cabaret license.

The board also voted to transfer the alcoholic license held by Sam Kotoulias, former owner of Jonathan's and Sabotino's on Washington St. The board voted to cancel that license and transfer it to the Ninety Nine Restaurant.

Kotoulias had been holding the license for several months since closing Sabotino's in hopes of relocating his restaurant. However, he is now owner of Sam's Restaurant on School Street across from St. John's Church and does not serve alcohol.

The Ninety Nine, a 5,400 square foot restaurant will have 162 seats, handicapped men's and ladies rooms, an office and a storage area.

It will provide 210 parking spaces. According to Dana Doe, owner of the restaurant, smoking will only be allowed in the lounge area which will seat 30 persons. Doe said the system will ventilate the smoke outside the premises.

The general manager will be Tom Cattaneo, who has managed the 99 Restaurant in Rockland and has been with the company since 1985.

Doe said there will be five full time managers as well as a kitchen manager.

Doe said they are now hiring new employees on site for the next two weeks and then have a two week intensive training program for the employees. Doe said there will employ between 60 and 80 persons depending on whether they are full or part time employees.

Ward 3 Councillor Pat McDermott spoke in support of the new eatery, and cited their "high level of excellence in food and alcohol service."

The menu will feature a wide selection of appetizers, salads, sandwiches, entrees and desserts.

The hours of operation will be from 11:30 a.m. until 12 midnight

A family owned business, the Ninety Nine Restaurant first opened at in 1952 at 99 State St. in Boston. by Charles Doe. In 1993, he handed over the day-to-day operations to his three sons, Dana, Bill and Chad. Today, more than 40 Ninety Nine Restaurants are scattered throughout Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island serving more than 10 million customers each year. The business is headquartered in Woburn.

BRIGHT HORIZONS CHILD CARE, located in West Quincy, recently had its students exhibit artwork in the front lobby of City Hall in conjunction with the Week of the Young Child. Admiring the display from left are students Nicole Lamie, Aoife Leonard and Clara Lambkin.

know not everyone can afford to keep his property looking perfect all the time. I'm talking about the exceptional (ly bad) areas."

There are probably only "two or three" such areas in each of the city's six wards, he added.

Kolson said he has not yet discussed his proposal with his fellow councillors but will send each of them a copy prior to Sept. 8. Nor has he discussed it with Mayor James Sheets, who also must sign it after it is passed by the council.

He noted, however, he thinks it will gather the needed support "if it passes muster" with the solicitor's office.

You think about it a lot. Even worry about it sometimes. Sure, the market's been very good to you over the past couple of years. But that "unprecedented" growth makes you nervous too. What if the market levels off or - God forbid - goes down? Would that be a problem? Then it's time to stash some of those stock market profits in a 5-Month Certificate from Colonial Federal Savings Bank. Safe, secure and guaranteed by FDIC, this short-term, high-rate CD is the smart, easy way to diversify your holdings. Come see us! Or call Jamie Doherty at 617-471-0750.

'Taste Of Quincy' Farmers' Market Friday

Acting Gov. Paul Cellucci has declared this week (Aug. 16-22) "Massachusetts Farmers' Market Week" and in celebration, the Quincy Farmers' Market will hold a "Taste of Quincy Farmers' Market" Summer Harvest Festival Friday, Aug. 21 from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

At the "Taste of Quincy Farmers' Market," Chef Lisa Lieb from Kevin's at the Heritage will cook up fresh farmers' market produce to sample.

Stillman Farm of Lunenburg, Freitas Farm of Middleboro and River Bend Farm of Berkley will supply Chef Lieb with varieties of eggplant and sweet corn for grilling. Many other peak season vegetables and fruits will be featured for tasting.

A new health drink, developed by Dr. Benedict Aurian of Bellingham and first introduced in June at the Mass. Marketplace in Dover, will be offered for public sampling.

Agnes Smith of University of Massachusetts Extension Nutrition Program Educator and Jann Boddie, community coordinator of the Quincy WIC Office will offer samples from farmers' market produce and recipes.

Quincy Farmers' Market is held every Friday from mid-June through October, 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the John Hancock Municipal Downtown Parking lot off Chestnut St. across from the Quincy District Courthouse. Nine area farmers participate in the market each week.

Beechwood Benefit Cruise A Success

Beechwood on the Bay's recent third annual Benefit Cruise was a success by all measures, according to Sharron Beals, executive director.

Tickets were sold out two weeks prior to the cruise, assuring that financial goals were met. The weather perfect and the three hours aboard the ship provided a fun-filled, leisurely cruise of the Harbor and Islands, she said.

"The Committee leadership of Paul Reynolds, Helen Gallahue Irvin and Don Uvanitte generated wonderful pre-planning and support. Beechwood applauds Thorndike Development for providing food, Marina Bay Company for the ship, and The Newton Group for the Caribbean Band," said Beals.

"All expenses of this fundraiser were covered by the generosity of these community leaders, enabling 100 percent of the ticket sales to be directed to services," said Uvanitte, president of Beechwood's Board of Directors.

Proceeds will be directed to completion of the center's pre-school playground and the city's Senior S.A.F.E. program, for the installation of smoke detectors.

"Again, we acknowledge, with appreciation, our community's widespread and enthusiastic support of intergenerational service needs," said Beals.

Ward 5 Storm Drain Stenciling

VOLUNTEER DENISE CONRY sprays "Don't Dump: Drains To Wollaston Beach" at a storm drain on Billings Road as her daughter, Emma, keeps a close eye on her artwork.

WARD 5 COMMUNITY ASSOCIATION (WFCA) and the Boston Harbor Association (BHA) recently co-sponsored an educational storm-drain stenciling campaign around Wollaston Beach. More than 125 storm drains in North Quincy and Wollaston were stenciled "Don't Dump: Drains To Wollaston Beach." From left are Glen McAuliffe of the Metropolitan District Commission (MDC), which operates the beach; Shane Abboud, MDC; Tome Bender, MDC; Joan LeBlanc, BHA; Dave Murphy, WFCA; Doug Gutro, WFCA; and Tom O'Brien. Volunteers missing from photo are Ward 5 City Councilor Stephen Durkin, Larry Chretien, Denise and Emma Conry, Joan Piece, and the MDC's Nathan Thompson and Chris Byron.

Paul Reynolds Elected To Beechwood Board Of Directors

Paul J. Reynolds of Marina Bay has been elected to the Board of Beechwood Community Life Center, announces Board President Don Uvanitte.

Reynolds was born and raised in Quincy. He and his wife, Carol, have lived at Marina Bay for about four years. Their business, Reynolds Company, is on the Boardwalk at Marina Bay.

The Reynolds Company, founded in 1971, specializes in the appraisal of commercial and industrial real estate. Recent appraisal assignments include major eminent domain takings made for the Central Artery/Third Harbor Tunnel project, the old Jordan Marsh Warehouse property and thousands of acres of vacant land acquired for conservation throughout the state. Reynolds Company is also one of six appraisal organizations selected by the Boston Redevelopment Authority to value the properties which will be displaced by the new Boston Convention Center.

Reynolds holds several professional designations and is a trustee and past president of the Massachusetts Board of Real Estate Appraisers, past president and director of the Greater Boston Chapter of the Appraisal Institute and has served as National Governor of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers, as well as the first Northeast Regional Director of the Appraisal Institute.

O'Donnell Reiterates Support For Capital Punishment

William O'Donnell, a Democratic candidate for Norfolk County district attorney, has reiterated his longtime support for capital punishment.

O'Donnell is a former Norfolk County assistant district attorney serving under former DA William Delahunt.

"I support the implementation of capital punishment in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, particularly for murders committed against law enforcement personnel and young children," said O'Donnell. "The Massachusetts Legislature has spoken on this issue and the next opportunity for a vote on capital punishment will not be until January 1999."

"However, I believe it is critical the citizens of Norfolk County know exactly where the candidates for district attorney stand on this vital criminal justice issue. As a former prosecutor, I know the importance of giving our law enforcement personnel all the tools possible to do the difficult job of protecting our communities."

If elected, O'Donnell said he will prosecute criminals to the fullest extent of the law.

"If capital punishment were to be enacted into law, I would use this prosecutorial tool when appropriate," he said. "The priority of public safety is enhanced with capital punishment the law of the Commonwealth."

Transfer Of Automobile Registration Law Passed

State Rep. Ronald Mariano, House vice chairman of the Joint Committee on Insurance, was a key supporter of legislation which simplifies transferring automobile registrations.

The legislation, which contained an emergency preamble, became effective in June when it was signed into law. Under the prior law, the owner of a registered motor vehicle or trailer who transfers ownership, or loses possession of that vehicle and intends to transfer the registration to a newly-acquired vehicle had either a two-business day grace period (for "new" vehicles) or a 10-business day grace period (for "used" vehicles), during which he may operate the newly-acquired vehicle without its being registered.

The new law simplifies the automobile registration transfer grace period by eliminating the two-day/10-day grace period and substituting a uniform seven-calendar day grace period.

"This law benefits consumers," said Mariano. "It eliminates the confusion as to how many days the consumer can legally operate his newly-acquired vehicle before going to the registry and transferring the registration. Instead of wondering whether he has two or 10 business days to transfer the registration, he will now know he has seven days to transfer the registration, regardless of the type of vehicle he acquired."

"As House vice chairman of the Joint Committee on Insurance, I feel that it is my job to make the insurance laws as consumer-friendly as possible. This law achieves that objective."

Crime Prevention Officer

How To Protect Your Neighborhood 'Reducing The Risks'

Now that you and your neighbors are looking out for each other, take a look around. Does your neighborhood have:

- Large, poorly lit public parking areas?
- Streets and sidewalks crowded with cars and people from outside the neighborhood?

• Unattended vacant lots and wooded areas?

If you answered "yes" to these questions, then there are countless opportunities for crime in your neighborhood. Crooks can come and go unnoticed. They just disappear into the crowd.

Maybe your neighborhood is different:

- Are streets and sidewalks used mostly by local people?
- Do children play in the parks and playgrounds?
- Are there public recreation areas where local residents often get together?

If you answered "yes", count yourself lucky. This kind of neighborhood typifies a new approach to crime prevention that seeks to create a "small town" environment even in large cities.

One neighborhood in Hartford, Conn., make changes like these: Several streets were narrowed or turned onto "dead ends" to discourage traffic. Residents fenced their yards to make them "off limits" to outsiders. At the same time, neighbors held block parties and potluck dinners, and launched clean-up campaigns. One year later...

- More people said they were walking in their neighborhood.
- More people said they liked using their neighborhood park.

• More people said they weren't as afraid anymore.

And Better Yet...

• Burglary dropped 40 percent.

• Street robbery and purse snatching also decreased.

Of course, you and your neighbors can't just put up a sign declaring your street a "dead-end." But local officials can. With an active neighborhood organization, you can alert local officials to situations needing improvement. For example, residents in the Hartford community persuaded police to patrol the local park to discourage loitering, drinking, and gambling. And when residents of one Washington, D.C. high crime area convinced the city to install new high intensity street lighting, robberies there reportedly declined by 65 percent. They say residential burglaries dropped by 44 percent, too. Many towns have installed emergency telephones on street corners linked directly to police. Just the sight of these phones may deter some crooks.

Your group can involve others in the community in crime prevention, too. Businesses, schools, and other institutions can and should cooperate in fighting crime. For instance, business in dense commercial areas may need to install lighting in parking lots. High schools may need to keep students on the premises at lunch time to reduce the risk of vandalism or burglary in nearby residential areas.

And this goes for everyone, businesses, institutions, and your and your neighbors as well: your goals are to make sure that crooks are easily stopped and to keep them off your property. So, install fences and get rid of hiding places by cutting down tall shrubs and removing piles of junk from behind garages and storage areas. All are good ways to keep criminals out of your neighborhood.

Quincy Area Youth Learn Dangers, Effects Of Drugs

A Narconon presenter recently addressed 180 youths on the destructive effects of drugs at the South Shore YMCA in Quincy.

The youths participated in the Narconon Drug Education Program presented by Greg Hancock, one of Narconon's drug prevention specialists.

Hancock, who has spoken to thousands of children this year, came to Narconon after realizing that the group was doing something effective to change the trend of teenage drug use. He went on to train on the drug rehabilitation and education methods of author and humanitarian L. Ron Hubbard, which are the basis of Narconon's success.

As an inner-city youth, Hancock witnessed firsthand the debilitating effects of drugs. He witnessed heroin addicts at a local basketball court, following the downward spiral of their use to a point where all had died. He was 14 years old at the time and decided something should be done to halt teenage drug use.

"Kids are inundated with false information on drugs through movies, TV and friends," said Hancock. "Dispelling them of this and giving them the true information is the key to preventing drug abuse. Teenagers would rather have truth and understanding. Scare tactics, by survey, are not real to them and do not work."

Narconon reaches approximately 40,000 students in the New England area yearly and Narconon presenters have spoken to over 475,000 students in the past several years. Part of Narconon's success has been attributed to the evaluations that are done with the students after each presentation.

"By using surveys we have been able to hone in on what information makes an impact on their lives and results in their decision not to use drugs," said Bob Wiggins, Narconon's senior prevention specialist. "It's important to get feedback directly from the young people themselves so you can pinpoint what makes a positive difference in their lives."

ATTENTION ALL RETIREES!! Don't Let This Happen To You...

Senior Citizens Could Lose Close To Their Entire Life Savings And Put Their Homes In Jeopardy From Nursing Home Expenses/Medicaid Requirements/Estate Taxes/and Probate!

Join Attorney Richard Rubino For A FREE Workshop and Learn the Correct Strategies To Protect Your Assets!

Radio Personality Richard Rubino is one of the most sought after speakers in the New England area today, and is considered the Leading Expert on Estate and Medicaid Planning. He has published numerous articles on Asset Protection Strategies, and is the host of the WJDA - 1300 AM radio program "Money Talks".

Workshop Topics of Discussion Will Include:

- The New Medicaid Law Changes from 1998
- The New Estate Tax, Income Tax & Capital Gains Tax Law Changes from 1997
- The Kennedy - Kassebaum Bill and What It Means To You

Did you know...

- You have to be close to poverty level before applying for Medicaid benefits?
- You must apply in writing for Medicaid? Medicare pays only the first 100 days of Nursing Home expenses. After that, you must private pay yourself. With average nursing home cost of $6,000 - $8,000 per month, the average person's life savings could be wiped out in less than 2 years!
- The $10,000 annual gift exclusion to children is not exempt from Medicaid qualifications.
- If you have a Revocable or Living Trust, and it is not funded, it will still pass through Probate.
- If you have a Revocable or Living Trust it does not protect you from Medicaid qualifications AT ALL!
- Joint Accounts with children do NOT protect you from Medicaid. They are usually a BIG mistake! If your children get sued, divorced, or go through bankruptcy, your accounts are at risk!
- The Estate Tax Unified Credit Exemption Equivalent only goes from $600,000 - $675,000 by the year 2001. It does not reach $1,000,000 until year 2006.

AT THIS WORKSHOP YOU WILL LEARN:

- Current strategies available to protect your home from Nursing Home expenses.
- What the 36 & 60 - month "Waiting Period" really means. What legal strategies are available.
- What the criminal offense issue is all about with the Kennedy-Kassebaum Bill.
- How you can use the New Capital Gains Tax Changes To Help Your Asset Protection Strategies.
- The pros and cons of Irrevocable & Revocable Trusts - Are they right for you?

Part Of Search For Woman's Body Preparations For Quarry Draining Get Underway

Preparations to drain the Granite Rail Quarry in West Quincy as part of an attempt to recover a woman's body found there in November began Monday.

The Metropolitan District Commission (MDC), which oversees the site, began clearing the grounds to build an 8-foot-high fence topped with barbed wire around the quarry. Officials said it will take 30 days to install the fencing and sensitive monitoring equipment that will prevent the quarry from collapsing during the draining, which is scheduled to be completed by January.

The water will be pumped into culverts along Ricciuti Drive and into Furnace Brook, and will eventually flow into Blacks Creek and Quincy Bay, officials said.

The preparations began only days after Norfolk County District Attorney Jeffrey Locke used a little-known state law to override an appeal of the project that could have delayed work until next spring. That law permits conservation commissions to bypass the normal hearing and appeals process for emergency environmental projects.

The Quincy Conservation Commission issued an emergency certificate last Friday that will allow the MDC to drop the current water level of about 230 feet to about 120 feet. Officials say that will enable divers to conduct a more effective and safer search for the body.

The draining was delayed this summer when an appeal with the state Department of Environmental Protection was filed by a group of environmentalists and rock climbers. The MDC reached an agreement with those groups earlier this month, but those who filed the appeal then sent Locke a list of 14 demands he termed "unacceptable."

Locke, citing public safety concerns and the need to find the body in the quarry, then took action to override the appeal. Thirteen people have died in Quincy's quarries since 1960, mainly in diving accidents.

Last November, divers spotted a woman's body about 175 feet down in the quarry's waters police received a tip from murder suspect Shawn Kane, one of three men arrested for the death of Stoughton prostitute Sonia Leal whose body was recovered in the quarry in 1994.

While searching for the unknown woman's body, divers found the body of 19-year-old Irish student P.J. McDonagh, who was last seen at the quarry in June 1994.

The divers, however, lost sight of the unknown woman's body, and Locke called off the search in December because of poor visibility and the water's freezing temperatures and dangerous depths.

In January, Acting Gov. Paul Cellucci pledged to have the quarry drained to make the search less dangerous. The state Legislature subsequently set aside $1 million for the project.

Relatives of 21-year-old Karen Hammond of South Boston, who has been missing since 1995, believe it is her body in the quarry, but officials have said they do not think that is the case.

Officials say they still are unsure what should be done with the quarry after it is drained.

Board Suspends Liquor License Seven Days

The license board Tuesday suspended for seven days the liquor license of C.C.'s Club, 5 Hollis Ave (Knights of Columbus) for minors having alcohol in their possession.

According to Det. Sgt. Robert M. Perchard, liquor inspector and license board agent, on the night of May 30, he checked in on a college graduation function and found some "very young" people sitting at a table.

There were bottles of beer on the table and none of the young people had ID's he said. When Perchard asked the bartender about serving them liquor, she said she didn't serve those particular patrons.

Manager Charles McDermott said the floor person must have "missed" seeing who purchased the liquor. McDermott showed the board procedures used for all functions. He added that anytime there was a complaint that it was immediately rectified.

Although Police Chief Thomas Frane acknowledged that fact, he said despite the "excellent reputation" at the Knights of Columbus, the dangers of young people drinking and driving on the roadways still takes precedent. He said some who were attending the college function were younger than college age students.

Chairman Joseph Shea asked the board to vote for a time limit on the suspension. It was voted that the time be done in the next 30-45 days before Oct 1.

SMOG INSPECTIONS

A smog inspection checks an automobile's combustion byproducts to see if they are at acceptable levels. Hydrocarbons (HC), carbon monoxide (CO), and oxides of nitrogen (NOx) are the three primary types of exhaust gas pollutants given off by the internal combustion engine. Various emission control devices reduce amounts of these pollutants either by limiting the formation of pollutants during combustion or by neutralizing them after they have formed. Spark retard and exhaust gas recirculation (EGR) systems help prevent the formation of CO and NOx to promote more complete combustion of HC. The air injection system and the catalytic converter burn any residual HC and CO after they have formed in the combustion chamber.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL

Help Your Children Achieve At School

(NAPS)—Kids today say good grades are cool, but with friends, school, activities—and busy parents—how can they excel in the classroom and in life? Parents can help by creating an organized home that reduces stress and sets the stage for success.

These tips from Day Runner, maker of organizers, can make the difference between stress and success:

- Establish command central. Write appointments, tests, activities, sports schedules, work commitments, etc. on a monthly calendar. The Day Runner Home Manager

Organizer fits on the refrigerator and offers space for messages, notes and lists.

- Hold weekly family meetings. Discuss upcoming assignments, tests, activities, etc. in advance. Write events on the calendar.
- Create family "to-do" lists. Place next to the calendar. Assign family members' names to each item.

- Balance fun and work. Schedule daily study time around sports and other activities. Ask kids for their input.
- Create study spaces that work. Kids are in the business of being students—their own desk, bulletin board, bookshelf and file cabinet are essential.

- Create an "out-the-door" spot. Keep keys, backpacks, coats, and other gear on shelves or hooks near the door.

- Prepare for mornings the night before. Finish assignments, select clothing, and pack bags to avoid last minute stress.

- Screen phone calls during study time. Turn off the ringer and let the machine pick up so kids are not distracted.

- Free! More Day Runner Organizing Tip! Call (800) 232-9786 ext. 3149.

What's Cool For Back To School

(NAPS)—What will savvy students—from kindergarten to college—seek out when it comes to cool back-to-school styles?

The radical new look of this year's school supplies may surprise you.

According to Staples the Office Superstore, this year's classic supplies are spiced up with funky style and advanced ergonomic design features. Pens, binders and Post-It notes are reved up with metallic retro colors, improved designs and even a timeless childhood favorite: Winnie the Pooh.

- Bold colors are here to stay. Blue, teal and purple are this year's fashion colors in many back-to-school items, including the ever-popular two-pocket portfolios. Metallic blue and purple are also featured in plastic drawer storage from Iris that can brighten any dorm room.

Ergonomics may be a fancy word behind this year's big trend in writing instruments; but greater writing comfort is what it's all about. Bic is offering six new items with cushioned extra-wide barrels to reduce finger fatigue and cramps, so taking class notes will be less of a chore.

- "Shadow Notes" sure are attention-grabbers. They're Post-It blocks in black and blue that are packaged with Pentel pens with metallic ink. For example, a gold ink pen comes with the black notes and a silver ink pen comes with the blue notes.

Sanford's new "Liquid Accent" line of highlighters comes in packs featuring vibrant yellow, pink, green, blue and violet ink. Even better than the color is the fact that the liquid ink won't dry out, so your highlighter is good to the last drop.

The newest thing in binders comes from Avery—a "non-stick" viewbinder with a clear overlay that won't stick to paper inserts. This lets kids personalize their binders with favorite photos without worrying about damaging them.

The popularity of Winnie the Pooh and his pals from the 100 Acre Wood is apparent in school supplies in everything from binders to backpacks.

Other licensed images on products that will be hot for Back-To-School 1998 range from elementary school-age favorites "Cuddly Cuties" to Lassen underwater murals for older students.

Backpacks Brawnier, Brighter Than Ever Before

(NAPS)—The three words that sum up backpacks today all start with a B—bright, beautiful and brawnier than ever.

Backpacks are no longer confined to traditional colors. The newest colors—oyster, European sand, citrus and sky blue—are reminiscent of sun, sky, and seashore.

"The traditional colors of navy, forest green and black remain popular, while the new colors offer something extra for students who see their pack as a reflection of their lifestyle," said Julie Mazman of Eastpak.

The three largest pack manufacturers—JanSport, Outdoor Products and Eastpak—also indicate that students are requesting more technical packs to hold items such as in-line skates, bicycle helmets and sports equipment. For this reason, many of the new packs, including Eastpak's Energy Series line feature contoured shoulder straps, bungee cords, and fabric made of DuPont Cordura nylon.

"Because packs are carrying more items than ever before it's important that technical fibers like DuPont Cordura Plus nylon are used to stand up to the extra weight and for durability," says Rhonda Lewis of JanSport. Marguerite Guervais from Outdoor Products tells backpack buyers to throw out last year's catalog. This year's Backpack lovers will have more choices this year with a wider array of colorful, functional backpacks catalog offers more to choose from.

"We have a variety of different packs, from street to technical to day packs," says Guervais. Outdoor Products has introduced 48 styles with numerous new colors such as cobalt blue and taupe.

Outdoor Products also has new packs, such as the Intersection pack, that features "colorblocking," a pattern that highlights pockets in a different color than the rest of the pack.

Royal blue continues to be the most popular color for JanSport, but the manufacturer is also adding bright colors to its line of packs. The new Street Pack line, featuring the Chasm, Three Forks and Black Hole, is the main focus for the season. JanSport has also been working toward "urbanizing our packs by adding daisy chains and more pockets so it is cooler for kids," explains Lewis.

Today's tough but colorful packs have to provide both function and fashion.

REAL ESTATE

Single-Family Home Sales Up In State, South Shore

The state's residential real estate market remained strong this spring as single-family home sales improved for the 12th consecutive quarter between April and June, soaring to a new record high for a three-month period in the second quarter of 1998, the Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR) reports.

Sales of detached homes rose 11.5 percent in the second quarter this year versus the same quarter in 1997, and condominium sales climbed 14.3 percent in the comparable period--the most active quarter for home sales since the height of the last housing boom in 1987, according to the MAR.

Specifically, the MAR report shows 14,304 detached single-family homes were sold in Massachusetts during the second quarter of 1998 versus 12,826 in the same period a year ago. In addition, 3,256 condominiums were sold from April to June this year versus 2,849 in the same quarter in 1997. By month, sales of detached homes increased 16.6 percent in April, 5.4 percent in May and 13.1 percent in June, compared to the same months in 1997, while condo sales rose 12.8 percent in April, 8.5 percent in May, and 20.4 percent in June.

On the South Shore, 1,554 detached single-family homes were sold during the first six months of 1998 for an average price of $215,024, compared with 1,390 sold at an average price of $197,317 during the same period in 1997.

Second-quarter numbers from the South Shore for 1998 show that 961 detached single-family homes were sold at an average price of $220,128 between April and June, compared with 924 sold at an average price of $197,540 during the same period last year.

"There seems to be no end to the demand for housing right now," said MAR President Mary Crowley. "We're reaping the benefits of a strong economy and an extended period of low, stable mortgage rates that has both buyers and sellers feeling confident in the market."

"What's really sparked interest this past year is an increase in the inventory of homes for sale, and a decline of nearly one percent in the rate for nearly one percent in the rate for the fixed-rate mortgages (7.12 percent for a 30-year fixed-rate loan in the second quarter of 1997 versus 8.08 percent for a 30-year fixed-rate loan in the 1998 second quarter). These factors, along with new capital gains tax rules, are enticing first-time buyers and existing homeowners into the market in record numbers."

Regionally, during the second quarter of 1998, detached home sales increased at levels greater than the statewide rate of growth in the Cape Cod and Islands (35.8 percent), Central (35.2), West (21.2), and Southeast (20.1) regions. Healthy sales gains also occurred in the Northeast and South Shore regions, and although the sales report shows a decline in greater Boston, the drop is due primarily to a change in the reporting practices for the jurisdiction.

In the condo market, sales exceeded a year ago levels in all areas except the Southeast and South Shore regions, where sales fell by less than 10 units.

Morrisette Post -- 1998 American Legion Northeast Regional Runner-Up

Las Vegas Not In Cards For Morrisette

Loses Regional Final To State College (Pa.)

By LIAM FITZGERALD
In the end, it simply wasn't in the cards for the Morrisette American Legion baseball team.

The powerful State College, Pa., team, one of the favorites to win the Northeast Regional, defeated Morrisette, 15-8, Tuesday afternoon at Adams Field in Quincy. The championship game victory earned State College (52-9) a trip to the American Legion World Series in Las Vegas, Nev.

The setback ended Morrisette's season, but not before the Regional hosts put on a fine show for the hometown crowd, bouncing back from a loss in the opener to reel off three straight victories and advance to the final.

"This puts Morrisette baseball back on the map," said Morrisette coach Tom Malvesti. "We had a little hunk there for a few years, but we're coming back.

Everyone though we were just the host, but we came a long way and gave it our all. The whole starting nine did a great job and the kids on the bench were into it, too.

"Sure it's disappointing, because a lot of people wrote us off after we started the season 2-5. But we battled the best team here to the final inning. We outplayed them early on, but our defense broke down. That first big inning hurt us, because you can't fall behind and expect to come back against that type of team."

In his second start in four days, 14-year-old Keith Doherty pitched valiantly in defeat, but was the victim of shoddy defense. Three Morrisette errors in the fourth led to a five-run outburst and two additional miscues triggered a six-run seventh, snapping a 7-7 tie. Of the 15 runs allowed by Doherty, only six were earned.

State College errors. John Sullivan (2 for 4, two runs, two RBI) reached on an error and came around on another miscue when right fielder Wernecke misplayed Jim Cunio's shot to the gap. Chris Bregoli (2 for 5, run, RBI) came through with a key two-out single to score Cunio with the tying run.

In the third, Morrisette loaded the bases off starter Andy Tressler. Cunio (2 for 5, run, two RBI) drew a one-out walk, forcing in Matt McLoughlin and putting the hosts ahead, 3-2. Dan Sowash relieved Tressler and was greeted by Rob Celata, who lifted a sacrifice fly, scoring Sullivan for a two-run advantage.

Morrisette added another run when Fagan's fielder's choice grounder scored Bregoli, who hit a leadoff single in the fourth. Clark relieved Sowash and induced Sullivan to hit into a double play to end the threat.

Almost immediately, the momentum swung to the State College side, as the first four batters in the fourth reached safely, three on infield errors. The miscues led to one run scoring, and Andy Conklin (three RBI) tied the game with a sacrifice fly. Wright, who collected the key hit in State College's first win over Morrisette, put his team ahead, 7-5, with a two-out, two-run double. Of the five runs that crossed the plate in the frame, four were unearned.

As it had throughout the tourney, Morrisette hung tough and battled back to tie the game once more in the sixth. Walker led off with a single and moved to third on a single by Fagan. McLoughlin drew a walk to load the bases and Sullivan followed with a clutch two-run single. The rally was cut short, however, when McLoughlin was thrown out at third after a missed bunt attempt by Manning, and Cunio grounded into an inning-ending double play.

State College sealed Morrisette's fate in the seventh, as the first five batters, Doherty faced reached and came around to score. With the bases loaded, nobody out and one run already in, Wernecke hit a grounder to Manning, who threw wild past Walker at home plate and two more runs came across. Conklin added a two-run single and Grunewald had an RBI single and State College led, 13-7.

Morrisette came back to load the bases with one out, but scored just once. Cunio singled home McLoughlin, but Sullivan was nailed at the plate on a strong throw by center fielder Conklin. Celata reached on an error to reload the bases, but Cattaneo flew out to end the threat. State College added two runs in the eighth to close out the scoring.

Originally slated for Monday evening, the game was postponed due to rain and rescheduled for Tuesday.

In Sunday's 11-8 semifinal win over against previously unbeaten Trumbull, Morrisette received a stellar pitching performance from Celata, who tossed a complete game despite pitching 11 innings over the previous three days.

After a scoreless first, Morrisette (14 hits) jumped ahead 2-0 in the second when Cattaneo singled in Bregoli and later scored on a wild pitch. The hosts padded their lead in the third, scoring four runs on two hits. Two errors resulted in the first run, and Cunio (four RBI) drove in two with a double. Cattaneo followed with a sacrifice fly, scoring Bregoli.

Sullivan (4 for 5) laced a two-run single in the fourth to provide Morrisette with an 8-1 lead. Trumbull slowly crept back in the game, scoring twice in the fourth and once in the fifth to cut the deficit to 8-4.

As was the case in its previous two tourney triumphs, Morrisette added insurance runs in the ninth. Against Trumbull, Morrisette scored three key runs that provided the hosts with a temporary six-run cushion. Three straight singles by McLoughlin, Sullivan and Manning pushed one run across and Cunio came added a two-run single.

Now trailing 11-5, Trumbull rallied for three runs and had runners on second and third with one out. Keith Avery, representing the tying run, stepped up to the plate. Celata struck him out and induced Ian Abelson to ground out for the final out.

Cattaneo's strong pitching, combined with an 18-hit attack, paced Morrisette over Portland, Maine, 11-6, last Saturday.

Morrisette's first three hitters—Walker (3 for 6, run, two RBI), Fagan (4 for 6, three runs, RBI) and McLoughlin (4 for 6, three runs, three RBI) combined to go 11 for 18 with six runs scored and six RBI.

In just his fourth start of the season, Cattaneo threw seven innings of 10-hit ball and yielded five runs. He held Maine scoreless until giving up a fifth-inning run, but Morrisette had already built a 7-0 lead.

Morrisette touched starter Murdoch Walker for seven runs in the first two frames. Fagan got the offense started with a one-out double and scored on McLoughlin's single. Manning gave the hosts a 2-0 lead with an RBI single. Walker's two-run single highlighted a five-run fifth. Fagan and McLoughlin added RBI singles and Sullivan had an RBI groundout.

Celata relieved Cattaneo after the first two hitters of the seventh reached. Jon Melanson belted a three-run double off Celata to close the gap to 8-6. Celata bounced back to strike out the next two hitters.

Morrisette added three insurance runs in the ninth. Walks to Doherty and Fagan were followed by McLoughlin's RBI single. Celata hit a two-run single, scoring McLoughlin and Sullivan, who had walked. Celata kept Maine off the board in the ninth to seal the victory.

An impressive pitching performance by Doherty, coupled with early run support, propelled Morrisette over Bennington, Vermont, 11-5 last Friday.

Doherty went the distance and yielded three earned runs on nine hits, struck out 12 and walked four. Dominant early on, he fanned 11 through six innings and allowed just two hits through five.

Meanwhile, Morrisette's hitters got to Bennington starter Jake Stemp early and often. Bregoli's RBI single in the second broke a scoreless tie. Morrisette's Steve Maze lifted a two-out fly ball that was dropped, allowing two more runs to score. In the third, McLoughlin walked and scored on an infield error. Another miscue brought Manning around, increasing the lead to 5-0.

Morrisette loaded the bases with nobody out in the fourth and scored three more runs. Adam Goodrich's grounder was thrown away, and Bregoli and Maze came around to score. Sullivan tripled home McLoughlin for an 8-0 advantage. Sullivan added an RBI single in the sixth when he drove in Goodrich.

Meanwhile, Doherty was keeping Bennington off the board into the bottom of the sixth, when Andy Zoufaly hit a two-run double. Doherty battled back, striking out the next two hitters to end the rally.

Bennington scored twice more in the seventh, taking advantage of two Morrisette errors. Morrisette's bats, quiet through the middle innings, woke up in the ninth, as Maze collected a key two-run single to build the lead to 11-4. Bennington scored once in the ninth, but Doherty recorded a strikeout and a fielder's choice to close out the game.

Despite a solid effort on the mound by Celata (10 strikeouts), Morrisette dropped its opener to State College, 7-3, last Thursday.

Pat Bregoli On Silver-Medal Winning AAU Baseball Team

As one of the lower seeds among the 60 participating teams, the New England Mariners 14 and under AAU baseball team defied the odds at the recent AAU national championship tournament, bringing home a silver medal.

"Nobody thought we'd get that far," said Mariner center fielder and leadoff hitter, Pat Bregoli of Quincy. "We just got to a point where we didn't think we could be beat."

"It was a good experience. We had to focus and stay intense for the whole game. We came together as a team at the right time."

Unfortunately for the Mariners, their opponent in the gold medal game was the Encinitas Reds, a California team that hadn't lost a game all season. The Reds, who defeated the Mariners, 7-0, also had on their roster a 14-year-old pitcher whose fastball was clocked at 91 MPH. Three of the Reds' players were going on to play for the Reds' 16-year-old squad.

For the tournament, Bregoli was one of the Mariners' leading hitters, batting .390 and he also turned in a strong defensive effort in center field.

"As the leadoff hitter, I tried to get on base any way I could and let the others drive me in," said Bregoli, who will enter North Quincy High School as a freshman this fall and is currently preparing for football tryouts.

The Mariners advanced to the gold medal game with an 8-4 semifinal victory over the Carolina Vikings. Bregoli provided the Mariners some offensive punch, going 3 for 3 with a walk.

An 8-4 win over the Titans of Southern California sent the Mariners into the semifinal round. In the final 16 round, Bregoli went 1 for 3 as the Mariners defeated the Cleveland Indians of Amelia, Ohio, 5-2.

Bregoli led the way for the Mariners in a 4-2 victory over the seventh-seeded Tidewater Drillers of Virginia Beach, Va. At the plate, Bregoli went 2 for 4 with a single, double, two RBI and scored two runs. In the field, he raced over to right-center field and made a remarkable catch to rob a Driller hitter of extra bases.

After winning their first pool, the Mariners notched a come-from-behind 8-7 victory over the Vienna Mustangs of Virginia in the first game of the second pool. The game was played at Fieldcrest Cannon, the home of the Piedmont Boll Weevils, the single A affiliate of the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Mariners trailed the Mustangs, 7-5, heading into the bottom of the seventh inning but rallied for three runs to pick up the triumph. Bregoli led off with a walk and scored a run in the inning.

QUINCY YOUNGSTERS Lauren Stille and Michaela King stopped by the Soccer Celebration Area for some fun and games before attending a recent New England Revolution game against the Dallas Burn. The area is an interactive, family-oriented soccer theme park which is located outside Foxboro Stadium and consists of games, face-painting, live music, food and rides for soccer fans of all ages. It is free and open to all New England Revolution ticket holders for two hours prior to kick-off.

Dance Class At YMCA

The South Shore YMCA, 79 Coddington St., Quincy, will offer a new dance class this fall featuring swing, waltz, cha-cha, and other popular Latin dances. Class meets Mondays, 7:15 to 8:15 p.m. beginning Sept. 14. Registration starts Sept. 1.

11-Year-Old Team Wins Second Straight Baseball Tourney

After winning the George Dunn Memorial Summer Classic, the Quincy 11-year-old baseball team recently captured the Weymouth tournament for its second straight tourney triumph.

With two outs in the bottom of the seventh of the championship game against Whitman, Quincy's Dave Jaehng lined a solid base hit to left, scoring Chris Marinelli (two hits) from second to give Quincy a thrilling 3-2 triumph.

Trailing the entire game in a classic pitching duel, Quincy fought back to tie the game in the sixth and force extra innings. John Folino came on in relief of Dean Sandomato and shut down Whitman in the top of the seventh, setting the stage for Jaehng's game-winning hit.

Sandomato pitched six innings, struck out nine and was voted tournament MVP. Paul Lennon played well defensively for the winners.

In semifinal action, Quincy hung on to defeat a tough Weymouth club, 8-7, and secure a spot in the championship game. Justin Thorley (home run), Jaehng, Sandomato and Martinson each had two hits, while Nick Devico and Mike Arrafat also had hits and turned in strong defensive efforts.

Quincy's hitters banged out 20 hits in a 15-5 victory over Hanson. Thorley and Jaehng led the way with four hits apiece. Martinson collected three hits, including a home run. Sandomato pitched three shutout innings for the win.

Quincy's only loss was a 7-6 setback to Milton in its second tournament game. After falling behind 5-0, Quincy rallied back on a grand slam by Marinelli. Bobby Newcomb, Steve Straz and Kevin Richardson all had key hits in the comeback.

In the opener, Quincy pounded out 11 hits and rolled to a 13-0 victory over Abington. Bret Martinson, Thorley, Jaehng and Sandomato collected two hits apiece. Nick Malvesti also had a hit and played well defensively.

Former Boston Red Sox GM Speaker At Legion Banquet Strong Commitment Key To Success, Says Gorman

By LIAM FITZGERALD

James "Lou" Gorman, the keynote speaker at the opening banquet of the American Legion Northeast Regional Baseball Tournament, stressed the importance of commitment as a key to achieving success.

Gorman, former general manager of the Boston Red Sox and now an executive consultant for the team, spoke to the players, parents and guests of the eight Legion teams gathered last Wednesday night at the George F. Bryan VFW Post.

"Whatever you're going to do in life, it involves total commitment," said Gorman, who has spent nearly 40 years as a major league baseball executive with a number of teams. "Whether you're a ballplayer, a doctor, a lawyer, a bricklayer, it doesn't matter. Nothing comes free, and you have to be willing to sacrifice, to pay the price to get to where you want to go."

As an example of commitment, Gorman recalled watching baseball Hall of Famer Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles field hundreds of ground balls under a hot August sun in the early 1960s.

"In the report on him, it said he couldn't throw, couldn't run, was a questionable hitter, but the team liked his makeup," said Gorman. "He never had great speed or a great arm, but he worked with all the skills he had to become a great Hall of Fame player."

George Brett, a star player Gorman signed to a contract with the Kansas City Royals, impressed Gorman with his drive and determination, even at a young age.

"This kid was 17 years old, but he was already a man," said Gorman of the longtime Royal All-Star. "I knew he would succeed at whatever he set out to do, because he had the toughness in him and the commitment to succeed."

Gorman also touched upon the importance of practice, learning to deal with failure, the importance of education, setting goals, having enthusiasm, and learning to take praise and criticism.

"If you're not out there practicing, your opponent is or the teammate looking to take over your position," he said. "You have to work hard and get better all the time. I've seen a lot of players with the ability, but who aren't willing to go out and work at it day in and day out."

A former Legion star in Rhode Island, Gorman went on to sign a professional contract with the Philadelphia Phillies. His contract paid him $125 a month and included a $500 signing bonus, but he was cut after just three months. Disappointed that his dream of being a major league player was over and that he was a total failure, Gorman returned home and was surprised by his father's reaction to the news.

"My father said, 'It's not the end of the world, because you can go to school, get an education and do something else with your life,'" said Gorman. "Those words made not making the big leagues a little easier to handle."

In closing, he encouraged the players to give something back to all those who helped them along the way.

"You owe so much to so many," he said. "Your parents, who gave you life, your teachers and coaches, who devote countless hours to helping you. It's very important to do that."

Las Vegas Not In Cards For Morrisette Legion

Celata went all nine innings, allowing six earned runs on 13 hits and walking four.

Morrisette got on the board in the bottom of the first, when Fagan scorched a one-out triple and scored on a McLoughlin groundout.

In the top of the second, State College scored twice to tie the game and went ahead to stay with a run in the third. The visitors broke the game open with a four-run, fourth-inning outburst. Chris Wright had the key hit, a three-run triple.

Morrisette scored a run in the sixth and seventh to trim the deficit to 6-3. In the sixth, McLoughlin singled and scored on an error and Cattaneo scored on a Fagan groundout the following inning, but the host team would get no closer to the eventual Regional championships.

The following is the results of all the round-robin games and Sunday's two semifinal games:

Sunday: State College, Pa. 5, Gloucester 0; Morrisette 11, Trumbull, Conn. 8.

Saturday: State College,

Citizens Completes Woburn National Bank Acquisition

Citizens Bank of Massachusetts announces it has completed the acquisition of Woburn National Bank of Woburn, a transaction which expands Massachusetts' third largest bank further into Middlesex County, giving it $5.5 billion in assets and 105 branch offices.

The acquisition calls for Citizens to acquire Woburn National for $300 a share, or $45.2 million. State and federal regulators and Woburn National shareholders have approved the transaction.

"Citizens shares with Woburn National Bank a strong commitment to the community. This combined with its track record as a solid performer made it the ideal partner for Citizens' expansion into important markets north of Boston," said Citizens Financial Group Chairman Lawrence Fish. "Our intention now is to build on the foundation established by the Johnson family."

Woburn National is the seventh acquisition by Citizens in Massachusetts. In all, Citizens Financial Group has completed 14 acquisitions in Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island since 1992.

Woburn National Bank has four branches in Woburn and a new branch which opened in the town of Winchester in March 1998.

Depositors of Woburn National will have full deposit insurance coverage under the Massachusetts DIF and the FDIC, which also insures deposits at Citizens.

Citizens Bank of Massachusetts is a $5.5 billion bank headquartered in Boston with 105 offices in Greater Boston, the South Shore, southeastern Massachusetts and Cape Cod and eight Business Banking Centers, including one in Quincy.

Susan M. Hayes, 49
Woodward School Dean, Teacher

A funeral Mass for Susan M. Hayes, 49, of Quincy, was celebrated yesterday (Wednesday) in St. John the Baptist Church.

Mrs. Hayes died Aug. 15 at Cape Cod Hospital in Hyannis.

She was a dean at the Woodward School for Girls in Quincy for the past year. A teacher for 27 years, she taught for the past 13 years at Woodward and previously in the Boston Public Schools, Denver, Middleboro and Kuwait.

"She was wonderful," said Woodward Headmaster Thomas Wesner. "Very caring and determined to make a difference in the lives of our kids. She commanded great respect from our students. She will be sorely missed, and she will be irreplaceable."

Wesner added that Mrs. Hayes's family is working with Woodward officials to establish a Susan Hayes Memorial Fund at the school.

Mrs. Hayes was an avid history buff from early childhood, supporting efforts for the restoration of the Granite Railway site as a student at St. Mary's School in Quincy and later as a member of the Quincy Historical Society. She took graduate studies in many schools, especially at the John F. Kennedy Library, which she loved for its knowledge and history.

She worked for several years as a child care counselor for emotionally disturbed boys of high school age at St. Vincent's Home in Fall River.

Born in Boston, she lived

SUSAN HAYES

Once There Were Dahlias.
Today, Tradition Meets Convenience.

In 1962, M. Joseph Sweeney acquired the Elcock Estate in West Quincy to better serve the residents in that growing area of the city. The circa 1863 residence was built long before the expressway. Its previous owner, Mr. Elcock, had a green thumb and soon became known as the "Dahlia King" for his spectacular dahlias.

Today, the location is not only near the Southeast Expressway (I-93), but also the Furnace Brook Parkway. These two major arteries offer convenient access to West Quincy, Milton and Boston. Joe's son, Dennis, has recently had the location redecorated, continuing the family's philosophy of maintaining a beautiful, home-like atmosphere.

Since 1917, the staff at Sweeney Funeral Homes has been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions. And as the area has grown, they've become more accessible to you.

A Thought
For The WeekYOU TELL ON YOURSELF

You tell on yourself by the friends you seek,
By the very manner in which you speak;
By the way you employ your leisure time,
By the use you make of dollar and dime...

You tell what you are by the things you wear,
By the spirit in which your burdens bear,
By the kind of things at which you laugh,
By the record you play on the phonograph...

You tell what you are by the way you walk,
By the things of which you delight to talk,
By the manner in which you bear defeat,
By so simple a thing as how you eat...

By the books you choose from the well-filled shelf,
In these ways you more, or less, tell on yourself...
So there's really no particle of sense,
In the effort to keep up FALSE PRETENSE...

Trustees Say SS Solvent Until 2032

By LAURIE ZASTROW

Due in large measure to a growing economy, reduced unemployment and low inflation, Social Security's long-range projections have improved over the past year, the Social Security Board of Trustees reported in their 1998 annual report.

Although sustained high economic growth over the past year pushed back the depletion of the Social Security trust funds assets to 2032 rather than 2029 as forecast in last year's report, the Trustees continued to urge timely action to address long-range deficits.

"These outcomes are a direct result of the enactment of the Balanced Budget Act and the recent strong performance of the economy," Treasury Secretary Robert E. Rubin said.

"Today's report confirms that the Social Security long-term financing problem is one of manageable proportions," Kenneth S. Apfel, Commissioner of Social Security, said. "Although there is no immediate financial crisis, the time to act is now in order to prevent a crisis from ever occurring."

President Clinton has called for this year to be a year of national dialogue and has asked all Americans to get involved. In December, the President will convene a bipartisan White House Conference on Social Security and begin bipartisan negotiations with congressional leaders early next year.

"The President believes that this year of public discussion is essential to shaping a Social Security program for the future that provides a foundation of protection for all Americans and inspires public confidence," Apfel said.

The Trustees reported that income from payroll taxes will become insufficient to meet all Social Security obligations in 2013, a year later than forecast in last year's report. At that time it will be necessary to begin using interest income to the trust funds. Beginning in 2021, it will be necessary to redeem trust fund assets to pay benefits until 2032 when the trust fund reserves will be exhausted and income going into the trust funds will provide money to pay only three-fourths of benefits. Over the 75-year long-range forecast, the Trustees predicted the shortfall to be 2.19 percent of taxable payroll rather than 2.23 percent as estimated last year.

"The health of both the Social Security and Medicare trust funds is important for the millions of Americans who depend on these programs today, and for the millions who will depend on them in the future," Secretary Rubin said. "Preserving and modernizing Social Security and Medicare is not a partisan issue. We will be able to construct acceptable solutions to the long-term challenges of both programs only if we join together and act on a bipartisan basis."

Required by law to report annually to Congress on the current and future financial condition of the trust funds, the Trustees also update economic and demographic assumptions reflecting recent experience of the past year and analysis of past trends. Based on their findings, the Trustees reported the following:

About 147 million workers in 1997 worked in jobs covered by the Social Security program and 44 million people were receiving benefits each month.

Income to the combined Old Age, Survivors and Disability Insurance trust funds totaled $457.7 billion and outgo totaled $369.1 billion.

Trust fund reserves amounted to $656 billion at the end of 1997, and interest income amounted to $43.8 billion in 1997, representing an effective annual interest rate of 7.5 percent.

Administrative expenses totaled $3.4 billion, or about 0.9 percent of benefit payments.

The Board of Trustees is composed of six members: the Secretary of the Treasury, who serves as the managing trustee; the Secretary of Labor; the Secretary of Health and Human Services; and the Commissioner of Social Security. Two other members, Stephen G. Kellison and Marilyn Moon, who were appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, are serving four-year terms as public members.

Your Horoscope by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Given enough time by yourself and there's no telling what you'll accomplish this week when you're the one pulling the strings from behind-the-scenes. A minor snag occurs later in the week, but you are able to rise above it. The weekend favors outdoor activities.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Slow down and do the job right. Both as old and a new friend are important to you at this time. Doors seem to open for you in your career. Good will toward others brings benefits this weekend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You may have a disagreement about a shopping matter, but overall, financial interests are favored this week. There's more than one iron in the fire. However, you must be sure to prioritize tasks so that each is performed correctly and to your satisfaction.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Rough spots this week will be smoothed over fairly early. Some truly happy news comes your way. Mental work and collaborative efforts are favored. Travel is plus over the weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Freelancers meet with new assignments. Shopping for the home is favored. Home-hunters meet with fortunate leads. Enjoy family interests this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Be careful how you say things this week in business. Partnership activities are highlighted but you must be able to compromise. Singles meet with romance from an unexpected source. Expect a pleasant surprise this weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Early-week distractions may irritate you, but these are soon over. Chances arise to improve your overall position in life and success is within reach. However, you must be willing to roll up your sleeves and do some hard work.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You may be in too much of a rush this week. Slow down to assure progress. Some splendid career developments are in the works. Count on financial improvement.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A family member may not be in the mood for company, but social opportunities for you are glorious. Welcome new friends, new ideas. However, don't be so willing to throw away the tried and true.

Bellotti Files Child Abuse Report Bill

see in their professional capacity. Instances where the officers may encounter child abuse victims include family visits to jails, and home inspections of inmates who are on the electronic bracelet program.

"This is part of our plan to re-invent the Sheriff's Office," Bellotti said. "Corrections officers have some contact with the families of inmates, and as such, should be required to report cases of child abuse victims just as police officers, probation officers, parole officers, firefighters, and others are required to do."

Bellotti said his proposed requirement is another step in making the correctional system more pro-active in the community it serves.

Under the current law, professionals ranging from physicians to teachers to social workers are required to orally report to the Department of Social Services and the District Attorney's Office any case of physical or emotional child abuse they may come across in their professional capacity. Within 48 hours of the oral report, the person is required to make a written report to those departments.

Several QP Streets Reconsidered For Busing

DeCristofaro said at press time he would meet with Marshall School Principal Philip Connolly and Barbara Cahill, coordinator of transportation for the Quincy Public Schools, to begin discussion of what to do with the "bubble" streets in question.

He stressed that whatever action is taken regarding that area will be done to "provide the most safety to the neighborhood," and those affected will be informed of any decision made.

DeCristofaro also noted that "major flexibility" often is permitted within the bus routes. For example, he said, if a child is suddenly left without transportation to school, he or she might be able to be picked up by a bus in the area if at all possible.

State Police To Increase Wollaston Beach Patrols

State Police will increase patrols and visibility on Quincy Shore Drive along Wollaston Beach and Caddy Park, announce Sen. Michael Morrissey and Rep. Michael Bellotti.

Both Morrissey and Bellotti have been working with the State Police and the Metropolitan District Commission (MDC) on improving police presence at Wollaston Beach.

"The legislators were able to secure in the Fiscal Year 1999 budget $25,000 in additional funding dedicated to overtime patrols along Quincy Shore Drive and the surrounding areas," said Morrissey. "Isolated locations such as Caddy Park will also see increased surveillance and patrols."

The recent purchases of land, such as Don Kent's Oceanview, repaired sections of the seawall and beach sand replacement reflects the Commonwealth's commitment to the area.

"The renaissance of Wollaston Beach and increased expenditure of money and efforts directed toward this area has made it an invaluable resource," said Bellotti. "We have taken important safety measures to ensure that people feel comfortable and secure when taking advantage of this valuable recreation area."

The legislators also applauded the city's efforts to stop polluting the bay and the beach area, but much work still remains to be done, the two said.

"The city has been identified as the largest single polluter of the beach and we should work together to make sure that ongoing improvements and renovations continue and the city increases its commitment to stop pollution," Morrissey said.

"The increased patrols should help the abutters and neighbors to continue to enjoy this resource," added Bellotti.

Four To Be Reappointed To College Governors Board

Four members of the Quincy College Board of Governors are expected to soon be reappointed without opposition.

Board members John

Farmer and Geraldine Lewis, both of Quincy, Richard Hart Jr. of Hingham and Philip McCue of Cohasset all will be up for reappointment when their terms expire Aug. 31.

Members of the six-person appointing committee--which includes three members of the Board of Governors--will meet to discuss the appointments for the first time Aug. 25. They have said they do not plan to consider any outside candidates.

Four more members of the Board of Governors will be up for reappointment Aug. 31, 2000, and the remaining five members will be on Aug. 31, 2002.

Raymondi Calls For Immediate Action 25 New Cruisers Urged For Police

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi is backing a proposal by a Quincy Police Department committee that the city purchase at least 25 new cruisers as soon as possible.

Raymondi has scheduled a meeting of the council's Public Safety Committee, which he chairs, for Tuesday, Sept. 8 at 7:15 p.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall. Police Chief Thomas Frane has been invited to address the committee at that time.

The purpose of the meeting, according to Raymondi, is "to discuss the present condition of the motor vehicle fleet of the Quincy Police Department and to make recommendations to the mayor."

"My personal opinion after reading the report authored by members of the Quincy Police Department," he added, "is that the Quincy City Council and the mayor's office should take immediate action in the procurement of at least 25 new police cruisers as soon as possible."

The special police committee that prepared the report for Frane consisted of Capt. Donald Riley, Lt. Normand Goyette, Sgt. Daniel Kennedy, Det. William Lanegan and Officers Richard Churchill and Michael Cronin. The report, a copy of which has been obtained by The Quincy Sun, originally was completed in December but was updated late last month.

DANIEL RAYMONDI

"It's critically important we provide our officers with the equipment they need."

The updated police committee report states:

"It is recommended by the committee that a minimum of 25 new police cruisers be purchased as soon as possible. We do not make this recommendation lightly....If there is a substantial delay in the purchase of the above-recommended vehicles, the committee foresees an additional number of vehicles required."

"Any less than the above-recommended number will affect the ability of this department to continue on its mission of outstanding police service to the

Endowment To QRTA Totals $1.27M

The final numbers are in on the endowment left by the late Quincy educator Harry Beede to the Quincy Retired Teachers Association's scholarship fund for high school students.

Robert Mattsson, association treasurer, reports the gift for the scholarship fund totals $1,270,256.76.

"That's all of it," he said. Beede, a former principal of three Quincy schools and science teacher at what is now Quincy High School, bequeathed 75 percent of his estate to the association when he died two years ago.

The final amount of the endowment was approved by officials at the Sun Trust Bank in Florida, where Beede was living at the time of his death, Mattsson said.

The Sun reported in July 1996 that Beede, who died in April of that year, bequeathed a total of $1,022,000 to the QRTA for the benefit of its scholarship fund. But although that was a sizable enough amount, Mattsson said Beede's skillful management and in-

World War II Memorial Underway

A memorial to World War II veterans and to those who did their part on the homefront is underway in Quincy 53 years after the end of the war it was hoped would end all wars.

The memorial will be located in Merrymount Park at Southern Artery and Hancock Street. The committee behind the effort hopes to have the statue completed for public viewing by the fall of 2000, according to member John "Butch" Mahoney.

The exact timetable will depend on how quickly a planned re-vamping of the park and Southern Artery takes place, he added.

Mahoney said the purpose of the memorial "is to honor everyone who participated in World War II, both in combat and at home."

The city already has honored the veterans of World War I with the "Doughboy" Statue in front of Adams Academy on Adams Street and the Korean War Memorial in front of Veterans Memorial Stadium, which is located across from where the new memorial will be placed. Mahoney, a Korean War veteran, led the committee that spearheaded the effort to build the latter.

Struck By Cars One Woman Killed, Second Critically Injured

One Quincy woman was fatally injured and another critically injured when struck by cars in separate accidents.

Maureen Lynch, 68, of 190 Albatross Rd. was struck and killed by a car shortly after 6:30 p.m. Friday as she attempted to cross Sea Street at the corner of Braintree Avenue in Adams Shore. She apparently was hurled onto the car's hood and thrown several feet onto the street. The windshield of the car was shattered.

Lynch was taken to Quincy Hospital and then transferred to Boston Medical Center, where she died soon after arrival, according to authorities.

Police said she had been walking toward the Adams Shore Supermarket when she was allegedly hit by a 1998 white Chevrolet Prizm traveling south. The driver has been identified as Michelle Braun, 38, of 7 Rogers Lane, and the incident is still under investigation, according to police.

The other accident victim, Carol Labadie, 60, of 32 Gay St., was struck by an automobile last Thursday around 6 a.m. while picketing for greater job security and increased benefits with other Raytheon employees gathered at the intersection of the Burgin Parkway Extension and Centre Street.

At press time, she was listed in critical condition at Boston Medical Center.

Labadie, the sister of Quincy District Court Clerk Magistrate and former Mayor Arthur Tobin, was injured after a black Pontiac Grand Am heading north on Burgin Parkway collided with a red Ford Taurus heading south and turning left onto Centre Street, according to demonstrators. The impact sent the Taurus onto the sidewalk, where Labadie took the brunt of the impact. None of the other demonstrators were seriously injured, but one of them, 43-year-old Lawrence Bizarro of Fair-haven, was treated at Quincy Hospital for a cut on his leg and other abrasions.

Neither the driver of the Taurus, 39-year-old Thomas Agostino of Medford, nor the operator of the Pontiac, 42-year-old Scott Ceurevels of Braintree, were injured seriously, although Agostino was treated and released at Quincy Hospital.

Police said that accident also remains under investigation.

On Moon Island

Bombs Detonated For TV Show

Four bombs were detonated on Moon Island in Squantum last Friday as part of a Discovery Channel program about big city bomb squads, according to a member of Mayor James Sheets' staff.

Bernice Mader, administrative assistant to the mayor, said the bombs were detonated between 9:40 and 11 a.m.

Mader said the detonations were done solely for the purpose of filming for the cable channel's program—in which the Boston Police Department's bomb squad will be featured—and will not be repeated.

"It was a one-time thing," she said. "It's over and done."

Mader stressed that no live bombs were transported through Squantum prior to the detonations. The necessary components were brought to the island and the bombs were assembled on site, she said.

Moon Island is owned by Boston but falls within Quincy's city limits in Squantum. In the event a live bomb or bombs must be brought there, Boston is required to notify Quincy Fire Chief Thomas Gorman beforehand, Mader said. The chief then notifies the Quincy police.

She also noted the Boston Police Department has apologized that Quincy was not notified about the filming in advance. The Boston public relations officials in charge of telling the police about the plan did not do so until the last minute, she said.

Mader said a Boston Police Department spokesman described himself as "embarrassed and angry" over the lack of communication and said "it won't happen again."

vestment of his finances is what allowed the association to receive an even higher total.

Mattson told The Sun earlier this summer the QRTA has about $1.7 million in its scholarship account, and it awards annual scholarships to students from North Quincy High School and Quincy High School out of the account's interest. The amount given out now will increase because of Beede's endowment, he said.

All of the QRTA's money has been donated by retired Quincy teachers. The scholarship account was started with a $1,000 donation by retired Quincy High School teacher Warren Findley about 14 years ago.

Beede, a QRTA member, was principal of Broad Meadows Junior High School (now Broad Meadows Middle School) from the time it opened in 1957 until his retirement in 1970. He was involved in the design, planning and construction of the school.

During his 34 years in the Quincy school system, he also served as principal of Central Junior High School (now Central Middle School) and North Quincy Junior High School (now North Quincy High School), where he worked 14 years starting in 1935 as a science teacher. A Quincy native, he was a graduate of Quincy High School, Northeastern University and Boston University.

Beede and his late wife Louisa, a former Quincy podiatrist, had no children of their own.

QRTA members recently suggested renaming Broad Meadows Middle School after Beede. School Supt. Eugene Creedon, however, has said there are currently no plans to include that proposal on the agenda of the Quincy School Committee, which would have to approve the name change.

DON'T GET MAD, GET HEALTHY

Remember the "let it all hang out" philosophy? Not too long ago, it was one of those passing fads of pop psychology—the belief that venting your anger, not holding back on it, is a healthy thing. That advice may have sounded good and even felt good in some cases, but research is now concluding that people who are prone to outbursts of anger are also more at risk for heart disease. In a seven-year study of more than 1,300 people between the ages of 40 and 90, those subjects who registered symptoms of extreme anger suffered from coronary heart disease almost three times as often as those subjects who experienced no extreme anger.

Only recently have we begun to discover just how much our lifestyle can affect our well-being. Taking care of yourself is more important than ever, and that includes paying attention to creating conditions that reduce your stress and increase your overall peace of mind. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550, office hours by appointment.

P.S. Anger and stress can have many serious health consequences. There are effective coping techniques—ask your doctor!

How About Pedestrians?

So, they want to move traffic faster in Quincy. Install a city-wide network of super-duper high tech traffic signals to uncork traffic congestion.

So that cars can catch a green light and keep catching them one after another, missing the red ones.

Great!

But how about pedestrians trying to cross streets while these cars are getting the green?

Like at the crosswalk on Hancock St. in Quincy Sq. just a few yards north of Granite St.

If officials really want to see traffic moving they might try to cross in that crosswalk. It will move right by them.

That's the one in front of The Sun office on one side of Hancock St. and Quincy Center Plaza-Photo Quick-Phase II on the other.

The one that has broad white stripes like crosswalks are supposed to have. Stripes that say "Hey, look! I'm a crosswalk!" But, the one you could get bowled over by a car trying to cross in.

In fact, it's a wonder someone hasn't been seriously injured or killed there.

Traffic often roars along this stretch of Hancock St. as though it was the Indianapolis Raceway.

Oh, they'll stop if you happen to be a pretty young thing in a short skirt. "All right, honey, just take your time."

About three years ago we noted Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon tried to solve the problem in response to complaints.

First, he erected two prominent yellow signs each with the figure of a pedestrian and the word YIELD below it, one sign facing traffic going north and the other traffic going south.

That didn't do much.

So, he tried again. He came up with two yellow, red and white signs and combined them with the first two.

They boldly proclaim from top to bottom: "YIELD, State Law, STOP for Pedestrians In Crosswalk."

Few drivers pay any attention to them either. Maybe they don't see them on the island strip where they stand.

Drivers heading south zoom toward Granite St. hoping to sail through a green light there.

Drivers heading north roar toward Temple St. hoping to sail through a green light there.

One of those barrels with the State Law warning placed in the middle of the crosswalk on each side of Hancock St. might slow things down. The one at Hancock St. and Cottage Ave. seems to work.

But if putting the barrels out in the morning and taking them in at night is too much bother, maybe the city could hire a pretty young thing in a short skirt to periodically cross there from one side to the other.

Traffic congestion is a real problem, and, hopefully, with the plans for a new high tech signals system, it will be solved.

But let's not forget the pedestrians.

Especially the ones who are having trouble crossing streets in crosswalks many drivers ignore.

What can we do for them?

A POPULAR FIGURE is leaving the Quincy Sq. scene. Dr. Sid Cutler, a legendary dentist for 53 years and life-time sports fan, has decided to call it a career and is closing his office in the old Quincy Savings Bank building. Sid, who is now 82, says: "I guess it's time to step down. But where did those years go?"

CUTLER

Sid helped make a little history at Quincy Hospital some time ago with anesthetist Naif Simon. Two teeth were extracted from a patient who Simon put under hypnosis—with her consent—instead of administering anesthesia. It was a surgery first at the hospital. The patient said she didn't feel a thing.

Through the years Sid has helped send Quincy High School basketball players to college with scholarships. And for those efforts, he was inducted into the Quincy High School Basketball Hall of Fame in 1990.

Sid is a real sports enthusiast whose favorite pro team is the Celtics.

"I started going to their games when they first started," he recalls. "Back then there was no trouble getting a seat."

He met Red Auerbach in the early days and the two have remained good friends.

His favorite Celtics: "Bill Russell and Bob Cousy. They really got me interested. I still bleed green today."

Sid has seen many changes down through the years. Including the cost of dentistry.

"I remember," he muses, "when the price of pulling a tooth was $3 and you could get two pulled for $5."

"But it's all relative. That was back in 1945 when $3 and $5 was worth a lot more than it is today."

Happy retirement, Sid. Gonna miss you around the Square.

NOTHING AMUSING ABOUT hurricanes and tropical storms but don't you think the Weather Bureau could have used a little more imagination in naming them this year.

Emergency Pre-Registration For Children At Hospital

The Quincy Hospital Emergency Department is offering free pre-registration forms which allow the staff to take care of your child even if you aren't there to sign a consent form.

Pre-registration is a simple process of documenting your permission for the emergency staff to provide care for your child if you aren't immediately available. At Quincy Hospital, this involves filling out a form with your child's name, birth date, medical history, allergies or medical conditions, and any other information.

To request a free Quincy Hospital pre-registration form, call 376-4016.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1926 POSTCARD shows the original Wollaston Beach seawall under construction and nearing completion. This view is south from the Wollaston Yacht Club. Notice the group of youngsters standing on the outfall pipes in the distance on the left. These were great places to jump or dive into the shallow water. Engineering reports on the causes of pollution near these outfall pipes today would lead you to believe that it must have been the same situation in 1926. Perhaps at that time nobody checked there for contamination.

Supports New Pharmacy Plan For Best Buy Site

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I am writing to express my support for the development plan that has been proposed for the old Best Buy site in North Quincy.

I believe that a new pharmacy is an excellent opportunity that should not be overlooked or passed over. Many of my friends who live in the area often have to take a bus to pick up prescription medicine, toiletries, etc.

A store at this location would make a nice addition to the Squantum Gardens and Marina Bay area. Seniors and families could travel the short distance there to find what they need instead of having to drive all the way into downtown or Hancock Street. It would also be a nice place for seniors to work.

Think how convenient it would be to have a neighborhood pharmacy nearby (just like the good old days!). A lot of business people who work at Marina Bay will also be able to run errands. This project will force the new owners to keep a neat and clean site. As it stands today, the lot is unsightly.

I hope other seniors like me support this project, since it will bring much needed service to the new residents of Squantum Gardens.

Wollaston Beach Can Come Clean

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Well, my recent letter in The Quincy Sun brought mixed reviews. Some folks told me I was 100 percent correct but others said I was all wet in my negative attitude. However, the proof is in the pudding or should I say water, eh?

The Metropolitan District Commission celebrated "Back to the Beaches" at Wollaston Beach Sunday, July 26. However, as I drove along Quincy Shore Drive I couldn't help but notice the red flags by Channing and Milton Sts., "Back to the Beaches" excluding apparently those two, huh? It always bothers me to know that parts of Wollaston Beach can be safe for swimming while other parts warn swimmers to stay out of the water. Where do you draw that imaginary line in Quincy Bay? As for me, one red flag is more than enough to swim somewhere else.

When I think of getting wet, I never think Wollaston Beach. I think Pleasure Bay in Southie. I think Revere Beach. I think Wessagussett in North Weymouth. I think of lots of places away from here. Someday I truly hope to be able to use Wollaston Beach as more than a walking track for my exercising but right now, despite all the hard work by federal, state, MWRA, MDC and local officials, my chance of safely going into the water is about as great as bumping into a "Baywatch" babe.

Kudos to the City of Quincy and Public Works Commissioner David Colton for all the difficult work being done. The city has been investing monies in the sewer system since the '80s. Another $1 million is scheduled to be spent fixing sewers in the Wollaston area next year. Says Colton, "We're always doing work to tighten up the system to keep rainwater out."

Much work has been done but we cannot yet say things are as good as it gets. It's gotta get much better than this. It is easy to pin blame on others. Should we blame the MDC or the MWRA? Should we blame Nut Island or Deer Island? Should we blame Gov. Cellucci or Mayor Sheets? Personally, I blame all of us, myself included.

I know that for 40 years we have all sat back quietly watching our waters grow more polluted and how ironic that it is now probably healthier to swim in Boston Harbor than in Quincy Bay. However, all is not lost. Revere Beach went real dirty too and now folks are back to Revere Beach and into the water. If Revere Beach can come clean, so too can Wollaston Beach.

Finally, if you're planning on a day at the beach before you come to Wollaston, call the MDC at 727-5264, ext. 517 to find out if the bacteria are winning or losing. How truly sad that on "Back to the Beaches" Day at Wollaston Beach that any red flags were seen blowing in the wind at all.

If we want to see dinosaurs, we go to a museum; if we want to see great art masterpieces, we go to a museum; and if we don't clean up our natural resources, will we someday have to go to a museum to see clean beaches and blue flags?

Residents Advised Of Off Shore Military Maneuvers

By PAUL HAROLD

Brigadier General P.S. Sage, Commanding General of Harbor Defenses of Boston, advised Quincy shore area residents not to be unduly disturbed by an unusual air activity this week between sunrise and sunset.

He said that there would be joint Army-Navy maneuvers, with aircraft laying smoke and flying low in connection with the operation.

DOWNTOWN MERCHANTS PLAN FOR V-E DAY
Quincy merchants met at the Chamber of Commerce to plan on closing hours, in anticipation of the fall of Germany.

It was decided that if victory in Europe was announced before 2 p.m., stores would close for the rest of the day and open the next day. If the announcement was made after 2 p.m. on a business day, stores would close and stay closed for the entire next day.

In the event the announcement came on a day stores were closed, such as Sunday or a holiday, stores would not be open for the following business day.

SILVA NAMED PRINCIPAL AT SOUTH JUNIOR

In a secret ballot, the school committee elected Theodore Silva as principal of South Junior High School, winning the post over John Mahoney, principal at Atherton Hough and Hunting schools.

Silva started in the Quincy school system in 1926 at Central Junior High School.

In other action, the committee elected Coddington School Assistant Principal Robert Hamilton to a principalship, yet unassigned. The committee also raised the starting pay of teachers from $1,200 to $1,500.

Mayor Charles Ross, chairman of the committee, directed that a post-war building program be put in place.

QUINCY-ISMS

Councillor Christian Burkard, chairman of the City Council's committee on explosives, signed a complaint in Quincy District Court, in furtherance of his efforts to drive Hercules and Atlas powder companies out of the city. The complaint charged that the companies were in violation of existing regulations. Burkard said the named companies stored "enough dynamite to blow Quincy to kingdom come."

... Dr. Charles Djerf announced that he was closing his office at 1159 Hancock St. to enter the U.S. Navy. ... Sgt. John Vecchiola of Bradford St., crew member on a B-17 flying fortress, was reported missing over Hungary. ... Sgt. Ernest Montillo of Willard St. was awarded the American Defense Ribbon, awarded to those who enlisted before Pearl Harbor. ... Police received numerous reports of quarry swimmers being robbed of personal effects, while they were swimming. ... Mary Realini of Hayden St. died. ... John Wayne starred in "Fighting Seabees" and Jane Frazee in "Rosie the Riveter" at the Adams Theater on School St.

Bing Crosby was in "Going My Way" at the Regent in Norfolk Downs. ... Sgt. Arthur LaBrecque of Sea St. was wounded in France. ... Capt. John Nesbitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nesbitt of Elmwood Ave. was awarded the Bronze Star. He was served in India. ... Taleb Grotto sponsored a charity circus at the stadium, featuring Captain Pruska and his man-eating tigers. ... Sgt. Phillip Greenberg, USMC of Main St., was killed in an airplane accident in the South Pacific. ... Capt. James Hack of Main St. was reported safe in France. ... Mrs. William Cataldo of Bloomfield St. hosted the lawn party for the Squantum Women's Catholic Club. ... Lt. Patrick Faherty of Dysart St. was awarded the Purple Heart for duty in France. ... PPC. Arnold Levine of South Walnut St. was seriously wounded in France. ... Letter carrier George Patten of Turner St. retired after 40 years with the post office. In his younger years he was a marathon runner, finishing 13th in the Boston Marathon in 1903 and 17th in 1905. ... Mayor Ross proposed that the marsh along Quincy Shore Drive, from Fenno St. to Black's Creek be filled with rubbish. The filling would "kill two birds with one stone," by eliminating an eyesore and reducing the travel time for rubbish trucks from Wollaston, Atlantic and North Quincy.

OH, THOSE KISSING CORNS!

As much as we may hate them, soft corns are nature's way of trying to take care of our poor, often abused feet. The corns may be the result of toes that are squeezed together in poorly fitting shoes, or they may be caused by abnormally formed bones protruding against each other. In either case, the corn is the body's attempt to cushion, place a "pillow" over, filiated with Carney, Quincy and South Shore Hospitals.

Beef Stew, Dumplings For Two

I hear rain hitting the windows and the temperature dropping slightly and wa-la, thoughts of a stew or soup come to mind. And so it was last week when I cooked a beef stew and with dumplings! And for a change I prepared it just for two, a rarity in our house.

Beef Stew for Two

- 1 medium onion (sliced)
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1/2 pound beef in 1-inch pieces
- 1 1/2 cups water or chicken or beef stock
- salt and pepper to taste
- 2 potatoes (diced)
- 2 carrots (sliced)
- 1 cup peas (optional)

Dumplings

- 1 cup flour
- 1/2 cup and a bit more of milk
- 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder

For the dumplings, mix all ingredients together (mixture will be on the dry side.) set aside.

Brown the beef and onions in the hot oil. Add the water and cook covered until meat is tender. Add the potatoes and carrots, and cook covered until vegetables are done. Add the peas at the end. When the stew is done add the dumplings (about 4) and cook covered for 15 minutes. Serve the stew with dumplings on top. It was nice getting back to a stew after the fast food during the hot humid summer days.

Cellucci, Quincy Officials Attend Conference On Aging

Quincy Council on Aging officials were among the 1,200 professionals, senior advocates and elders who attended the 13th annual Governor's Conference on Aging held recently in Buxborough.

Acting Gov. Paul Cellucci, in his opening address, said it was most fitting that the conference was held in May as part of Older Americans Month.

Cellucci and other top officials on the state and national level told the assembly that participating in the series of 23 workshops and discussions featured at the conference will "go a long way in ensuring that your many years in the Commonwealth are safe, rewarding and fulfilling."

The acting governor also announced that he was appointing Lillian Glickman to be secretary to the Executive Office of Elder Affairs for Massachusetts. Glickman has been serving as acting secretary since former secretary Franklin Oliver left the cabinet post last year.

Cellucci's announcement was greeted with applause by the general assembly. Glickman has been associated with the Executive Office of Elder Affairs as an assistant secretary and a staunch senior advocate for several years.

The conference keynote address entitled "Staying Continuous and Connected" was delivered by Joseph Perkins, president-elect of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP). Perkins is the first Massachusetts resident to be elected to the office. He was later installed at the AARP's National Convention.

Morning and afternoon workshops included such topics as health care options, social security today and tomorrow, taking stock of one's future, prescription drugs, preventing elder abuse, welfare reform, rewards of volunteering, the spiritual challenge and sessions for minority groups.

Brian Buckley, director of the Quincy Council on Aging, Department of Elder Services was a guest panelist at a well-attended workshop entitled "Advocate for Number 1." The focus of the workshop was to provide the 341 Councils on Aging in Massachusetts with information to improve communications with elected public officials and discover effective methods of self-advocacy to address Council on Aging concerns and needs.

Other Quincy Council on Aging officials who participated in the conference included: Chairman John

Noonan; Gerard Weidmann, president of South Shore Elder Services and board member; Asian Coordinator and board member John Chen; and SHINE Coordinator Jane Mudge. Special guest was Frank Derwin, Quincy's senator to the Silver-Haired Legislature.

St. Ann's Seniors To Meet Sept. 14

The St. Ann's Senior Citizens Club will meet Monday, Sept. 14 at 1 p.m. in the gymnasium at St. Ann's School, 1 St. Ann's Rd., Wollaston.

ATTENTION ALL RETIREES!! Don't Let This Happen To You...

Senior Citizens Could Lose Close To Their Entire Life Savings And Put Their Homes In Jeopardy From Nursing Home Expenses/Medicaid Requirements/Estate Taxes/and Probate!

Join Attorney Richard Rubino For A FREE Workshop and Learn the Correct Strategies To Protect Your Assets!

Radio Personality Richard Rubino is one of the most sought after speakers in the New England area today, and is considered the Leading Expert on Estate and Medicaid Planning. He has published numerous articles on Asset Protection Strategies, and is the host of the WJDA - 1300 AM radio program "Money Talks".

Workshop Topics of Discussion Will Include:

- The New Medicaid Law Changes from 1998
- The New Estate Tax, Income Tax & Capital Gains Tax Law Changes from 1997
- The Kennedy - Kassebaum Bill and What It Means To You

Did you know...

- You have to be close to poverty level before applying for Medicaid benefits?
- You must apply in writing for Medicaid? Medicare pays only the first 100 days of Nursing Home expenses. After that, you must private pay yourself. With average nursing home cost of $6,000 - $8,000 per month, the average person's life savings could be wiped out in less than 2 years!!
- The $10,000 annual gift exclusion to children is not exempt from Medicaid qualifications.
- If you have a Revocable or Living Trust, and it is not funded, it will still pass through Probate.
- If you have a Revocable or Living Trust it does not protect you from Medicaid qualifications AT ALL!
- Joint Accounts with children do NOT protect you from Medicaid. They are usually a BIG mistake! If your children get sued, divorced, or go through bankruptcy, your accounts are at risk!
- The Estate Tax Unified Credit Exemption Equivalent only goes from $600,000 - $675,000 by the year 2001. It does not reach $1,000,000 until year 2006.

AT THIS WORKSHOP, YOU WILL LEARN:

- Current strategies available to protect your home from Nursing Home expenses.
- What the 36 & 60 - month "Waiting Period" really means. What legal strategies are available.
- What the criminal offense issue is all about with the Kennedy/Kassebaum Bill.
- How you can use the New Capital Gains Tax Changes To Help Your Asset Protection Strategies.
- The pros and cons of Irrevocable & Revocable Trusts - Are they right for you?

WE ARE HOLDING THE NEXT FREE WORKSHOP ON:

Thursday, September 3 from 10am - 12 noon at the Braintree Sheraton Hotel, 37 Forbes Road

Literacy Program Marks 12th Anniversary

Literacy Volunteers of America-Quincy recently celebrated its 12 year at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Volunteers, learners, families, and friends gathered at the annual recognition event to recognize the achievements of students and tutors and to "Celebrate Change," the theme of the event.

Students in the program make changes in their lives based on goals met. Three students received their commercial driver's licenses, one received a GED, one an evening high school diploma, three took job promotions and one received the state organization's achievement award.

Volunteers Lorraine DeWald, Donie Cahill and Mary Callahan were recognized for their outstanding commitment to tutoring and the achievements of their students. Five-year pins were awarded to Betty Barron, Donie Cahill, Jeanne Gallivan, Donna Hickey, Kate Kalaghan, Dottie Ridge, Nancy Morrison, and Marilyn Silva. Tutor Charlie Jacobs received his 10-year pin.

A number of changes have taken place to accommodate the construction of the new addition at the library, which is located at 40 Washington St. in Quincy Center.

"One of the biggest changes we've made is shifting our meeting space for tutoring pairs from the library to alternative sites and on-site tutoring pairs from the library to alternative sites and on-site tutoring," said Library Director Ann McLaughlin. "Our good neighbors in and around Quincy Square have generously offered us space: Harvard Vanguard, the Naval Reserve Center, the Patriot Ledger, and Union Congregational, Quincy Community United Methodist and Quincy Point Congregational churches. But we still need more space. Our volunteers want to continue their good work."

Tutors and students also meet at shelters, a nursing home, and at libraries throughout the South Shore.

For more information about the program, call 376-1314.

WILLIAM B. RICE EVENTIDE HOME

Where Security and Friendship Go Hand In Hand.

Miriam Addison is proof positive that you're never too old to make new friends. She first met Gayle Davis after moving to Quincy's Eventide Home, where Gayle is a loyal volunteer.

Miriam came to Eventide from her Quincy home, after living alone became too much to handle and she needed nursing care.

Gayle began volunteering at Eventide after moving to Massachusetts from Maine 14 years ago. Miriam also lived in Maine for a time.

"Can you believe that we both started our first jobs at Union Mutual in Portland, Maine?" Gayle asks. "What a small world!"

When Miriam expressed a desire to go shopping, Gayle responded and they became instant friends.

"We just gelled," Miriam says. "We discovered the Talbots outlet together."

"And don't forget about your favorite lunch spot overlooking Hingham Bay," adds Gayle. Miriam Addison recently celebrated her 100th birthday, surrounded by family and friends at home, Quincy's Rice Eventide Home.

THE FAT CITY BAND

Local Favorites, Sha Na Na At Family Celebration Sept. 6

Local favorites The Fat City Band and the Quincy Symphony Orchestra will join nationally-known rock group Sha Na Na in providing entertainment for the first annual Quincy Labor Day Family Celebration.

The event, co-sponsored by State Street Corporation and Stop & Shop Companies in cooperation with Mayor James Sheets, will be held Sunday, Sept. 6 from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. at the Fore River shipyard. Rain date is Monday, Sept. 7.

An area at the shipyard will be transformed into a picnic and entertainment venue for the day-long festival. Entertainment for children will include interactive music, dance and hula hoop contests, face painters, balloon masters, kids rides, and special costumed characters.

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra, directed by Yoichi Udagawa, will perform at 3 p.m. and The Fat City Band at 5 p.m.

Sha Na Na will perform at 8 p.m. Their program will be engineered and directed by Al Dotoli of Quincy, a seasoned production specialist who has set the stage for numerous performers, including The Sinatras, Sammy Davis Jr., The Rolling Stones, Van Halen and others.

The non-alcoholic event also will include a live broadcast by WODS-FM (Oldies 103), and a full-service food court.

Admission is $6 (children under 10 will be admitted free) which allows flexibility and the opportunity to visit other local tourist attractions. For an additional $5 per adult, families may cruise around the Boston Harbor Islands from the Harbor Express Terminal. A tour of the USS Salem, complete with a cup of chowder courtesy of Mayor Sheets, will be offered for $3.

Proceeds from the event will benefit The Friends of the USS Salem at the U.S. Naval and Shipbuilding Museum.

Other sponsors include Coca-Cola, CVS, Kinko's, MediaOne, The Adams Inn and The Patriot Ledger.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL

From Blue Cross-Blue Shield

Tips For Dealing With Back-To-School Stress

Saying goodbye to summer and its languid sunny days isn't easy.

Although September is usually a time of renewal and new beginnings, those new beginnings can bring increased stress. Everyone needs to be aware of stress and know how to deal with it. That's why Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Massachusetts' Prevention and Wellness Programs suggest these strategies to manage the stress of back-to-school and summer-to-fall transition.

Stress is the way our bodies react, both physically and emotionally to any change, whether it's good, bad, real or imagined. Today, one in 10 persons is victimized by stress. A small amount of stress is normal. However, if increased and maintained for long periods of time, stress can overburden the body's system, causing a breakdown.

At times there are situations we can't fix overnight. It's a process. But when you talk with a counselor, a family member or close friend, sometimes it just helps to release yourself. Your body often will alert you that your stress is too high. By being aware of and acknowledging your symptoms or stress, you have already begun your process.

Symptoms

- Increased heart rate or rapid breathing
- Feeling overwhelmed by all the things you do
- Headache, grinding teeth, stomach discomfort
- Feeling run down, tired and problems and sleeping

- Anxious, confused or forgetful
- Tense muscles--especially in neck and shoulders
- Irritable

Call your physician if you have recurrent thoughts of suicide, death, impulses or plans to commit violence.

Strategies For Stress Management

• Exercise is a great stress reducer. Go for walks, try deep breathing, muscle relaxing or Tai Chi.

• Balance work or school with play. All work and no play makes you pretty uptight, so make time for hobbies and recreation. These activities relax your mind and offer relief from life's big and little worries.

• Take a shower or bath with warm water. This soothes and calms your nerves and provides relaxation for your muscles.

• Keep a sense of humor. Laughter makes our muscles go limp and releases tension.

• Budget your time. Make a to-do list. Set priorities, allow yourself more time, or avoid committing yourself to doing too much.

• Prepare for stressful events. Don't fret about that upcoming presentation. Plan ahead and imagine yourself feeling calm and confident.

• Don't make small problems seem bigger than they really are. When something goes wrong, ask yourself, "In 10 years' time, with this matter?" Don't dwell on problems or failures you had in the past. Live in the present.

• Talk to someone. It often helps you solve your problems or at least makes you feel better.

• Eat healthy foods. Maintain a regular program of healthy eating to keep you fit.

If you continually follow the strategies listed, you will be able to manage your stress level and have a more enjoyable, stress-free life. For further assistance contact your doctor, clergy, worksite employee assistance program (if your employer has one) or a professional at your health club.

These suggestions were taken from the Decision-Care Guide, a self-care booklet developed by Blue Cross in conjunction with the American Institute for Preventive Medicine in Framington Hills, Michigan and also from "How to Cope with Stress" by Dr. George Rubin.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Massachusetts'

Prevention and Wellness Program started in January 1995 with a series of initiatives designed to promote preventative health to nearly 2 million members. For more information about this program, call 1-(800)-262-BLUE.

Calming Fears About School Violence

(NAPS)—It's normal for kids to have mixed feelings about going to school.

But, in the wake of recent violence on school grounds, some children may be overwhelmed by fears of harm from random attacks. Psychiatrist Paul Kettl, Parents can help children overcome fears about random violence in schools.

M.D., an expert on children's issues, says parents can play a big role in helping children overcome such fears.

"It's important to discuss a child's fears with him or her. In our society, violence can happen anywhere, even at school," says Kettl. "Younger children, especially, need to know that teachers, police officers and others are nearby to help."

Kettl notes that junior high and older youth can play a role in decreasing the type of violence that could escalate to tragedy.

"Kids can learn to walk away from a fight and encourage their friends to walk away before things get out of hand," said Kettl.

No one can prevent all senseless, random acts but parents and children can help reverse the trend toward violence in our schools.

To learn more, write to the American Psychiatric Association Public Affairs, Dept. 98A, 1400 K St., NW, Washington, DC 20005, call 202-682-6000, or visit the APA's Web site at <http://www.psych.org>.

Pointers For Parents

On A Quest For Fall Kid Style

(NAPS)—Parents know that shopping with the kids for back-to-school clothes takes patience and fashion savvy! And knowing what's "fab" and what's "drab" for the Fall season is key to stepping out in style.

You can help your children look "fab" for school by being aware of the fashionable styles of the season.

"The newest factor in infant and children's playwear comes in the form of unexpected color mixes. For example, clothing colors range from traditional navy, red and hunter hues to funky Fall foliage tones including teal, yellow, turquoise and jungle rose," says Healthtex fashion authority, Janet Littrell. "You'll want to combine the new colors with plaids, gingham checks and fabric mixes of corduroy, flannel and fleece for the best looking seasonal styles."

Here's what the experts at Healthtex say to look for (and leave behind) this Fall:

- Fab!
 - Carpenter and cargo pants
 - Small novelty prints
 - Print and pattern mixing
 - Plaids
 - Natural and faux fabric

- Drab!
 - Neon colors
 - Polka dots
 - Large prints
 - Color-blocking

Must-haves for the Fall season include colored denim and sweatshirt fabrics for the boys, knitwear and stadium jackets with fleece trim for the girls, along with fuzzy appliques and embroidered collars on playwear and outerwear.

Jim Giron, editor-in-chief of KidStyle magazine, suggests that you remember these helpful hints when shopping with your child:

- Let 'em Express Themselves. Let your child choose. Listen to your child's tastes when picking out clothing together.
- Mix Masters. Look for brands, such as Healthtex, that make it easy to mix-and-match and faster to get ready for school in the morning.

• Money Matters... Set spending limits and discuss them before you head to the mall, period.

Healthtex, a division of VF Corporation, is sold through department, chain and children's specialty stores nationwide. The company also offers a line of hosiery, footwear, swimwear, bedding and other accessories.

For more fashion facts, you can visit the Healthtex company's Website at www.healthtex.com.

Proper Nutrition Adds To Success In School

(NAPS)—There are two lessons parents of school children may like to learn: (1) why don't kids eat what is packed in their lunches, and (2) the correlation between good nutrition and strong academic performance.

"A healthy, well-balanced lunch can help your child's mental acuity and alertness," said Ann Louise Gittleman, M.S., Certified Nutrition Specialist. "But, that's only if they eat that well-balanced meal."

LESSON ONE: The Lunch Packed Is Not Always The Lunch Eaten

According to a May/June 1998 study by Wirthlin Worldwide, almost half of children surveyed trade lunch items at least once or twice a week, with nearly ten percent trading every day. When kids were asked why they trade lunch items, most said that they didn't like their own lunch or were bored with the same items. Many kids view trading as an important social activity, a ritual or a game.

With kids trading and discarding various items in their lunches, from sandwiches and fruit to milk and snacks, it is difficult to guarantee a well-balanced meal and preparedness for a day of learning. While there are no guarantees children will eat their lunch, by incorporating the following tips into the brown-bagging routine, parents may deter kids from trading lunch items away:

- If children don't eat something at home, most likely they won't eat it at school. Let your kids help pack the lunch and identify nutritious foods they like and will eat.
- Vary the items you pack in their lunches—such as a sandwich one day, and macaroni and vegetable salad the next.
- Use different breads for sandwiches such as pita, rolls or hot dog buns; cut the sandwiches with a cookie cutter

Illustration by [unintelligible] to make them more visually appealing and fun.

- Don't deny your children snacks, because they'll get them another way. Instead of cookies or chips, try a healthy, but great-tasting treat such as Balance Bars.

- Encourage kids to eat colorful vegetables by including a tasty dip. Vegetables pack a powerful nutrition punch because they are loaded with vitamins, minerals, phytonutrients and fiber.

- Add color and a little sweetness to lunch with delicious fruit. Remember, at least five servings of fruits and vegetables daily are recommended.

- Set a good example for your children by eating healthy, well-balanced meals yourself.

"I recommend Balance Bars as a part of a school lunch, as they are a more nutritious alternative to junk food snacks and taste great," said Gittleman. Balance Bars are a delicious addition to any school lunch, and are a terrific source of nutrition and vitamins. With ten exciting flavors such as Yogurt Honey Peanut, Almond Butter Crunch and Banana Coconut, there is sure to be a variety to meet each child's particular tastes. The new Mini Balance Bar, an ideal snack size, comes in three delicious and popular flavors—Almond Brownie, Chocolate and Honey Peanut. Although mini bars are not a meal replacement, Balance Bars are also great for kids who skip breakfast or need an additional energy boost between class and after-school sports or school and dinner.

LESSON TWO: The Importance of Good Nutrition

Nearly all parents (95 percent) surveyed by Wirthlin Worldwide say they are careful about monitoring the nutritional value of their children's lunches. Fewer parents (only 36 percent) say there is a strong connection between what their child eats for lunch and his or her academic performance. Recent research from Tufts University confirms the link between nutrition and cognitive development in children.

According to the university's study on severely undernourished children, "Even relatively short-term nature influence children's behavior, ability to concentrate, and to perform complex tasks."

"If a child skips breakfast, or does not have a nutritious lunch, that day's test scores may suffer," said Gittleman. "Surely, if parents fully understood the impact food has on their children's school work, they would more carefully plan lunch, supply breakfast in the morning, and have healthy snacks throughout the day."

Parents should talk with their kids about the importance of good nutrition," said Gittleman. "It is essential that children understand not just what they should do, but why they should do it."

Good nutrition helps with school performance by stabilizing blood sugar levels. "Benefits of a stable blood sugar include extended energy and balanced moods, which can also impact a child's ability to perform well in school," commented Gittleman.

Balance Bars and 40-30 Balance Drink Mixes are owned and marketed by the Balance Bar Company.

QCAP First Time Homebuyer's Workshop Starts Sept. 19

Quincy Community Action Programs Inc., an approved MHFA first-time homebuyer counseling agency, will hold a First Time Homebuyer's Workshop Saturday Sept. 19 and 26.

The four workshops will be held at The South Shore Savings Bank, 1530 Main St., Rt. 18, Weymouth, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Attendance at both workshops is mandatory to qualify for the different mortgage options available through the Mass Housing Finance Agency, Soft Second Programs and other financing options.

The agenda will be comprehensive and individualized. The focus will be on different aspects of the homebuying process, including how to locate a property within budget, how to make an offer, and determining the best mortgage program.

Advanced registration is required and space is limited. Cost is $36 per household.

For more information and registration forms, call Deborah Mullaney at 479-8181, ext. 172.

The workshop is sponsored by the City of Quincy and the Department of Housing and Community Development.

Flynn Establishes World Wide Web Page

Daniel J. Flynn III, candidate for Governor's Council in the Fourth District, recently established a web page.

Personal information on the candidate as well as professional and civic affiliations can be seen by visiting the world wide web at www.electflynn.com.

Flynn would represent the Fourth District, which consists of 18 cities and towns stretching from Boston to Marshfield. The Governor's Council makes decisions on criminal pardons, commutations, and approves judicial nominations.

"As a lifelong resident of the South Shore, I truly believe that I can represent our district towards a goal of open and responsible government," said Flynn. "I have the experience necessary for the position and I am committed to the needs and concerns of the people of our communities."

Cities and towns in the Fourth District include Boston, Quincy, Abington, Avon, Braintree, Canton, Cohasset, Duxbury, Hingham, Holbrook, Hull, Marshfield, Milton, Norwell, Randolph, Rockland, Scituate and Weymouth.

For more information, call Flynn at (617) 479-9000.

Report Recommends 25 New Police Cruisers

citizens of this city."
The report also suggests a new manner of disposing older department vehicles.
"It is recommended that in the future, police vehicles could be sold through the Quincy Auto Auction," it states. "The committee believes that substantial monies could be raised, as opposed to the minimal amount produced by the older method of bidding."

In addition, the committee recommends the initiation of a procurement program following the purchase of the first 25 cruisers. The program would consist of a purchase of four vehicles spaced over a six-month period, enabling the department "to phase out those overage vehicles that are constantly draining the resources of the department."

The rapid aging of the current fleet is the main reason the new cars are needed. The report shows, for instance, that one 1997 vehicle operated by the department already has traveled over 60,000 miles.

Vehicles at the department range in age from 1 (1997) to 17 (1981), it also notes.

The report states that in 1993 and 1996, the police department "for unknown reasons was overlooked in its vehicle replacements. We have seen and are seeing the results of that oversight. Cruisers purchased, after a lengthy procedure, were finally put out on the road in the spring of 1997, but unfortunately that was a stop-gap measure."

Twenty-five new cruisers would represent almost a third of the department's current fleet. According to the police committee report, the department now has 77 vehicles, including those used by animal control officers and the auxiliary police department.

Raymond said he favors funding the vehicles in any way possible, whether it be by an appropriation from the city budget, a bond issue, or through some other funding mechanism.

For an appropriation to take place, Frane would have to send a request to Mayor James Sheets, who would forward it to the City Council if he deemed it necessary. The council has the final say on any appropriation request.

It was unknown at press time exactly how much the purchase of 25 vehicles would cost. Raymond, however, said he is "confident" the mayor and his fellow councillors will do all they can to support public safety.

"It's critically important that we provide our police officers with the equipment that they need in order to accomplish their ongoing public safety mission," he said. "This apparently is a most critical need."

Raymond noted that he, also, thinks the concept of selling older cruisers through the Quincy Auto Auction "needs to be examined" and added, "In addition, we need to make recommendations for a more consistent purchase plan for the phasing out of older vehicles. We have to work with the mayor and the chief to have a systematic upgrading of the entire fleet."

Raymond said he plans to meet with Sheets sometime this week to discuss the matter and to brief his fellow councillors prior to the Sept. 8 Public Safety Committee meeting.

Kevin Moore Remains In Coma Since May Automobile Accident Outpouring Of Support At Softball Fundraiser Gratifies Moore Family

By LIAM FITZGERALD
Family, friends and neighbors of Kevin Moore recently turned out in an impressive display of community support for the Quincy High School senior, who remains in a coma following a May car accident.

A support committee for Moore organized a fundraising softball tournament, with proceeds to be donated to The Kevin Moore Rehab Fund.

One of the organizers was Moore's brother, Gino, who said the committee aimed to raise between $1,600 and $2,000 through the tournament games, raffles, donations and concessions. A final count was not available at press time, but organizers were confident they would reach their goal.

"We're looking to raise money for Kevin, because when he wakes up, he might need a special wheelchair or something to help in his recovery," said Gino. "This way, we'll have the money to cover procedures or anything that might come up."

The tournament, which began Aug. 9 and continued Aug. 16, culminated in Sunday's championship game at O'Rourke Field in West Quincy.

Gino's team, Fallon Ambulance, edged Kevin's team, the Manets, 17-16, but Moore's parents focused their attention on the event's success. They extended their heartfelt gratitude to all those who attended and made it a memorable day for the Moore family.

"We want to thank Quincy High School and the whole Quincy community for their support through this," said Gene Moore, who inspired the softball championship. "It's great to see everyone come out for Kevin, even those who don't know him personally. This was great for him."

Kevin, 18, a talented quarterback on the Quincy High football team, was the passenger in a car that was struck by a car running a red light in Norwood on May 23. He suffered serious head injuries in the accident and remained at Massachusetts General Hospital for 10 weeks.

BRIAN CLIFFORD of the Manets takes a swing during Sunday's championship game of the fundraising softball tournament for Kevin Moore, a Quincy High School senior who remains in a coma following a May car accident. Proceeds from the tournament, held at O'Rourke Field in West Quincy, will go to The Kevin Moore Rehab Fund.

Recently, he was moved to Braintree Rehabilitation Hospital, where the medical staff is taking an aggressive approach to stimulate him and develop a comprehensive rehabilitation program.

"It's been tough," said Gino. "I have three kids of my own, and my daughter misses him. She was his favorite. My wife misses him, we all miss him. It's just not the same without him around. At Sunday dinner, we all gather around the table, and Kevin would be there cracking jokes, making people laugh."

The initial idea for the tournament originated among Gino's friends and co-workers at Fallon Ambulance.

NQHS Cross Country Team Tryouts Aug. 31

All boys and girls interested in joining the North Quincy High School cross country team should report to the NQHS Atrium Monday, Aug. 31 at 8 a.m.

Freshmen and newcomers as well as members of last year's team should report.

Three O'Malley's Boxers Bring Home Gold Medals

Three of the nine amateur boxers from O'Malley's Boxing Gym who recently competed in the Ohio State Fair returned with gold medals. Two other O'Malley's fighters earned silver medals.

"That makes six national champions in the past two years," said O'Malley's gym trainer Jimmy Farrell Jr. "We've had a lot of success lately, and it has a lot to do with the kids' dedication and hard work."

Vinnie Traetti, a sophomore at North Quincy High School, won gold in the 15-year-old, 165-pound weight class. Traetti, who has won six New England tournaments, plays football and baseball and also wrestles for North.

Coming off a silver medal finish last year, Whitman's Nick Morganelli Jr. won the gold medal in the 100-pound, 12-year-old division. In his opening bout, Morganelli defeated tourney favorite Kenny Porter of Cleveland. Morganelli went on to beat Robert Lucas of Fremont, Ohio, in the final.

Archbishop Williams High School junior Pat Long captured the 178-pound title in the senior division of the Junior Olympic division. Long pulled off two upsets to win the gold, including a victory over David Miranda of Staten Island, N.Y., in his first bout. Long defeated a boxer from St. Louis, Mo., in his final.

Two O'Malley's fighters lost in the finals, but were awarded silver medals. Jimmy Dapkas, 17, a 147-pound South Boston fighter, dropped a split-decision to Cliff Richards of the Marine Corps.

South Boston's Sean Reagan also lost a decision in the finals of the 16-year-old middleweight division.

Three other Quincy fighters competed in the tourney, including lightweight Travis Bartlett, who lost in the semifinals. North Quincy High's Ryan Conway fell in the welterweight semis and 9-year-old Justin Piscopo, a 55-pounder, lost a split decision in his first match.

Farrell extended his gratitude to the Quincy Police Athletic League, which came through with a $1,500 grant to fund the trip.

"Thanks to Quincy PAL, we were able to go; without their help, the kids couldn't have gone," he said. "It was great of them to lend their support to us."

Next up for O'Malley's Gym is the national PAL tournament in September. Last year's national PAL superheavyweight champion, North Quincy's Steve Vukosa, sprained his wrist and could not attend the Ohio State Fair.

St. John's Golf Outing Another 'Great Success'

The recent sixth annual St. John's Golf Outing at Presidents Golf Course in Quincy was a "great success," according to event organizers.

Playing under ideal weather conditions, 110 golfers participated in the outing.

The winning men's team included Bill Curran, Dick Curran, Jack Smyth and Paul Smyth. The victorious women's team was comprised of Maureen Duggan, Janice Erler, Cindy Wilson and Janet Colclough.

The members of the first place mixed team were Fr. Bill McCarthy, Jim Hubbard, Bill Manning and Yolanda Romanelli. John Quinn won the St. Vincent de Paul charity hole and Joan Matthews won the 10th hole, for Parish Activities. Patrina Quinn was closest to the pin on the 18th hole.

Fred Saluti and his volunteers provided a "steak bake" following the outing at St. John's Hall for all the participants. Prizes were awarded to all those who participated.

Event organizers also extended their appreciation to all the sponsors and volunteers who contributed to the outing's success.

Golf Classic To Benefit SS Habitat Sept. 14

Golfers and sponsors are needed to help support the first annual East Coast Community Golf Classic on Sept. 14 at the Blue Hills Country Club.

The event will benefit South Shore Habitat for Humanity, which is involved in its busiest building season ever, according to Habitat officials.

East Coast Petroleum of Quincy is sponsoring the Golf Classic, which is being presented by Delta Airlines.

Proceeds will aid South Shore Habitat for Humanity in its continuing effort to build affordable housing in partnership with families in need. South Shore Habitat is midway through a 10-home neighborhood in Quincy, and is about to begin new homes in Pembroke, Randolph, Rockland and Marshfield.

There are several ways to participate in the golf tournament and auction:

•Golfers -- Blue Hills Country Club has 27 holes. The Classic offers an 18-hole best ball tournament, with the first-place team winning round-trip tickets to Bermuda. The tournament is limited to 30 teams. For those interested in a shorter game, there is the 9-hole scramble, with a weekend in Vermont as the top prize. The scramble is limited to 15 teams.

•Sponsors -- Large and small sponsors are needed to underwrite tournament activities. Sponsorships range from $3,000 for a Golf Cart Sponsor or Dinner Co-Sponsor to $100 for a green or tee sponsor, and provide visibility for company names and logos throughout the tournament.

•Donations -- Goods and services to be used as prizes or auction items are also needed. These can be tickets to events, gift certificates, use of vacation condos, sports equipment, special dinners, rounds of golf, or other items.

Tournament space is limited. Golfers who wish to participate should register immediately. For more information, contact South Shore Habitat for Humanity at 28 River St., Braintree, MA 02184 or call (781) 843-9080.

will be even better. We want to make it an annual thing--as long as everyone's willing to come back, of course. I don't think that will be a problem, looking at how many people turned out."

The game itself seesawed back and forth, with the Manets jumping out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Fallon went ahead with a four-run outburst in the top of the fourth, only to have the Manets storm back with four runs in the bottom of the frame to go ahead, 7-4.

Fallon tied the game with two runs in the fourth and another in the fifth, but again the Manets charged ahead with three runs in the fifth and two more in the sixth and led, 12-7.

Not to be outdone, Fallon again donned its rally caps and notched a run in the seventh and eighth and three more in the ninth to force extra innings. With the game tied 12-12 in the top of the 10th, Fallon erupted for five runs and withstood a two-out, four-run Manets rally in the bottom half to escape with the victory.

Tournament organizers thanked the following for their assistance and generosity: Quincy Police Department, Quincy Fire Department, Roche Brothers Supermarket, Roxie's Supermarket and Dunkin' Donuts.

And what would Kevin say about the outpouring of community support?

"If he were here, he'd thank everyone personally," said Gino. "That's the type of kid he is."

WWII Memorial Underway

and Leonard Morris, both World War II combat veterans--got their first look this week at a 2-foot-high model of the statue. Its creator, sculptor Andre Iwanczyk of Long Island, N.Y., also will do the work on the memorial.

The model depicts a nurse who represents all of the women who served in the military during the war, an Army infantryman and a Navy sailor. Mahoney stressed, however, that the committee, which came up with the design, is still open to suggestions and may yet make some changes to the memorial.

"It's not etched in stone," he said of the current design. "This is not the final product."

The final design will hopefully will be completed in about six months, he added.

The new bronze memorial, approximately 8 feet in length, will stand on top of a granite base that itself will measure 8 feet high. The emblems of the five branches of the U.S. military--Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and Coast Guard--will be included on the memorial, as will tributes to the Fore River shipyard and Quincy companies that provided services for World War II, Mahoney said.

The project will cost at least $250,000 "or more," according to Mahoney. Funds will be raised through raffles and other fund-raisers as well as the sale of flagpoles, benches, special lamp-posts and bricks for a "Walk of Names," all to be located at the memorial site, he said.

Those wishing to submit ideas about the design of the World War II Memorial should call Keenan at the mayor's office, 376-1990.

Walk-Through Inspection Of Concourse Site Sept. 3

The Quincy Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC) for the Quincy Center Concourse will hold a walk-through inspection of the site of Phase 2 of the proposed roadway Thursday, Sept. 3 at 4 p.m.

The group will meet in front of 31 Revere Rd. in the downtown business district and tour the various streets and properties which will be in the proximity of the proposed concourse linking Hancock Street with McGrath Highway.

Plans for Phase 1 of the project are in the final design and approval stages. That phase will connect Granite Street to Burgin Parkway and will include a bridge over the MBTA Red Line and commuter train tracks and a roadway along Ross Parking Way to Hancock Street.

Groundbreaking for Phase 1 is expected to take place this fall following approval by state and city agencies.

CAC Chairman David Ezickson invites all committee members to participate in the walk-through tour of the sites under study for Phase 2, the east side of the multi-million dollar proposed road connector.

CAC members have expressed concerns about traffic control, vehicle speed limits, pedestrian safety zones, access to business-owned parking, landscaping, Earth Tech Phase 2 preliminary design plans, signage, signalization, and land or property taking.

Phase 1 construction of the bridge is expected to take about 15 months for completion.

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

Of all God's gifts to man, laughter is one of the most subtle and is one of the most precious. It has neither nationality nor religion. As an equalizer, it has no equal.

Laughter is one of the greatest contributions that has been given to mankind, and is one of the best things that one person can give to another. Comedians try to give that gift to us by telling jokes or humorous stories, but we don't always need an entertainer to make us laugh. We can give laughter to others; others can give laughter to us; and best of all, we can give it to ourselves.

When was the last time you had a good laugh at yourself? When was the last time you were in an embarrassing situation and didn't know what to do or say? And when you thought about it later, you realized the joke was on you and you could have just laughed! Laughing can make you feel better in an embarrassing situation and it certainly is better than crying. So keep it as an important part of your life. As the saying goes "When you laugh, the world laughs with you; when you cry, you cry alone..."

Your Horoscope by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Some feel unappreciated by a higher-up, but perhaps you're taking things too personally this week. Developments at a distance renew your faith in human nature. Weekend socializing is pleasant.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You can't expect a friend to give more than he or she is capable of. Concentrate on career interests for progress. Finances improve. However, still be sure to watch your budget when out shopping over the weekend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Holding things in will only get you down more. Take advantage of those good friends who will hear you out. Then, you're in fine shape by week's end.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Though you're not getting your own way this week, try not to take out your disappointment on others. Home-based activities are best for you for the most part. However, you can feel free to kick up your heels over the weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Though you might not have as much money at your disposal as you'd like, you still can have joyous times with others. By all means, go out for fun. Be aware, though, that a career matter needs tending to as well this week.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A task is not as fearsome as you imagined. Once you get started and become involved, things go smoothly for you. Rise above self-limitation.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A family problem could get you down. Sharing your thoughts with a romantic tie helps to alleviate the blues. Indulge your taste for the nice things in life over the weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Be careful not to strain credit resources. Home-based fun seems preferable to outside activities this week. Some face a romantic disappointment.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A block on the job could mean you've been trying too hard and stifling the free flow of intuition. Some playtime gets you back in touch with your feelings. Later in the week, you achieve your goals.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Don't let outside worries interfere with job efficiency. This week, you have a chance to better your position but it requires your full concentration. A friend has some interesting advice this weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Though social life is nicely heightened, it's a poor time to ask others for favors, especially of a financial nature. Enjoy cultural amusements this weekend. Romance is positive for singles and married folks alike.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A tendency to be downcast needs to be overcome this week. Practice some self-analysis and get to the root of what is bothering you. Then, begin again.

Chretien Wants More Federal Money For Senior Citizens

Larry Chretien, candidate for state representative, says the Cellucci administration is doing a poor job of enrolling low-income senior citizens for two programs aimed at reducing the costs not covered by Medicare.

According to the Families USA Foundation, about 82,000 eligible families in Massachusetts are not covered in those programs. As a result, those families are passing up about $59 million in unused federal benefits.

Chretien said he is referring to two programs. One would eliminate the Medicare premium for seniors whose income places them slightly above the eligibility limit for Medicaid or Mass Health. The other program would actually reduce co-payments and deductibles for certain medical procedures.

"Gov. Cellucci doesn't have to spend much money at all in order to get $59 million in federal benefits," said Chretien. "Why doesn't he? The reason is that his administration, like Weld's, just doesn't take enough interest in human services and health care. If a big business said it wanted to come into the state with a payroll of $59 million, you can bet that Cellucci would take credit. But in this case involving seniors, if the state took just a few steps, 82,000 families with low-income seniors would benefit."

"First, the state needs to sign an agreement with the Social Security Administration so that seniors can go to the local Social Security offices to sign up for these federal benefits. Right now, to get these benefits, a senior must apply at the welfare office and that discourages people. It's the same reason that many seniors do not apply for food stamps."

"Second," Chretien added, "The state needs to spend a small amount of money on improving its own outreach. We need to advertise and market these federal programs. The state and the cities and towns have computerized information—particularly at the Department of Revenue and the Registry. Seniors should receive information through the mail, by telephone, and through home visits about this Medicare program and others, such as the Pharmacy Assistance Program. Wouldn't it be worth spending, say, $5 million in state money, in order to receive $59 million in federal money?"

"Third, programs like these should be better coordinated with other programs for seniors like the property tax abatement, Pharmacy Assistance, Fuel Assistance, Sewer and Water Assistance, Food Stamps, and subsidized housing. Seniors should be able to go to one place for these programs or outreach workers should go to them."

Chretien concluded by saying, "When seniors need help and we can give it to them on Uncle Sam's dime, why not? Government is not always about creating new programs and spending a lot more money. Sometimes it's just about paying attention to what people need and looking at all of the options."

Quincy 2000 Names Five To Board

Five members of the Quincy business community have filled vacancies on the Quincy 2000 Board of Directors, announces Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph Mannarino.

They are:
•Christine Dunn, owner of Dunn Associates and a partner of New England Fertilizer Co. at the Fore River shipyard, which provides sludge management services to the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority. Dunn Associates recently worked with the City of Boston and area residents and businesses during the permitting phase of the Millennium Place Project in Downtown Crossing. Dunn serves on the board of directors or is affiliated with New England Women in Real Estate, Bostonian Club, The Boston Harbor Association, and Friends of the Parkman House.

•Deanna Gazarian, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and owner for 23 years of Phase II Jewelry and Gifts in Quincy Center. As QCBA president, she participates in Mayor James Sheets's weekly task force meetings.

•Mark Bertman, president of Rogers Jewelry in Quincy Center. He is a founder and member of the Quincy Partnership, past director of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, and a founder and president of the QCBA. Bertman also serves in executive positions for numerous corporations, including Anson Inc. and Colibri Corp., both in Providence, R.I.

•Sotiris Emmanuel, president of Massachusetts Heavy Industries Shipbuilding LLC and owner of the shipyard. He has served as chairman and CEO of the Elefis Shipyard, an investment consultant for the International Bank of Greece, and in other shipbuilding capacities. In 1990, he was elected chairman of the Greek Association of Shipbuilders and the Association of West European Shipbuilders.

•Michael McFarland, owner of Barry's Deli in Wollaston. He serves on the Quincy School Committee, the Flag Day and Christmas Festival committees, and Quincy Access Television's Board of Directors. He is former director of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, past president of the Wollaston Business Association, and past president of the Quincy Rotary Club.

Maple Trees Suffering From Cold Injury

The Quincy Park and Forestry Department would like to inform residents that a number of maple trees throughout Massachusetts are suffering from cold injury.

Some of the maples are dropping their leaves much earlier than usual without the turning of the autumn colors. The trees are not dead and should foliate again next spring.

The cold injury has been caused by the unusual weather pattern of the previous spring. Unseasonably warm weather in March caused many of the maple trees to begin to bud prematurely. The cold and wet months of April and May resulted in the stunting of many of the buds. As a result of this damage, many of the leaves are sooty or blackened and are dropping much earlier than usual.

The damage is mostly found on the Norway, Red and Sugar varieties of maple trees. Some beech and birch trees may also suffer similar effects from the cold injury. After researching the situation with the University of Massachusetts, the Department of Environmental Management and the city's tree warden, the Park and Forestry Department expect that most of the maple trees maple trees will not experience significant long-term effects from the problem. It is expected that most of the maple trees will foliate next spring. If a tree had a previously existing condition, the cold injury may exacerbate the situation.

"This statewide problem has significantly affected Quincy's beautiful tree-lined streets," said Thomas Koch, executive director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments. "Although we may not be able to enjoy the local foliage this season, we do expect that our maples will recover from this temporary situation to add aesthetic beauty to our city for many years to come."

Ward 4 Senior Meetings

The Ward 4 Senior Citizen Group meets every Wednesday from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Ward 4 Community Center, 100 Brooks Ave., South Quincy.

Fall programs are being planned. All seniors are invited to attend. Refreshments are served.

Ward 4 City Councillor Michael D'Amico often attends meetings to speak to members. Jim Moura, R.N., conducts a blood pressure clinic every third Wednesday. Entertainment also is often provided by various musicians.

Those who attend are asked to bring discarded eyeglasses and hearing aids for the needy and non-perishable foods for the hungry. For more information, call Ernie Aristide at 472-6312.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations will conduct an accreditation survey of Hancock Park Rehabilitation and Nursing Center on September 22-25, 1998.

The purpose of the survey will be to evaluate Hancock Park's compliance with nationally established Joint Commission standards. The survey results will be used to determine whether, and the conditions under which, accreditation should be awarded to Hancock Park.

Joint Commission standards deal with organizational quality-of-care issues and the safety of the environment in which care is provided. Anyone believing that he or she has pertinent and valid information about such matters may request a public information interview with the Joint Commission's field representatives at the time of the survey. Information presented at the interview will be carefully evaluated for relevance to the accreditation process. Requests for a public information review must be made in writing and should be sent to the Joint Commission no later than five working days before the survey begins. The request must also indicate the nature of the information to be provided at the interview. Such requests should be addressed to:

Division of Accreditation Operations
Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations
One Renaissance Boulevard
Oakbrook Terrace, IL 60181

The Joint Commission will acknowledge such requests in writing or by telephone and will inform Hancock Park of the request for any interview. Hancock Park will, in turn, notify the interviewees of the date, time and place of the meeting.

'Safe Quarries' Meeting

A charter meeting of the new "Safe Quarries" Committee was scheduled for last night (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room at City Hall Annex, 1305 Hancock

St., Quincy Center. Ward 4 City Councillor Michael D'Amico, who helped form the group, was to be in attendance along with representatives of the Quincy and Milton police departments. Norfolk County District Attorney Jeffrey Locke also was invited to attend.

"What I want to do is attract parents of school-aged children in the area, people who have a stake in preventing senseless tragedies," said D'Amico. "At the outset, we need community leaders who'll rally our young people. Kids have to be warned, 'if you want to play at the quarries, you'll have to pay with a night in jail and maybe more.' Saving lives is a serious business.

"In the long term, this task force must have the ability to explore all options on what the future holds for the city's granite quarries and ultimately develop proposals for the council to consider."

CLIFFORD H. MARSHALL Elementary School in Quincy Point, named after the late Norfolk County sheriff from Quincy, will open its doors to students for the first time on Sept. 9, the start of the 1998-99 school year. It is the first new elementary school built in the city since the completion of the Lincoln-Hancock School in 1975.

9,238 Students Expected

City's School Enrollment Up 2.6%

ANNE McDONOUGH, fourth grade teacher, tidies up her classroom in preparation for the 1998-99 school year at the brand new Marshall School.

By MICHAEL WHALEN

An enrollment increase of about 237 students or 2.6 percent is expected when Quincy's public schools open Wednesday, Sept. 9.

School Supt. Eugene Creedon said that while the increase will be small—from 9,001 students to a projected 9,238—it likely will be more than twice the increase of last year, when enrollment jumped from 8,893 to 9,001 students, or about 1.2 percent.

"Our enrollment isn't official until Oct. 1," he stressed, referring to the statewide date Massachusetts school systems submit their enrollment figures. "But we anticipate an enrollment of about 9,238." Creedon said the student populations will increase from 4,484 to about 4,524 at the elementary level, 1,995 to about 2,088 at the middle school level, and 2,522 to approximately 2,626 at the high school level.

Bus Schedules Page 16

The superintendent said reasons for the increases vary from neighborhood to neighborhood and from school to school. Some examples he cited:

"The new Clifford Marshall Elementary School in Quincy Point, which is replacing the Point-Webster School—the latter is slated to be converted to a middle school—already has a projected enrollment of about 650 students, up from 614 last year. One reason, he said, is that parents obviously are eager to send their children to the brand new facility.

"The Beechwood Knoll Elementary School in Wollaston will see an increase due to a number of homes in the area being sold to families with young children.

"The city's growing Asian population has made numbers go up at the Montclair Elementary School in North Quincy.

Plan Devised To Update Police Cruiser Fleet

Mayor James Sheets and Police Chief Thomas Frane have devised a plan to update the cruiser fleet of the Quincy Police Department on a more regular basis.

The two men addressed the subject following a story in last week's Quincy Sun about a report prepared by a special police committee appointed by Frane. The report, completed last December and updated in July, recommended that "a minimum of 25" new cruisers be purchased to replace the department's aging fleet.

That plan was backed by Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi, chairman of the council's Public Safety Committee.

Sheets and Frane said since the release of the report, they have discussed the matter and agreed that the regular purchase of new cruisers must become a priority. While buying 25 at one time is unrealistic, they said, the city plans to do the following:

- Purchase eight or nine cruisers once the city's "free cash" (cash reserve) total for Fiscal Year 1999, which began July 1, is certified by the state. Sheets said he does not know what the amount will be but the figure should be made available to the city "any day now."

- Purchase eight or nine more cruisers at the end of the fiscal year if enough free cash remains, or with free cash earmarked for Fiscal Year 2000.

- Beginning with the Fiscal Year 2000 police budget, add a line item that calls for the annual purchase of a certain number of cruisers. Frane will decide on the number by February when work on the budget begins, the mayor said.

Sheets said his administration has always backed the police department and its needs since he first took office in 1990.

"We've always responded very well to the needs of the police department, and we will continue to respond to their needs," he said.

Any request by the mayor for the appropriation of free cash would have to be approved by the City Council, which has consistently backed Sheets in matters pertaining to public safety.

Frane, who noted that the cruisers cost somewhere between $25,000 and $30,000 apiece, said he is "very happy" with the plan.

"We do need to replace them (the cruisers) more consistently," he said.

Three new cruisers were purchased earlier this year as part of the new community policing program initiated by the city. Frane added, so his department actually will have a dozen new cruisers at its disposal if nine are purchased in the near future.

New Bus Stop Added For Marshall School Students

A new stop has been created in the Quincy Public Schools bus routes to the new Clifford Marshall Elementary School in Quincy Point to accommodate three area streets some parents thought were forgotten by the school system.

Richard DeCristofaro, assistant superintendent of schools, said a bus will stop at Washington Street and Edison Park on school days at 8:31 a.m. Students who live on Edison, Graham and Thompson streets should take that bus to school, he said.

"I think it's a natural for Graham, I think it's a natural for Thompson, and I think it's a natural for Edison," said DeCristofaro.

Some parents had expressed concerns when Edison, Graham, River and Thompson streets were not included on a recent mailing sent to Quincy Point families regarding the new bus routes.

DeCristofaro said because the fourth street, River Street, is notably closer to the Marshall School it has not been included as part of the new bus stop. Students from that street should walk or be transported by their parents, he said.

However, he added that students from River Street who need to take the bus because of special circum-

Quincy 2000 Lends $326,000 To 4 Businesses

The Quincy 2000 Loan Pool recently awarded a total of $326,000 to four Quincy businesses, announces Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph Mannarino.

The businesses are Industrial Heat Treating, Presidential Camera, the McArdle Company and Schuerch Corp.

Industrial Heat Treating, located in North Quincy adjacent to the Best Western-Adams Inn, has offered heat treating services to New England manufacturers for 56 years. Owner Lynne Davis sought financing to consolidate management through the purchase of corporate stock, the refurbishment of facilities, and the purchase and relocation of equipment. The project was jointly financed by Quincy 2000, Plymouth Savings Bank, and the Massachusetts Business Development Corp.

Mannarino said, "With the loan proceeds from Quincy 2000, Industrial Heat Treating will be able to purchase state-of-the-art processing equipment and computer systems, and consolidate and relocate existing equipment. Additionally, this may allow them to expand their facilities, resulting in more job opportunities."

Presidential Camera, owned by John Black, is located at 1422 Hancock St. in Quincy Center. Black opened the store with two loans from Quincy 2000 in 1995. The store specializes in sales, repairs, photo processing, digital restoration and passport photography and also offers photography classes.

With a third loan from Quincy 2000, Black said he plans "to increase the inventory—particularly with respect to digital cameras and equipment—install a sophisticated inventory and order tracking control system, and reconfigure the store to expand the retail space."

The McArdle Company, a family-owned business, has operated Hancock Tobacco at 1500 Hancock St. in Quincy Center since 1993. In 1995, owner Florence and her husband Joseph McArdle received a loan from Quincy 2000 to open Hancock Convenience, a convenience store adjacent to Hancock Tobacco. With their second loan from Quincy 2000, the McArdles refinanced their first loan, significantly lowering their monthly payments and giving them additional capital for the businesses.

Schuerch Corp., founded and owned by Quincy inventor Peter Schuerch, is a medical device design and manufacturing firm. Recently, it entered into an agreement with AMR, the nation's largest ambulance company, to supply its ambulances with the Schure-Slide—a patient transfer device patented to Schuerch.

This month, the company received its second loan from Quincy 2000 to help it meet the agreement's requirements. Loan proceeds will also assist Schuerch Corp. with additional marketing of the company's medical devices and surgical supplies.

Schuerch said, "The first loan from Quincy 2000 enabled me to set up the company's office. The new loan will assist the company fulfill its agreement with AMR and secure contracts with other companies in the medical and emergency medical services industries."

In describing the success of the Loan Pool, Mannarino said, "The Quincy 2000 Loan Pool has enabled companies like Schuerch, Presidential Camera and McArdle Convenience to not only get established but to take their business to the next level. I applaud the commitment shown by the participating banks to further develop these successful businesses."

"The Loan Pool has also shown that it's effective at providing the gap financing needed by larger companies, such as Industrial Heat Treating, that can make or break an important deal."

Quincy 2000 Economic Development Specialist Ann Fisher added, "Quincy 2000 wishes to acknowledge Jeff Glasgow of BankBoston, servicing agent for the Loan Pool, and Greg Glennon of Citizens Bank who chairs the Loan Pool Committee. Their participation in this program has contributed to the Loan Pool's success."

The Quincy 2000 Loan Pool is a $5.4 million loan fund capitalized by 10 banks: BankBoston, Century Bank & Trust Co., Citizens Bank, Colonial Federal Savings Bank, Eastern Bank, Fleet Bank, Rockland Trust Co., South Shore Savings Bank, State Street Bank and USTrust. The Loan Pool awards loans ranging from $15,000 to $150,000 for both new and existing Quincy-based businesses.

Finn Takes Top Post With Cambridge-Based Agency Director Leaving Sheltering Coalition

By MICHAEL WHALEN
Joseph Finn, executive director of the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition since 1991, is leaving the agency this month to head up another organization that aids the homeless.

JOSEPH FINN named, credited Finn with expanding the staff and initiating a number of new programs designed to help people get out of the state of homelessness.

"He's certainly been a great asset in the seven-and-a-half years he's been here," he said. "He will certainly be missed at the shelter. He was very dedicated."

Finn said he is proud of all that has been accomplished agreeing his time there, noting that a number of "innovative programs" have been started.

He stressed, however, that he and the coalition could not have achieved their success alone.

"What I want to emphasize—and this is very important—is that Quincy Interfaith and Father Bill's Place are the finest services offered anywhere to homeless people, and that's only been possible through the support of the community and the city government," he said.

Finn also said Fr. McCarthy has been "very supportive" of his decision to leave.

"You know, executive directors will come and go, but there's only one Father Bill's Place, and only one Father Bill," he said.

A native of the Berkshires, Finn received a bachelor's degree in philosophy and sociology from Siena College in Albany, N.Y., in 1978; a master's in theology from Washington Theological Union in Maryland in 1984; a master's in sociology from the New School for Social Research in New York City in 1986; and a juris doctor from the New England School of Law last year.

He recently moved from one North Quincy home to another with his wife Dolores and sons James Patrick, 6; Conall, 4; and Michael, 1.

"I fell in love with Quincy while working at Father Bill's Place," he said. "I hope, for my life, this is my home."

MICHAEL MAN WAH HUI of North Quincy is happy to be the winner of $150,000 at Massachusetts Lottery headquarters in Braintree. He won the prize by playing the Lottery's Big Game.

NQ Construction Meeting

A meeting on the North Quincy Phase II construction will be held Friday at 8 a.m. at 37 Billings Rd., North Quincy.

The meeting is being held by Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers and North Quincy Business and Professional Association President Joe Doran. Members of the public and the business community are invited to voice their opinions before construction begins.

Ayers recently presented Doran with $5,000 that will benefit the many activities and programs with which the NQBPA is involved and to promote business in the area.

"Small businesses are the backbone of the community," said Ayers. "They sponsor many community activities, support booster clubs, and create local jobs."

Ayers said he and Doran have been "working hard" with NQBPA members to improve the renovations for the North Quincy area and work closely with the residential community.

"They're looking for programming development and the like, and that's sort of my strength," said Finn. "They're looking for new blood, new ideas. And I think Father Bill's also will benefit from having the same."

"I think there's a lot of similarities between the two."

The QISC began a search for a new executive director last week, he added. The coalition, which was formed in 1984, opened Father Bill's four years later.

A FEVER FOR YOUR HEALTH

It seems like a contradiction, but producing a fever may be one of the healthiest things your body can do for you. That's because an above-normal temperature is actually the body's way of putting out a distress call that something is wrong. Think of a fever as part of the body's natural thermostat. When it kicks in, you know that your body's defenses have shifted into gear to fight off some type of infection or illness. Of course, a fever can also signal the need for help. If a temperature rises above 102 degrees, lasts for more than a day or two, or is accompanied by other symptoms, it's time to check with your primary care physician.

Knowing when a fever is helpful is small comfort when you are in the midst of one. If you are concerned about this or any other symptom, give us a call. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. Discuss your choice of fever-reducing medication with your doctor, and never give aspirin to a child.

That No-Name Hurricane

Hurricanes come and, thank God, they go. Hopefully they don't leave behind a lot to remember them by.

Now we know them by names like Carol, Diane, Donna, Gloria, Hugo, Bob, Bonnie, Danielle, etc. But the one that stands out in New England history, you might say, was a bastard. It didn't have a name and was the sneakiest and one of the meanest of them all.

Anyone who was around back then, remembers it as just plainly the Hurricane of 1938. And not with any fondness.

Hurricanes up the east coast were rare then and not tracked with radar from as far away as Africa, like they are today.

This one slipped into the area when no one was looking Sept. 21.

Before it left it claimed 600 lives in the New England area and caused millions of dollars in damage.

Considering you could buy a house for $3,000 or $4,000 back then, those millions of dollars would translate into billions today.

The late Thomas Burgin, who was Quincy's mayor at that time once recalled:

BURGIN

"It came in around 5:30 p.m. We had no advance warning. It just arrived unannounced.

"Trees and wires came crashing down. Utility poles were scattered about. Windows were blown in at the stores on Hancock St. in downtown Quincy. Boats were torn loose off the yacht clubs.

"There were 3,900 trees down city-wide and all the fire alarm boxes and police boxes were out of commission. There was no electricity."

Burgin called in the National Guard—the first time ever here during peace time.

"We were afraid of the stores being looted. And we needed extra help and patrols in other areas," he said.

Squantum, Houghs Neck and Germantown were cut off from the rest of the city by roaring high tides.

Winds reached 90 to 100 miles per hour. And gusts topped that.

"As I remember," Burgin said, "the eye of that hurricane came right over Quincy."

"It took us weeks to recover and get back to normal. It was a horrible storm and certainly left a lasting impression on me. I will never forget it."

No one else who was around back then will either.

SPEAKING OF BURGIN, a memory on a much lighter note involved a visit to Quincy by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936 when he was campaigning for re-election against Alfred Landon.

Burgin was mayor and was on hand to officially welcome the President.

His daughter, Claire, then six, had a big bouquet of roses to present to Mrs. Roosevelt.

ROOSEVELT

Shortly before she was to present them, her father noticed she had a Landon button on her dress.

"You can't wear that, dear," Burgin told her.

"Why can't I wear it," she wanted to know.

"I'm for Landon."

"So am I," said Burgin, a staunch Republican. "But he is running against the President of the United States the man who are going to greet and it wouldn't be nice for you to wear that button."

Claire gave in and the Roosevelt motorcade arrived in front of First Parish Church in Quincy Square.

A Secret Serviceman swung Claire up into the open car in which the President and the First Lady were sitting in the back seat and deposited her on Roosevelt's lap.

"Aren't those nice roses," the President said to her.

At that, Claire clutched the roses close to her, glared at the President and said: "These aren't for you, they're for Mrs. Roosevelt."

With that, Roosevelt tilted his head back and roared with laughter.

Eleanor Roosevelt leaned across to her husband and mused: "That should take care of you."

COMER

Quincy's John "Jake" Comer, past National Commander of the American Legion, informs us Spielberg will receive a special honor from the Legion at its 80th national convention Sept. 4-10 in New Orleans.

A new Legion honor, "The Spirit of Normandy Award" will be presented to Spielberg.

Comer, who will attend the convention, passes along this quote from present National Commander Anthony Jordan: "It (Saving Private Ryan) gives the average person a realist understand of what it's like to be in combat."

"All Americans have an obligation to understand what our wartime veterans endured for our country and to honor that sacrifice."

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1964 POSTCARD shows Quincy Center looking north on Hancock Street from its intersection with Revere Road. This is an early morning picture so there is not a lot of traffic, but the square was still a vibrant Shoppertown at this time. Shortly after this picture was taken, Sears and Roebuck expanded their store into the boarded up Capitol Theater on the left. Now, though, Sears, Touraine, Woolworth's and The Lerner Shops down that side of the street are all gone. On the right, all but a few of the stores names you can read are gone as well. Standard TV is still open and the spotlight Tavern just changed its name but continues as the same type of business.

READERS FORUM

Why Is The Driver's Time More Important?

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Thank you for "How About Pedestrians?" in the Sunbeams column last week.

We here in Wollaston were troubled by the cross time allotted for pedestrians at the corner of Hancock and Beale/Beach Streets, and Councillor Stephen Durkin arranged a meeting with Quincy's traffic engineer, Jack Gillon was not available that evening, and though there were substitutes, we came away disappointed.

What happened--we were shown how the lights are timed, etc. (and surprisingly, managed with the QPWD).

All we asked for was not a demonstration of state-of-the-art equipment, but the timing be increased to allow us sufficient time, whether you be a senior citizen, or a mother with toddlers in tow, to cross a very busy intersection.

As you noted, Hancock Street is heavily used, and sometimes I feel it's a passageway between Boston and Weymouth, so why should the neighborhood residents be held hostage by the result of Shaw's traffic survey? The style of the pedestrian light at the corner of Elm and Hancock streets is entirely different, making it difficult to fathom when it's okay to cross. I try to cross on the corner, as Mayor Sheets suggested some time ago, but the speed of the traffic is alarming.

Beale and Clay streets (near the library) has had the barrel you describe with the state law warning, but it's not always out. If having it there results in cars having accidents with it, as is rumored, I think this just points out the fact that this is a vehicular problem, and not pedestrian. I have been in towns where there are used everywhere, and no one finds fault.

Perhaps what you can do for the pedestrians (and we are also motorists) is to get a few on the committee pushing the new high-tech signals system. It's ironic that we should be penalized for preferring to walk and shop in our local areas. Maybe Quincy should legislate a 20 m.p.h. zone throughout. Quincy may have to take a stand between facilitating traffic to other areas and their residents.

Two women were victims last week, and there have been others in the past. High-tech signal systems is not the answer, when the old "red and yellow" did the trick--why is the driver's time more important than ours?

More Input Needed On WWII Memorial

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I just read about the proposed World War II Memorial in The Sun.

First of all, who needs a World War II Memorial in Quincy anyway? We have a memorial in Wollaston Cemetery that is just fine.

It seems to me a few veterans in this city are trying to run everything. What about the Quincy Veterans Council? They have no say in the matter. And the thousands of World War II veterans in the city? Their opinion doesn't matter?

Wake up, call a meeting of all the veterans in this city and ask what they think.

Bowhunting Season Should Not Be Extended

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The state Fisheries and Wildlife Board, which is controlled by hunting extremists, has once again thumbed its nose at the people of Massachusetts by instituting inhumane and inappropriate wildlife policies.

Its latest offensive was to extend the length of the bowhunting season by three weeks--doubling its length in the eastern part of the Commonwealth.

It has advocated this policy even though voters rejected inhumane hunting and trapping practices and called for reform of the board by overwhelmingly approving Ballot Question One in November 1996.

Archery equipment is considered the least effective--and the most cruel--of all hunting equipment. A study conducted by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, one of the nation's staunchest hunting state agencies, concluded that 50 percent of deer struck by arrows are wounded and not retrieved by hunters.

Broadhead arrows wound or kill by causing hemorrhaging, thus creating the equivalent of a stab wound. Death rarely, if ever, comes quickly, being measured not in minutes, but hours or days.

Bowhunters are taught not to vigorously pursue wounded animals, to discourage the quarry from running so far that they cannot be tracked. Sportsmen's magazines routinely recount personal stories of hunters following a blood trail and either giving up the chase or pursuing the wounded animal for hours.

The state's decision to double the season length for bowhunting is another indicator of its insensitivity not only to basic standards of animal welfare, but also to public sentiment.

Burke Seeks Funds To Protect Citizens From Nuclear Attack

By PAUL HAROLD

City Councillor George Burke called upon Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa to make additional funds available for the city's Civil Defense (C.D.) operations. He said he was shocked to find how little money was in the C.D. account.

Burke estimated that an additional $30,000 would be needed to purchase supplies, and upgrade the C.D. headquarters.

Della Chiesa said he would increase the funding for C.D., but available funds were limited because of the need to repair the Atlantic fire station and the extra costs to the city from the recent Boston Gear Works strike.

At the same council meeting, Councillor George McDonald introduced a resolve mandating that fall-out shelters be constructed in all new building, with sufficient capacity for the building's workers or residents.

LANDMARK QUINCY CENTER HO JO'S CLOSES

After 30 years at 1 Chestnut St., Howard Johnson's soda fountain on the first floor of the Granite Trust building closed. It operated in conjunction with the Howard Johnson's restaurant on the lower level, that closed last year.

A spokesman for the ice cream company said they would build another restaurant in the city when a site became available. There were three Ho Jo's in the city: on Wollaston Beach, the Southern Artery and the new restaurant in West Quincy off the Southeast Expressway. There were 600 stores nationwide.

The Quincy Center store was not the company's first, but it played an important role in its early history. Thirty-one years ago when Howard Johnson's was little known, it was discovered by thousands of Bostonians who came to Quincy to see the play, "Strange Interlude." The Eugene O'Neill play had been banned in Boston, but Mayor Thomas McGrath allowed its production in Quincy.

The lengthy show provided for a two-hour supper break, when many theatergoers discovered Howard Johnson's.

LAUNDROMATS VIOLATE BLUE LAWS

Quincy laundromats that opened on Sundays were found to be in violation of the Blue Laws and were shut down by police.

Police closed the three operations in the city, but had difficulty with the one on Adams St. because patrons would not leave while new patrons attempted to enter before the police could lock the doors.

QUINCY-ISMS

Building Inspector Alrick Weidman told the mayor that the Atlantic fire station was in danger of collapsing. The 30-year-old station had been settling one inch a year for the past six or seven years, due to the deterioration of the pilings, and the swampy nature of the station's location. . . Deputy Tax Collector Harold Nannis requested that the police revoke Carl Anderson's gun permit. . . Superior Court Chief Justice Paul Reardon was toastmaster at Frank Avery's testimonial at the new Dolphin restaurant. Avery served for 50 years as sexton at St. John's. . . The Rotary Club honored Delevere King on his 87th birthday. . . Mayor Della Chiesa reviewed the MDC's plans for an ice skating rink at St. Moritz in West Quincy. . . Vincent Noble of Brook St. was a candidate for councillor-at-large. . . A spectacular low-alarm fire destroyed the stone polishing plant of J. Volpe and Sons on Nightingale Ave. The fire was fought under the command of Deputy Chief Joseph Walsh. . . Six crosses were displayed on the front lawn of the Fore River shipyard hospital as part of a safety awareness program for the upcoming Labor Day weekend. Six shipyard employees had been killed in car accidents in the past 14 months. . . Charlotte Dorney was engaged to Joseph DiMartino, Jr. . . Wilbur Lewis was the new president of the Holy Name Society at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church. . . A son was born at Quincy Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lee of Rock Island Rd. . . Councillor John Quinn called for the purchase of Nickerson Beach from Boston. . . Arthur Jaffe and Eric Starck were co-chairmen for Republican City Committee's ham and beer supper at the Fore River Clubhouse. . . Robert Tweedy of Williams St. was United Fund's residential chairman.

A CHILD'S PAIN IN THE NIGHT

Just about the time children start sleeping reliably through the night -- and parents start remembering what it is like to wake up actually feeling rested -- a new kind of nightmare can arise. Nighttime foot cramps often strike children between the ages of four and five. The cramps can be painful enough to wake a child up from a deep sleep. While such discomfort used to be dismissed as "growing pains," we now know that there are several common causes of the cramps. A foot or leg strain that occurred hours earlier can work itself out as a cramp in the middle of the night. Likewise, the fatigue of a day of pain.

Tommy Sargent Beechwood Poetry Contest Winner

Tommy Sargent, 11, a student at Sacred Heart School in North Quincy, won first prize in Beechwood's recent "Poetry-In-Nature" Contest.

Tommy, who attends Beechwood's Summer Program, was selected unanimously by the judges.

The text of his poem, entitled "Firefly," reads:

"Firefly, firefly, how come you fire? Firefly, firefly, almost on fire! Firefly, you light up the night. If we caught you in a jar, you could make a very bright light. You probably inspired us with the bright flight to light!"

Other contest entrants receiving honorable mentions were Elizabeth Hewitt, Chelsea LeClair, Erica Grossman and John Clark.

750 Attend Season's Final Summerfest Show

About 750 people recently filled the Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre for the final show of the 1998 Summerfest Concert Series despite threatening weather conditions.

The Aug. 26 concert featured the Kenny Hadley Big Band with jazz vocalist Rebecca Parris.

The band includes several musicians who have performed with big bands nationally including Parris, a nationally-known vocalist.

This was the second Summerfest appearance for both. The Hadley Band appeared two years ago and Parris 10 years ago before her prominence to her present popularity on the jazz scene.

The concert was dedicated to the memory of Shirley Webber, former administrative secretary of the Summerfest program, who retired last year and died over the summer.

Water Main Upgrade Project Begins Sept. 8

The city, acting through the Department of Public Works, has funded a project that will upgrade the water main in Coddington Street and sections of Sea Street.

The project is a second contract of a five-year, $10 million capital improvement program to upgrade the city's water system. Sections of Sea Street that will be under construction include: Southern Artery to Quincy Shore Drive, Al-trous Road to Hibbard Street, and Crosby Street to Island Avenue.

The water main cleaning and lining will improve water flows to the Houghs Neck area, according to officials.

Weston & Sampson Engineers Inc. of Peabody was hired to design and supervise the construction of the project. The construction contract for $445,000 was awarded to N. Granese & Sons Inc. of Marblehead.

The project is scheduled to begin construction on Sept. 8 and be completed by June 15, 1999. No construction will take place during the winter.

The cleaning and cement lining process includes cleaning the inside of the water main that is buried beneath the street and then lining the inside of the pipe with cement. The work is being done to improve the flow of water to the Houghs Neck and Coddington Street areas and to reduce future occurrences of discolored or "rusty" water.

While the cleaning and lining is taking place, the water main in the street will be temporarily taken out of service. To limit interruptions of the water service, temporary water pipe will be laid along the sidewalk in the street gutters. Residents whose water service is directly connected to the water main being cleaned and cement lined will receive water from the temporary water pipe throughout the duration of the work in their neighborhood.

After the transfer of the residents' water services to the temporary water pipe, the contractor's crews will begin the cleaning and cement lining work. When the water main has been put back into service, water services will be reconnected to the newly cleaned and lined water mains and all temporary water pipe and service hoses will be removed.

Throughout the cleaning and cement lining project, periodic fluctuations in water pressure or occurrences of discolored water may be noticed in the project area.

For more information, call Leah Hines at Weston & Sampson, (978) 532-1900, ext. 2386 or the Quincy Engineering Department at (617) 376-1950.

St. Joseph's School Year Begins Sept. 9

St. Joseph's School in Quincy Point will open its doors to all students for the 1998-99 school year Wednesday, Sept. 9 at 8:05 a.m.

During the first three days of school, students in Grades K-8 will be dismissed at 11:30 a.m. Both sessions of kindergarten will meet at their assigned times on those days.

"The intention here is to ease the students into the school year," said Lisa Mirasolo, principal. "In the past, this has seemed to work out well for the majority of people involved."

On Friday, Sept. 11, all students in Grades K-8 will attend the 9 a.m. Mass in St. Joseph's Church. Fr. Daniel Graham, pastor, and his associate, Fr. Robert Mon-gle, will welcome the students and bless the school year. Parents and relatives of the students and all parishioners are welcome to attend.

Regular school hours (8:05 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.) will begin Monday, Sept. 14 along with the St. Joseph's After School Program, which offers students academic and recreational opportunities for a minimal fee until 5:30 p.m. on school days.

St. Joseph's School services children from Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Randolph, Hyde Park, Dorchester, Plymouth, Pembroke, Rockland, Hanover, Hingham and Hull. Besides a core curriculum that includes religion, there are classes in music, art, computer science, foreign language, and weekly physical education.

Programs sponsored by the American Red Cross, The Boston Globe, and Junior Achievement also are offered to the students.

"We are all very excited about this school year," said Mirasolo. "The building looks great, especially our gym, which has been renovated from top to bottom. The teachers have been busy getting their classrooms ready, new books and supplies have been distributed, and special programs scheduled. I am so looking forward to greeting the students and their parents on the first day of school as we all begin another successful school year together."

Christmas Parade Float Building Seminar Sept. 16

The Quincy Christmas Festival Committee will hold its annual Float-Building Seminar Wednesday, Sept. 16 at 7 p.m. in the Koch Park and Recreation Complex, One Merrymount Parkway, adjacent to Adams Field, Quincy.

The seminar is free to organizations entering floats in the 46th annual Christmas Parade to be held Nov. 29.

The "How-To-Do-It" seminar is for amateurs and will consist of basic instructions on how to plan a float, float-judging concerns, and a film presentation of past parade floats. Refreshments will be served.

Speakers will include both amateur and professional float builders. Floats must focus on this year's parade theme which is "The Hopes and Dreams of Christmas." The theme contest this year was won by Mrs. William Flynn of Quincy.

Representatives of interested organizations may contact Paul Kennedy, float coordinator, at 423-3612 for further details.

Prizes are awarded for floats in various categories based on compliance with parade guidelines and theme.

The Nov. 29 parade will begin at 12:30 p.m. along the three-mile Hancock Street route.

Quincy Hospital has expanded the patient education classes related to pregnancy and childbirth.

The first of the new classes is designed for expectant mothers early in pregnancy. The Early Pregnancy class offers the woman and her partner information about prenatal care and testing, fetal development, physical changes, nutrition and safety. Hints for managing common discomforts of pregnancy will also be discussed. A tour of Quincy Hospital's First Moments will conclude the three-hour class.

Focusing on mothers who delivered a previous baby by Cesarean, the Vaginal Birth After Cesarean (VBAC) class offers a discussion of the fears and realities surrounding the labor process and a vaginal birth with the current pregnancy. The rationale and advantages of a vaginal birth are highlighted. The single class session is approximately two hours.

The Young Parents Pregnancy Support Group will provide education and a forum of conversation with other pregnant and parenting teens. The support group is an ongoing source of education and support throughout the pregnancy and parenting experience. Scheduled meetings will be held once a month.

Continuing classes include the series on preparation for the birthing experience which is the core of the childbirth education program. The series is offered as a two-day weekend program or a four-evening weeknight class series. Breast feeding instruction and a class for soon to be big brothers and sisters continues to be popular with many of the expectant families.

For more information about class dates, times and cost or to register, call the Public Relations Department at Quincy Hospital at (617) 376-4016.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL

The Superintendent's Message

Improved Facilities, Better Technology And Security, MCAS Results

Dear Parents:

Once again it is time to welcome you and your children back to school for the 1998-99 school year.

As always, there will be numerous changes in all of our schools. You will find improved facilities, enhanced security, expanded technologies, new classmates, and in some cases, new teachers.

I anticipate the new school year to be challenging and memorable. Some time in late October or early November, we will receive the results of the MCAS tests taken last spring by students in Grades 4, 8, and 10. It is our intention to develop programs of remediation for students whose test results were unsatisfactory and to assist those students to improve their test performance.

It is my firm belief that caring and supportive teachers who place before their students high expectations will find that their students are more than capable of performing at high school levels.

Our goal this year is for each and every student in the Quincy Public Schools to become all that he or she can be. To accomplish this goal, we need your involvement. The most meaningful factor in assisting students to have a successful school experience is the concern, participation and involvement of you, their parents.

Please get to know your child's teacher and principal. Plan and supervise homework assignments. Attend school functions whenever you can, and most importantly, speak to your child often and let him or her know how proud you are of consistent good effort.

NQHS Orientation Breakfast

North Quincy High School will host an Orientation Breakfast this week for all students in Grades 9-12 entering the school for the first time in September.

The breakfast will be held Friday at 9:30 a.m. in the cafeteria at the school.

Students will meet the administration, tour the building, meet other students, learn about activities offered, and ask questions about the school. Light refreshments will be offered.

QHS Parent Advisory Council Meeting Sept. 10

The Quincy High School Parent Advisory Council will meet Thursday, Sept. 10 from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m. in the Pride Room of the school at 52 Coddington St., Quincy Center.

All are welcome to attend and greet the new principal, Bob Keuther.

Meetings are held on the second Thursday of the month through May.

Atlantic School Magazine Wins Three National Awards

Atlantic Middle School literary magazine editors past and present recently got together to celebrate the three national awards their literary magazine, Young Writers, recently received.

Last year's publication won "Highest Award" from the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE); "National Best Design" from Merlyn's Pen; and the "Bronze Award for Outstanding Achievement in Student Literary Magazines" by Merlyn's Pen, a scholastic magazine which sponsored a national literary magazine contest and critique.

At a luncheon, Atlantic Principal Laura Bogan and several teachers congratulated winning magazine editors Colleen Lahar, Clare Lee, Jenny Tam, Robyn Yee, Linda Nguyen and staff member Galvin Chow on their creativity, outstanding writing, production skills and hard work. Current magazine editors presented honorees with plaques, certificates and trophies. Bogan also recognized the current editors for their extraordinary work on their magazine, which was published in June.

Young Writers is produced each year by a staff of more than 40 students, and it features the writing, art and photography of over 200 students. Faculty Advisor for the literary magazine is eighth grade language arts teacher Patricia Dunne.

Atlantic was the only school in New England to receive the prestigious "Highest Award" given by the National Council of Teachers of English in its Program to Recognize Excellence in Student Literary Magazines. The award recognized Atlantic's highly original and technically excellent writing, attractive layout, typesetting and graphics; inclusion of high-quality writings from various disciplines; and evidence that there had been school-wide participation in the development of the magazine.

This marks the second time in five years Atlantic has won "Highest Award."

Parker, Marshall Schools To Receive State Funding

State Sen. Michael Morrissey and Reps. Michael Bellotti, Ronald Mariano and Stephen Tobin announce that the Parker and Clifford Marshall elementary schools are on the list of schools expected to soon receive approval from the State Board of Education for the School Building Assistance Program.

The legislative delegation commended the work and effort of School Supt. Eugene Crendon and his staff performed to acquire the grant and assistance.

The 51-year-old state and local partnership program is dedicated to the construction and renovation of school buildings throughout the Commonwealth. The Legislature authorizes the maximum amount that can be approved for the program and the Board of Education approves the individual proposals received for the grant. The Department of Education is responsible for distribution and oversight of the grant money.

"In the Fiscal Year 1999 budget, the Legislature authorized $33.7 million for the School Building Assistance Grants to be made available in Fiscal Year 2000," said Morrissey.

The delay in the authorization and actual reimbursement allows the municipality to pay its share of the costs.

"A total of $110,729 will be made available for the Parker School in Fiscal Year 2000, as the first reimbursement payment," said Bellotti.

"In most cases, a municipality will bond for 20 years for capital projects of this size and the state's grant program will help reimburse the city over that time period," added Tobin.

The final timetable for payments is negotiated between the municipality and the Department of Education, which closely evaluates the project.

"The Clifford Marshall

Elementary School will have $517,388 available in the Fiscal Year 2000," said Morrissey.

"The School Building Assistance Grant Program provides 63 percent of the school construction costs to the City of Quincy," said Morrissey.

The State Board of Education is expected to authorize the project at its Sept. 15 meeting, he added.

"This year 51 projects will be taken off the waiting list," said Morrissey. "However, nearly 100 projects are still on the waiting list this year and this program continues to be a legislative priority."

Sacred Heart School Year Begins Sept. 9

Sacred Heart School in North Quincy will open for the 1998-99 academic year on Wednesday, Sept. 9.

A FAMILY DOG is kept safely by the side of a mother and her son while her two older children head off to school.

'Back-To-School' May Mean Confusion For Dogs

The Animal Rescue League of Boston reminds dog owners that after a long summer of family togetherness and outings, your pet may be confused by the sudden schedule change at back-to-school time.

Often the family pet will try to follow a child to school, only to find he is lost and alone when the school bell rings.

A dog in the schoolyard poses a potential threat to himself as well as to students. He risks the danger of being hit by a car, stolen, teased, or lost. A well-meaning child may be bitten or knocked down by a playful or confused dog.

Be sure your pet is safely in the home or enclosed yard as the children leave for school. Leave plenty of food and fresh, cool drinking water if the animal is to be left alone.

Should your pet become accidentally unrestrained, his chances of being returned home safely greatly increase if he is wearing his tags. Make sure your pet is up to date on his rabies vaccination and give him some extra attention when children arrive home from school. This will help in the adjustment to the change in schedule.

Contact the Animal Rescue League of Boston at 426-9170 for more information.

Beechwood Community Life Center's fall registration is underway, announces Sharron Beals, executive director.

"A full range of special classes, courses and enrichments are available--including After School Academics and Tutoring," said Beals.

At the request of Quincy parents, Beechwood is offering expanded private and group study opportunities. Individualized learning plans and goals are designed by parent, child and instructor.

Private tutoring for high school placement will be offered as a 10-week, 20-session program.

SSAT classes begin Sept. 21. Monday classes will cover and review basic math skills, word problems, algebra number systems, maps and graphs, and Thursday classes will cover vocabulary analogies, reading, study skills, comprehension, English, parts of speech, usage, terms, rules and patterns.

Class sizes are limited and early registration is encouraged. Call Beechwood at 471-5712 for more information.

Quincy's 'Sister' Cities Beechwood Topic

Quincy's "sister" cities will be discussed by Barbara Gilliland at Beechwood Community Life Center's upcoming Current Events Breakfast.

The breakfast will be held Wednesday, Sept. 2 at 8 a.m. at the center, 440 East Squantum St. Gilliland, a Quincy resident, has identified at least 11 "sister" cities, four of which she has visited. The other Quincys are in California, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Missouri, Pennsylvania, and Washington.

Co-hosts for the breakfast are Don Strong, John Noonan and Herb Fontaine. For reservations or more information, call 471-5712.

REMEMBER ME?

In less than two weeks the voters in North Quincy, West Quincy, Montclair, Wollaston, Squantum and North Randolph will have the opportunity to select their next State Representative. As members of the Citizens Flag Alliance, we write this Open Letter to ask voters to take a look at what distinguishes BRUCE AYERS from his opponent.

A few years ago, the United States Supreme Court narrowly invalidated all laws, including those of Massachusetts, that prohibited physical desecration of the American Flag. Since that time, a national coalition of patriotic and fraternal orders like the American Legion, Elks, Knights of Columbus and Sons of Italy have been working to secure an amendment to the U.S. Constitution that would provide specific protection for the flag. A clear majority of Americans, including 78% of those polled in Massachusetts, support this attempt to rectify the court's imprudent decision.

This effort is only a few votes away from securing Congressional approval for the amendment protecting the American flag. Once that is accomplished, it will head to each state Legislature in the Union for approval. As a member of the Quincy City Council, BRUCE AYERS demonstrated his support for the American flag by voting to approve a Flag Amendment Resolution. Bruce Ayers is needed at the State House to help shepherd this important matter through the approval process.

Unlike his opponent, BRUCE AYERS is a strong supporter of the flag and other veteran's issues. He has demonstrated the type of strong character and conviction that make us proud to sign this letter in support of his candidacy. We think his focused campaign about ideas and values is the reason why veterans and citizens support BRUCE AYERS for State Representative.

ORDER No. 95-153 JUNE 19, 1995

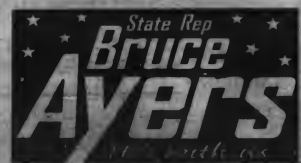

Question on approving a resolution of support from the City of Quincy urging the U.S. Congress to approve, and send to the states for ratification, a Constitutional Amendment allowing the enactment of laws preventing physical desecration of the flag.

YES: AYERS, Cahill, Cheney, Fabrizio, Kelso, LaRue Phelan

NO: CHRETIEN

- AYERS supports protecting the flag.
- AYERS supports additional funding for local veteran's services.
- AYERS supports the creation of additional tax relief programs for retired veterans.
- AYERS supports efforts to increase access to low-cost medical and preventative care for our veterans.

Sept. 11 'Neat Neighbors' Nomination Deadline

The Quincy Park Department will accept nominations for the first annual "Neat Neighbors" contest until Friday, Sept. 11.

Residents may nominate a neighbor for the contest by butting the Park Department at 376-1254.

"People who maintain their yards and properties not only improve the aesthetics of our community but they can also raise the property values of the surrounding homes," said Park Department Executive Director. "The Neat Neighbors contest aims to recognize those residents who have toiled over their gardens, lawns and homes all summer in an effort to make our city more beautiful."

The Neat Neighbors contest was initiated by the department to recognize residents who do their share to help achieve a cleaner and greener Quincy by maintaining all their yards and properties. Twenty-five winners will be chosen at random from all nominees this month. Winners will receive prizes that include trees, shrubs, yard care products and more.

The Neat Neighbors contest is part of an expanded Cleaner, Greener Quincy program. In addition to the traditional citywide cleanup and Neat Neighbors contest, the city also sponsored a "Yard Care Conference" in May.

"After eight seasons of Cleaner, Greener Quincy our parks, playgrounds beaches and open space areas are much cleaner," said Koch. "We now hope to enlarge the focus of the Cleaner, Greener Quincy program to encourage people to improve and maintain their private properties as well."

Residential Building Principles Course Begins Sept. 10

The Builders Association of Greater Boston will conduct a Residential Building Principles Course to begin Thursday, Sept. 10 at the association's headquarters in Crown Colony Office Park, 700 Congress St., Quincy.

Registration begins at 5:30 p.m. The course will run for 12 consecutive Thursdays from 6 to 9 p.m. The course covers the steps involved in construction of a home or small commercial building—from initial planning to the completed product. Some of the topics in the course include: business management, building codes, environmental regulations, Title V "Siting the House," subcontracting, zoning, permits, foundations, mechanicals, insulation, energy conservation and more.

Area builder Richard

Lind is dean and instructor for the course. Lind is a graduate of Boston College, past president of the Builders Association of Greater Boston, the Home Builders Association of Massachusetts, a recipient of the "Builder of the Year" Award, and a life director of the National Association of Home Builders.

Lind emphasizes that no special educational requirements are needed for the course and that it will be beneficial to those new to the business as well as for Realtors, appraisers, home inspectors, sub-contractors, salespersons servicing the industry or anyone interested in light construction or in the building of their own home. The course is also useful to those individuals preparing for the builder licensing examination.

Advance registration is required. Cost for members is $260, $195 for the second person and $75 for the third person. The non-member fee of $290 covers all sessions and class materials, $225 for the second member of the same firm and $110 for the third member.

To register or for more information, call Bernadette Higgins at the Builders Association of Greater Boston at (617) 773-1300.

Quincy Visitor Tom Galvin Says 'Quality Is Excellent' Cincy's Little Fenway 'A Wonderful Replica'

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Amid the proposal of constructing a replica of Fenway Park near his West Quincy residence, Tom Galvin recently visited the original Little Fenway Park in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Galvin, the vice president of information services at Boston Gear Works in North Quincy, stopped by the field during a business trip to nearby Kentucky last month.

"It was well worth the trip, because it's a wonderful replica of Fenway," he said. "The quality is excellent. They really did a great job putting it together, including the Green Monster and Pesky's Pole."

Cincinnati's Little Fenway was built in the fall of 1996 by Boston Red Sox player and Cincinnati native Tim Naehring, who has spearheaded the plan to construct a replica in Quincy. Naehring, who lives in Marina Bay, built the replica on the Cincinnati ballfield he played on as a youngster.

Last month, legislation was enacted to lease land to Athletes Reaching Out, a non-profit organization Naehring launched to benefit children. Naehring hopes to lease the land to construct a replica similar to the one in Cincinnati. The public park would be an 80 percent scaled down version of Fenway.

Galvin commended the work Naehring and the organization do to assist children in the community.

"That organization does wonderful things," he said. "It's successful players contributing their time and money to help youngsters. It's not just with the field, but through scholarship programs and other means of assistance. I've met Tim, and he's a great guy. He's doing a great service to the kids of Quincy."

A major difference between the two replicas appears to be the seating capacity. While the Cincinnati replica seats approximately 300, according to Galvin, the Quincy park may hold about 3,000 fans.

Cincinnati's Little Fenway is located in Miamitown, Ohio, approximately 12 miles west of Cincinnati on Interstate 74. The field is operated by the Taylor Creek Youth Organization, a non-profit Miamitown group that organizes recreation leagues for youngsters ages 5 to 18.

Built to a 90 percent scale of the actual Fenway Park, the Cincinnati field sports a "Green Monster" that stands approximately 33.3 feet high, along with Pesky's Pole in right field. The names of former Red Sox owners Thomas and Jean Yawkey in Morse code appear on the left field scoreboard.

The dimensions of the Cincinnati field, from left to right, are: 292' down the left field line, 350' in left center field, 322' to center field, 306' in right center field, and 276' down the right field line.

Having seen the Cincinnati replica, Galvin is looking forward to the construction of Quincy's Fenway model.

"It's exciting, because it will be near my home," he said. "It'll almost be in my backyard."

TOM GALVIN of Quincy paid a visit to the original Little Fenway Park in Cincinnati, Ohio, during a recent business trip. The scoreboard behind Galvin shows the score of Game 7 of the 1975 World Series, with Cincinnati defeating Boston, 4-3, to win the championship. The field's working scoreboard is in right field.

A VIEW OF Cincinnati's Little Fenway Park from center field impressed Tom Galvin during his recent visit. "The grass in the outfield is beautiful," he said. "They take very good care of the field." Galvin added that the field can be seen from the highway beyond the outfield.

THE FIRST BASE dugout at Cincinnati's Little Fenway Park is a sturdy structure with a fence erected in front to protect the players from foul balls and stray throws. Youngsters ages 5 to 18 participate in various leagues at the field.

Quincy, North Quincy High Football Practice Underway

Preparations are underway for the upcoming football season at Quincy High School and North Quincy High School.

Quincy, under the direction of fourth-year head coach Peter Chella, started practice Monday behind the high school at Faxon Fields 1 and 2. Chella has compiled a 13-17 mark in his tenure at Quincy.

North Quincy, guided by head coach Ken McPhee, kicked off practice Monday at Cavanaugh Field, across from Atlantic Middle School. McPhee begins his 17th year at the helm of the Red Raiders with a coaching record of 90-66-2.

Both teams play back-to-back non-league games to begin the season.

The Presidents, who compiled a 5-5 record last season, open their campaign Friday, Sept. 18 at 7 p.m. at Randolph.

The remainder of Quincy's schedule (games are played Fridays at 7 p.m. unless otherwise noted):

Saturday, Sept. 26 vs. Catholic Memorial, 10 a.m.; Oct. 2 vs. Bridgewater-Raynham; Oct. 9 at Falmouth; Oct. 16 at Rockland; Oct. 23 at Taunton; Oct. 30 at Plymouth South; Nov. 6 vs. Silver Lake; Nov. 13 vs. Barnstable; Thursday, Nov. 26 at North Quincy, 10 a.m.

The Red Raiders, 4-6 in 1997, begin their season

Friday, Sept. 18 at 7 p.m. at Stoughton. North Quincy lost to Stoughton, 14-6, in last season's opener.

The remainder of North Quincy's schedule (games are played Fridays at 7 p.m. unless otherwise noted):

Sept. 25 vs. Whitman-Hanson; Oct. 2 at Falmouth; Oct. 9 vs. Barnstable; Oct. 16 at Taunton; Oct. 23 vs.

Plymouth South; Oct. 30 vs. Silver Lake; Saturday, Nov. 7 at Bridgewater-Raynham, 1:30 p.m.; Saturday, Nov. 14 vs. Hingham, 1:30 p.m.; Thursday, Nov. 26 vs. Quincy, 10 a.m.

Both teams play their home games at Veterans Memorial Stadium in Quincy.

Bill Degan Road Race Committee Donates Flagpoles

QUINCY YOUTH ARENA recently held a flag raising ceremony for three state-of-the-art flagpoles donated by the Bill Degan Road Race Committee. Each year the Degan Road Race Committee presents donations to children's programs in the city. Among those attending the dedication were, from left, Mr. and Mrs. William Degan, Sen. Mike Morrissey, Frank Derwin (behind flag), Bruce Wood, Mr. Degan's widow, Karen Degan; Don Donahue, Rick Fitzpatrick, Jim Dempsey and Sue Strzlik.

THREE FLAGS, including a City of Quincy flag, were recently donated to the Quincy Youth Arena for its new fiberglass flagpoles. Unfurling the Quincy flag are Mr. and Mrs. William Degan, parents of former U.S. Marshal Bill Degan. Donating flags were Sen. Mike Morrissey (American), Reps. Mike Bellotti, Ron Mariano and Steve Tobin (state), and Parks Director Tom Koch (city). This year's Bill Degan Road Race will be held Sunday, Sept. 13.

Sixth Annual Bill Degan 10K Road Race Sept. 13

The sixth annual U.S. Marshal William F. Degan Memorial 10K Road Race and 5K Run/Fun Walk will be held Sunday, Sept. 13 in Quincy.

The event is held in honor of Degan, the Quincy native who was killed in the line of duty while serving with the U.S. Federal Marshal Service in August 1992.

The races begin and end at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Starting time is 10 a.m. A kids' fun run will be held prior to the other races inside the Stadium.

Bill Degan Jr., son of the late U.S. Marshal, said this year's event may draw over 2,000 participants.

"It looks right now like we should have no problem reaching that number," said Degan. "Everyone has had a good time at the past races and we've been promoting this one a lot."

As of press time Tuesday, Degan said the race committee already had nearly 300 more applications than last year.

Degan encouraged those who aren't the running type to still come out and enjoy the day with family, friends and neighbors.

"For those who don't run, you can come by and have a good time," he said.

"You can bring the kids out for the pony rides and face painting. It's a nice family event."

DJ Larry Links will spin the music, and raffles and t-shirt sales will be held. A variety of different foods, including hamburgers and hot dogs, will also be available. One of the event's sponsors, Dunkin' Donuts, will hand out Coolata drinks.

In addition to the Degan family, those slated to participate in the race include Cong. William Delahunt, Norfolk District Attorney Jeffrey Locke and state Rep. Michael Bellotti. Mayor James Sheets will again start the race.

This year, proceeds will be divided four ways, said Rick Fitzpatrick, brother-in-law of the late U.S. Marshal. Fitzpatrick has been involved with the race since its inception.

Part of the proceeds will go towards covering the cost of medical bills for Kevin Moore, the Quincy teenager who has remained in a coma since a May automobile accident. Robert Bouford, a U.S. Marshal from Boston who lost his right arm and part of his shoulder to cancer, will receive funds to help cover medical expenses.

Also, Quincy Youth Hockey Association will also receive a portion of the proceeds towards the purchase of an electrical Zamboni machine for the Quincy Youth Arena. The Quincy Police Athletic League (PAL) will also receive part of the race's proceeds.

Last year, more than 1,500 runners helped raise $15,000 for Quincy educational and athletic groups.

For more information or to obtain an application, call (617) 576-9860 and leave your name and address. Cost is $15.

Registration can also be completed the day before the race, Sept. 12 from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Stadium. Registration the day of the race will be held from 8 to 9:30 a.m. at the Stadium.

Prizes will be awarded to all first-place division finishers and others at the conclusion of the race.

The divisions are: 16 and under, high school (5K only), 39 and under (Open), 40-49, 50-59, 60-69, 70 and over, and a wheelchair division.

The top male and female finishers in the high school division will each receive an engraved trophy to be displayed on the winner's school.

Quincy Boxers Shine At Amateur Show

Four Quincy boxers won their matches at an amateur boxing show Aug. 24 at the Alternate Route nightclub in Weymouth.

The 12-bout event, promoted by Quincy boxer Steve Scigliano in association with O'Malley's Boxing Gym in Quincy, drew more than 550 spectators.

Fresh off a gold-medal performance at the Ohio State Fair, North Quincy High School sophomore Vinny Traetti (165 pounds) picked up a second round TKO of Ali Spina of Providence, R.I.

Quincy welterweight Timmy Greenwell, making his debut with a large rooting section supporting him, scored a first round knockout of Rockland's Jimmy McDonald at 139 pounds.

Bobby Walsh, a 1997 Quincy High School graduate, also made his debut a memorable one. The 6-3, 203-pound heavyweight won by TKO in the third round against Juan Rivera of Fitchburg.

In another bout, Quincy middleweight Morgan Sheehy beat Lexington's James Rittman.

Ladies Golf Champions

Seven champions were crowned at the recent Ladies Club Championship at Presidents Golf Course in Quincy.

In the championship flight, Melanie Curtin shot a 219 and finished first in gross play. Sue Martinelli was the top net golfer with a total of 203.

In the first flight, Carol Cahill edged Lynn McGoff, 256 to 257, to finish first in gross play. The leading net golfer was Liz Harrington at 196, followed by Rita Minton at 198.

Carol Davenport was the second flight winner, Caryn Condon won the third flight and Paula Murphy took top honors in the fourth flight.

SAFETY BY THE SIDE OF THE ROAD

Drivers who get out of their automobiles on interstate highways to repair flat tires or attend to other mechanical problems should make every effort to protect themselves from traffic. This means pulling off the road as far to the right as possible, and putting on the flasher lights to make the car visible to traffic. All passengers, especially children, should remain in the car with their seat belts fastened. When making repairs themselves, it's latest in maintenance and service bulletins for all makes of cars. Stop in and visit us at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550).

HINT: A preventive maintenance strategy helps eliminate foreseeable causes of roadside car trouble.

It is preferable to wait for help (or use a car phone to call for help) than to compromise personal safety with a do-it-yourself effort.

QHS Graduates Receive William Sullivan Scholarship

Two 1998 Quincy High School graduates, Aimee Groleau and Tim Lewis, recently became the first recipients of $500 scholarships from the Coach William Sullivan Scholarship Fund.

The scholarship, named in honor of former QHS football coach William Sullivan, was instituted by Ron Ivil and other committee members of the "At The Hop" 1950s Dance. The dance is sponsored by the graduating classes of the 1950s of Quincy High, with all proceeds going to the Sullivan Scholarship Fund.

Ivil, the president of the 1950s Dance group, said the scholarships will be presented to graduating QHS seniors on an annual basis.

The students were selected for their outstanding academic and athletic achievements. Groleau, who will attend UMass-Boston in the fall, played softball and basketball at QHS, while Lewis, who is headed to Massasoit this fall, played on the QHS hockey team.

"I'm very pleased to receive this scholarship," said Lewis. "It will help out a lot financially."

"I was shocked when I found out, and I've very grateful they chose to give this scholarship to me," said Groleau.

Ivil thanked the businesses which made donations for raffles at the recent third annual 1950s Dance: ERA Central Real Estate, Lo-Jack of Boston, Mane Connection, Herb Chambers Honda-BMW-Saab of Boston, Middlesex Auto Cleaning, Bobby Hackett's Restaurant, and Pembroke Florist.

Along with Ivil, other 1950s Dance committee members include Bob Derbes, Vin Moscardelli, Bobby Smollett, George Mallett, Mike Barba, Ken Burgess, Andy Oriola, Satoh Cavanaugh, Joe Chase, Tommy Connors, Jack Powers, Helena Veno and Charlene Tinkham.

Sullivan extended his appreciation to Ivil and the committee for creating a scholarship in his name for deserving QHS graduates.

"Without Ron's direction, we (the 1950s Dance group) wouldn't have anything," said Sullivan, who recently celebrated his 85th birthday. "Also, I can't tell you how proud I am for this group to honor me with this scholarship. It means a lot to me."

Race Week Widgeon Class Winners

Fifteen local sailors were selected from the participants in the Quincy Recreation William F. Ryan Boating and Sailing Program to take part in the recent Quincy Bay Race Week.

This marks the fourth year the intermediate sailors have sailed in the Widgeon Class at the Race Week.

"Many people deserve a lot of thanks for helping these children have the opportunity to sail in Quincy Bay Sail," said Barry Welch, recreation director.

"I would like to thank Boating and Sailing Supervisor Amy Madden and her staff at the Ryan Boating and Sailing facility; the Quincy Bay Race Week Committee and the Sweetser family for allowing us the use of their boat for a safety patrol. This activity would not be possible without the support of this group of people who are dedicated to youth sailing programs."

The sailors practiced twice a week all summer for the Race Week under the direction of the Ryan Boat-house staff at Black's Creek. Six races were held over three days, and the local winners were:

First place: Matt Petit (skipper), Paul Griffith (crew), Brendan McNeil (crew).

Second place: Kathleen Hester (skipper), Alaina Conso (crew), Mike Mangano (crew).

Third place: Matt Conso (skipper), Matthew Schow (crew), Cassie Herd (crew).

Three Triple Winners Lead Quincy Track Club Athletes At Needham All-Star Meet

For the second straight year, the Quincy Track Club finished second at the recent annual Needham All-Star Meet, which features eight teams from the eastern Massachusetts area.

Quincy won the first four All-Star Meets, but this year the host team, Needham Track Club, repeated as champions. Needham's strengths in the sprints and hurdles overcame Quincy's dominance in the field events. More than 100 Quincy athletes competed in the meet.

Three Quincy athletes, Nicole Affannato, Drew Leahy and Makini Thompson, were triple winners. Affannato, competing in the girls' age 7-8 division, finished first in the 50 meter hurdles, the long jump and was a member of the winning 4 x 100 meter relay, along with Alexandra Nee, Bethany Keenan and Kathryn Carella.

Leahy, in the boys' age 5-6 division, won the 50 meter hurdles, standing broad jump and 400 meter events. Thompson, competing in the girls' age 11-12 division, came in first in the 100 meters, the high jump and was a member of the winning 4 x 100 meter relay team with Chante Ilacqua, Jessica Carella and Siobhan Green.

Two other Quincy athletes, Stephanie Fiandaca and Maria DellaCroce, were double winners. Competing in the girls age 13-14 division, Fiandaca finished first in the softball throw and javelin events. DellaCroce, in the girls age 7-8 division, took top honors in the shotput and softball throw.

12-Year-Old Travel Team Dunn Summer Champs

Quincy's 12-year-old travel baseball team was recently crowned champions of its division at the George Dunn Memorial Summer Classic.

The tournament was played in memory of Dunn, a friend and major contributor to Quincy athletics for more than 30 years. Dunn's son, Scott, congratulated the team and presented it with the championship trophy. A larger version of the trophy will be permanently displayed in Quincy's recreation hall.

Coached by Peter Williams and Wendell Cosgrove, Quincy finished the three-day tourney with a 5-1 record. Quincy won the championship, 1-0, against a talented Hanson squad. Quincy scored the game's only run in the first, when Jimmy Burke reached on an error, moved up on a single by Bill Cosgrove and scored on a sacrifice by Dan Cosgrove.

Pitcher Tim Watson

picked up the complete-game victory, scattering four hits and recording six strikeouts. Quincy played outstanding team defense, led by the infield which accounted for 14 putouts.

In the semifinal game, Quincy defeated Milton, 12-1, in five innings. Dan Cosgrove earned his second win of the tourney, pitching a one-hitter with 10 strikeouts. The winners erupted for 15 hits, including seven in the second inning. Steve Williams led the hit parade with three hits (two doubles, three RBI). Matt Grazioso added two hits (triple) and Bill Cosgrove tripled (two RBI, two runs). Playing well defensively were Kyle Carmody and Steve Kelly.

Earlier in the tourney, Quincy played a talented St. John's team from the Quincy League and won, 5-2. Pitchers Matt Grazioso (hit, run) and Chris Traetti (three hits, run) were supported by Williams' two-run homer and a two-run double by Matt Germain. Bill Cosgrove, Jimmy Burke and Mark played solid defense for the winners. St. John's was paced by the fine pitching effort of Liam Powers, strong defense by Joe Priscella and two hits from Steve Priscella.

Behind the pitching of Williams (4 1/3 innings, three hits, eight strikeouts) and Tim Watson (2 2/3 innings, three hits, three strikeouts), Quincy defeated Marshfield, 6-4. Brendan MacDonald and Dan Cosgrove (two doubles) had two hits apiece. Matt McNeil and Brian Malone turned in strong defensive efforts.

Quincy opened with an 8-3 victory over Braintree, led by the to-notch pitching of Dan Cosgrove, who fanned 12 en route to a complete-game six-hitter. Quincy produced 13 hits, with two hits each from Dan Cosgrove (two doubles), Watson, Williams and Traetti, and a home run by Germain.

11-Year-Old Team Reaches Tourney Final

The Quincy 11-year-old travel baseball team recently traveled to Yarmouth for a tournament with 12-year-old teams and advanced to the championship game.

In the final between Quincy and Milton, which the fans referred to as the "Southeast Expressway Classic," Quincy's Justin Thorley pitched well and had two hits, but Milton won the title, 8-1.

In the semifinals, Quincy defeated host and tournament favorite Yarmouth, 5-1. Nick Malvesti's two-run home run and Dave Jaehnnig's strong pitching paced Quincy. John Folino came in to pitch the final inning and held Yarmouth scoreless. Paul Lennon, Mike Arrafat, Nick D'Amico and Kevin Richardson all collected key hits.

To reach the championship round, Quincy battled back from a 9-3 deficit to edge Brewster, 10-9. Home runs by Chris Marinelli and Jaehnnig sparked the comeback. Folino and Malvesti each had two hits, and Bobby Newcomb, Steve Straz and Thorley all had hits and played well defensively.

Quincy blanked Sandwich, 4-0, in the opening game, sparked by the hitting of Dean Sandonato (three hits), Thorley (two hits) and Bret Martinson (two hits).

Dave Jaehnnig was named team MVP (Most Valuable Player) and Nick Malvesti was the recipient of the 10th Player Award.

The final tournament of the 1998 season for the Quincy team will be held in Brockton.

Quincy Girls Win Soccer Gold Medals

Kaitlyn Faherty, Colleen Martin, Jennifer Ryan and Amanda Saylor, all of Quincy, won gold medals at a tournament as members of the District II State Select Under 12 soccer team.

The tournament, sponsored by the Massachusetts Youth Soccer Association, featured teams from all nine District State Select teams playing at Fort Devens in Ayer. The District II team went 4-0 and did not allow a goal in the tournament.

The girls had an opportunity to play alongside many South Shore League players they compete against during the Quincy Youth Soccer spring season.

The girls competed in an aggressive nine-game, four-week schedule through July and finished with a 6-1-2 record.

Coaching the District II team was Fred Marks, coach of the Braintree High School girls' varsity team and the Bay State Knights Maple team.
